INTRODUCTION.

As the third volume of the printed text finishes the third and fourth Ashṭakas, and commences the fifth, I have thought it advisable to publish, on the present occasion, the translation of the third and fourth Ashṭakas, completing one half of the entire Rig-Veda.

The third Ashtaka comprehends the conclusion of the third Mandala, the fourth, and the commencement of the fifth: the rest of the fifth, and five of the six sections of the sixth Mandala, are comprised in the fourth Ashtaka.

It was remarked in the Introduction to the first Ashtaka, that the fifth Mandala was ascribed to ATRI and his sons, who were of rather equivocal nomenclature: this will be confirmed by the actual translation: and if the authorship of the Súktas be rightly defined, ATRI must have had a large family, as the names exceed forty, besides groups, as Prayaswats, Gaupáyanas, Laupáyanas, and Vasúyus, each consisting of an indefinite number: several of the names, as PRATIKSHATRA, PRATIRATHA, PRATIBHÁNU, PRATIPRA-BHA, are of evident fabrication: we have also, in ARCHANÁNAS and SYÁVÁSWA, father and son, who could not both have been sons of ATRI: there is likewise the unusual occurrence of a female author of a Súkta, the lady VISWAVÁRÁ. The common epithet of these persons, Atreya, does not, however, necessarily imply a son or daughter of ATRI, and may be interpreted descendant or disciple: the latter is rendered most probable, as the list includes three Rájás among the Rishis, or TRYARUNA, TRASADASYU, and ASWAMEDHA, who are the joint authors of a Súkta (p. 272): to one of them, TRASADASYU, a preceding Súkta also is ascribed. In all probability, however, there is little or no authority for the authorship of the Súktas of this Mandala, and their ascription to individuals is as arbitary and unreal as that of any other portion, whether termed Ashtaka or Mandala.

Of the hundred and twenty-one Súktas of the third Ashtaka, those addressed to AGNI, either alone, or associated with some other deity, are forty-four; those to INDRA, singly or with others, forty-eight; making together ninety-two: of the rest, five are addressed to the VISWADEVAS, five to the AswINS, five to the Ribhus, three to Dadhikrá, three to USIIAS, two to SAVITRI, and one each to the Yúpa, or sacrificial post, to the Ápris, to MITRA, to the Syena or Hawk, to Heaven and Earth, to VáYU, and to Kshetrapati, or, the lord of the field, and the implements of agriculture.

The fourth Ashtaka comprehends one hundred and forty Súktas, of which AGNI and INDRA have a large proportion, although rather less considerable than in the third: the former is the deity of thirty-six Súktas, the latter, singly or in association with others, of forty-six, together eighty-two: of the remainder, the VIŞWADEVAS have twelve Súktas dedicated to them, rather a larger number than usual, besides which, five other hymns are addressed to various divinities, much the same as the VISWADEVAS: twelve Súktas have the MARUTS for deities, and eleven MITRA and VARUNA conjointly, which is something unusual: the ASWINS have six Súktas; PúSHAN four; the Dawn and SAVITRI two each; and PARJANYA, PRITHIVÍ, VA-RUNA, SARASWATÍ, and the Cows, have one each.

With very few exceptions, there is little of novel interest in the Súktas of these two divisions, as regards their mythological bearings: the same attributes are ascribed to the same divinities, and the same legends are repeated, which have occurred in the preceding Ashtakas; the legendary exploits being sometimes, however, transferred to different actors, as in the case of the death of VRITRA being ascribed to AGNI, instead of, as usual, to INDRA, (p. 21, v. 4.); and again, where DADHYANCH, the son of ATHARVAN, is said to have kindled the slayer of VRITRA, the destroyer of the cities of the Asuras, the exploits of INDRA are obviously assigned to AGNI, (p. 410, v. 14.): the observation made in the Introduction to the translation of the second Ashtaka may be here repeated, that the Súktas addressed to the principal divinities, especially to AGNI and INDRA, in these two divisions. deal more in general solicitation and panegyric, and are less rich in legend, than the Súktas of the first Ashtaka, with very rare, though not altogether unimportant exceptions.

In the hymns addressed to AGNI the same attributes and allusions occur that are found in preceding S'uktas, and enumerated in the Introduction to the first volume. We have perhaps more distinctly asserted his character of creator of the universe, (p. 8, v. 5., p. 17, v. 4., p. 120, v. 15.), and in his universality, as intimated in one hymn with more than ordinary mysticism (pp. 28, 29, v. 7, 8. and note), we have the rudiments probably of the pantheistic notion, which, as the word Vedánta imports, are based upon the Veda: the identification of AGNI with other divinities, his being INDRA, VRITRA, VARUNA, ARYAMAN, RUDRA, is of the same tendency, (p. 237, v. 1.).

In like manner the attributes and exploits of INDRA, his slaying of VRITRA, his recovery of the stolen cattle, his destruction of various Asuras, and of their cities, and his patronage of individual princes have all been told before, in general more fully: his drinking of the Soma-juice is the subject of very many uninteresting stanzas, and most of the hymns of which he is the hero suggest little that is of additional value. In the sixteenth hymn of the first section of the fourth Ashtaka some novel circumstances are narrated of the Asura NA-MUCHI: mention has been made of him in the first and second sections, but here, for the first time, it is said of him, that he sends an army of women against INDRA, as if a nation of amazons were alluded to: the passage, bowever, is obscure, and the explanation imperfect (p. 279, v. 9.).

In the sixth Súkta of the fifth section of the third Ashtaka there is also some additional legend which may be suspected of a historical bearing, however exaggerated, when it is related that INDRA was followed by a large host, thousands, in his attack upon the Asura KUYAVA; and that, on another occasion, he destroyed fifty thousand Krishnas, or dark-complexioned Rákshasas, according to the scholiast: one inference from these numbers is, that the Rishis of the time of the Veda were not unfamiliar with the levy of numerous bodies of combatants; and another, which is more important, is the probability that by Asuras and Rákshasas, nothing more is meant than hostile tribes or nations: the mortal Rájás, KUTSA, RIJIS-WAN, SUDÁS, and others, in whose defence or for benefit these adversaries are demolished, whose could scarcely have waged war with superhuman beings, could scarcely have incurred their enmity, except in their character of disturbers of sacrifices offered to the gods, meaning thereby, very possibly, the yet unconverted races of India opposed to Brahmanical rites: that we are to look upon them as principally if not exclusively human beings is most consistent with their being engaged in contests with human princes; and the identity is further established by the appellation of Dasyu being assigned to the Asura, SAMBARA, (p. 444, v. 4. n.)

Like AGNI, INDRA is identified with various persons and divinities; and in one hymn it is intimated that he is the only real object of adoration, to whomsoever else it may be nominally addressed, taking whatever manifestation he pleases, whether that of AGNI, VISHNU, or RUDRA (p. 473, v. 18.): he is also represented in the same hymn as of a capricious temperament, neglecting those who serve him, and favouring those who pay him no adoration (p. 473, v. 17.); a notion somewhat at variance with a doctrine previously inculcated, that the ceremonial worship of INDRA is able to atone for the most atrocious crimes (p. 289, n.).

The $S\acute{u}ktas$ addressed to the other deities propitiated in the third and fourth Ashtakas are for the most part mere repetitions of those which have been given in the first and second: one of the two dedicated in the third Book to SAVITRI (S. IX. 3rd Adhy. 3rd Asht. p. 110.) contains the verse that constitutes an essential part of the daily prayers of the Brahmans, and is especially known as the Gáyatrí: the commentators admit some variety of interpretation, but it probably meant, in its original use, a simple invocation of the sun to shed a benignant influence upon the customary offices of worship, and that it is still employed by the unphilosophical Hindus with merely that signification: later notions, and especially those of the Vedánta, have operated to attach to the text an import it did not at first possess, and have converted it into a mystical propitiation of the spiritual origin and essence of existence, or BRAHM.

INTRODUCTION.

The hymns addressed to Dadhikrá, or Dadhikrávan, contemplate the sun under the type of a horse, and in one of them (p. 199) occurs a stanza known as the Hansavatí Rich, in which, under various appellations, the sun is considered to be identified with the supreme Spirit, or Parabrahma, although it may be questionable how far the terms bore originally the significations which commentators have subsequently assigned them.

In the third Ashtaka are two Súktas, of which the Syena, the hawk or kite, is said to be the deity of part of one, and of the whole of the other: the style of the hymns is rather mystical, and one interpretation identifies the bird with the supreme Spirit: the general tenor, however, merely alludes to a legend told in the Aitareya Bráhmana, as mentioned in a note (p. 71), of the Soma-plant having been brought from heaven by the Gáyatrí, the metre personified, in the form of a hawk; a possible allegory connecting the use of hymns in the Gáyatri measure with the early or original offering of the Soma libration at the worship of the gods.

Another novel Súkta in the third Ashtaka has for its object the sanctification of the lord of the field, and of the implements of agriculture: the spirit of mysticism identifies them with divinities, as AGNI, INDRA, VÁYU, but whether the terms be understood literally or typically, the inference will be the same; the great importance attached by the Hindús of the Vaidik era to the operations of agriculture, and the fitness of the means used by them in the cultivation of the land. Of the hymn that follows this it is not easy to understand the purport, but it is chiefly in the praise of clarified butter, or Ghi, and may connect the labours of the herdsman with those of the plough: a Súkta addressed to the Cows (p. 439) may be regarded as of a similar class, but it contains nothing peculiarly characteristic: the short hymn to Prithivi, the Earth (p. 374), might be classed with the agricultural, but it is very general and unmeaning.

In the two Ashtakas the VISWADEVAS are the divinities of seventeen Súktas, or, if we add the five addressed to various deities, who are, however, much the same as the VISWADEVAS, twenty: they are for the most part the same deities as occur in their individual capacities elsewhere, AGNI, INDRA, VARUNA, ADITI, the Ádityas, the MARUTS, and offer only their usual properties and allusions: some of the hymns deal in mysticism, and are accordingly obscure; and scattered through them are references to circumstances of general interest, but for the most part they add little to what has been elsewhere described. The same may be said of the Súktas to the MARUTS, the ASWINS, the RIBHUS, whose attributes and exploits are mere repetitions of what has gone before: the Súktas dedicated to PúSHAN more explicitly describe him as the guardian of roads and protector of travellers, indicating an interchange of domicile and intercourse of traffic that could prevail only amongst a people advanced some way in civilization: PúSHAN appears also in a new character as the patron of conjurors (p. 495), especially of those who discover stolen goods, an order of professors still familiar to the people of India.

A solitary passage, and one of which the commentator has given no satisfactory explanation, raises the number of the deities to an extent which is wholly incompatible with the ordinary enumeration: it is said at the close of the ninth S''_{ukta} of the first chapter of the third Ashtaka, (p.7) that three thousand three hundred and thirty-nine deities, devas, have done homage to AGNI, and appointed him their ministrant priest. Sá-YANA refers for the confirmation of this statement to the Brihad Aranyaka, where something of the kind is found, but which cannot be regarded as authority for the text of the Veda: the ordinary enumeration of the classes of the subordinate divinities makes them but thirty-three, and the Veda is cited as the authority for this enumeration as repeated in the Puránas: Vishnu Pur., p. 123, note.

Although the texts of the Rig-Veda, more or less detached, are extensively employed in the ritual of the Brahmans, yet the allusions to ceremonial offices are very rare, and not always very explicit: of course commendations of the offering of the juice of the Soma plant are constantly repeated, and its effects upon those who drink it, especially INDRA, are described in the usual exaggerated strain: there is also occasionally a palpable confusion of attributes with those of the moon, arising out of identity of name (p. 453). Clarified butter, or Ghi is also not unfrequently named or alluded to; and in one instance we have a hymn to the $Y i \mu a$, or post to which the victim is fastened, as typical of the Vanaspati, the lord of the wood, the tree out of which it has been fabricated. The practice of animal sacrifices on an extensive scale is affirmed in two places, in one of which (p. 276) it is said, that three hundred buffaloes have been offered to INDRA as a burnt-offering, and in the other (p. 410) it is prayed that one hundred may be so offered : the phrase in both passages is, dressing or cooking, (root, pach); so that the offering, like that of other nations of antiquity, was no doubt partaken of by those presenting the holocaust: another Súkta (p. 22) is considered by the scholiast as appropriate to an animal sacrifice, as it repeatedly specifies the presentation of the marrow or fat from the interior of the victim to AGNI. HEALE AND

There is scarcely any indication of doctrinal or philosophical speculation, no allusion to the later notions of the several schools, except those expressions above noticed suggestive of the identity of all gods and of all beings; nor is there any hint of the metempsychosis, or of the doctrine which is intimately allied to it, of the repeated renovation of the world : on the contrary, there is one remarkable passage which denies this elsewhere unquestioned proposition. It is there emphatically affirmed that the heaven and the earth were generated but once, as was the milk of PRISNI, or the nourishment of the winds, that is to say, the rain; and that nothing similar was successively produced. (p. 481, v. 22.).

Various intimations are given, although less frequent or decisive than in the preceding Ashtakas, of the social condition of the Hindús of the Vaidik period: they confirm the conclusions previously drawn of the advanced state of civilization: cities are repeatedly mentioned, and although, as the objects of INDRA's hostility, they may be considered as cities in the clouds, the residences of the Asuras, yet the notion of such aggregations of any class of beings could alone have been suggested by actual observation, and the idea of cities in heaven could have been derived only from familiarity with similar assemblages upon earth: but, as above intimated, it is probable that by Asuras we are to understand, at least occasionally, the anti-vaidik people of India, and that theirs are the cities destroyed. It is also to be observed, that the cities are destroyed on behalf or in defence of mortal princes, who could scarcely have beleaguered celestial towns, even with INDRA's assistance: indeed, in one instance (p. 173) it is said that, having destroyed ninety and nine out of the hundred cities of the Asura, SAMBARA, INDRA left the hundredth habitable for his protegé, DIVODÁSA, a terrestrial monarch, to whom a metropolis in the firmament would have been of questionable advantage.

That the cities of those days consisted, to a great extent, of mud and mat hovels is very possible: they do so still: Benares, Agra, Delhi, even Calcutta, present numerous constructions of the very humblest class: but that they consisted of these exclusively is contradicted in several places. In one passage (p. 180), the cities of SAMBARA that have been overturned are said to have consisted of stone: in another (p. 470), the same cities are indicated by the appellative dehyáh, the plastered, intimating the use of lime, mortar, or stucco: in another, we have specified a structure with a thousand columns, which, whether a palace or a temple, must have been something very different from a cottage; and again (p. 288), a supplication is put up for a large habitation, which could not be intended for a hut: cities with buildings of some pretence must obviously have been no rarities to the authors of the hymns of the Rig-Veda.

Notice has already been taken of the large scale upon which, even allowing for exaggeration, wars must have been carried on: a similar passage occurs (p. 180), in which it is said that INDRA, for the sake of DABHITI, destroyed thirty thousand Dásas, slaves, or anti-vaidiks: the scholiast says Rákshasas and others, but the text has only dása, and DABHÍTI is a mortal. It is not, however, only with Dásas and Dasyus that we find hostilities prevail, and the Áryas seem to have been equally at variance amongst themselves. INDRA is said, in one passage, to have slain two of their leaders on the Saryu river (p. 179), and in another to have destroyed alike both Aryas and Dásas (p. 446): there seems, indeed, to have been considerable animosity prevailing amongst the people, and the gods are not unfrequently solicited to protect the worshipper against his own neighbours and relations. That the religion or the government did not always feel secure may be inferred from a passage in which INDRA is requested to protect the worshipper not only in war, but in peace, or amongst or against the people (p. 455).

Of progress in the useful arts we have, as before, occasional exemplifications. The practice of agriculture has already been noticed: the art of weaving is very particularly mentioned (p. 386), although in connexion with some mystical reference to creation or sacrifice: the sharpening of the edge of iron weapons makes it likely that steel is intended; and there is nothing surprising in this, as Indian steel was known to the Persians in the days of Ctesias: the melting of metallic substances was practised (p. 386), very possibly of gold, for golden ornaments, golden cuirasses, are repeatedly mentioned: it might be thought that even coins were current, for amongst the presents made to the Rishi of a Súkta ten purses are specified (p. 474): the term kosayih may be interpreted, however, bags or chests, and they may have contained only a certain weight of precious metal.

The same familiarity with the sea that has been previously commented on occasionally occurs, with sufficient explicitness to leave no doubt of the meaning of the text: thus, in one place the rivers are said to rush to the ocean eager to mix with it (p. 59); and again, the rivers disappear in the ocean (p. 221), where also it is said that those desirous of profit are engaged in traversing the ocean, clearly indicating maritime traffic: the Maruts, or personified winds, are said to toss the clouds like ships, or as the scholiast amplifies a rather elliptical phrase, as the ocean tosses ships: in another place (p. 425), although the particular expressions may be equivocal, yet it is undeniable that the passage is intended to convey the crossing of the ocean by certain individuals under the guidance of INDRA.

There are one or two curious passages relating to the laws of inheritance, and of simple contract, or buying and selling: they may not be very precise or altogether intelligible, yet they are sufficiently so to shew that legislative enactments were in existence, and that, with respect to these two subjects, the law was essentially the same as that which is laid down in the reputed writings of ancient legislators, and, to a certain extent, is still in force. A son, by virtue of holy acts, that is, it may be inferred, the worship of the manes, although not so specified, is the heir, to the exclusion of a daughter, as she, by marriage, conveys the property into a different family : she is, however, to be enriched with gifts, upon her marriage, it may be supposed by way of dower: in default of a direct male heir, the son of a daughter is to perform the rites, and consequently inherit the property; but this applies only to the son of an appointed daughter,¹ who, according to all the oldest authorities, was considered equal to a son; and the term used in the passage in question evidently comprehends this stipulation or appointment: the Sásadvahni is the transferrer of his daughter to another family, under agreement or stipulation, and thereby proceeds to, or establishes, the affiliation of a grandson; or as the scholiast, no doubt quite correctly, states it, the father stipulates, I will give you my daughter, who has no brothers, on condition that the son who may be begotten on her may be my son also: now this, although ancient law, is a refinement upon the rules of inheritance, and is an unquestionable evidence of advanced civilization.

The law, that if a person have sold a commodity for less than its value, and repents of having done so, he cannot reclaim the commodity sold, from the buyer, is apparently the law of the present day, though there be some difference of opinion: what has been sold, it is said, at a low price by an idiot, or one inebriate or insane, may be resumed compulsorily, if need be, from the buyer; but it is then reasonably inferred, that if it be sold for a low price by a man sound of mind, the sale is valid: this is so far qualified, that if the sale have been made by mistake it may be cancelled; and in general, rescission of the sale or purchase of things not perishable is allowable within ten days, at the will of either of the parties: this is considered by Mill (History of India, vol. i. p. 232) as altogether incompatible with an age in which the divisions and refinements of industry have multiplied the number of exchanges: and he would therefore have looked upon the law, as it is laid down in the text of the Veda, making a sale and purchase, once concluded, unalterable, as a proof of an advanced era in the interchange of marketable commodities.

So far, therefore, the allusions to the social condition of the Hindús are in harmony with those that have been previously noticed; and the same may be said of the references made to the tracts occupied by them, which were in the north-west and west of India, from the Punjab to the mouths of the Indus, their outlet to the ocean: we have the Yamuná mentioned once, the Ganges once: the Saraswati is often named in both her characters as a goddess and a river, and the Drishadvatí, is in one place associated with her as in Manu, along with another river not met with elsewhere, the Apayá: the Vipása and Satudrí, or Beyah and Satlaj, are interlocutors in a Súkta with the Rishi Viswámitra, in which he entreats them to allow him to ford them with his attendants and waggons, being bound to the north-west, as he states, to collect the Soma plant. Other rivers are named, as the Rasá, Anitabhá, Kubhá (p. 330), Purushni, and the Hariyupíyá, or Yavyavatí, the positions of which are no longer known, but which were probably in the west, and were feeders of the Indus. On the eastern bank of the Hariyupiyá dwelt a people called Vrichívats, or Várasikhas, who were subjugated, with the aid of INDRA, by the Rajas ABHYÁVARTTIN and PRASTOKA, (p. 438), and who we may suppose, therefore, not to have been Hindús.¹ A people called Rusumas, inhabiting, it is said, a country so called, must have been an orthodox race, presenting valuable gifts to the Rishi of a Súkta in which their liberality is culogised (p. 288): on the other hand it seems to be intimated, that the Hindúism of the Vedas had not ¹ According to the story, as told in the Níti Manjarí, from the Brihad devatá, Abhyávarttin, the son of Chayamána; and Prastoka, the son of Srinjaya, having been defeated by the Várisikhas, applied to the Rishi, Bharadwája, to procure his intercession with Indra for his aid: the Rishi complied with their request, and praised Indra with the Súhta which is given, propitiated by which the deity came to the assistance of the princes, and destroyed the Várisikhas. spread into South Bahar, when it is asked, what do the cattle for thee (INDRA), among the Kikatas (p. 86), Kikata being the ordinary appellation of that province; and it is not incompatible with the apparent limitation of the Hindús in the time of the Vedas to the western countries, that their religion had not extended so far into the interior, especially into a country which is still partly covered by forest, and inhabited by barbarous tribes. Besides the rivers and races thus named, and for the most part peculiar to the Veda, we have a number of names of Rajas which are not met with elsewhere (pp. 272, 288, 439): the intermarriage of royal and saintly races, of which the Puránas afford examples, is of Vaidik authority, and is curiously illustrated by the story of Sráváswa (p. 344).

A few legends of an interesting description occur in the Ashtakas now translated: thus, in the third (p. 83), we have a hymn of some length by VISWAMI-TRA, which is usually regarded as authority for the existence of a violent feud between the author and the Rishi VASISHTHA, and their respective descendants, and to be the vehicle of such an imprecation upon the latter, that Brahmans, who profess to belong to the gotra, the traditional family or school of VASISIITHA, will not read or transcribe the passages: the cause of quarrel is not alluded to in the Veda, but it is repeatedly detailed, with some variations, in the heroic poems and Puránas. The oldest form of the legend is, no doubt, that of the Rámáyana, repeated in the Mahábhárata, Ádi Parva, where VISWÁMITRA, whilst yet in his original or Kshatriya character, attempts to carry off by violence the all-bestowing cow from the hermitage of VASISHTHA, typifying, no doubt, a quarrel between the Brahmanical and Kshatriya races for the dominion of the all-yielding earth; in which, however, it is very remarkable that the forces summoned to take the part of the Brahman are all foreigners, Sikas, Yavanas, Pahnavas, and Mlechchhas, or unconverted tribes, as Dráviras, Paundras, Kirátas. VIS-WÁMITRA afterwards, by the force of penance, becoming a Brahman, appears in the Rámáyana, and in the dramas thence derived, on very friendly terms with VASISHTHA, as the Purohita or family priest of DASARATHA, but in the Mahábhárata Adi Parva, vol. 1. p. 243, and Salya Parva, vol. 3. p. 361, we have repeated incidents of offence given, especially by VISWÁ-MITRA by which VASISHTHA is reduced to despair, and endeavours in vain to destroy himself. Some of these circumstances are subsequently alluded to.

Another legend worthy of notice is that of VÁMA-DEVA, who, whilst yet unborn, insists on coming into existence by his mother's side, an incident that may have been suggestive of the subsequent similarly marvellous birth of BUDDHA. Another incident adverted to is that of VÁMADEVA having, when hungry, cooked for his food the entrails of a dog, a circumstance repeated in the tenth book of MANU. Several allusions seem to indicate that the followers of the Vedas were not very scrupulous as to the articles of their diet: it appears, for instance, that the flesh of the wild cattle was allowable, (p. 163); and, in one passage, even that of the cow is said to be the best of food (p. 453).

The story of the Raja TRYARUNA, his Purohit, and the boy over whom the latter drives the former's car, involves a legal argument, which is amongst the subtleties of Hindú legislation: See Law Questions, Ballantyne's Synopsis of Science, vol. 1. p. x: the consequence, however, the cessation of the use of fire, is more remarkable, intimating possibly a sort of interdict, during which the performance of burnt-sacrifices was suspended: the story is rather obscurely narrated. We may advert to one more legend, as it is more particularly given by MANU (10. 107.): the Veda merely states the fact that BHARADWÁJA, the Rishi, accepted presents from a person named BRIBU: in MANU and in the Níti Manjarí he is said to have been a carpenter or woodcutter; and in both these authorities the moral of the story is the legality of the acceptance of presents from persons of inferior caste, by Brahmans in time of distress: the latter qualification was probably unknown in the days of the Veda, when questions of impurity, whether of food or of caste, had not come to be entertained.

At the same time it may be doubted whether there are not in these two portions of the Rig-Veda, some intimation of the institution of caste, although not yet fully developed: the five classes, which sometimes signify different orders of created beings, can, in one or two passages, apply to human beings alone; whether to the four usual distinctions with the Nishada for the fifth is not explicitly asserted in the text, although it is so understood by the commentator. The designation of Bráhmana not unfrequently occurs, although its specific application may be questionable: in one passage (p. 203) we have the term Kshatriya, as the immediate dependant upon a Raja: Vis, meaning people in general, offers the rudiments of Vaisya, although not precisely the same word; we have not, however, met anywhere with the term \dot{Sudra} , although the thing may be intended by the words $D\dot{a}sa$ and $D\dot{a}sih$, slave and serviles: the absence of the appropriate appellation is, however, a reasonable argument against the recognition of the order to which it belongs; and it must be admitted that the indications of the four recognised castes are imperfect and inconclusive.

Whatever may be the case with the specification of caste, however, the same entire abstinence that has been heretofore observed from all allusion to the objects of worship consecrated by the Puránas and Tantras continues to prevail in the two additional sections now translated; and the personified triad of divine attributes, BRAHMÁ, VISHNU, SIVA, in their capacities of creator, preserver, destroyer, with the popular forms of the two latter Krishna and the Linga, and all the manifestations of the bride of MAHÁDEVA, continue to be utterly unknown to the primitive texts of the religion of the Hindús.

the divine (rivers), bearers of sweet (water.) One sacred sound glorities thee (AGNI), who art desirous of repose, pacifying (thy flames) in the abode of the water (the firmament).

3. Their lord has mounted on his well-trained mares; the sagacious selector of treasures, the blackbacked, many-limbed (AGNI) has granted them a place of rest for the cherishing of (their) rapid speed.¹

4. The flowing (rivers) invigorating him, bear along the great son of TWASHTRI, the undecaying upholder (of the world), radiant with various forms in the vicinity (of the firmament): AGNI is associated with heaven and earth, as (a husband with) one only wife.²

5. Men comprehend the service of the uninjurable showerer (of benefits), and exult in the commands of the mighty (AGNI): their frequent and earnest hymns of praise, bright and radiant, are illuminating heaven.

6. Verily (men) bring great delight to AGNI by glorifying aloud the mighty parents (heaven and earth), when the shedder of rain approximates his own radiance to the worshipper, (wherewith) to invest the night.

7. Seven sages with five ministring priests³ attend the station that is prepared for the rapid (AGNI): the undecaying divine (sages), with their faces to the cast, sprinkling (the libations), rejoice as they celebrate the worship of the gods.

8. I propitiate the two first divine offerers of sacrifice; the seven (priests) rejoice with the libation; the illustrious celebrators of holy worship, reciting (his) praises, have called AGNI the true (object) of every rite.

9. Divine invoker of the gods, the vast and widespreading rays shed (moisture) for thee, the mighty, the victorious, the wonderful, the showerer (of benefits): do thou who art all-knowing, joy-bestowing, bring hither the great gods, and heaven and earth.

10. Ever-moving (ACN1) may the mornings rise for us, abounding with oblations, with pious prayers, and with auspicious signs, and conferring wealth; and do thou, with the might of thy (diffusive flame), consume all sin on behalf of thy respectable (worshipper).

11. Grant, AGNI, to the offerer of the oblation, earth the bestower of cattle, the means of many (pious rites), such that it may be perpetual: may there be to us sons and grandsons, and may thy good-will ever be productive of benefits to $us.^1$

¹ This verse is the burden of several Súhtas in the preceding Ashtaha, see vol. ii. pp. 323, 334, 336. Sáyana rather varies his interpretation in some respects upon this recurrence of the verse: thus he translates in the former, Ilá, by Bhúmi, earth: here he calls her a female divinity in the form of a cow, gorúpám devatám, and he connects vijává with anumati, good-will, explaining it abandhyá, may it be not barren, productive: see Introduction, vol. ii. p. xxvi.

RIG-VEDA SANHITÁ.

Súkta VIII. (VIII.)

The deity is considered to be the Yúpa, or sacrificial post, diversified as single or as many: the Viswadevas are the deities of the eighth stanza; the Rishi is VISWAMITRA; the metre of the third and seventh verses is Anushtubh; of the rest, Trishtubh.

Varga III.

1. Vanaspati,¹ the devout anoint thee with sacred butter at the sacrifice; and whether thou standest erect, or thine abode be on the lap of this thy mother (earth), grant us riches.

2. Standing on the east of the kindled (fire), dispensing food (as the source) of undecaying (health) and excellent progeny, keeping off our enemy at a distance, stand up for great auspiciousness.

3. Be exalted, VANASPATI, upon this sacred spot of earth, being measured with careful measurement, and bestow food upon the offerer of the sacrifice.

4. Well clad and hung with wreaths comes the youthful (pillar): most excellent it is as soon as generated: stedfast and wise venerators of the gods, meditating piously in their minds, raise it up.

5. Born (in the forest), and beautified in the sacrifice celebrated by men, it is (again) engendered for the sanctification of the days (of sacred rites): stedfast, active, and intelligent (priests) consecrate it with intelligence, and the devout worshipper recites its praise.

¹ Vanaspati, lit. forest lord, is here said to mean the post of wood to which the victim is tied: the verse is quoted in the Aitareya Bráhmana, 11.2, and is similarly expounded in the Nirukta, 8, 18. 6. May those (posts) which devout men have cut down, or which, VANASPATI, the axe has trimmed, may they standing resplendent with all their parts (entire) bestow upon us wealth with progeny.

7. May those posts which have been cut down upon the earth, and which have been fabricated by the priests, those which are the accomplishers of the sacrifice, convey our acceptable (offering) to the gods.

8. May the leaders of the rite, the divine Adityas. Budras, Vasus, Heaven and Earth, the Earth, the firmament, well pleased, protect our sacrifice: let them raise aloft the standard of the ceremony.

9. Arrayed in bright (garments), entire (in their parts), these pillars ranging in rows like swans, have come to us crected by pious sages on the east (of the fire); they proceed resplendent on the path of the gods.

10. Entire in all parts and girded with rings, they appear upon the earth like the horns of horned cattle; hearing (their praises) by the priests: may they protect us in battles.

11. VANASPATI mount up with a hundred branches, that we may mount with a thousand, thou whom the sharpened hatchet has brought for great auspiciousness.

SÚKTA IX. (IX.)

The deity is AONI; the Rishi VISWAMITRA; the metre Brihati, except in the last verse, in which it is Trishtubh.

1. We thy mortal friends have recourse for our protection to thee, the divine, the grandson of the waters, the auspicious, the resplendent, the accessible, the sinless.

Varga V.

Varga IV.

2. Desirous as thou art of the forests since thou hast repaired to the maternal waters, AGNI, thy tarrying so far away is not to be endured; (in a moment) thou art here with $us.^1$

3. Thou wishest exceedingly to convey satisfaction (to thy worshipper) and art thereto well-disposed; of those in whose friendship thou art cherished, some precede whilst others sit around.²

4. The benignant and long-lived deities have discovered thee, AGNI, when required to go against their constant and assembled foes, hidden in the waters like a lion (in a cave.)

5. MATARISWAN therefore brought for the gods from afar, AGNI, hiding of himself, and generated by attrition, as (a father brings back) a fugitive (son).³

Varga VI.

6. Bearer of oblations, men apprehend thee (thus concealed) for the service of the gods, and that thou, youngest (of the deities) and friendly to mankind, mayst recompense by thy acts all their pious rites.

7. Auspicious is thy worship for it prospers the ignorant (worshipper), wherefore animals¹ reverence thee, AGNI, kindled in the beginning of the night.

¹ That is, according to the scholiast, although not yet kindled, yet as soon as the attrition of the touchwood takes place Agni appears.

² According to Sáyana allusion is made to the sixteen priests, of whom the Adhwaryu and eleven others take an active part in the ceremonial, whilst the Udgátri and other three are sitting by, engaged in the recital of the prayers and hymns.

8. Offer oblations to the object of holy sacrifice, the brilliant purifier, who is dormant (in fuel): worship quietly the pervader (of the rite), the messenger (of the gods), the rapid, the ancient deity who is entitled to laudation.

9. Three thousand three hundred and thirty-nine divinities have worshipped AGNI:² they have sprinkled him with melted butter; they have spread for him the sacred grass; and have scated him upon it as their ministrant priest.

SURTA X. (X).

The deity and Rishi as before : the metre is Ushnih.

1. Thee, the king of men; AGNI, the divine: pru- Varga VII. dent mortals kindle thee at the sacrifice.

¹ Pasavah: according to the comment, bipeds as well as quadrupeds.

² Sáyana quotes the Brihad Áranyaka for this enumeration, Adhyáya v. Bráhmana, p. 642, but that work gives apparently 3333, or according to the gloss of Ánanda giri 3336, but in the following verses the number is as usual specified as thirty-three; the eight Vasus, eleven Rudras, and twelve Ádityas, with Indra and Prajápati: the verse occurs in the Yajush, XXXIII. 7, where Mahídhara explains part of the increase by multiplying the thirty-three by ten for the ganas of the deities, making not very correctly 333; and repeating this number twice, once for their multiplication by Brahmá, Vishnu, and Rudra, and again by their Ṣahtis; navaiva anhás-trivriddhá syur-decánám dasaair-ganaih, te Brahmá Vishnu Rudránám sahtínám varna2. They praise thee as the priest, the invoker (of the gods) at sacrifices: shine forth the protector of the pious rite in thine own abode.

3. He verily who presents oblations to thee, the knower of all things, he acquires (AGNI) excellent progeny: he prospers.

4. May (AGNI), the banner of sacrifices, offering oblations on the part of the worshipper through (the ministry of) the seven officiating priests, come hither with the gods.

5. Offer to the ministring AGNI as if to the Creator (of the world), the great praise recited of old, for the sake of animating the energies of the pious (worshippers).¹

Varga VIII.

6. May our hymns exalt AGNI, so that he may be born more worthy of praise, and may become manifest for (the purpose of bestowing) abundant food and riches.

7. AGNI, thou art to be especially worshipped at the sacrifice: worship the gods (on behalf of) the devout (worshipper): thou shinest the invoker (of the gods) the exhibit ator (of the pious) overcoming thy foes.²

8. Do thou, our purifier, light up for us a brilliant progeny: be ever nigh to those who praise thee for their well being.

9. The wise, intelligent, and vigilant (worshippers) kindle thee, such as thou (hast been described), the bearer of oblations, the immortal, generated by strength.¹

Súkta XI. (XI.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Gáyatri.

1. AGNI, the invoker of the gods, the minister (of the gods), the supervisor of the sacrifice, understands the solemn rite in its due course.

2. That AGNI, who is the bearer of oblations, the immortal, the desirer (of offerings), the messenger (of the gods), and is the receiver of sacrificial viands, is associated with understanding.²

3. AGNI, the ancient banner of sacrifice, knows (all things) through understanding: his radiance traverses (the darkness).³

4. The gods have made AGNI, who is the son of strength, the eternally-renowned, the knower of all that is born, the bearer (of oblations).

5. AGNI, the preceder of human beings,⁴ (ever)

² Dhiyá samrinvati, that is, according to Sáyana, Agni is fully aware of the objects of the ceremony, and a wish is implied that he may communicate similar knowledge to its performers, tán tádrik prajnánvitán harotu: Mahídhara understands it somewhat differently in form, though the same in substance, as, through knowledge Agni associates with the gods, for the purpose of conveying the oblations to them.—Yajush, XXII. 16.

6. Agni, the most liberal contributor of food, is able to resist all assailants unharmed, the nourisher of the gods.

7. From AGNI of purifying radiance the mortal presenter (of offerings) obtains by his conveyance (of them to the gods) abundant viands and a dwelling.¹

8. May we, endowed with intelligence, obtain all good things by our praises of AGNI, to whom all is known.

9. May we obtain, AGNI, all precious things (as booty) in battles, since the gods are concentrated in thee.

Súkta XII. (XII.)

The deitics are INDRA and AGNI; the Rishi and metre as before.

Varga XI.

1. INDRA and AGNI come to this acceptable libration, (brought) by our praises² from heaven, and induced by (our) devotion to drink of it.

¹ This and the two preceding occur in the Sáma Veda, 11. 906-908.

² Girbhir nabho varenyam; sambhajaniyam somam prati asmadiyábhih stutirúpúbhír, vágbhir, áhutau: nabho, nabhasah swargasthánád úyatam: called by our praises, come you two from the place of Swarga to this enjoyable Soma, is Sáyana's explanation: the verse occurs both in the Sáma-Veda, II. 19. and Yajur-Veda, VII. 31: Mahídhara tries to give a different sense to Nabha, which he identifies with Áditya, and conjectures a comparison understood, as, come to the Soma which is like the desirable sun, or it may mean, he says, those dwelling in heaven: Nabhah stháh the gods: Come to the Soma that is sought for by the gods. 2. INDRA and AGNI, the conscious sacrifice associated with the worshipper' proceeds to you: (summoned) by this (invocation), drink the libration.

3. Urged by the energy of the sacrifice, I have recourse to INDRA and AGNI, the protectors of the pious: may they be satiated with the Soma here presented.

4. I invoke INDRA and AGNI, the discomfitters of foes, the destroyers of Vritra, the victorious, the invincible, the bestowers of most abundant food.²

5. The reciters of prayers, the repeaters of praise, who are skilled in sacred song, worship you both: I have recourse to INDRA and AGNI for food.³

6. INDRA and AGNI, with one united effort you overthrew ninety cities ruled over by (your) foes.⁴

7. INDRA and AGNI, the pious ministers, are present at our holy rite, according to the ways of worship.⁵

8. INDRA and AGNI, in you, vigour and food are abiding together, and therefore in you is deposited the dispensing of water.⁶

¹ Jarituh sachá yajno jigáti chetanah; the expression is rather obscure: yajna and chetana are both applied by Sáyana to the Soma, as the material of the sacrifice, yajna-sádhanam, and the animator or giver of consciousness to the organs of perception; indriyánám chetayitá, and the co-operator with the worshipper in.obtaining heaven or other benefits—jarituh sachá swargádiphalapráptau saháyo bhútah: this and the next stanza occur in the Sáma, 11. 20, 21: Professor Benfey has understood it differently.

ANUVÁKA II.

Súkta I. (XIII.)

The deity is AGN1; the Rishi is RISHABHA, a son of VISWA-MITRA; the metre Anushtubh.

1. (Priests) utter devout (praises) to this your divine ACNI, that so glorified he may come to us with the gods, and sit down on the sacrificial grass.

2. The observer of truth, of whom (are) heaven and earth, and whose vigour the protecting (deities) assist: him, the offerers of oblations adore, and those desirous of riches (have recourse) to him for protection.

3. He, the sage, is the director of those (who sacrifice), he is (the regulator) of sacrifices: worship him your (benefactor), the donor, who is the bestower of wealth.

4. May that AGNI bestow upon us prosperous dwellings for our maintenance, so that from him infinite wealth, whether it may be in heaven or from earth, or in the waters (may come to us).

5. The devout kindle (the fire) with his wealthobtaining rites, (to worship) the radiant, unpreceded AGNI, the invoker (of the gods), the protector of men.

7. Grant us indeed, AGNI, wealth (that may be counted) by thousands, and comprising offspring, nourishment, brilliant treasure,¹ and vigour, and be infinite and inexhaustible.

Súkta II. (XIV.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. The invoker (of the gods), the exhibitrator (of his worshippers), the true, the offerer of sacrifice, the most wise, the creator, is present at our sacred rites. AGN1, the son of strength, whose chariot is the lightning, whose hair is flame, manifests his glory on the earth.

2. I utter to thee the words of adoration, be pleased by them, observer of truth: endowed with strength, (they are addressed) to thee who art the expounder (of sacred rites): wise (as thou art) bring (hither) the wise: object of sacrifice, sit down in the midst upon the sacred grass for our protection.

3. May the food-bestowing day and night hasten to thee whilst thou, AGNI, meetest them on the paths of the wind: since (the priests) ever worship thee preceding (them)² with oblations, whilst they (united) like the pole (and the yoke of a waggon), abide successively in our dwelling.

4. Vigorous AGNI, to thee MITRA and VARUNA, and all the Maruts, offer praise; since, son of strength, thou standest a sun,¹ shedding (thy) rays with lustre on mankind.

5. With uplifted hands,² approaching thee with reverence, we present to thee to-day our oblation:³ do thou, who art wise, worship the gods with most devout mind and with unwearied praise.

6. From thee, verily, son of strength, many and various benefactions and various kinds of food devolve upon the devout (worshipper): do thou grant us, AGNI, infinite wealth, and (a son) observant of truth, with speech devoid of guile.

7. Divine (AGNI), mighty and omniscient, these (are the offerings) which we mortals present to thee in the sacrifice: do thou be cognizant of every respectable worshipper,⁴ and partake, immortal, of all (his offerings) on this occasion.

³ Kámam: both commentators consider this synonymous here with oblation, puródásádihavis, as that which is desirable to the gods, hamaníyam.

SUKTA III. (XV.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi is UTKILA of the Kata gotra, or family; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. Radiant with great glory, repel the hostile $R\acute{a}kshasas$ and $Pis\acute{a}chas:$ ¹ may I be in (the enjoyment) of the favour of the great (AGNI), the giver of prosperity, and in the service of (him who is) easily invoked.

2. Consider thyself our protector at the breaking of the dawn to-day and when the sun has risen:² AGNI, who art engendered with (embodied) form,³ be pleased with my constant praise, as a father (is pleased with) his son.⁴

3. Showerer (of benefits), beholder of men, radiant amidst darkness, shine, AGNI, with abundant (rays) in due order: granter of dwellings, conduct us (to good), keep off all ill, and youngest (of all the gods), gratify our desires for wealth.

4. AGNI, who art irresistible and the showerer (of

2. Maruts, leaders (of rites), associate with this augmenter (of our prosperity), in whom (abide) riches contributing to felicity, ye who (are victorious) over (your) enemies in battle, who daily humble (your) foes.

3. Do thou, opulent AGNI, showerer (of benefits), prosper us with riches comprising vigour, numerous progeny, health, and happiness.

4. He who is the maker pervades all worlds; he the enduring maker (of all) bears our offerings to the gods: he is present with the devout (worshippers) and amidst the heroism and the devotions of men.

5. Consign us not, AGNI, to malignity; (doom) us not to the absence of posterity; nor, son of strength, to the want of cattle, nor to reproach: drive away (all) animosities.

6. Auspicious AGNI, bestow (upon us) at the rite, food (the source of) happiness and renown.

SUKTA V. (XVII.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi is KATA the Son of VISWA-MITRA; the metre Trishtubh.

2. As thou didst offer the burnt-offering, AGNI, (on behalf of) earth; as thou, JATAVEDAS, who art cognizant (of sacred rites, didst offer sacrifice on behalf) of heaven; so with this oblation worship the gods, and perfect this rite to-day (as thou didst) that of MANU.¹

3. Three are thy existences JATAVEDAS;² three, AGNI, are thy parent dawns:³ with them offer the oblation of the gods, and knowing (his wishes) be the bestower of happiness on the institutor of the sacrifice.

4. JÁTAVEDAS, we venerate thee, glorifying the brilliant, beautiful, adorable AGNI: the gods have made thee their messenger, the disinterested bearer of oblations, the centre of ambrosia.

5. He is the most diligent offerer of worship who is the presenter of oblations before thou art, and who in two places (the middling and the best) seated with the sacrificial food is (the source of) happiness (to the worshippers): do thou, cognizant (of the objects of devotion), officiate in accordance with his piety, and thus render our rite acceptable to the gods.⁴

³ Tisra ájánirushasah: Ájáni may mean sisters, or mothers: the dawns personified as the parents or sisters of AGNI, as prior or subsequent to the lighting of the sacrificial fire in early morning; why "three" does not appear, unless the three diurnal fires are alluded to: as sisters, a text is quoted by Sáyana assigning them separate offices; Prajám eká rakshaty-úrjam eká, ráshtram eká rakshati, one preserves the people, one vigour, one the kingdom.

² Trinyáyúnshi, three lives, as supported by butter, by fuel, and by the Soma plant.

Súkta VI. (XVIII.)

The deity, Rishi; and metre as before.

1. Be favourably disposed, AGNI, on approaching us (at this rite); be the fulfiller (of our objects) like a friend (to a friend) or parents (to a child): since men are the grievous oppressors of men, do thou consume the foes who come against us.

2. Vex thoroughly, AGNI, our assailing enemies, disappoint the purpose of the adversary who offers not worship: giver of dwellings, who art cognizant (of sacred rites), vex those who have no thought (of pious acts) so that thy undecaying, all-pervading (rays), may ever abide.

3. Desirous (of wealth) I offer to thee, AGNI, an oblation with butter and with fuel for thy speed and invigoration, praising thee with a holy prayer as much as I am able: (I propitiate thee) that thou mayst render this praise resplendent with infinite treasure.

4. Rise up, son of strength, with (thy) splendour when hymned, and bestow abundant food and wealth, AGNI, upon the descendants of VISWAMITRA¹ celebrating thy praise; and grant them exemption from sickness and danger: Encourager of pious works (AGNI), we repeatedly sprinkle thy substance (with milk and butter).

5. Liberal donor (of riches) bestow upon us the most precious of treasures, for therefore is it, AGNI, that thou art kindled: thou hast arms promptly stretched forth, whose (radiant) forms (bestow) wealth on the dwelling of thy fortunate adorer.

Varga XVIII.

¹ Viswámitreshu on the Viswámitras, or the plural may be used honorifically in the sense of the singular.

Súkta VII. (XIX.)

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is GÁTHIN, a son of VISWÁMITRA.

Varga XIX.

1. I have recourse in this sacrifice to AGNI, the invoker and praiser (of the gods), the intelligent, the all-knowing, the unbeguiled; may he, the adorable, sacrifice for us to the gods, (and) accept the precious (offerings) we make for food and riches.

2. Reverencing the gods, I place before thee, AGNI, the brilliant oblation-yielding, food-bestowing, buttercharged (offering); mayst thou (propitiated) by the presented wealth, sanctify (this) sacrifice by your circumambulation.

3. He who is protected, AGNI, by thee, becomes endowed with a most luminous mind: bestow upon him excellent progeny: may we ever be under the power of thee, who art the willing dispenser of riches: glorifying thee (may we be) the receptacles of wealth.

4. The ministring priests have concentered in thee, AGNI, who art divine, many hosts (of flames); do thou bring hither the gods, youngest (of the deities), that thou mayst worship to-day the divine effulgence.

5. Inasmuch as the attendant divine (priests) anoint thee as the invoker of the gods to offer worship in the sacrifice, therefore do thou assent to be our protector on this occasion, and grant abundant food to our descendants.

Súkta VIII. (XX.)

The Visuadevas are the deities of the first and last stanzas; AGNI the deity of the rest; the Rishi and metre as before.

Varga XX.

1. The bearer (of the oblation) invokes with praises at the break of day, AGNI, the dawn, the

2. AGNI, born of sacrifice, three are thy viands;² three thine abiding places;³ three the tongues satisfying (the gods):⁴ three verily are thy forms,⁵ acceptable to the deities, and with them never heedless (of our wishes), be propitious to our praises.

3. Divine AGNI, knowing all that exists and distributor of food, many are the names of thee,⁶ who art immortal, satisfier of all men, friend of the suppliant, the gods have deposited in thee whatever are the delusions of the deluding (Rákshasas).⁷

4. The divine AGNI is the guide of devout men, as the sun is the regulator of the seasons: may he, the observer of truth, the slayer of VRITRA, the ancient, the omniscient, convey his adorer (safe) over all difficulties.

5. I invoke to this rite, Dadhikrá, AGNI, the divine USHAS, BRIHASPATI, the divine SAVITRI, the ASWINS, MITRA and VARUNA, BHAGA, the Vasus, the Rudras, and Ádityas.

¹ This ordinarily means a horse: in this place, according to Sáyana, it implies a certain divinity, Kaşchid-devah.

² Butter, fuel, and the Soma.

³ Three altars, or the three daily sacrifices, or the three worlds.

⁴ The three fires, Gárhapatya, Áhavaníya, and Dahshina.

⁵ The three fires termed Pávaha, Pavamána, and Súchi.

⁶ Bhúríni náma, for námáni: the commentator explains the substantive by tejánsi, splendours.

⁷ Therefore Agni is able to counteract their devices for disturbing sacrifices.

RIG-VEDA SANHITÁ.

Sύκτα (IX.) XXI.

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi, GATHIN; the metre of the first and fourth verses is Trishtubh; of the second and third Anushtubh; and of the fifth Sato-brihati.

Varga XXI.

1. Convey our sacrifice, JÁTAVEDAS, to the immortals, and do thou accept these oblations: AGNI, invoker (of the gods), seated (on the altar) first partake of the drops¹ of the marrow and of the butter.

2. The drops of the marrow charged with butter fall, purifier, to thee, at thine own rite, for the food of the gods: therefore grant us excellent affluence.

3. The drops (of marrow) dripping with butter are offered, AGNI, to thee who art wise: thou the most excellent Rishi art kindled: be the protector of the sacrifice.

4. Irrepressible and powerful AGNI, the drops of marrow and of butter distil for thee; therefore do thou, who art praised by sages, come with great splendour, and be pleased, ever intelligent AGNI, with our oblations.

5. We present to thee the densest marrow that has been extracted for thee from the interior (of the victim):² granter of dwellings, the drops fall for thee upon the skin: distribute them amongst the gods.

¹ Stokáh, commonly meaning any small portion, is explained throughout by vindavah, drops: the hymn, according to Sáyana, is proper to animal sacrifices, pasu-yágam.

² Ojishtham te madhyato meda udbhritam; the medas or rapá is described as the fatty matter that lubricates the abdomen like coagulated butter: it is evidently the same that is described in the Old Testament as "the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards." Levit. iv. 9, &c.

Sύκτα X. (XXII.)

Five fires¹ are the deities; the Rishi as before; the metre of the fourth stanza is Anushtubh; of the rest Trishtubh.

1. This is that AGNI in whom INDRA, desirous (of the oblation), placed the effused Soma for (his own) belly:² thou art praised by us, JATAVEDAS, enjoying the sacrificial food of many sorts like a rapid courser (enjoying many pleasures in battle).³

2. Adorable AGNI, thy radiance that is in the heaven, on the earth, in the plants, in the waters, and wherewith thou overspreadest the firmament,⁴ that, is shining and resplendent, overlooking man (vast as) the, ocean.⁵

² Dadhe jathare, swodare dadhára; but the verb is also applied to yasmin, the fire in which the Soma was placed.

⁴ Agni, severally, as the sun, as sacrificial fire, as the fire that is illuminated by attrition from wood, as submarine fire and as wind.

⁵ Twesha sa bhánur arņavo nrichahsháh, is explained by Sáyaṇa, díptimán eva bhásamano nrinúm drashtá samudravan mahán, shining verily and resplendent the beholder of men great like the ocean: Mahúdhara does not differ materially but explains arṇavah by arṇánsi, udakáni yatra santi, the place Varga XXII.

3. Thou movest, AGNI, to the vapour in heaven;¹ thou congregatest the divinities who are the vital airs² (of the body); thou animatest the waters in the bright region above the sun,³ as well as those that are in the firmament beneath.

4. May the benignant fires termed purishyas,⁴ together with the instruments⁵ (that have dug the pits in which they are placed) combined, accept the sacrifice (and grant us) salutary and abundant food.

5. Grant, AGNI, to the offerer of the oblation earth the giver of cattle, the means of many sacred rites, such that it may long endure: may there be to us sons where the waters are: after this verse the priest adds, idriso yaste bhúnus, tam eveshtahárúpam upadadhámi, such being thy lustre, I place it in the form of the Ishtaka.

² Deván úchishe dhishnyá ye: Muhidhara agrees with Ságana in explaining dhishnyá by práná, or the devas presiding over the vital airs, pránábhimánino deváh: úchishe the latter renders, samacetán haroshi.

³ Rochane parastát súryasya: Rochana is said to be the loku or region where the fiery radiance burns, Rochano námáyam loko yatra ágneyam jyotis tapati, above the sun, súryasyoparishtád.

⁵ Právanebhih sajoshasah, the first, Sáyana explains, mrithhananasádhanabhútair abhryádibhih; abhrya and others, which are the implements for digging the earth: Mahídhara explains it by manánsi, minds, being pleased in mind, manasá prítiyuktáh: his interpretation, however, seems to rest on a fancied etymology, pra-prakarshena vananti-sambhajanti vishayán, what especially apprehend objects of sense. and grandsons, and may thy favour, ΛGNI , be productive of good unto us.¹

SÚKTA XI. (XXIII.)

The deity is AGN1; the Rishis are DEVASRAVAS, and DEVA-VÁTA, sons of Bharata; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the third stanza, where it is Sato-brihatí.

1. Churned (by the friction of the sticks), duly placed in the sacrificial chamber, the young and sage leader of the rite, JÁTAVEDAS, the imperishable AGNI, (blazing) amidst consuming forests, grants us on this occasion ambrosial (food).

2. The two sons of BHARATA, DEVASRAVAS and DE-VAVÁTA, have churned the very powerful and wealthbestowing AGNI: look upon us, AGNI, with vast riches, and be the bringer of food (to us) every day.

3. The ten fingers have generated this ancient (AGNI): praise, DEVASRAVAS, this well-born, beloved (son) of his parents,² generated by DEVAVATA, AGNI, who is the servant of men.

4. I place thee in an excellent spot of earth³ on an auspicious day of days: do thou, AGNI, shine on the frequented⁴ (banks) of the Drishadvatí, Ápayá, and Saraswatí, rivers.

² The two pieces of stick that have been rubbed together by $Devax \acute{a}ta$.

³ Prithivyá iláyáspade, in the foot-mark of the earth in the form of a cow, according to Sáyaņa, that is, on the northern altar.

5. Grant, AGNI, to the offerer of the oblation earth the giver of cattle, the means of many sacred rites, such that it may long endure: may there be to us sons and grandsons, and may thy favour, AGNI, be productive of good unto us.

Sύκτα XII. (XXIV.)

The deity is AGN1; the Rishi VIŞWÁMITRA; the metre of the first verse is Anushtubh; of the rest, Gáyatrí.

1. Repel, AGNI, (hostile) hosts; drive away (all) assailants: insuperable, foe-surpassing, give food to the institutor of this sacrifice.¹

2. AGNI (who art) immortal and who art gratified by oblations, thou art kindled upon the altar: be pleased by this our sacrifice.

3. AGNI, son of strength, vigilant (in the exercise of)² thy energy, take thy seat when invoked on the sacred grass (strewn at) my (sacrifice).

4. AGNI, with all the divine fires, respect the praises of those who in (their) sacrifices are (thy especial) worshippers.

5. Grant, AGNI, ample wealth and progeny to the donor (of the oblation): make us prosperous, possessed of offspring.

Sύκτα XIII. (XXV.)

The deity is AGNI, as before, but INDRA is also included in the fourth verse: the Rishi is VISWAMITRA; the metre Viráj.

1. AGNI, who art omniscient, and the discriminator (of acts), thou art the son of heaven or the son of earth : do thou who art intelligent worship severally the gods on this occasion.

2. The wise AGNI bestows faculties (securing prosperity and descendants); adorning (the world with lustre) he gives (sacrificial food) to the immortals: AGNI, (to whom) many oblations (are offered), bringhither to us the gods.

3. AGNI, the unbewildered, the ruler (of the world), the radiant, associated with vigour and food, illumines the divine immortal parents of all things, heaven and earth.

4. AGNI, do thou and INDRA, gods disdaining not (our rite), come to the sacrifice in the dwelling of the offerer of the libration to drink the Soma juice.

5. AGNI, son of strength, JATAVEDAS the eternal, traversing the inhabited regions with thy protection, thou art kindled in the dwelling of the waters.¹

SUKTA XIV. (XXVI.)

The deity of the first triplet is VAISWÁNARA; of the second, AGNI, with the Maruits; of the two next stanzas, AGNI or Parabrahma; of the ninth, VISWÁMITRA himself, who is the Rishi of all the stanzas except the seventh, which is supposed to be uttered by Brahma, or Agni identified with divine spirit; the metre of the two first triplets is Jagati, of the rest Trishtubh.

1. We of the race of Kusika offering oblations, desirous of wealth, having contemplated him in our minds, invoke with praises the divine VAISWÁNARA, the observer of truth,² the cognizant of heaven, the

Varga XXVI.

¹ That is as lightning in the firmament.

² Anushatya, from anu and satya: in this and similar compounds which are of frequent recurrence, the notion, at least according to the Scholiast, is not that of observing truth in the bountiful, the charioteer, the frequenter (of sacrifices).

2. We invoke thee for our own protection and for the devotions of mankind, the radiant AGNI, VAISWÁ-NARA, the illuminator of the firmament, the adorable lord of sacred rites,¹ the wise, the hearer (of supplications), the guest (of man), the quick-moving.

3. VAISWÁNARA is kindled in every age by the Kusikas as a neighing foal (is nourished) by its mother: may that AGNI, vigilant amongst the immortals, give us wealth with excellent offspring and good horses.

4. May the swift fires combined with the vigorous winds proceed to the pure (region of the water), uniting the drops (of rain): the Maruts irresistible, all-knowing, agitate the copious-shedding clouds.

5. The fire-beautified, all-agitating Maruts: we seek their fierce radiance for protection: they, the sons of RUDRA, the bountiful Maruts, whose form is the rain, are loud like roaring lions.

6. We solicit the might of the Maruts, the irradiation of AGNI with solemn prayers in every assembly and company (of worshippers); those Maruts who have party-coloured steeds, who are dispensers of unfuiling wealth, firm (of purpose), and frequenters of sacrifices.

7. I, AGNI, am by birth endowed with knowledge abstract, but of keeping faith with the sacrificer, by giving him the desired recompence to which he is justly entitled.

¹ BRIHASPATI, explained here Brihato yajnasya patim, the lord of the great sacrifice; tatpálakatayá swáminam, lord through protecting it. of all that exists :' clarified butter is my eye: ambrosia is my mouth: I am the living breath of threefold nature, the measure of the firmament, eternal warmth: I am also the oblation.²

8. AGNI, thoroughly comprehending the light that is to be understood by the heart, has purified himself (by the three) purifying (forms); he has made himself most excellent treasure by (these) self-manifesta-

[•]² This is a somewhat mystical description of the universality of AGNI in the double capacity of the enjoyer and enjoyed, the food and the feeder, and in the three forms of fire, air, and the sun, presiding over earth, mid heaven, and heaven: the eye of Agni is the light of all, which light is fed by oblations of butter: ambrosia is the reward of pious acts or enjoyment of heaven and the like, which is procurable through oblations to fire, as if through his mouth or countenance, amritam me ásan: arhastridhátuh; arha is explained jagatsrashtá pránah, world-creating vital air, which, becoming threefold, is Váyu, in the firmament, Agni, on earth, and Aditya as the source of eternal warmth and life. Sáyana furnishes another and more simple illustration of some of the phraseology, or, as the eye lights up the world, so ghee thrown upon the fire causes it to burn fiercer and dispense more light: amrita he explains also by prabhá, light, light is in my countenance: tridhátu he refers to the three vital airs termed prána, apána, and vyána : the identity with the air and the sun is similarly explained : the verse occurs in the Yajush xviii. 66, where Mahidhara interprets it differently: according to him, it is the yajamána who identifies himself with Agni, saying, I am by birth, Agni, or of the form of Agni, Agni-rúpa, the lord of all that is born, the sacrifice (arka), the three vcdas, the measure of the water, the eternal sun: ghee is the eye; that is, I behold the offerer of ghee on the fire; I convert the oblation that is put into my mouth into ambrosia: thus there is no duality between Agni and the individual, evamátmanyagnyadwaitam.

tions, and has thence contemplated heaven and earth.¹

9. Heaven and earth be kind to that sage² who is as it were a many-channelled and inexhaustible stream (of knowledge); the parent (of his disciples), the collater of holy texts, rejoicing on the lap of his parents, whose words are truth.

SÚKTA XV. (XXVII.)

The deity is AGNI, or of the first verse, RITU, or the personified season; VISWAMITRA, is the Rishi; the metre is Gáyátrí.

1. The months, the half months, (the gods) who are the receivers of oblations, with the butter-yielding kine, preside over your rite:³ the sacrificer, desirous of prosperity, worships the gods.

¹ Having by self-contemplation recognised his identity with the three manifestations, Agni, Váyu, and $\dot{A}ditya$, he comes to know his identity with the universe, as by the text, átmani vignáte sarvan idam vignátam bhavati, the self being known, all this (universe) is known.

² That is, Viswámitra himself: in consequence of his discovery that Vaiswánara is Para-brahma the supreme spirit: as it would be scarcely decorous to say so much in his own commendation this stanza may be ascribed to Brahma.

³ Pra vo vájá abhidyavo havishmanto ghritáchyá: the scholiast explains vájá by másáh, months, and abhidyavah by arddhamásáh, half months: havishmanta, literally, having the havis or oblation of butter, he considers an epithet of deváh, gods, upon the authority of the Taittiríya; but they also explain it by pasavah, animals yielding milk, of which the havis is made, in which the Vájasaneyis concur: Ghritáchi he renders Gau, but the Vájasaneya is quoted for its meaning, Sruk, a ladle: there is no verb, but pra is regarded as implying prabhavantí, all these preside over your sacrificing: the explanation of Sáyana is that of the Taittiríya Bráhmana, but the line is obscure, the words in the senses given are unusual, and the whole is elliptical.

2. I worship with praise the wise AGNI, the accomplisher of sacrifice, the possessor of happiness, the repository of wealth.

3. May we offering oblations effect the detention of thee who art divine (until the completion of the rite), and may we (thereby) overcome all animosities.¹

4. We solicit that AGNI, who is being kindled at the sacrifice, the purifier, the adorable, whose hair is flame.

5. AGNI, the bright-shining, the immortal, the cleanser with clarified butter, the fitly-invoked, the bearer of the oblation in the sacrifice.

6. The exorcisers² (of the demons), lifting up their ladles, and offering sacrifice, have called upon AGNI by this ceremony for their protection.

7. The offerer of the oblation, the divine, immortal, AGNI, comes first (at the ceremony) directing solemnities by his experience.³

8. The mighty AGNI is placed (foremost by the gods) in battle; he is brought forward reverently at holy rites; for he is the sage fulfiller of the sacrifice.

9. He who has been made by the sacred rite, the choice (of the worshipper), who comprehends (within himself) the germ of all creatures, and whom the daughter of DAKSHA (receives) as the parent of the world).4

² Sabúdhah, repelling the disturbers of sacred rites by repeating the mantra or charm for their destruction, is Sayana's explanation, rakshoghnamantrochcháranena tadvishayabádháh.

³ Múyayá, usually illusion or guile: it is here explained karmavishayajuánam, knowledge of the objects of sacred rites.

⁴ Dakshasya pitaram taná is explained by Sáyana as

10. AGNI, strength-engendered, $I_{L}\dot{\Lambda}^{1}$ (the daughter) of DAKSHA has sustained thee, the desirable, the resplendent, and longing (for the oblation).

Varga XXX.

11. The wise (priests) performers (of the ceremony) kindle with oblations for the due celebration of the rite, AGNI, the regulator (of all), the sender of the rain.

12. I adore at this sacrifice AGNI the grandson of (sacrificial) food,² shining above in the firmament, the creation of the wise.³

13. AGNI, who is to be worshipped with praise and with prostration, the dispeller of darkness, the beautiful, the showerer (of benefits) is kindled.

14. The offerers of oblations glorify that Λ_{GNI} who is the showerer (of benefits) and is the bearer of the offerings to the gods as a horse (bears his rider to his home).

SÚKTA XVI. (XXVIII.)

The deity and Rishi are as before; the metre of the third stanza is Ushnih; of the fourth Trishtubh; of the fifth Jagati; of the rest Gayatri.

1. AGNI, by whom all is known, who rewardest pious acts with wealth, accept our cakes offered with butter at the morning worship.

Varga XXXI.

2. The cakes and butter are dressed, AGNI, and verily prepared for thee: accept them youngest (of the gods).

3. Eat, AGNI, the cakes and butter offered as the day disappears: thou, son of strength, art stationed (by us) at the sacrifice.

4. Wise JATAVEDAS accept the cakes and butter offered in this sacrifice at the mid-day rite; prudent (worshippers), withhold not at solemn coremonies the portion of thee who art mighty.

5. Be pleased, A_{GNI} , son of strength, with the cakes and butter offered at the third (daily sacrifice), and do thou (propitiated) by praise convey the precious imperishable and awakening (oblation)² to the immortal gods.

6. AGNI who art JATAVEDAS and art thriving upon oblations, accept the cakes and butter as the day disappears.

SÚKTA XVII. (XXIX).

The deity is AGN1, except in the fifth verse, where the officiating priest is supposed to take his place; the Rishi is Viswámitra: the metre of the first, fourth, tenth, and twelfth stanzas, is Anushtubh; of the eighth, eleventh, fourteenth, and fifteenth, Jayati, and of the rest Trishtubh.

1. This, the apparatus of attrition is ready;¹ the generation (of the flame) is ready; take up this (stick) the protectress of mankind, and let us churn the fire as has been done of old.

2. JATAVEDAS has been deposited in the two sticks as the embryo is deposited in pregnant women: AGNI is to be adored day by day by vigilant men laden with oblations.

3. Let the intelligent priest place the lower of the sticks with the face upwards, the upper (with the surface) downwards, so that quickly impregnated it may generate the showerer (of benefits) AGN1: then the bright blazing son of $IL\Lambda^2$ whose light dissipates the darkness is born of the wood of attrition.

4. AGNI who art JÁTAVEDAS, we place thee upon the earth in the centre, in the place of $ILA,^3$ for the purpose of receiving the oblation.

² The fire of the Altar.

³ Ilúyaspade nábhú prithivyáh adhi; thatis, in the middle of the northern altar: this and the preceding occur in the Yajush, xxxiv. 14, 15: the passage is also quoted in the Aitareya Bráhmana, Panch. 1. Adhy. 5, and similarly explained in the commentary.

VargaXXXII.

¹ Astidam adhimanthanam asti prajananam hritam: Adhimanthana is the stick, the string, and the like placed upon the two pieces of wood to assist in their attrition: Prajananam may have its general sense of begetting, or it denotes a tuft of dry grass used to catch and communicate the flame. Sáma-Veda, I. 79.

5. Conductors of the rite, produce by attrition the far-seeing, single-minded, intelligent, immortal, radiant-limbed AGNI: generate him, leaders (of the solemnity), in the first place the chief standard of the sacrifice, who is the source of felicity.

6. When they rub (the sticks) with their arms the radiant AGNI bursts forth from the wood like a fleet courser, and like the many-coloured car of the Aswins unresisted in its course, AGNI spreads wide around consuming stones and trees.

7. As soon as born AGNI, shines intelligent, swiftmoving, skilled in rites, praised by the wise, and liberal in gifts; (and it is he) whom the gods have held as the bearer of oblations at sacrifices, adorable and all knowing.

8. Offerer of oblations sit down in thine own sphere,¹ for thou art cognizant (of holy acts), and station the institutor of the ceremony in the chief place of the sacred rite:² cherisher of the gods, worship the gods, AGNI, and bestow abundant food on the founder of the sacrifice.

9. Produce, friends, smoke,³ the showerer (of benefits); indefatigable persist in the contest with (AGNI):

² Sádayá yajnam sukritasya yonai; yajna, according to Sáyana, is put for the yajamána, yajnasya kartáram, who is to be stationed uttamalohé, in the best place, or that which enjoys the fruit of the holy rite, sukritajanyopabhogasya stháne: Mahídhara says, sukrita yonih means the hrishnájina, the black antelope-hide.

the heroic AGNI is able to encounter hosts, and by him the gods overcome their foes.

10. This in every season, AGNI, is thy place,¹ whence, as soon as generated, thou hast ever shone: knowing that to be so, AGNI, there abide, and thrive by our praises.

11. When (existing) as an embryo (in the wood), AGNI is called Tanúnapát;² when he is generated (he is called) the Asura-destroying Naráṣansa; when he has displayed (his energy) in the material firmament, Mátariṣwan;³ and the creation of the wind is in his rapid motion.

12. AGNI, who art pronounced by reverential attrition, and deposited with reverential care, and who art far-seeing, render our rites (exempt from defects), and worship the gods (on behalf) of the devout worshipper.

13. Mortals have begotten the immortals, the undecaying (AGNI), the devourer of oblations, the conveyance (by which they cross over sin), the ten sister fingers intertwined proclaim him born as if it was a male (infant).⁴

² He who does not consume the persons of the worshippers yashtrinám tanuh, sariráni na pátayati, na dahati, or it may have the meaning previously given, the grandson of the waters.

³ Who breathes, swasiti, in the maternal atmosphere, mátari.

⁴ When the priests and assistants behold the flame break forth they clap their hands and make sounds of rejoicing, like the parents of a new-born son.

Varga XXXIV. 14. AGNI, who has seven ministering priests, shines eternally: when he has blazed upon the bosom and lap of his mother (earth), he is vociferous (with delight): day by day he never slumbers after he is born from the interior of the (spark) emitting wood.

15. The Kusikas, the first-born of Brahmá, armed against enemies like the energies of the Maruts, comprehend the universe: they have uttered the prayer accompanied by the oblation: they have one by one lighted AGNI in this dwelling.

16. AGNI, offerer of oblations, cognizant of rites, inasmuch as we have recourse to thee to-day in this progressing sacrifice, therefore do thou steadily convey (the offering to the gods), or tranquilly be at rest, and knowing (the purport of our acts), and wise (in all respects), approach (and accept) the Soma libration.

1. The bearers of the libations desire thee; thy friends pour forth the Soma juice; they offer copious oblations: (supported by thec) they endure patiently the calumny of men, for who is so renowned as thou art.

3. Showerer (of benefits, who art) INDRA, the wearer of the helmet.¹ the professor of opulence, the conveyer (of men beyond evil),² the leader of the numerous troop (of the Maruts), the achiever of many great deeds, the devastator of hostile (regions), the terror of thy foes, where are those heroic deeds (which thou hast performed) against the mortal (Asuras) when opposed (by them in battle).

4. Thou alone casting down the firmly-footed (Asuras) proceedest, destroying the Vritras, and obedient to thy command the heaven and earth and the mountains stood as if immoveable.

5. Thou alone, when invoked by many, and the slayer of VRITRA by thy prowess, didst say firmly (to the gods), fear not! INDRA, endowed with opulence, vast is thy grasp, wherewith thou hast seized these unbounded regions, heaven and earth.

6. Let (thy car), INDRA, drawn by thy horses (rush) downwards (upon the Asuras); let thy destroying thunder-bolt fall upon thine enemies; slay those that assail in front or in rear, or that fly (from the combat): make the universe (the abode of) truth; (let such power) be concentred in thee.

³ These two verses, if rightly interpreted, are wholly unconnected with the subject of the Sukta, and come in without any apparent object: they are very obscure, and are only made (provision) for her young, as previously (promised): then the sure-footed (animal), first recognising their lowing, proceeded, and came to the presence of the imperishable kine.¹

7. 10. Contemplating their own (cattle) giving milk to their former progeny (the Angirasas) were delighted; their shouts spread through heaven and earth; they replaced the recovered kine in their places, and stationed guards over the cows.

11. INDRA, the slaver of VRITRA, let loose the milch kine, assisted by the Maruts, born for his aid, and entitled to praises and oblations, and the excellent (cows) contributing abundantly to sacred offerings, and yielding the butter of libation, milked for him sweet (sacrificial) food.

12. They (the Angirasas) performing pious acts made for their protector a spacious and splendid abode which they celebrated : seated (at the sacrifice) and supporting with the pillar (of the firmament) the parents (of all things heaven and earth), they established the rapid INDRA on high (in heaven).

13. Inasmuch as our devout praise has appointed a thriving ruler for the regulation of heaven and earth, to whom faultless and appropriate commendations (are due), therefore are all the energies of INDRA spontaneously exerted.

14. I wish, INDRA, for thy friendship, and (the exercise of) thy powers: many horses come to the slayer of VRITRA : we offer to thee, sage, great praise and oblations: consider thyself, MAGHAVÁN as our protector.1

20. Thy purifying waters have been spread abroad : fill their beds for our welfare : riding on thy car, defend us from the malevolent, and make us quickly the conquerors of cattle.

21. INDRA, the slayer of VRITRA, the lord of herds, has discovered the cattle, and by his radiant effulgence driven away the black (Asuras), and indicating with veracity (to the Angirasas) the honest (kine), he shut the gate upon all their own cattle.¹

3. These are the Maruts, INDRA, who, worshipping thy prowess, augment thy withering force (by their aid): attended by the Rudras, drink, wielder of the thunderbolt, and handsome-chinned, at the noon-day sacrifice.

4. Those were the Maruts who were the strength of INDRA, and gently encouraged him; animated by whom he pierced the vital part of VRITRA, fancying himself invulnerable.

5. Phased with the sacrifice, as if it was that of MANU, drink, INDRA, the Soma juice, for the sake of perpetual vigour: come, lord of the tawny steeds, with the adorable Maruts, and with the traversers (of the air): send down the waters (of the firmament) to (blend with) the waters of the earth.³

7. Therefore we sacrifice with reverence to the vast and mighty INDRA, who is adorable, undecaying, young; whose magnitude the unbounded heaven and earth have not measured, nor can measure.

8. All the gods cannot detract from the many glorious exploits, and pious works of INDRA: he who has upheld earth, and heaven, and the firmament, and who, the performer of great deeds, has engendered the sun and the dawn.

9. Doer of no wrong, such was thy true greatness, that as soon as born, thou hast quaffed the Soma juice: neither the heavens, nor days, nor months, nor years, resist the force of thee who art mighty.

10. As soon as born in the highest heaven, thou hast quaffed, INDRA, the Soma juice for thy exhilaration; and when thou hadst pervaded the heaven and earth, thou becamest the primary artificer (of creation).

11. INDRA, from whom many are born; thou who art vigorous hast slain AHI, enveloping the slumbering water, and confiding in his provess: yet the heaven apprehended not thy greatness as thou remainedst concealing the earth by one of (thy) flames.¹

12. This our sacrifice, INDRA, is thy augmentation, for the rite in which the Soma is effused is acceptable to thee: do thou who art deserving of worship protect the worshipper by (the efficacy of) the worship, and may this sacrifice strengthen thy thunderbolt for the slaying of AIII.

Varga XI.

13. The worshipper, by his conservatory sacrifice, has made INDRA present: may I bring him to my presence to obtain new wealth, him who has been exalted by praises, whether ancient, mediæval, or recent.

14. When the thought of glorifying INDRA entered my mind, then I gave birth (to his praises): may 1 laud him before encountering distant (evil) days, whereby he may guide us beyond sin; for those on both sides of us invoke him, as (those on either bank of a river hail) a passenger in a boat.

15. The vase is filled for him (with Soma); welcome INDRA: I pour it out for thee to drink, as a water-carrier (pours water) from his bag: may the grateful Soma juice flow in reverence round INDRA for his exhilaration.

16. Invoked of many, the deep ocean arrests thee not, nor do the accompanying mountains (stay thee); and therefore, summoned by thy friends, thou hast repressed the strong flame abiding in the abyss.¹

17. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

paced in battle: arise, and, all-knowing INDRA, mounting on thy firm and easy chariot, come to the libation.

5. Let not other sacrifices attract thy vigorous and smooth backed-steeds: disregarding others, come perpetually hither, that we may propitiate the sufficiently with effused Soma librious.

6. This Soma libation is for thee: come down, and, well disposed, drink of it unceasingly: seated on the sacred grass at this sacrifice, take, INDRA, this (libation) into your belly.¹

7 The sacred grass is strewn for thee; the Soma juice, INDRA, is poured forth; the grain wherewith to feed thy horses is prepared; the oblations are offered to thee abiding on the sacred grass, who art praised of many, and (art) the showerer (of benefits), attended by the Maruts.

8. The leaders (of the ceremony) have prepared for thee, INDRA, this (libation), sweetened with milk, the stones, the water: beautiful INDRA, who art favourably disposed, and who art wise, knowing well (the worship) that is according to thy peculiar paths,² come and drink of this libation.

9. Associated, INDRA, with those Maruts with whom thou hast shared in the librion, who encouraged thee (in battle), and are thy attendant troop, drink, desirous (of the beverage), the Soma juice, along with them, with the tongue of AGNI.

10. Adorable INDRA, drink of the effused libation, either by thine own effort, or through the tongue of AGNI; drink it, SAKRA, offered by the hand of the Adhwaryu, or accept the presentation of the oblation (from the hand) of the Hotri.

11. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat; the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

SUKTA VII. (XXXVI.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. INDRA, who art constantly seeking (association) with your allies (the Maruts) accept this, our offering, (made) for the grant (from thee of riches); for thou art one who grows with augmenting energies, through reiterated libations, and hast been renowned for glorious deeds.

2. To INDRA have libations been presented in the days of old, whereby he hath become illustrious, the regulator of time, the granter of desires:¹ accept, INDRA, these prescribed (offerings), and drink of this auspicious (beverage), expressed by the stones.²

[!] Ribhur ychih, vrishaparvá viháyáh, with which (libations) he is Ribhu, or, as the scholiast explains it, díptah, enlightened; also vrishaparvá, or he on whom the rainy season, and other divisions of time, parváni, depend; or, in fact, time itself, kálátmakah; and viháyá, who abandons or resigns to those who ask any thing, that which they desire: the two first, Ribhu and Vrishaparvá, may also be considered as proper names or appellations of INDRA.

² Vrishadhútasya vrishnah, shew the usual predilection for, vrish, showering, raining: the literal acceptation of these terms would be of rain-shaken rainer, but the second is explained.

3. Drink, INDRA, and thrive: thine are these (present) librions, as were the primitive librions: do thou, who art adorable, drink to day the recent librions, as thou drankest those of old.

4. The great INDRA, the victorious in battle, the defier of foes: his fierce strength and resolute vigour are exerted: verily the earth does not contain him, neither (does the heaven), when the Soma librations exhibiting the lord of the tawny steeds.

5. The mighty, fierce, auspicious INDRA, the showerer (of benefits), augments (in power) as he is animated for heroic (acts) by praise: his cattle are generated givers of food: many are his donations.¹

Varga XX.

6. As the rivers pursue their course, the waters rush to the ocean, like the drivers of cars (to a goal), so the vast INDRA (hastens) from his dwelling (in the firmament), when the humble Soma libration propitiates him.²

7. As the rivers are solicitous (to mix) with the ocean, so (are the priests) bearing the efficient libration the Soma, that bestows swarga, and such other benefits, and the first grávabhir-abhishutam, juice expressed by the stones used for the purpose; the same idea of their being showerers, or bestowers of blessings, suggesting this appellation of them.

¹ Dakshiná asya púrvíh: according to Sáyaņa these are both epithets of gácah; bahvyas-tá gávo dakshináh prajáyante, those many cows, givers (of milk and the like) are born; but dakshiná more usually means the fee or present to Brahmans or priests at sacrifices.

² According to the scholiast, the comparison is to this effect, as small rivers and scanty waters contribute to the vast occan, so the Soma juice, however insignificant, contributes to the gratification of the great INDRA. to INDRA: holding in their hands they milk the Soma plant, and purify the sweet juices (as they fall) in drops through the purifying filters.

⁹ The stomach of INDRA (is) as capacious (a receptacle) of Soma, as a lake,¹ for he has partaken of it at many sacrifices; and inasmuch as he has eaten the first (sacrificial) viands, he has been the slayer of VRITRA, and has shared the Soma (with the gods).

9. Quickly, INDRA, bring (wealth); let no one impede thee, for we know thee to be the lord of wealth, of all treasures: and since, INDRA, thy greatness is munificence, therefore, lord of the tawny steeds, grant us (riches).

10. Opulent INDRA, receiver of the spiritless Soma juice, give to us riches in universally desired quantity; grant us to live a hundred years; bestow upon us, INDRA with the handsome chin, numerous posterity.

11. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat; the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

SÚKTA VIII. (XXXVII.)

Deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Gáyatrí, except in the last verse, in which it is Anushtubh.

Varga XXI.

1. We excite thee, INDRA, to exert the strength that destroys VRITRA, and overpowers hostile armies.

2. May (thy) praisers, INDRA, who art worshipped in a hundred rites,² direct thy mind and thine eyes towards us.

¹ Hradá iva hukshayah somadhánáh; bellies, udaráni, is used in the plural, to intimate capaciousness for holding the Soma.

² Satakratu is a name of Indra, or it may be used as an epithet,

3. We recite, INDRA, who art worshipped in a hundred rites, (thy many) names in all our hymns for strength to resist our foes.

4. We repeat the praise of the many-lauded INDRA, the supporter of man, invested with a hundred glories.

5. I invoke thee, INDRA, who art invoked of many for the slaying of VRITRA, and the granting of food (as the spoil) of battle.

6. Be victorious, INDRA, in battles: we solicit thee, object of many rites, to destroy VRITRA.

7 Overcome, INDRA, those who are adverse to us in riches, in battle, in hostile hosts, in strength.

8. Drink, INDRA, object of many rites, for our preservation, the most invigorating, fame-conferring, sleep-dispelling,¹ Soma juice.

9. INDRA, object of many rites, I regard the organs of sense that exist in the five races (of beings dependent) on thee, as thine.

10. May the abundant (sacrificial) food (we offer) reach thee, INDRA: grant us wealth that may not easily be surpassed: we augment thy vigour (by our offerings).

11. Come to us SAKRA, whether from afar or nigh; whatever, INDRA, wielder of the thunder-bolt, be thy region, come from thence hither.

Sύκτα ΙΧ. (XXXVIII.)

The deity is INDRA, associated in the last six verses with VARUNA; the Rishi is PRAJÁPATI son of VISWÁMITRA, or the son of VACH of the race of VISWAMITRA, either or both : or it may be VISWAMITRA alone : the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga XIII.

1. Repeat (to INDRA) pious praise, as a carpenter (planes the wood), and engaging (zealously in sacred rites), as a quick horse bearing well his burthen:¹ endowed with intelligence, and reflecting upon the future acts acceptable (to INDRA), I desire to behold the sages (who have gone to heaven).²

2. Ask of the lords (of earth, the holy teachers), the birth of those deified sages, who with well-governed minds, and diligent in sacred rites, fabricated the heavens: and may these propitiatory (praises), augmenting (thy power) and rapid as the wind, reach thee at this solemn rite.

4. They all ornamented (INDRA) standing (in his car); and, clothed in beauty, he proceeds self-radiant: wonderful are the acts of that showerer (of benefits), the influencer (of consciences),¹ who omniform, presides over the ambrosial (waters).

5. The showerer (of benefits), the preceder and elder (of the gods), generated (the waters): they are the abundant allayers of his thirst: sovereign INDRA and VARUNA, grandsons of heaven, you possess the wealth (that is to be acquired) by the rites of the splendid sacrifice.

6. Royal INDRA and VARUNA, embellish the three universal sacrifices (and make them.) full (of all requisites) for this celebration: thou hast gone to the rite, for I have beheld in my mind, at this solemnity, the Gandharbas with hair (waving) in the wind.²

² Gandharbhán váyuhesán; the Gandharbas, according to the scholiast, are the guardians of the Soma, Somarahshakán: he quotes the Taittiríyahas for the specification of similar beings, although the particular name is not given: Swánabhráján, bambháre, hasta, suhasta, krisánah, ete vah somakrayanás, tán rakshadhwam ma vo dabhan. 8. No one (distinguishes) my golden lustre from that of this SAVITRI,² in which (lustre) he has taken refuge: gratified by pious praise, he cherishes the all-fostering heaven and earth as a woman cherishes her offspring.

9. You two secure the great felicity of the ancient (worshipper), that which is happiness in heaven: do you (therefore) be ever about us: all those who exercise illusion,³ contemplate the manifold exploits of the everlasting and blandly-speaking INDRA.

10. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

¹ This stanza is singularly obscure, and is very imperfectly explained by the commentators.

² Asya savitur nahir me: Savitri, according to the scholiast, here means INDRA, sarvasya jagato antaryámitayá prerayitur Indrasya, of INDRA the impeller, through his being the internal pervader of the whole world: this verse is little less unintelligible than the preceding.

³ Visue máyinah, the scholiast explains, surve deváh, all the gods: máyá sometimes significs wisdom, intelligence, so that it might be rendered also the wise: in the ordinary sense of máyá it may mean all the deceivers, or Asuras: the whole of this Súkta is very obscure.

ANUVAKA IV.

SÚKTA I. (XXXIX.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre the same.

1. The praise that is prompted by the heart, and is uttered by the reciters of sacred hymns, proceeds to the presence of the lord, and is his awakener when repeated at the sacrifice: be cognizant INDRA, of this praise, which is born for thee.

2. That praise which is begotten before (the dawn) of day is the awakener of INDRA, when repeated at the (morning) sacrifice: auspicious and clothed in white raiment¹ is this our ancient and paternal hymn.²

3. The parent of twins (the dawn), has brought forth the twin (Aswins) on this occasion, (in the praise of whom) the tip of my tongue remains tremulous: they two, the dispersers of darkness, combine, assuming bodies as a pair (of twins) at the origin of the day.³

4. There are no revilers amongst men of those who were our progenitors and combatants for (the recovery of) the cattle; for the mighty INDRA, the achiever of great deeds, liberated for them the numerous herds.

6. INDRA discovered the sweet milk secreted in the milch-cow, and thereupon, brought forth (from their concealment) the herd (of cattle) having feet and having hoofs: munificent (in gifts), he held in his right hand that which had been hidden in the cavern, which was concealed in the waters.²

7. The discriminating (INDRA) has separated the light from the darkness: may we, removed afar from evil, be ever in security: INDRA, drinker of the Soma juice, who art nourished by the beverage, be pleased with these praises of thy worshipper who is the discomfiter of his foes.

8. May light be spread throughout heaven and earth for (the promotion of the) sacrifice: may we be far removed from exceeding ill: Vasus, who are to be rendered present (by pious praise), bestow increasing affluence upon the man who is liberal of gifts.

9. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

Súkta II. (XL.)

The deity and Rishi as before, the metre is $Gáyatri.^1$

1. We invoke thee, INDRA,¹ showerer (of benefits), to the effused libration: do thou drink of the exhilarating beverage.

2. INDRA, the praised of many, accept the effused Soma juice, the conferrer of knowledge: drink; imbibe² the satisfactory draught.

3. INDRA, lord of men, who art praised (by the devout) and aided by the gods, perfect this our sacrifice in which the oblation is offered (to thee).

4. INDRA, lord of the virtuous, these effused Soma juices, exhilarating and brilliant, proceed to thy abode.³

5. Receive, INDRA, into thy stomach this excellent

¹ The commentary here gives various etymologies of the name INDRA, taken from Yásha and the Taittiríya áranyaha, viz. he who sports (ramate) in the Soma juice (indu); or he who shows this (idam) universe; or he who divides (drináti), or gives (dadáti), or takes (dadháti), or causes to worship (dárayati), or possesses (dhárayatí) spirituous liquor (irám), or who runs or passes (dravati) the Soma juice (indau); or kindles or animates (inddhe) living beings; or he who beholds the pure spirit, or Brahma, which is this (idam) universe : the grammarians derive it from idi to rule with the affix ran.

Varga II.

6. INDRA, who art glorified with praise, drink this our libation, for thou art sprinkled with the drops of the exhilarating (draught); the (sacrificial) food is verily purified by thee.

7. The brilliant and imperishable (Soma juice), offered by the worshipper, encompasses INDRA: having drank of the libration, he increases (in vigour).

8. Slayer of VRITRA, whether from nigh or from afar, come to us, accept these our praises.

9. Whether thou art called from nigh or from afar, or from mid space, come hither, INDRA, from thence.

SUKTA III. (XLI).

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga III.

1. INDRA wielder of the thunderbolt, come to me with thy horses, when invoked to drink the Soma at our (sacrifice).

2. The invoking priest is seated at the proper season; the sacred grass woven together has been spread; the stones are placed in contact for the morning (libation).

3. Bearer of prayers,¹ these prayers are offered (by us): sit down on the sacred grass: partake, hero, of the oblation.

4. Slayer of VRITRA, INDRA, who art gratified by praise, be pleased with these our praises and prayers at our (daily) sacrifices.

¹ Brahmaváháh, stotráni vahati, who bears or receives praises; or it may mean brahmaná stotrena prápyate, who is attained by praise or prayer. 5. Our praises caress the mighty INDRA, the drinker of the Soma juice, as cows lick their calves.

6. Be exhibitated bodily (by drinking) of the libration which we offer for the sake of ample wealth: expose not thine adorer to reproach.

7. Devoted,¹ INDRA, to thee, and offering oblations, we glorify thee, giver of dwellings: do thou be favourably disposed to us.

8. Lover of horses, INDRA, loosen not your steeds whilst far from us, but come (with them) to our presence: enjoyer of the offering, be exhilarated at this sacrifice.

9. May thy long-maned and sleek-coated steeds bring thee down in thy easy chariot to sit upon the sacred grass.

SÚKTA IV. (XLII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Come, INDRA, to this our effused Soma juice mixed with milk and eurds, with thy horses (yoked to thy car), which is favourably disposed to us.

2. Come, INDRA, to the exhibitrating (Soma) expressed by the stones, and poured upon the sacred grass : drink of it to satiety, for there is plenty.

3. May my praises, addressed from hence and in this manner, attain INDRA, to bring him hither to drink the Soma juice.

4. We invoke INDRA to this rite with prayers to drink the Soma juice: may he, repeatedly invoked, come hither.

5. INDRA, these Soma juices are poured out: take them, SATAKRATU, into thy stomach: thou who art rich in (abundant) food.

6. Far-seeing INDRA, we know thee to be victorious and winner of wealth in battles; therefore we ask of thee riches.

7. Having come (to our rite) drink, INDRA, this our (libation), effused by the stones, and mixed with milk and curds, and with barley.

8. I offer to thee, INDRA, this Soma juice for thy drinking, to be taken into its proper receptacle: may it delight thy heart.

9. Descendants of Kusa, desirons of protection, we invoke thee, INDRA, who art of old, to drink of the libration.

SUKTA V. (XLIII.)

The deity and Rishi are the same, the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga VII.

1. Descend to us riding in thy car, for verily thine is this ancient libration: unharness thy beloved and friendly (horses) near to the sacred grass, for these offerers of the oblation present it to thee.

2. Passing by multitudes, come hither, noble INDRA, with thy steeds, (to receive) our benedictions; for these praises, INDRA, composed by the devout, invoke thee, propitiating thy friendship.

3. Divine INDRA, come quickly with thy steeds, and well pleased, to our food-augmenting sacrifice: offering (sacred) food with butter, I invoke thee verily with praises in the chamber of the sweet libations.

Varga VI.

4. May these two vigorous friendly burthenbearing and well-limbed steeds convey thee hither, where, INDRA, approving of the ceremony (in which the offering) is parched grain, may hear as a friend the praises of his friend (the worshipper.)

5. Possessor of wealth, accept of the spirit-less Soma juice; make, me the protector, or rather a monarch of men;¹ make me verily a holy sage, a drinker of the libation; make me verily the possessor of imperishable wealth.

6. May thy mighty horses, INDRA, harnessed (in thy car), and alike exhilarated (by the beverage), bring thee to our presence, for they are the destroyers (of the foes) of the showerer (of benefits), and kindly rubbed by his hand they traverse, going quickly, the regions of the sky, making them as it were twofold.²

7. Drink, INDRA, of the bountiful (libation) expressed by the beneficent (stones); that which the falcon³ has borne to thee desiring it, in whose exhibitration thou castest down (opposing) men, in whose exhibitration thou hast set open the clouds.

8. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the

SÚKTA VI. (XLIV.)

The deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Brihatí.

Varga VIII.

1. May this desirable and gratifying Soma expressed by the stones, be, INDRA, for thee: ascend the verdant chariot, and with thy tawny (steeds) come to $us.^1$

2. Desiring (the Soma), thou honourest the dawn; desiring the Soma, thou hast lighted up the sun; knowing and discriminating (all our wishes), lord of the tawny steeds, thou augmentest upon us all (sorts of) prosperity.

3. INDRA has upheld the yellow-rayed heaven; the verdant tinted earth; there is abundant pasture (for

4. The azure-coloured showerer (of benefits), illumes as soon as born, the whole luminous region: the lord of the tawny steeds holds in his hands the yellow weapon, the destroying thunderbolt.

5. INDRA has uncovered the desirable whitecoloured, fast-flowing Soma, effused by the expressing stones, and overlaid with the shining (milk and other liquids), in like manner as when, borne by his tawny steeds, he rescued the cattle.¹

SÚKTA VII. (XLV.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre are the same.

1. Come, INDRA, with thy exulting peacock-haired² steeds; let no persons detain thee, as (fowlers) throwing snares catch a bird: pass them by (quickly) as (travellers cross) a desert.³

2. The devourer of VRITRA, the fracturer of the cloud, the sender of the waters, the demolisher of cities, INDRA, the destroyer of powerful enemies, has mounted his chariot to urge his horses to our presence.

3. Thou cherishest the celebrator of the pious rite as (thou fillest) the deep seas (with water); or as a careful herdsman (cherishes) the cows: (thou im-

SÚKTA VIII. (XLVI.)

The deity and Rishi are the same; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. Vast are the energies of thee, INDRA, the warrior, (the showerer of benefits), the lord of wealth, the fierce; who art (both) young and old; the overcomer of foes, the undecaying, the wielder of the thunderbolt, and who art mighty and renowned.

2. Adorable and powerful INDRA, thou art great and magnificent, overcoming adversaries by thy prowess: thou alone art lord of all the world: do thou war (upon our enemies), and give safe dwellings to men.

5. Which Soma, INDRA, the heaven and earth contain for thee, as a mother contains the embryo: showerer (of benefits), the priests pour it out for thee, they purify it for thy drinking.

SUKTA IX. (XLVII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre are the same.

1. INDRA, attended by the Maruts, the showerer (of benefits), drink the Soma offered after the other presentations, for thine exhibit attended of the inchring (Soma), for thou art lord of librations from the days of old.¹

2. INDRA, hero, rejoicing with and accompanied by the host of Maruts, drink the Soma, for thou art the slayer of VRITRA, the sage; subdue our enemies, drive away the malevolent,² make us safe on every side from peril.

² Apanudaswa mridhah may also mean, drive away all those who are engaged in battle, i.e. enemies; or keep off from us battles; mridh, meaning war, battle, sangráma; the Yajush has this verse also, VII. 37, and Mahidhara explains it to the same purport. Varga XI.

¹ Yajur-Veda, VII. 38: there is a slight variety of reading, pratipat for pradivat, which Mahidhara renders the first and other lunar days or tithis, until the full moon, during which offerings of Soma are daily presented: Yáska agrees with the Rich. Nir. IV. 8.

3. Drinker of the Soma in season, drink with thy divine friends the Maruts the Soma that is presented by us; those Maruts whose aid you have enjoyed (in battle), and who, following thee, have given thee the strength whereby thou hast slain VRITRA.

4. They who encouraged thee, MAGHAVAN, to slay AHI, who (aided thee) in the conflict with SAMBARA, and in the recovery of the cattle, and who, possessed of wisdom, contribute verily to thy exhilaration, with them, the troop of the Maruts, do thou INDRA, drink the Soma.

5. We invoke to this sacrifice for present protection INDRA, the chief of the Maruts, the showerer (of benefits); augmenting (in glory), overcoming many foes, divine regulator (of good and ill), the subduer of all (enemies), the fierce, the bestower of strength.

SUKTA X. (XLVIII.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XII.

1. May the showerer (of rain), who, as soon as born, is the object of affection, protect the offerer of the effused libration: drink at will, INDRA, before (the other gods), of the pure Soma juice mixed with milk.

2. On the day on which thou wast born, thou didst drink at will the mountain-abiding nectar of this Soma plant, for thy youthful parent mother (ADITI), in the dwelling of thy great sire (KASYAPA), gave it to thee before she gave the breast.

3. Approaching his mother he asked for food, and beheld the acrid Soma upon her bosom: eager he proceeds, dislodging the adversaries (of the gods); and, putting forth manifold (energy), he performed great (deeds). 4. Fierce, rapid in assault, of overpowering strength, he made his form obedient to his will:¹ having overcome TWASHTRI by his innate (vigour), and carried off the Soma juice, he drank it (deposited) in the ladles.

5. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

Sύκτα XI. (XLIX.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. I glorify the mighty INDRA, in whom all men, drinking the Soma juice, obtain their wishes; whom the powerful (heaven and earth) and the gods begot, the doer of great deeds, the slayer of the Vritras, who was fashioned by VIBHU (the creator).²

2. Whom, when borne by his steeds, foremost and eminent in battles, breaking in two the (hostile host), no one ever surpasses: supreme in sway, attended by his faithful Maruts, and hastening to combat, he has destroyed with foe-withering (energies) the existence of the Dasyu.

3. Vigorous, rushing through (hostile hosts), like a war-horse, he has pervaded heaven and earth, sending down rain: he is to be worshipped with oblations at the solemn (rite) like BHAGA: he is as Varga XIII.

² Vibhratashtam: the scholiast explains it, appointed by Brahmá for the government of the world, jagadádhipatye, Brahmaná sthápitam.

the father of those who adore (him): he is beautiful, worthy of invocation, the bestower of food.

4. The upholder of heaven and of the firmament, the wind, like a chariot traversing the upper $(region)^1$ accompanied by the Vasus; the clother of the night (with gloom), the parent of the sun, the distributor of the portion (allotted to the pious), like the words (of the wealthy appropriating to all) the food.

5. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of foes, the conqueror of wealth.

Súkta XII. (L.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XIV.

1. May INDRA drink the libation; he of whom is the Soma, having come to the sacrifice; he who is the repeller (of adversaries), the showerer (of benefits), the lord of the Maruts; may he, the wide-pervading, be pleased with these (sacrificial) viands: may the oblation be adequate to the wants of his body.

2. I yoke (to thy car), to bring thee quickly, thy two docile horses, whose speed thou hast of old employed: may thy horses, handsome INDRA, bring thee hither, and drink promptly of this well-effused agreeable libration.

¹ The construction here makes the sense very doubtful: prishtah úrddhwo ratho na váyur vasubhir niyulwán: it would seem as if INDRA was also designated here as váyu; the Vasus are said to be the Maruts: besides the explanation followed in the text, Sáyana has another, as, Váyu, having the Niyuts for his steeds, moves like a chariot on high, so does INDRA, accompanied by the Maruts.

3. His adorers support with cattle, INDRA, who is willing to bestow upon them their desires, and ready to come to the sacrifice, for the sake of obtaining eminent prosperity and prolonged life: acceptor of the spirit-less Soma, who art the drinker of the Soma juice, and art exhilarated (by the draught), grant to us freely cattle in abundance.

4. Gratify this our desire (of wealth) with cows, with horses, with shining treasure, and make us renowned: the wise Kusikas, desirous of heaven, offer praise to thee, INDRA, with pious (prayers).

5. We invoke for our protection the opulent INDRA, distinguished in this combat, the leader in the food-bestowing (strife), hearing (our praises), terrible in battles, the destroyer of focs, the conqueror of wealth.

Súkta XIII. (LI.)

The deity and Rishi are the same; the metre of the three first verses is Jagati, of the three last Gáyatrí, of the rest Trishtubh.

1. Let abundant praises celebrate INDRA, the stay of man, the possessor of opulence, the adorable, prospering with increase, the invoked of many, the immortal, who is daily to be propitiated with sacred hymns.¹

2. My praises constantly propitiate INDRA, the object of many rites, the sender of rain, attended by the Maruts, the leader (of all), the giver of food, the destroyer of cities, the swift (in combat), the prompt (dispenser) of waters, the distributor of riches, the subduer of foes, the conferrer of heaven.

Varga XA

3. INDRA, the enfeebler (of adversaries), is praised as a mine of wealth;¹ he is propitiated by righteous commendations; he is gratified in the dwelling of the offerer of oblations: glorify INDRA, the conqueror, the destroyer of his enemies.

4. The priests glorify thee, heroic leader of men, with praises and with prayers: INDRA, the author of many delusions, exerts himself for (the acquirement of) strength: he from of old is the lord of this (oblation).

5. Many are his prohibitions² (against evil enjoined) to men: many are the treasures that the earth enshrines: for INDRA the heavens, the plants, the waters, men and priests, preserve their riches.

6. To thee, INDRA, (the pious) address prayers, and praises, and sacrifices: accept them, lord of horses: giver of dwellings, friend (of man), who art the pervader (of all things), partake of this present oblation, and grant food to the worshippers.

² Púrvir asya nishshidho marttyeshu is explained nánápraháráni anusásanáni, various kinds of commands or regulations: a similar phrase in a former passage, Vol. 1. p. 26, verse v., púrunishshidha, hus been rendered, repeller of many foes: there is no material incompatibility, the latter being a compound epithet, and the substantive in both cases being derived from shidh to succeed, to go, with the preposition nir, out, ex, to exclude, to prohibit.

7. INDRA, accompanied by the Maruts, drink the Soma at this ceremony as thou hast drunk of the libation of the son of SARYÁTI:¹ thy far-seeing and devout worshippers, being in security,² adore thee through their offerings.

8. Do thou, INDRA, who art gratified by the beverage, drink the Soma that has been effused by us, together with thy friends, the Maruts, at this ceremony: thou who art invoked of many, and whom all the gods equipped as soon as born for the great battle (with the Asuras).

9. Maruts, this is your friend for sending of the waters: they (the Maruts), the givers of strength, have yielded INDRA gratification: may the devourer of VRITRA drink with them the libration offered by the worshipper in his own abode.

10. Lord of riches, entitled to praise, this libration has been effused agreeably to (our) strength: do thou drink of it quickly.³

11. Invigorate thy body with the Soma that has been poured out as food for thee : may it exhilarate thee, delighting in the Soma draught.⁴

12. May this libation, INDRA, penetrate to thy flanks; may it, (aided) by prayer, reach thy head; may it spread, hero, through thy arms, (that they may distribute) wealth.

³ Sama-Veda 1. 165 and 11. 87.

4 Sáma-Veda 11. 88-89.

Sύκτα XIV. (LII.)

The deity and Rishi are the same; the metre of the first four verses is Gáyatrí, of the sixth Jagati, of the fifth, seventh, and eighth Trishtubh.

Varga XVII.

1. Accept, INDRA, at our morning sacrifice, this libation, combined with fresh barley, with parched grain and curds, and with cakes, and sanctified by holy prayer.¹

2. Accept, INDRA, the prepared cakes and butter; eat them eagerly: the oblations flow for thee.

3. Eat, INDRA, our (offered) cakes and butter; derive enjoyment from our praises, as a lover from his mistress.²

4. INDRA, renowned of old, accept our cakes and butter, offered at dawn; for great are thy deeds.

5. Partake, INDRA, of the barley and the delicious cakes and butter of the mid-day sacrifice, when thy zealous worshipper, hastening to adore thee, and eager as a bull, is present, and celebrates (thee) with hymns.

Varga XVIII.

6. INDRA, who art praised of many, accept readily from our friend of barley, and cakes, and butter, offered at the third (or evening) sacrifice: laden with sacrificial viands, we approach with praises to thee, sage INDRA, who art accompanied by the Ribhus and by VÁJA.

7. We have prepared the parched grain and curds for thee, associated with PÚSHAN; the fried barley for thee, lord of the tawny horses, associated with thy steeds: attended by the troop of Maruts, eat the cakes: hero, who art wise, and the slayer of VRITRA, drink the libration.

8. Offer to him quickly (priests) the fried barley: offer to the most heroic of leaders the cakes and butter: may the like offerings, victorious INDRA, presented to thee daily, augment thy vigour for the drinking of the Soma juice.

Súкта XV. (LIII.)

INDRA and PARVATA are the deities, the Rishi is, as before, VISWAMITRA: the metre of the tenth and sixteenth verses is Jagati; of the thirteenth Gáyatri; of the twelfth, twentieth, and twenty-second Anushtubh; of the eighteenth Brihati; of the twenty-third Trishtubh.

Varga X1N

1. INDRA and PARVATA, bring hither, in a spacious car, delightful viands (generative of) good progeny: partake, deities, of the oblations (offered) at (our) sacrifices, and, gratified by the (sacrificial) food, be elevated by our praises.¹

2. Tarry awhile contentedly, MAGHAVAN, (at our rite): go not away; for I offer to thee (the libation) of the copiously-effused Soma: powerful INDRA, I lay hold of the skirts (of thy robe) with sweet-flavoured commendations, as a son (clings to the garment) of a father.

3. Adhwaryu, let us two offer praise: do thou concur with me:² let us address pleasing praise to

² Prati me grinihi; the Hotri is supposed to speak to the Adhwaryu to direct their joint performance of some part of the ceremony INDRA: sit down, INDRA, on the sacred grass (prepared by) the institutor of the rite; and may our commendations be most acceptable to INDRA.

4. A man's wife, MAGHAVAN, is his dwelling; verily she is his place of birth:¹ thither let thy horses, harnessed (to thy car), convey thee: we prepare the Soma juice at the fit season: may AGNI come as our messenger before thee.

5. Depart, MAGHAVAN; come INDRA: both ways,² protector,³ there is a motive for thee, whether it be standing in thy vast chariot, or liberating thy neighing steed.

6. When thou hast drunk the Soma, then, INDRA, go home: an auspicious life (abides) pleasantly in thy dwelling: in either (case) there is the standing in thy car or liberating the steeds for provender.

¹ Jáyá id astam sed u yonih, the apropos of this is not very evident: astam the commentator explains by griham, and he quotes the Smriti for the identity of house and housewife, grihini griham uchyate iti smriteh: the notion that a man is born of his wife evidently originates in the fanciful etymology of Jáyá, a wife, from jan, to be born, as it is first found in the Bráhmana.

Tasyám punar nuvo bhútwá daṣame mási jáyate,

Tad jáyá jáyá bhavati, yad asyám jáyate punah.

Again, in her being renewed (as a son) he is born in the tenth month,

And a wife therefore becomes $j \dot{a} y \dot{a}$, because he is again born in her:

from this, passing probably through the Sútras, we have the same in Manu ix. 18,

Patér-bháryám sampravísya garbho bhútneha jáyate Jáyáyás-taddhi jáyáyatwam yad asyám jáyate punah.

² Ubhayatrá te artham, according to the scholiast, Indra's wife awaits his return, the Soma libation invites his stay.

³ Bhrátar, lit. brother, but here explained poshaka, nourisher.

Varga XX.

7. These sacrificers are the (Bhojas), of whom the diversified Angirasas (are the priests):¹ and the heroic sons of the expeller (of the foes of the gods) from heaven,² bestowing riches upon VISWAMITRA at the sacrifice of a thousand (victims),³ prolong (his) life.

8. MAGHAVAN becomes repeatedly (manifest) in various forms, practising delusions with respect to his own peculiar person; and invoked by his appropriate prayers, he comes in a moment from heaven to the three (daily rites), and, although observant of seasons, is the drinker (of the Soma) irrespective of season.

9. The great Rishi the generator of the gods,⁴ the attracted by the deities, the overlooker of the leaders (at holy rites), VISWÁMITRA arrested the watery stream⁵ when he sacrificed for SUDÁS; INDRA, with the Kusikas was pleased.⁶

10. Sages and saints, overlookers of the leaders (of sacred rites), Kusikas, when the Soma is expressed

² Rudra: his sons are the Maruts.

³ Sahasrasáve, according to the comment, the aswamedha.

⁵ Astabhnát sindhum arņavam: he is said to have stopped the current of the confluence of the Vipásá and Satudrí rivers.

⁶ Apriyáyata kusikebhir Indra: Sáyaṇa explains this, Kusikagotrotpannair-rishibhih saha, with the Rishis of the race of Kusika, or it might be rendered, pleased by the Kusikas.

with stones at the sacrifice, then exhilarating (the gods) with praises, sing the holy strain (aloud) like (screaming) swans, and, together with the gods, drink the sweet juice of the Soma.

11. Approach, Kuṣikas, the steed of SUDÁS; animate (him), and let him loose to (win) riches (for the raja); for the king (of the gods) has slain VRITRA in the East, in the West, in the North, therefore let (SUDÁS) worship him in the best (regions) of the earth.

12. I have made INDRA glorified¹ by these two, heaven and earth, and this prayer of VISWAMITRA protects the race of Bharata.²

13. The Viswámitras have addressed the prayer to INDRA, the wielder of the thunderbolt; may he therefore render us very opulent.³

14. What do the cattle for thee among the Kikatas;⁴

Indram atushtavam: the verb is the third preterite of the causal, I have caused to be praised; or if taken in place of the present tense by Vaidih licence, it may be, according to the commentator, I praise Indra, abiding between heaven and earth, i.e. in the firmament.

² The verses to this, from verse 9, inclusive, are translated by Professor Roth: Liter. und Gesch. der Veda. 105.

⁴ The Kikatas are said by Sáyana, following Yásha, Nir. vi. 32, to be countries inhabited by Anáryas, people who do not perform worship, who are infidels, nástikas: Kikata is usually identified with South Bahar, shewing, apparently, that Vaidik Hinduism had not reached the province when this was said; or as Kikata was the fountain-head of Buddhism, it might be they yield no milk to mix with the Soma, they need not the vessel (for the libation);¹ bring them to us: (bring also) the wealth of the son of the usurer,² and give us, MAGHAVAN, (the possessions) of the low branches (of the community).³

15. The daughter of SURYA given by JAMADAGNI,⁴ gliding everywhere and dissipating ignorance, has emitted a mighty (sound),⁵ and has diffused ambrosial imperishable food amongst the gods.⁶

16. May she, gliding everywhere, quickly bring us Varga XXII. food (suited) to the five races of men:⁷ may she, the asserted that the Buddhists were here alluded to, if it were not wholly incompatible with all received notions of the earlier date of the Vedas.

1 Na tapanti gharmáni: Yásha explains the last harmyam, a house; but Sáyana calls it a vessel termed Mahávira, used at the rite called Pragrihya, pragrihyakhyakarmopayuktam mahávírapátram, which the cattle do not warm by yielding their milk to it.

² Abhara pramagandasya vedas: maganda is explained by both scholiasts, husidin, or usarer, one who says to himself, the money that goes from me will come back doubled, and pra, prefixed, is equivalent to a patronymic.

³ Naichasáhhám, that which belongs to a low (nicha) branch, or class (sákhá); the posterity born of Súdras and the like.

4 Jamadagní-dattá, according to Sáyana, may mean, given by the Rishis, those who maintain a blazing jamat-jualat. fire, Agni; a sense confirmed by the use of the plural in the next verse; the daughter of Súrya, so given, is said to be speech, or its personification, vák-devatá.

⁵ The sound of thunder or the like in the sky.

⁶ As the prayer or exclamation which accompanies the burnt offering.

daughter of the sun¹ whom the grey-haired JAMADAG-NIS gave to me, (be) the bestower of new life.²

17. May the horses³ be steady, the axle be strong, the pole be not defective, the yoke not be rotten; may INDRA preserve the two yoke-pins from decay: car with uninjured felloes, be ready for us.⁴

18. Give strength, INDRA, to our bodies; give strength to our vehicles; (give) strength to our sons and grandsons; that they may live (long); for thou art the giver of strength.

19. Fix firmly the substance of the khayar (axle), give solidity to the sisu (floor) of the car:⁵ strong axle, strongly fixed by us, be strong; cast us not from out of our conveyance.

20. May this lord of the forest never desert us nor do us harm: may we travel prosperously home tinctions are restricted to human beings, confirming the scholiast's notion that the four castes and barbarians are intended.

¹ Pakshyá, the daughter of Paksha: pakshanirváhakasya, the distributor of the parts (of the year?), that is, súryasya, of the sun.

² Naryam áyur dadháná, having new life or food: the scholiast adds, mama hurváná bhavatu.

³ Gávau-gachchhata, iti, gávau aswau: gáva implies, those who go, or, in this place, horses.

4 Visucámitra, says the commentator, being about to depart from the sacrifice of Sudás, invokes good fortune for his conveyance.

⁵ Khadirasya sáram is the text, the essence of the khadira, mimosa catechu, of which the scholiast says the bolt of the axle is made, whilst the Sinsapá, Dalbergia-sisu, furnishes wood for the floor: these are still timber-trees in common use.

⁶ Vanaspati, that is, here, the timber of which the car is made.

until the stopping (of the car), until the unharnessing (of the steeds).

21. INDRA, hero, possessor of wealth, protect us this day against our foes with many and excellent defences: may the vile wretch who hates us fall (before us); may the breath of life depart from him whom we hate.

22. As (the tree) suffers pain from the axe, as the Simal flower is (easily) cut off, as the injured cauldron leaking scatters foam, so may mine enemy perish.¹

23. Men, (the might) of the destroyer is not known to you: regarding him as a mere animal, they lead him away desirous (silently to complete his devotions): the wise condescend not to turn the foolish into ridicule, they do not lead the ass before the horse.²

¹ The construction is elliptical: the ellipse is supplied by the scholiast, as the tree is cut down by the axe, so may the enemy be cut down: as one cuts off without difficulty the flower of the Simbala, so may he be destroyed: as the cauldron (ukhá) when struck (prahatá), and thence leaking (yeshant, sravanti), scatters foam or breath from its mouth, so (dweshtá madíya. mantrasámarthyena prahata san, phenam muhhád udgiratu) may that hater, struck by the power of my prayer, vomit foam from his mouth.

² According to Sáyana the passage alludes to a legend of Viswámitra having been seized and bound by the followers of Vasishtha, when observing a vow of silence these were his reflections on the occasion; disparaging the rivalry of Vasishtha with himself, as if between an ass and a horse: some of the terms are unusual; súyahasya, commonly, of an arrow, is explained agreeably to its etymology from so, to destroy, arasánakárinah, of the finisher or destroyer, that is, of Viswámitra: Lodham nayantí, they lead the sage, deriving lodha from lubdham, desirous that his penance might not be frustrated, tapasah kshayo má bhúd iti, lobhena túshním sthitam Rishim pasum manyamána, thinking the Rishi silent through his desire, to be 24. These sons of BHARATA,¹ INDRA, understand severance (from the Vásishthas), not association (with them); they urge their steeds (against them) as against a constant foe; they bear a stout bow (for their destruction) in battle.²

an animal, i.e. stupid. Yáska interprets the phrase in the same manner, Lubdham rishim nayanti paşum manyamánáh, they take away the desiring Rishi, thinking him an animal: in the second half the words are also of unusual application: na avájinam vájiná hásayanti: Sáyana derives vájina from vách, speed, with ina affix, and interprets it sarvajna, all-knowing; the contrary, avájina, by múrkha, a fool.

² The Anukramaniká observes the last verses of this hymn have the sense of imprecations: they are inimical to the Vásishthas, and the Vásishthas hear them not; antyá abhisápárthas tá vásishthadweshinyoh na vásishtháh srinwanti: the commentator on the Index cites this verse of the Brihad-devatá in confirmation: satadhá bhidyate murddhá kírtanena srutena vá, teshám báláh pramíyante tasmát tás tu na kírttayet, the head is split a hundred times by reciting or listening to them, and his children perish; therefore let not a man repeat them: the commentator on the Niruhta, when he comes to the passage, lodham rishim nayanti, passes it by without animadversion, expressly because he says the verses are inimical to the Vásishthas, and he is of the race of Vasishtha, of the Kapishthala branch, Sá Vasishthadweshirik-ahamcha kápishthalo Vásishthah, atas tá na nirbravími: it is not unusual for transcribers to omit these passages altogether, as noticed by Professor Roth, and by Professor Müller: see the various readings of the latter, Rig-Veda, vol. 11. Introduction, p. 56.

ANUVAKA V.

Súkta I. (LIV.)

The deities are the Visuadevas; the Rishi is PRAJAPATI, the son of either VISWAMITRA or VACH; the metre is Trishtuhh.

1. They recite repeatedly this gratifying praise to the great product of sacrifice (AGNI): may he who (is endowed) with domestic radiance hear us: may the imperishable AGNI, (endowed) with divine radiance, hear us.

2. Knowing their greatness, offer worship to the vast heaven and to the earth: my desire, wishing (for felicity) proceeds¹ (to them), in whose praise the gods, desirous of adoration, delight together with their worshippers at the sacrifice.

3. Heaven and earth, may your truth be ever inviolable: be propitious to us for the due completion of the rite: this adoration (AGNI) is offered to heaven and earth: I worship (them) with (sacrificial) food; I solicit of them precious (wealth).

4. Heaven and earth, endowed with truth, they who are the ancient declarers of the truth, have obtained from you (what they desired); and so, earth, men cognizant (of the greatness of you both) have worshipped you for the sake of triumphing over (hostile) heroes in battle.

5. Who knows what is the truth, or who may here declare it ? what is the proper path that leads to the gods ? their inferior abiding places are beheld,² as

6. The far-seeing beholder of mankind (the sun), surveys this heaven and earth, rejoicing when deficient in moisture in the womb of the waters (the firmament), both concurring in community (of function),² although they occupy various dwellings, like the diversified nests of a bird.

7. Common (in function),³ disjoined, of distant termination, they remain vigilant in a permanent station: being, as it were, sisters, and ever young: they therefore address each other by twin appellations.⁴

8. These two⁵ keep all born things discrete, and, although comprehending the great divinities, are not distressed: all moving and stationary beings rest upon one (basis), whether animals, or birds, or creatures of various kinds.

9. I consider at present the eternal and ancient sisterhood to us of thee, our great protectress and progenitrix,⁶ within whose vast and separated path thy eulogists, the gods, travel in their chariots.

¹ In the latter case they are made known, it is said, by the Veda.

11. The golden-handed, soft-tongued SAVITRI is descending from heaven (to be present) thrice (daily) at the sacrifice: accept, SAVITRI, the praise (recited by) the worshippers, and thereupon grant to us all our desires.

12. May the divine TWASHTRI, the able artificer, the •dextrous-handed, the possessor of wealth, the observer of truth, bestow upon us those things (which are necessary) for our preservation: RIBHUS, associated with PÚSHAN, make us joyful, as they (the priests), with uplifted stones, prepare the sacred libation.

13. May the Maruts, whose cars are the lightning, who are armed with spears, resplendent, destroyers of foes, from whom the waters proceed, (who are) unresting and adorable, and may SARASWATI hear (my prayer); and may you (Maruts), speedy in your liberality, bestow (upon us) riches and good offspring.

14. May (our) praises and prayers, the causes of good fortune, attain at this sacrifice VISHNU, the object of many rites: he, the wide-stepping; whose commands the many-blending regions of space, the generators (of all beings), do not disobey.

relative or sister: this will not allow of pitri and janitri being rendered father and progenitor, else we have had Dyus, heaven, which is here addressed, characterized by these attributes: see vol. 11. p. 138, v. 33. Varga XXVI.

15. INDRA, invested with all energies, has filled both heaven and earth with his greatness: do thou, who art the destroyer of cities, the slayer of VRITRA, the leader of a conquering host, collect cattle and bestow them abundantly upon us.

16. NÁSATYAS, my protectors, inquirers (after the wishes) of your kinsman, beautiful is your cognate appellation of ASWINS: be to us the liberal donors of riches: do you, who are irresistible, protect the offerer (of the oblation) with unblameable (defences).

17. Sages acquainted with the past, excellent is that beautiful appellation¹ under which you have both become gods in (the sphere of) INDRA: do thou, INDRA, the invoked of many, a friend, (associated) with the beloved RIBHUS, shape this prayer for our benefit.

18. May ARYAMAN, ADITI, the adorable (gods), and the unimpeded functions of VARUNA (protect) us: keep us from (following) the course unpropitious to offspring,² and may our dwelling be abundant in progeny and cattle.

19. May the messenger of the gods, engendered in many places, everywhere proclaim us void of offence: may earth and heaven, the waters, the sun, and the vast firmament, with the constellations, hear us.

¹ Cháru náma may be explained agreeable or acceptable act or devotion, náma karma namanam rá, cháru, manoharam; by which the Aswins attained deification, yena devatwam prápnutha; but in the preceding verse we have the similar phrase, sajátyam cháru náma, explained sajáte bhavam kamaníyam, desirable cognate appellation.

² Yuyota no anapatyáni gantoh: anapatyáni is explained putránám ahitáni harmáni tan márgát prithak kuruta. 20. May the (divine) showerers (of benefits), the deities of the mountains, and those abiding in fixed habitations,¹ propitiated by the sacrificial food, hear us: may ADITI, with the Adityas, hear us: may the Maruts grant us anspicious felicity.

21. May our path ever be easy of going, and provided with food: sprinkle, gods, the plants with sweet water: (safe) in thy friendship, AGNI, may my fortune never be impaired, but may I occupy a dwelling (abounding) with riches and ample food.

22 Taste (AGNI) the oblations; make manifest (for us) abundant food: measure out the viands before us: thou overcomest all those (who are) our enemies in conflict: favourably inclined towards us lighten up all our (ceremonies) day by day.

Súkta II. (LV.)

The deities are the Visicadevas; the Rishi is PRAJÁPATI; the metre Trishtuhh.

1. When the preceding dawns appear the great imperishable (light) is engendered in the (firmament the) sphere of the waters, and then the worshipper is alert to perform the rites (due to) the gods, for great and unequalled is the might of the gods.²

4. Let not the gods, AGNI, now do us harm, nor the ancient progenitors, who have come to know the

¹ Dhruvahshemásah, nischalasthánáh, those of fixed places : it may be, perhaps, an epithet of the preceding parcatásah.

² Mahad-devánám asuratwam cham is the burthen of this and the following stanzas: asuratwam is the abstract from asura, explained strong, powerful, prabala, from asyati, who or what throws or impels all things or beings, asyati, kshipati sarván: the abstract is prábalyam or aiswaryam, might or sovereignty: cham, one, is explained mukhyam, chief. degree (of divinity); nor the manifester of light between the two ancient dwellings (earth and heaven, the sun); for great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

3. Variously do my manifold desires alight: present at the solemnity, I recite ancient (hymns): when the fire is kindled we speak indeed the truth, for great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

4. The universal sovereign¹ is conveyed to many directions: he sleeps in the places of repose: he is connected with the forests: one mother (heaven) nourishes the child; the other (earth) gives him a dwelling: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

5. Existing in ancient plants,² abiding afterwards in new, he enters into the young (herbs) as soon as they are produced: unimpregnated they become pregnant and bear fruit: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

Varga XXIX.

6. The child of two mothers sleeps in the west, but (in the morning) the single infant proceeds unobstructed (through the sky): these are the functions of MITRA and VARUNA:³ great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

7. The child of two mothers, the invoker of the gods at sacrifices, the universal sovereign, proceeds thence forward (in the sky): the root (of all), he abides (in the houses of the pious): the reciters of pleasant (words) offer him agreeable (praises): great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

8. All (creatures) approaching too near his confines are beheld with their faces turned away as (an enemy) flies from a combatant: obvious (to all), he penetrates the water for its destruction: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

9. In those (plants) the aged messenger (of the gods) constantly abides: mighty, he passes with the radiant (sun) through the regions of space; assuming various forms, he looks (complacently) upon us: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

10. Pervading and protecting (all), possessing grateful and immortal radiance, he preserves the supreme path (of the rains), for AGNI knows all these worlds: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

11. The twin pair (day and night) adopt various forms: one of them shines brightly, the other is black: twin sisters are they, one black and the other white: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

12. Where the mother and the daughter, two productive mileh kine, unite, they nourish each other:¹ I worship them both in (the firmament), the dwelling of the waters: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

13. Licking the calf of the other, one of them lows aloud: the milch cow offers her udder for the one that is without moisture (the earth), and she (the earth) is refreshed by the milk of the rain:² great and unequalled is the might of the gods. Varga XXX.

¹ Earth and heaven by the interchange of moisture.

² This is rather obscurely expressed: the calf is said to be Agni; the cow with milk is the sky, whose udder is the cloud,

VOL. III.

14. The earth¹ wears bodies of many forms: she abides on high² cherishing her year and a half old (calf):³ knowing the abode of the truth⁴ (the sun), I offer worship: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

15. Like two (distinguishing) impressions, they (day and night) are placed visible in the midst (between heaven and earth), one hidden, one manifest: the path (of both) is common, and that is universal (for good and evil): great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

Varga XXXI.

16. May the milch kine⁵ without their young, abiding (in the heaven), and though unmilked, yet yielding milk, and ever fresh and youthful, be shaken (so as to perform their functions): great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

17. When the showerer roars in other (regions) he sends down the rain upon a different herd,⁶ for he whence the rain of which the earth is in want descends; Ritasya sá payasá pinvatelá, is also explained Jalavarjitá prithivy-ádityasyodakena siktá bhavati varshakále, the earth without water is sprinkled by the water of the sun in the rainy season.

¹ The text has Padyá, which Sáyana explains Bhúmi, deriving it from pad, or foot, the earth, according to a text of the 10th Mandala, having been created from the feet of the Creator: the 10th Mandala, however, is of questionable authority.

18. We proclaim, people, the wealth of the hero, (INDRA), in horses; the gods know his (affluence); six, or five and five, harnessed to his car, convey him;¹ great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

19. The divine TWASHTRI the impeller (of all), the multiform, has begotten and nourished a numerous progeny, for all these worlds are of him: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

20. He has filled the two vast receptacles² (heaven and earth) united (with creatures): they are both penetrated by his lustre: the hero spoiling the treasures (of the foe) is renowned : great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

21. Our king, the nourisher of all, abides (in the firmament) nearest to this earth like a benevolent friend: the valiant (Maruts) precede him (when abroad), and dwell in his mansion: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

22. The plants, INDRA, come to perfection by thee; from thee the waters (flow); earth bears her treasures for thee: may we, thy friends, be sharers of these blessings: great and unequalled is the might of the gods.

ADHYÁYA IV.

ANUVÁKA V. Continued. Súkta III. (LVI.)

The deities are the Visuadevas; the Rishi is Prajápati; the metre Trishtubh.

Varga I.

1. Neither the deceptive nor the resolute interrupt the primitive and permanent operations of the gods, nor do the innocuous heaven and earth (interrupt them), nor are the mountains standing (on the earth) to be bowed down.¹

2. One stationary (year) sustains six burthens (in the seasons); the (solar) rays spread through that true and extensive (term); three revolving spheres are severally above, two of which are placed in secret, and one is visible.²

3. The three-breasted,³ the showerer (of rain,) the omniform, the three-uddered, the parent of multiform progeny, the possessor of magnitude, followed by three hosts (the year), advances, the vigorous impregnator of the perpetual plants.

4. (The year) is awake, the path in the vicinity of ³ That is, as subsequently specified, the year, personified: the number three, repeatedly mentioned, is said to apply to the seasons of the year, reduced from the usual number of six to three, the hot, rainy, and cold, by merging into them, severally, the vernal, autumnal, and dewy.

those (plants): I call upon the beautiful name of the Adityas;¹ the divine waters wandering severally (now) give it delight, and (now) depart from it.²

5. Rivers, the dwelling-places of the intelligent gods are thrice three:³ the measurer of the three (worlds)⁴ is the sovereign at sacrifices: three female (divinities)⁵ of the waters charged with the rains descend from heaven at the thrice (repeated) solemnity.

6. SAVITRI, descended from heaven, bestow upon us blessings thrice every day: BHAGA, saviour, grant us thrice a day riches of three elements:⁶ Dhishaná⁷ enable us to acquire (wealth).

7. May SAVITRI bestow upon us wealth at the (three periods) of the day, for the well-handed MITRA and VARUNA, the waters, the vast heaven and earth, solicit precious things from the liberality of SAVITRI.

8. Three are the excellent uninjurable bright regions,⁸ three scions of the powerful (year) are shining;⁹ practisers of truth, quick moving, of sur-

SUKTA IV. (LVII.)

The deities, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga H.

1. May the discriminating INDRA apprehend my glorification (of the gods), which is (free) as a milch cow, grazing alone, without a cowherd, one who is readily milked, yielding abundant nourishment, and of whom AGNI and INDRA (and we), are the commenders.

2. INDRA and PUSHAN, the showerers (of benefits), and the happy-handed ASWINS, well affected towards us, have milked the (cloud) reposing in heaven; wherefore, Vasus, universal deities, sporting on this (altar), may I here obtain the happiness derived from you.

3. The plants that desire for the showerer (INDRA) the power (of sending rain) appreciate, when manifest, the embryo (blossom) deposited in him: the kine desirous of reward come to the presence of the calf, invested with many forms.¹

4. I glorify with praise the beautiful heaven and earth, taking in hand the stones (to express the libation) at the sacrifice, as these thy graceful, adorable, and many-blessing rays (AGNI) mount up for the good of man.

5. With thy wide-spreading tongue, AGNI, sweet and intelligent, which is renowned amongst the gods, bring hither all the adorable deities for our protection, and give them to drink of the sweet (libations).

¹ The vegetable world, as characterized by rice, barley, wild rice, and the like; vríhiyavanivárádi-phala lahshanam, putram, tanayam, vatsam iva.

6. Divine AGNI, giver of dwellings, knower of all that exists, extend to us that benevolence which, unshared by others, cherishes us like the showers of the rain-cloud; that kindness which is beneficent for all mankind.

Sύκτα V. (LVIII.)

The deities are the Aswins; the Rishi and metre as before.

1. The milch-cow (the dawn) yields the desired milk to the ancient (AGNI); the son of the south¹ passes within (the firmament); the bright-houred (day) brings the illuminative (sun): the praiser awakes (to glorify) the ASWINS preceding the dawn.

2. The well-yoked (horses) bear you both in your truth-(preserving car): the offerings proceed towards you as (children to their parents): discard from us the disposition of the niggard: we have made ready for you our offering: come to our presence.

3. DASRAS, with well-yoked horses and well-constructed car, hear this praise of the worshipper, for have not the ancient sages declared you, ASWINS, to be most ready to come to the aid of the destitute.

4. If you regard (my prayer), come with your quick steeds: all men, ASWINS, invoke you: to you they offer the sweet (Soma) juice mixed with milk, as friends (give gifts to friends): the sun is in advance, (therefore come to the rite).

5. Eclipsing (by your splendour) many regions, Așwins, (come hither); loud praise awaits you opulent (Așwins) amongst men: come to this rite by the Varga III.

¹ Dakshináyáh putrah; that is, Ushasan putrah Sárya, the sun, the son of the dawn.

paths traversed by the gods: here, DASRAS, are ample stores of the exhilarating juices.¹

Varga IV.

6. Your ancient friendship is desirable and auspicious; your wealth, leaders (of rites), is in the family of JAHNU:² renewing that auspicious friendship, may we, your associates, delight you with the sweet (Soma juice).

7. Aswins, endowed with power, ever young, in whom is no untruth, unwearied, munificent, accepters (of libations), drink with VÁYU and your steeds, rejoicing together, of the Soma libation offered av the close of day.

8. Aswins, abundant (sacrificial) viands are presented to you, and blameless worshippers (salute you) with praises: your water-shedding car, attracted by the sacrificers, quickly compasses earth and heaven.

9. ASWINS, this most sweet Soma is mixed; drink it: come to (our) dwelling: your car, repeatedly bestowing wealth, is coming to the appointed place³ of the offerer of the libration.

Súkta VI. (LIX.)

The deity is MITRA; the Rishi, VISWAMITRA; the metre of the first five verses is Trishtubh, of the last four Gayatri.

Varga V.

1. MITRA,⁴ when praised, animates men to exer-

¹ Nidhayo madhúnám: according to Sáyana, nidhi is here a kind of vessel, pátraviscshah.

² Yuvor dravinam Jahnávyám: the latter is derived from Jahnu, and is explained merely by Jahnuhulajáyám, in her born in the race of Jahnu: it might imply the Ganges, Jáhnaví, if we had reason to suppose the legend of her origin from Jahnu was known to the Vedas: of course it was familiar to Sáyaņa.

³ Nishkritam, according to Yáska, Nir. XII. 7, is the place of agreement, nir ityeshah samityetasya stháne: it may be rendered by griha, house.

⁴ MITRA is said here to signify the sun, he who is measured tion: INDRA sustains both the earth and heaven: MITRA looks upon men with unclosing eyes: offer to MITRA the oblations of clarified butter.

2. May that mortal enjoy abundance, MITRA, who presents thee, ADITYA, (with offerings) at the sacred rite; protected by thee he is not harmed; he is not overcome by any one; sin reaches him not, either from afar or nigh.

3. May we, exempt from disease, rejoicing in (abundant) food, roaming free¹ over the wide (expanse) of the earth, diligent in the worship of Λ DITYA, ever be in the good favour of MITRA.

4. This MITRA has been engendered adorable and to be served, the sovereign (over all), endowed with vigour, the creator (of the universe); may we ever be in the good favour, in the auspicious approbation, of this adorable (Λ DITYA).

5. The great ADITYA, the animator of men to exertion, is to be approached with reverence: he is the giver of happiness to him who praises him: offer with fire the acceptable libration to that most glorifiable MITRA.

6. Desirable food and most renowned wealth² are (the gifts) of the divine MITRA, the supporter of man.

or appreciated (miyate) by all, and who preserves (tráyate) the world, by bestowing rain : much the same rendering of the text is given by Yásha, Nir. x. 22.

² Yajush 11. 62: Mahidhara renders avah by its more usual sense of protection, not as Sáyana, annam, food; and dyumnam, which the latter renders by dhanam, wealth, the former makes

7. The renowned MITRA, who by his might presides over heaven, is he who presides over the earth by (the gift of) food.

8. The five classes of men have repaired to the victorious MITRA, for he supports all the gods.

9. MITRA is he who amongst gods and men bestows food as the reward of pious acts upon the man who has prepared (for him) the lopped sacred grass.

Sύκτα VII. (LX.)

The deities of the first four verses are the RIBHUS, of the three last INDRA; the Rishi is VISWAMITRA; the metre Jagati.

1. Your connexion¹ (with the consequences of acts) RIBHUS is here (acknowledged) by the minds of all: desiring their share (of the sacrifice), oh men, they have come with a knowledge (of their claims) to these (rites): the sons of SUDHANWAN, with the devices by which they are victorious over foes, you have accepted the share of the sacrifice.²

cither fame or food, yaso annam vá: the epithet sánasi, which Sáyana makes sarvaih sambhajaníyam, Mahídhara explains, sanátanam, eternal, upon the authority of Yásha, who includes it, he says, among the synonymes of purána, old: it is not, however, found there, Nigh. 111. 27.

² Yajniyam bhágam ánasa: Sáyana here explains the verb as if it were in the second pers. plur. of the reduplicate preterite, yúyam ryáptáh stha, you have pervaded, the Veda conjugating as in the Parasmaipada, instead of Átmanepada, as is usual: so in the third stanza we have samánasuh instead of samánasire: the passage has been cited in a former page, vol. 1. p. 49, note, and is there somewhat incorrectly translated: in Súhta 161, v. 6, we have yajniyam bhágam aítana explained also prápnuta, obtain: see the hymns to the Ribhus in the first volume p. 45, and second volume, p. 107: also Grammar, 2nd Ed. p. 241.

Varga VII.

2. With those faculties by which you have divided the ladles; with that intelligence wherewith you have covered the (dead) cow with skin; with that will by which you have fabricated the two horses (of INDRA); with those (means), RIBHUS, you have attained divinity.

3. The RIBHUS, the performers of (good) works, the grandsons of a man, have attained the friendship of INDRA: they have perpetuated (existence):¹ the sons of SUDHANWAN have attained immortality: performers of pious acts influencing (the result), through their devotion (they have attained divinity) by their works.²

4. Go with INDRA in his chariot when the libation is poured out, and be (welcomed) with honour by the (worshipper) desiring (your favour): RIBHUS, sons of SUDHANWAN, bestowers (of the rewards of pious acts) your virtuous deeds, your great faculties, are not to be measured.

5. INDRA, along with the food-bestowing RIBHUS, accept with both hands the (cup of the) effused Soma libation: excited MAGHAVAN, by worship, rejoice with the human sons of SUDHANWAN in the dwelling of the donor (of the offering).

6. INDRA, the praised of many, associated with RIBHU, and with VÁJA, exult with SACHI,³ at this our sacrifice: these self-revolving (days) are devoted to thee, as well as the ceremonics (addressed) to the gods, and the virtuous acts of man.

² See also vol. 1. p. 284.

³ Or Sachi may mean harman, act, rite.

7. INDRA, with the food-bestowing RIBHUS rewarding (worship) with food,¹ come hither to (receive) the reverential praise of the adorer, with a hundred quick-going steeds, the indications (of the Maruts): come to the burnt offering of the sacrifice, yielding a thousand blessings to the sacrificer.

Súkta VIII. (LXI.)

The deity is USHAS, the dawn; the Rishi as before; the metre Trishtubh.

Varga VIII. 1. Affluent USHAS, giver of sustenance, possessed of intelligence, be propitiated by the praise of him who lauds thee, (and worships) with (sacrificial) food : divine USHAS, adored by all, who (though) ancient art (still) young, the object of manifold worship, thou art present at the recurring (morning) rite.

> 2. USHAS, who art divine and immortal, mounted in a golden chariot, do thou shine radiant, causing to be heard the sounds of truth:² may thy vigorous and well-trained horses bring thee, who art golden-haired, (hither).

> 3. USHAS, who spreadest over all the regions, thou abidest on high, the ensign of the immortal (sun), purposing to travel the same road, repeatedly turn back ever new, (revolving) like a wheel.

4. The opulent USHAS, the bride of the far-darting

¹ Ribhubhir vájayan, implies a quibble upon the word vája; which is the name of one of the Ribhus, put for all, but means, in its more usual sense, food.

² Súnritá irayanti: the phrase has occurred before, vol 1. p. 299, v. 12., where it is rendered, awakener of pleasant voices, in the sense explained note p. 297, the dawn exciting or awakening the true or agreeable crics of beasts and birds.

(sun), throwing off (darkness) like a garment, proceeds: diffusing her own (lustre), auspicious, promoting sacred acts, she is renowned to the ends of the heaven and of the earth.

5. Offer, with your prostrations, due praise to the divine USHAS, shining upon you: the repository of sweetness¹ manifests her brightness aloft in the sky, and, radiant and lovely, lights the regions.²

6. The possessor of truth is recognised in the sky by her rays: the possessor of wealth has taken a marvellous station in earth and heaven: AGNI, soliciting alms of the radiant advancing USHAS, thou obtainest thy desired treasure (of oblations).³

7. The showerer (of rain, the sun), urging on the dawn, at the root of the truthful (day)⁴ hast pervaded the vast heaven and earth: the mighty USHAS, the golden light, as it were, of MITRA and VARUNA, diffuses her lustre in different directions.

SÚKTA IX. (LXII.)

This hymn is divided into six Trichas or triplets, the deities of which are severally, INDRA and VARUNA, BRIHASPATI, PÚSHAN, SAVITRI, SOMA, and MITRA and VARUNA: VIS-WÁMITRA is the Rishi, or, according to some, the last triplet is ascribed to JAMADAGNI: the metre of the three first stanzas is Trishtubh, of the rest Gáyatrí.

1. INDRA and VARUNA, may these people who are

Varga IX.

¹ Madhudhá rather puzzles the scholiast : madhu may mean, he says, sweet words of praise, madhuráni stutilahshanáni váhyáni, or simply praise, stoma; or, without referring to its etymology, it may be a name of Ushas: dhá is that which has or holds.

² As in S. 49, v. 4. of the first Ashtaha.

³ That is, the sacrificial fire is kindled at dawn.

⁴ Ritasya, satyabhútasya: it is identified with truth as the season of the performance of religious rites.

relying upon you, and wandering about (in alarm), sustain no injury from a youthful (adversary); for where is that reputation (you enjoy) on account that you bestow sustenance on your friends.

2. Most diligent (in pious rites) this (your worshipper), INDRA and VARUNA, desirous of wealth, incessantly invokes you for protection: associated with the Maruts, with heaven and earth, hear my invocation.

3. May there be to us, INDRA and VARUNA, such wealth (as we covet): may there be, Maruts, to us wealth (of cattle) and numerous descendants: may the delightful (wives of the gods)¹ shelter us with dwellings: may HOTRA and BHARATI (enrich) us with gifts.

4. BRIHASPATI, friend of all the gods, accept our oblations: grant precious treasures to the offerer.

5. Adore the pure BRIHASPATI at sacrifices with hymns: I solicit of him unsurpassable strength.

6. The showerer (of benefits) on men, the omniform, the irreproachable, the excellent BRIHASPATI.

7. Divine, resplendent, Púsuan, this, thy most recent laudation, is uttered by us to thee.

8. Be pleased by this my praise, and incline to this food-supplicating laudation as an uxorious (husband) to his wife.

9. May that PÚSHAN, who looks upon all the worlds, who thoroughly contemplates them, be our protector.

10. We meditate on that desirable light of the divine SAVITRI, who influences our pious rites.²

² This is the celebrated verse of the Vedas which forms part

Varga X.

11. Desirous of food, we solicit with praise, of the divine SAVITRI, the gift of affluence.

12. Devout and wise men, impelled by intelligence, of the daily devotions of the Brahmans, and was first made known to English readers by Sir W. Jones' translation of a paraphrastic interpretation: he renders it, Let us adore the supremacy of that divine sun, the godhead, who illuminates all, who recreates all, from whom all proceed, to whom all must return, whom we invoke to direct our understandings aright in our progress towards his holy seat (Works, 8vo. vol. xiii. p. 367): the text has merely Tat savitur varenyam bhargo devasya dhímahi, dhiyo yo nah prachodayút: the last member may be also rendered, who may animate or enlighten our intellects : the verse occurs in the Yajush, 111. 35, and in the Sáman, 11. 8, 12: both commentators are agreed to understand by Savitri, the soul, as one with the soul of the world, Brahma, but various meanings are also given: thus, Sáyana has, we meditate on the light which is one with Brahma, his own light, which, from its consuming influence on ignorance and its consequences, is termed Bhargas, and is that which is desirable, from its being to be known or worshipped by all (varenyam) the property of the supreme being, (parameswara), the creator of the world, and the animator, impeller, or urger (savitri), through the internally abiding spirit (antaryámí) of all creatures : again, yah, although masculine, may, by Vaidik licence, be the relative to the neuter noun bhargas, that light which animates all (dhiyah) acts, (harmáni), or illumes all understandings (buddhíh): again, devasya savituh may mean, of the height or radiant sun, as the progenitor of all, survasya prasavitur, and bhargas may be understood as the sphere or orb of light, the consumer of sins, púpúnúm túpaham tejo-mandalam: again, bhargas may be interpret d, food, and the prayer may only implore the sun to provide sustenance, tasya prasádád annádilakshanam phalam dhímahi, tasya ádhárabhutá bhavema, we anticipate from his favour the reward that is characterized by food and the like, that is, may we be supported by him : Mahidhara, in his comment on the same text in the Yajush, notices similar varieties of interpretation. adore the divine SAVITRI with sacrifices and sacred hymns.

13. Soma, knowing the right path, proceeds (by it): he goes to the excellent seat of the gods, the place of sacrifice.

14. May Soma grant to us and to (our) biped and quadruped animals, wholesome food.

15. May Soma, prolonging our lives and overcoming our adversaries, sit down in our place of sacrifice.

16. MITRA and VARUNA, sprinkle our cow-stalls with butter; performers of good works, (sprinkle) the worlds with honey.¹

17. Performers of pure rites, glorified by many, exalted by adoration, (celebrated) by prolonged praises, you reign by the greatness of (your) strength.

18. Glorified by JAMADAGNI, sit down in the place of sacrifice (the altar); drink, augmenters (of the reward) of sacrifice, the Soma libation.²

² These two last verses occur also in the Sama-Veda 11. 14, 15: as the author of the hymn is Vişuámitra, the scholiast proposes another interpretation of Jamadagniná, as an epithet of Vişuámitra, he by whom the fire has been kindled : see former note, Súhta liii. v. 15.

¹ Ghritair gavyútim ukshatam, madhvá rajánsi; gavyútí is explained either gavám márgam, or gonivásasthánam, and the prayer implies, according to the scholiast, give us cows abounding in milk: the verse occurs in the Yajur and Sáma-Vedas: the commentator on the former explains Gavyúti either the path or sacrifice, or a field, and, in the latter case, explains, ghritaih pure water, sprinkle our pastures with rain: Mr. Stevenson accordingly renders it, irrigate the pasture lands with showers, and refresh with waters the two worlds.

ADHYÁYA IV. (CONTINUED). MAŅDALA IV. ANUVÁKA I.

Súkta I.

The deity is AGNI, or, it may be, VARUNA in the second, third, and fourth stanzas: the Rishi is VÁMADEVA: the metre of the first verse is Ashti; of the second, Atijagati; of the third, Dhriti; and Trishtubh of the rest.

1. Since the emulous gods ever excite thee,¹ AGNI, who art a deity swift of motion, (to contest), therefore do (thy worshippers) urge thee by their devotions (to bring the deities to their sacrifices): adorable AGNI, they (the deities), have generated thee, immortal, divine, all-wise, as the present divinity among men: they have generated thee as the all-present and allwise deity.²

2. Bring to the presence of the worshippers, AGNI, thy brother VARUNA, as a participator of the sacrifice, with a willing mind, the elder participator of the sacrifice; the ruler of the water, the $\dot{A}ditya$, the supporter of men, the sovereign venerated by mankind.

3. Friendly and beautiful (AGNI), bring thy friend (VABUNA) to our presence, as two strong horses

² We have in this and the next stanza the same device that has occurred in the 127th and following Suhtas of the first Mandala, vol. 11. p. 19, which are written in the same long and complex metre, the repetition at the end of the line of the three or four preceding words: thus we have here, ádevam janata prachetasam, viswam ádevam janata prachetasam, with the sense partially modified in the repetition, at least according to the scholiast.

VOL. III.

Varga XXII.

convey the swift chariot along the road to its goal thou receivest, AGNI, the gratifying (oblation) toge ther with VARUNA, and with the all-illumining Maruts grant, brilliant AGNI, happiness to our sons and grandsons; grant, beautiful AGNI, happiness to ourselves.

4. Mayest thou, AGNI, who art wise, avert from us the wrath of the divine VARUNA: do thou, who art the most frequent sacrificer, the most diligent bearer (of oblations), the most resplendent, liberate us from all animosities.

5. Do thou, AGNI, our preserver, be most nigh to us with thy protection at the breaking of this dawn: deprecate VARUNA for us,¹ and, propitiated (by our praise), feed upon the grateful (oblation), and be to us of auspicious invocation.

Varga XIII.

6. The glance of this auspicious deity, directed towards men, is most excellent, most wonderful, acceptable (to all), as the pure warm butter (from the milk) of the cow (is acceptable) to the deity; as the gift of a milch-cow (is to a man).

7. These are the supreme, true, and desirable births of this divine AGNI,² invested (with radiance) in the unbounded (firmament): pure, bright, radiant lord (of all), may he come (to our) sacrifice.

8. The messenger, the invoker (of the gods), riding

¹Ava yakshva no Varunam: Sáyana explains the verb by vinásaya, destroy, and the object is Varuna hritam, that which has been done by Varuna, as disease inflicted by him, such as dropsy; or the term may imply pápam, sin: this and the preceding occur, Yajush, XXI. 3, 4.

² As Agni, Váyu, and Sárya, or it may refer to the places of his manifestation, or earth, firmament, and heaven: see vol. 1. p. 248, v. 3.

in a golden chariot with a tongue of flame, he frequents all the chambers (of sacrifice); drawn by red horses, embodied, resplendent, always agreeable, as a dwelling well supplied with food.

9. Associated with sacrifice, and knowing those men (who are engaged in good works), they lead him with the strong cord (of praise): lie, the divine AGNI, fulfilling (all desires), abides in the dwelling of this mortal, and obtains fellowship in his wealth.

10. May that wise AGNI conduct us to that wealth which is desired by the devout; he whom all the immortals have created for (the performance of) sacred rites; of whom heaven is the parent and progenitor, and whom (the priests) verily sprinkle (with oblations).

11. He is first engendered in the habitations (of the sacrificers; then upon his station, (the altar), the base of the vast firmament; without feet, without head, concealing his extremities, combining with smoke in the nest of the rain-cloud.

12. Radiance has first proceeded to thee, (AGNI), who art glorified by praise, in the womb of the water, in the nest of the rain-cloud: the seven attached (priests) have engendered (praise) to the showerer (of benefits), who is desirable, ever young, embodied, and resplendent.

13. In this world our mortal forefathers¹ departed after instituting the sacred rite, when, calling upon the dawn, they extricated the milk-yielding kine, concealed among the rocks in the darkness (of the cave). Varga XIV.

¹ The Angirasas: the purport of this and the next verse is obviously the attribution of the origin of fire-worship to Angiras and his followers.

14. Rending the rocks, they worshipped (AGNI), and other (sages) taught everywhere their (acts): unprovided with the means of (extricating) the cattle, they glorified the author of success, whence they found the light, and were thus enabled (to worship him) with holy ceremonies.

15. Devoted (to AGNI), those leaders (of sacred rites), with minds intent upon (recovering) the eattle, forced open, by (the power) of divine prayer, the obstructing, compact, solid mountain confining the cows, a cow-pen full of kine.

Varga XV.

16. They first have comprehended the name of the kine,¹ knowing the thrice seven excellent (forms) of the maternal (rhythm);² then they glorified the conscious dawns, and the purple dawn appeared with the radiance of the sun.

17. The scattered darkness was destroyed; the firmament glowed with radiance; the lustre of the divine dawn arose: then the sun stood above the undecaying mountains, beholding all that was right or wrong among mankind.

18. Thereupon awaking, the (Angirasas) beheld (the cattle set free), and seized upon the precious treasures: the universal gods then came to all (their) dwellings: MITRA and VARUNA may your truth be (kept) to him who worships (you).

¹ Temanwata prathamam náma dhenoh: according to Sáyana, dhenoh may mean vách, speech, and with náma, stutisádhakam sabdamátram, mere sound as the means of praise: it may also have its ordinary sense, the passage refering to the ancient nomenclature of cattle, as uttered by the Angirasas, as Ehi, surabhi, guqgulu, gandhiní, &c.

² There are twenty-one metres of the Vedas.

19. May I glorify the present radiant AGNI, the invoker (of the gods), the supporter of the universe, most deserving of adoration, without milking the pure udder (of the cow), without the purified food of the Soma offered in libation.¹

20. May AGNI be the $Aditi^2$ of all those to whom sacrifice is offered; may he be the guest of all men: receiving the (sacrificial) food of the devout,³ may he, to whom all is known, be the bestower of felicity.

. Súкта II. (II.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. He who has been placed immortal among the mortals,⁴ the observer of truth, a deity triumphant among gods, the invoker of the gods, the most diligent sacrificer, AGNI: he has been placed (upon the altar) to lighten (the ceremony) by his (lustre), and for the elevation of the worshipper, through oblations (in heaven).

2. AGNI, son of strength, generated to day at this our rite, as intermediate between both (gods and man) thou proceedest, the invoker (of the gods), harness-

³ Devánam ava ávrinánah, according to Sáyana, is participating in the sacrificial food of the worshippers: Mahídhara explains it, delivering the oblations offered to the gods, i.e. through fire.

⁴ Or among mortal organs of sense, Agni being that of speech: agreeably to the text, Agnir-vág-bhútwá mukham právisat. Varga XVI.

¹ According to the scholiast, this implies that no offering is made to Agni on the occasion; praise alone is addressed to him.

² May he be the cherisher of the gods as if he were Aditi their mother; or Aditi may mean the earth, that is, their stay or support: Mahidhara, on this verse, Yajur-Veda, XXXIII. 16, explains it. etymologically; without a defect, yasya khandanam násti, adína, not mean or base.

ing, graceful AGNI, thy robust, vigorous, and resplendent steeds.

3. I celebrate the ruddy, food-bestowing, watershedding, and swifter-than-thought-going, steeds of him who is the truth: harnessing the brilliant pair (to thy chariot), thou passest between the deities of whom thou art, and human worshippers.¹

4. Possessed, AGNI, of good steeds, an excellent car, and abundant wealth, do thou, amidst these (worshippers) bring to the man who offers worthy oblations, ARYAMAN, VARUNA, MITRA, VISHNU, the Maruts, or the Aswins.

5. May the sacrifice, AGNI, be productive of cows, of sheep, of horses, and, celebrated by thy worshipper, aided by the priests, be ever uninterrupted: may it, mighty AGNI, be productive of food and progeny, long continued, affluent, wide based, and held in full assembly.²

Varga XVII.

6. Thou art the munificent recompenser³ of that man who, sweating (with toil), brings thee fuel, and for thy service causes his head to ache: protect him, AGNI, from every one that seeks to do him evil.

7. May a son, firm in (devotion) and liberal (in offerings), be born to him who presents (sacrificial) food to thee when needing food, who gives thee constantly the exhibit arating (Soma juice), who welcomes thee as a guest, and devoutly kindles thee in his mansion.

³ Swataván páyuh is explained, dhanaván pálayitri, wealthy preserver.

8. Preserve from sin the liberal sacrificer who glorifies thee morning and evening, and, presenting oblations, does what is acceptable to thee in his own abode, like a horse with golden caparisons.¹

9. Let not him who makes offerings to thee, AGNI, who art immortal, who with uplifted ladle pours out oblations repeating thy praise, ever want riches, and let not the wickedness of a malevolent (foe) circumvent him.

10. May that prayer be agreeable to thee, AGNI, who art a gracious deity, (which is uttered) by the man with whose well-conducted sacrifice thou art well pleased, youngest (of the gods), of whose (rites) when worshipping thee may we be the promoters.

11. May the wise AGXI discriminate between virtue and vice, between (virtuous and wicked) men, as a (groom distinguishes between) the strong and weak backs (of horses):² enrich us with wealth accompanied by virtuous offspring: be bountiful to the liberal giver; shun him who gives not.

² This passage is elliptically and metaphorically expressed, chittim, achittim, chinavadvi-vidrán, may the sage (Agni) distinguish that which is to be known, chittim jnátavyam punyam, or virtue, and achittim achetaníyam, not to be thought of, or pápam, sin; or chittim and achittim may be explained by jnánam and ajnánam, knowledge and ignorance: martán, mortals or men, has no epithets; the scholiast supplies them: the comparison runs, prishthera vítá vrijiná cha, like backs bright, (kántáni) and ill-bearing (durcaháni); for the horses and the groom, (aşwapálu), we are indebted to Sáyana. Varga XVIII.

¹ Aswo na swe dame hemyáván, that is, according to the scholisst, suvarna-nirmita-hakshyáván, having a girth made of gold, applying the epithet to the horse, although separated by swé dame, in his own house.

12. The unreviled sages abiding in the dwellings of man have glorified the sage (AGNI); therefore, lord of sacrifice, thou mayest proceed with swift-moving feet to behold the admirable and marvellous deities.

13. Resplendent AGNI, youngest of the gods, the satisfier of (the desires of) men, who art easily to be conducted (to the altar), bestow joy-yielding and abundant wealth for his preservation upon the worshipper who praises and worships thee and offers thee libations.

14. Therefore, AGNI, when we labour for the with hands and feet, and all our members, the pious performers of rites, (the Angirasas), exercise their arms in the work (of attrition), as wheelwrights fabricate a car.

15. May we seven priests first in order engender from the maternal dawn the worshippers of the creator (AGNI); may we Angirasas be the sons of heaven,¹ and, radiant, divide the wealth-containing mountain.²

² Adrim rujema dhaninam, may allude to the rock in which the cows were hidden, or adri may be rendered cloud (megha), by the disruption of which rain is made to fall.

¹ Dirasputrá angiraso bhavema, or may we, the sons of heaven, be Angirasas; or, according to the scholiast, bhútímantah, possessed of superior power: according to a text cited by the commentator, which, however, is not very explicit, the Angirasas are the sons of Aditya, angirasám ádityaputratwam ámnáyate: the text is tasya yad retah prathamam udadípyata tad asáu ádityo abhavat, ityupakramya ye angára ásans-te angiraso abhavan, that which was his seed was first manifested as Áditya, thence, in succession, those which were the cinders became the Angirasas: see vol. I. p. 4.

16. Thus, AGNI, our excellent and ancient forefathers, celebrators of holy sacrifice, proceeded to (the region of) pure light,¹ and, reciting prayers and dispersing gloom, they made manifest the purple (kine).

17. Performers of good works, brilliant and devout, the praises of the gods have freed their birth from impurity, as (a smith heats) iron: exciting AGNI, elevating INDRA, and wandering about (in search), they have gone to the vast (hidden) herd of cattle.

18. Fierce (AGNI), when (INDRA) proclaimed the near opresence of the herd of the kine of the divine (Angirasas) as a herd of cattle in a well stored stall,² the progeny of mortals were thereby enabled (to perform pious acts), and the master of the family rendered competent to (provide for) the increase of posterity and (the support of) dependants.

¹ Suchid ayan didhitim; diptam sthånam tejas chågachchhan: Mahidhara, Yajur, XIX. 69, explains this by ravi mandalam, the orb of the sun, and gives a different interpretation to the last phrases; may we, dividing the rays of the sun, and piercing theearth (with sacrificial posts and the like), also proceed by the path of the gods, or to heaven : it is rather a bold interpretation, however, to convert aparran, the third plur. of the third preterite, into aparrinumah, first plur. of the present with the sense of the potential: this and the three following verses occur in the Atharva-Veda, XVIII. 3, 21, 24.

² Áyútheva kshumati pasuoh, akhyat devánám yaj-janimánti, is, literally, like a herd in food-possessing animals, he has said of the gods that which birth is nigh: janimá, Sáyana interprets go-sangham, and makes out the rest as above; or he proposes an alternative, not more intelligible: the second half of the stanza is equally obscure as the first; martánám chid urvasírakripran vridhe chid arya uparasya áyoh: urvasíh is rendered by Sáyana, prajá, progeny, as if it was the nominative, instead of being the accus. plural; and if so, there is no nom. to akripran, were made able: the word is remarkable, and is made more so by Sáyana's reference to Yáska, Nir. v. 1, where the word means, as usual, Apsaras, and the etymology is urvabhya așnuta, or urabhyám asnuta, who pervades or proceeds from the thigh, conformably to the Pauranik legend of Varga XIX.

19. We have worshipped thee (AGNI), and have thereby become the performers of a good work, adoring the full and variously delighting AGNI, the beautiful lustre of the radiant divinity, when the brilliant dawns have arrayed (themselves) in light.

20. Creator, AGNI, we have repeated these thy praises to thee who art all-wise; do thou accept them: blaze aloft; make us opulent: do thou who art worshipped by many bestow upon us ample wealth.

Súkta III. (III).

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XX.

1. Secure AGNI, the king of sacrifice, the afflicter (of foes), the invoker (of the gods), the distributor of food through heaven and earth, the golden formed, for your protection, before (surprised by) sudden death.¹

2. This is the altar which we have decorated for thee, as a wife attached to her husband puts on elegant garments (to gratify him): maturer of good works, sit down in our presence invested (with radiance), while thy flames incline towards thee.

3. Repeat, oh priest, the praise, the prayer, to the attentive, the affable AGNI, the beholder of man, the giver of felicity, the divine, the immortal; to him whom the effuser of the libration, like the (bruising) stone, adores aloud.

her birth from the thigh of Náráyana: see also the Vihramorvasí of Kálidása, which shews the legend to be of some antiquity.

¹ Purá tanayitnor achittát, lit. before the unconsciousness of the thunderbolt; implying, according to the scholiast, a state of unconsciousness, or death, as sudden as if the work of the thunderbolt.

4. Thou, AGNI, presidest over this our rite: do thou, who art cognizant of truth, and the author of good works, recognise this our adoration, whenever these exhilarating prayers (are addressed) to thee, whenever friendly relations with thee are (cstablished) in our dwelling.

5. Why, AGNI, dost thou reproach us (for our sin) to VARUNA, why to the heaven? what is our offence? why repeat it to the bountiful MITRA, to earth, to ARYAMAN, or to BHAGA?

6. Why repeat it when exalted in holy ceremonies? why tell it to the mighty, benevolent, circumambient, truthful wind? why, AGNI, to earth, why to mandestroying RUDRA?¹

7. Why to the great and nutriment-conveying PÚSHAN? why to RUDRA, the object of worship, the giver of the oblation (to the gods)? why to the many-hymned VISHNU? why tell our sin to the extensive year?²

Varga XXI.

8. Why tell it to the veracious company of the Rudráya nri-gine, the man-slayer, Rudra; the scholiast says, of wicked mep.

2 Sarave vrihatyai: saruh, sarat, samvatsarah, or saru, may mean nirriti, the female personification of evil, who, by some unaccountable indvertence, I have turned, in a former passage, into a male deity : see vol. 1 p. 107, verse 6 : nirriti does occur, however, in the masculine; as in the scholia on the Taittiriya Yajush, I. 2, 11: nirritir yajnavigháti rákshasah, an evil spirit disturbing sacrifice. Cal. Ed. p. 405: and in the comment of Bharatasena on the word nairrita in the Amara kosha, 1. 1, 56, he gives nirriti as synonymous with nairrita; nirritir eva nairrita iti rá, citing the Ratna kosha in confirmation, nairritas tu khasáputro rákshaso nírritis-cha sah, Nairrita, the son of Khasá, a Rákshasa, he is also Nirriti : in the passage of the first Ashtaka adverted to, the epithets are feminine, and tho change of sex is unwarranted. Maruts? why, even when asked, to the mighty sun? why repeat it to ADITI, or to the swift wind? fulfil, all-knowing JATAVEDAS, (the worship) of heaven.

9. I solicit, AGNI, the milk of the cow, essential for the sacrifice: yet immature, (she possesses) the sweet and ripe (fluid): black though she be, yet with her white nutritious milk she maintains mankind in existence.

10. The male AGNI, the showerer (of benefits), has been sprinkled by the genuine sustaining milk: the giver of food proceeds unswerving (from his course), and the sun, the shedder of rain, has milked the white (fluid) of the udder (of the firmament).¹

11. By the sacrifice, the Angirasas, rending the mountain asunder, have thrown it open, and returned with the cows: the leaders (of holy rites) have arrived happily at the dawn, and the sun was manifest as Λ_{GNI} was engendered.²

12. By sacrifice, AGNI, the divine rivers, immortal, unobstructed, continue perpetually to flow with sweet waters, like a horse that is being urged in his speed.

13. Go not ever, AGNI, to the sacrifice of any one who injures us; nor to that of a malevolent neighbour; nor to that of an (unnatural) relation: accept not the due (oblation) from an insincere brother: let us not derive enjoyment from the enemy of a friend.

14. AGNI, worthily worshipped, conservator, conciliated (by our offerings), protect us with thy protections: enlighten us: entirely extirpate our sin; overcome the great and exulting Rákshasas.

Varga XXII.

¹ Duduhe prisnir-údhas: Prisni here, according to the comment, is a synonyme of Súrya.

² Alluding to the early morning sacrifice with fire, probably instituted by the Angirasas.

15. Be propitiated, AGNI, by these hymns; accept, hero, these (sacrificial) viands (presented) with praises: be pleased, ANGIRAS, by our prayers: may the adoration addressed to the gods exalt thee.

16. AGNI, creator, to thee who art wise, acquainted with the past, I address, oh sage, these soliciting mysterious words, (these) ever-to-be-recited poems,¹ together with praises and prayers.

SÚKTA IV. (IV.)

The deity is AGN1, the Rahshas-slayer; the Rishi and metre as before.

1. Put forth thy strength, AGNI, as a fowler Varga XXIII. spreads a capacious snare: proceed like a king attended by his followers on his elephant:² thou art the scatterer (of thy foes): following the swift-moving host³ consume the Rákshasas with thy fiercest flames.

2. Thy swift and errant flames descend (on every side): fierce-shining with vigour consume (the foe):

· 1 Nivachaná (ni) kávyáni; nitaram vaktavyáni, kavibhih kritáni, those which are made by poets ever to be recited.

² Rájevámaván ibhena: the latter (ibha) may mean fearless, (host understood) gatabhayena, or, as usual, hastiná: ama has also different interpretations, a minister, for amátya, or ama, an associate; or sickness, inflicting it on the foe: the verse occurs in the Niruhta, vi. 13, and is explained as in the text; and again in the Yajush, XIII. 9, with, upon the whole, a similar explanation.

³ Trishwim anu prasitim drúnánah is explained by Sáyana, kshiprayá maním prakrishtám senám anugachchhan: Yáska puts the two first into the third case, trishryá anu prasityá, but does not give any meaning to the latter: the first he explains quick : Sáyana also gives the reading, and explains the noun by santatayá gatyá, with extended or continuous march: Mahídhara gives prasiti the import it had in the first part of the verse, a net, a snare: this and the three following verses occur in the Yajush, XIII. 10, 13 : the explanation occasionally slightly varies.

scatter, AGNI, with the ladle (of oblation), scorching flames, and sparks, and brands.

3. Do thou, who art most rapid, direct thy (flames) against opposing (rays),¹ and, unresisted, become the protector of this thy people against the calumiator who is remote or who is nigh: let no malevolent (foe) prevail against us (who are) thy worshippers.

4. Sharp-weaponed AGNI, rise up; spread wide (thy flames) against (the Rákshasas); entirely consume the foes: blazing AGNI, burn down him who acts as an enemy towards us^2 like a piece of dry timber.

5. Rise up, AGNI, chastise those who overpower us; manifest thy divine energies; slacken the strong (bow strings) of the malignant kings; destroy those (who are hostile), whether kindred or unallied.³

Varga XXIV.

6. He experiences thy good favour, youngest (of the gods), who offers praise to thee, a Brahman, coming quickly (to bestow felicity):⁴ to him are all prosperous days and wealth (of cattle) and treasures: do thou, as the lord of sacrifice, shine upon his dwelling.⁵

¹ Prati spaso visrija: spasah is explained by Sáyana, parabádhahán rasmír, or he says it may mean chárán, spies, sent to determine between true and false, satyánritavivehártham; so Mahídhara interprets it, pranidhín, but he understands by it binders, imprisoners, bandhanahritah.

 2 Arátim chahre may also mean who annuls or prevents our donation, one who makes a gift no gift.

³ Jámim-ajámim, bandhum abandhum; or it may mean whether formerly overcome or not: Mahídhara explains it punaruhtam apunaruhtam, repeated or not repeated; or punah punastáditam atádítam, repeatedly chastised or not chastised.

⁴ Ivate brahmane: we have no explanation of the latter except parivridháya, to the greatly augmented.

⁵ Aryo vi duro abhidyaut, is also, as Sáyana observes, dif-

7. May the liberal man ever be prosperous who propitiates thee with constant oblations and praises: may all the days in his arduous life be prosperous, and may this (this) sacrifice be (productive of reward).

8. I reverence thy good favour, AGNI: may this reiterated and resounding hymn convey due praise to thy presence: may we be possessed of good horses and good cars,¹ that we may pay thee homage; and do thou daily bestow upon us riches.

9. May every one of his own accord diligently worship thee, shining in the (hall) morning and evening, every day: thus, sporting in our dwellings, (enjoying) the wealth of (hostile) man, may we with happy hearts worship thee.

10. Thou, AGNI, art the protector of him who, possessed of good horses and a golden car, approaches thee with a chariot laden with wealth: thou art the friend of him who gratifies thee by the due performance of hospitality to thee.

11. Invoker (of the gods), youngest (of the deities); possessed of excellent wisdom, through the alliance (with thee produced) by holy texts, which came to me from my father GOTAMA, I demolish the powerful (demons): do thou, who art the humbler (of foes), be cognizant of our praises.

12. All-wise AGNI, may thy protecting (rays), unslumbering, alert, propitious, unslothful, benignant, unwearied, co-operating, having taken their place (at this sacrifice), preserve us.

ferently rendered by some, he the worshipper especially shines over his house, aryo yajamáno grihán abhi viseshena dyotate.

¹ This, according to the scholias:, is metaphorical for may we, being with sons, grandsons, and the like, worship thee. Varga XXV.

13. Those thy protecting (rays), AGNI, which, beholding (what had chanced), preserved the blind son of MAMATA from misfortune:¹ he, knowing all things, cherished those benevolent (rays),² and his enemies, intending to destroy him, wrought him no harm.

14. AGNI, who art freed from shame, by thee we are made opulent; by thee we are protected; may we, through thy guidance, attain abundant food: cherisher of truth, destroy both (sorts of calumniators), those who are nigh, those who are far off, and in due course fulfil (our desires).

15. May we propitiate thee, Λ GNI, by this fuel: accept the praise that is recited by us: consume the unadoring Rákshasas; thou who art to be honoured by (thy) friends, preserve us from the reproach of the oppressor and the reviler.

Sύκτα V. (V.)

The deity is AGNI as VAISWANARA; the Rishi VAMADEVA; the metre Trishtuhh.

1. How may we present rejoicing (fit offerings) to AGNI, the showerer (of benefits); to VAISWÁNARA, he, who bright with great lustre, sustains the heaven,

Varga I.

¹ Allusion is made, according to the commentator, to the wellknown filthy legend of the birth of Dirghatamas, who, it is here said by Sáyana, recovered his sight by worshipping Aqui.

² Raraksha tán sukrito viswavedas: it is not very clear whether viswavedas applies to Agni or to Dirghatamas: Sáyana, by inserting bhaván, your honour, adopts the former, but it seems questionable.

with his entire vast and insupportable (bulk), as a pillar (sustains a roof).

2. Reproach not the divine (AGNI), who, accepting the oblation, has given this wealth to me, his mortal (worshipper) of mature (intellect); AGNI, who is wise, immortal, discriminating, (who is) VAISWÁNARA, chief conductor (of rites), the mighty.

3. May AGNI, filling both (the middling and most excellent condition),¹ bright shining, of manifold vigour, the showerer of (benefits), the possessor of affluence, (who comprehends) by (his) wisdom the mysterious sacred hymn, as (they track) the footsteps of a (missing) cow, reveal (the sense) to me.²

4. May the sharp-toothed AGNI, possessed of excellent wealth, consume with his fierce radiance those (adversaries) who injure the firm and valued glories of the sapient VARUNA and MITRA.

5. Like women who have no brethren, going (about from their own to their father's house), women adverse to their lords going astray, so the wicked, false (in thought), false (in speech),³ they give birth to this deep abyss (of hell).⁴

² Sáma-mahi-padam na goh apagúlham vividwán agnir mahyam predu vochan maníshám: the detached position of several of these words makes the sense somewhat uncertain; maníshám, the scholiast connects with Sáma, and explains it jnátavyam, what is to be known: apagúlham atyantarahasyam he would seem to attach to padam, but both renderings are perhaps questionable.

³Anritáh, mánasasatyarahitá; asatyáh, váchikasatyarahitáh.
⁴ Idam padam ajanatá gabhíram, they engender this deep station, that is, according to Sáyana, narakasthánam.

VOL. III.

Varga II.

6. Purifier, AGNI, bestow on me, not neglecting thy worship, this acceptable and vast (wealth), like a heavy load on a feeble (bearer), together with invigorating food; (wealth), secure, abundant, tangible, and consisting of the seven elements.¹

7. May our (self)-purifying praise, suited to his glory, and accompanied by worship, quickly attain to that omniform (VAISWÁNARA)² whose swift-ascending brilliant (orb) is stationed on the east of the earth, to mount, like the sun, above the immoveable heaven.³

8. What objection (can be offered) to this my assertion, that they affirm that the milk of the kine, which (the milkers) obtain like water, is placed in concealment (by VAISWÁNARA), and cherishes the excellent and valued expanse of the wide earth.

9. I recognise this adorable assemblage of the great (deities),⁴ which from of old the milk-shedding cow affects, shining above the region of water, (the firmament), in secret; swift gliding, swift moving.

10. Then, radiant in association with the parents, (heaven and earth), he is awakened (to drink) the agreeable secretion of the cow, and the tongue of the

² Vaiswánara is here said to be understood in the sense of the sun, upon the authority of Yáska, or, according to different opinions, the word expresses agni as lightning, or áditya.

⁴ Mahámáníkam, the solar orb, according to the scholiast identified with vaiswánara, súryamandalam vaiswánara.

assiduous (performer of holy rites),¹ the resplendent showerer (of benefits), approaching the excellent station of the maternal (cow), seeks to drink the milk.

11. Interrogated with respect, I declare the truth, that this (wealth is acquired), JATAVEDAS, by the praise of thee: thou rulest over it, (over) all that (it may be), the wealth that is in heaven or on earth.

12. What is the value of this (wealth) to us ? what is its advantage ? inform us, JATAVEDAS, for thou knowest: (tell us) what is the best (course) for us on this secret path, so that we may follow unreproached the direct road.

13. What is the limit, what are the objects, which is the desirable (end) to which we rush like swift (chargers) to the battle? when for us will the divine dawns, the brides of the immortal (sun), overspread (the world) with light.

14. (Men are) not satisfied by unproductive, frivolous, inconclusive, scanty speech; then what, AGNI, do they here say to thee ? devoid of the implements (of worship), let them suffer from distress.²

15. For the prosperity of this (institutor of the rite), the host (of the flames) of the kindled (AGNI), the showerer (of benefits), the giver of dwellings, has blazed in the hall (of sacrifice); clothed in radiance,

¹ The text has only prayatasya, which the commentator amplifies into áhavaníyádirupena niyatasya vaiswánarasya, of vaiswánara active in the form of the áhavaníya fire and the rest.

² That is, if they pretend to worship Agni without the oblation, and other materials of a burnt offering, they cannot expect his favour.

beautiful in semblance, and glorified by many, he shines like a man with opulence.¹

Sύκτα VI. (VI.)

The deity is AGNI, the Rishi and metre as before.

1. AGNI, ministrant of the sacrifice, do thou who art entitled to worship, be above us in this offering to the gods; for thou prevailest over all that is desirable;² thou inspirest the praise of the worshipper.

2. The unperplexed, the sagacious, exhilarating AGNI, the ministrant priest, has been placed amongst men for (the celebration of) sacrifices: like the sun, he spreads light above, and props the smoke above the sky like a pillar.

3. The ladle filled (with butter) is prepared : prompt (in act), opulent (with the oblation), the multiplying (priest), conducting (the worship) of the gods, circumambulates (the fire): the newly-trimmed post is set up, the impending shining axe falls upon the victims.

4. When the sacred grass is strewn and the fire is kindled, the Adhwaryu rises, propitiating (the gods), and AGNI, the offerer of the oblation, ancient and multiplying (the offering,) thrice circumambulates (the victim) like a keeper of cattle.³

t Kshitir-na ráyá, like a raja, or the like, with wealth of cattle and treasure, ráyáswádiná dhanena rájádiriva.

² Visuam abhyasi manma: the last is interpreted by Sáyana, mananíyam satrúnám dhanam abhibhavasi, thou conquerest the desirable wealth of focs.

5. AGNI, the sacrificer, the exhilarator, the sweetspoken, the object of sacrifice, moving measuredly, circumambulates (the victim) of his own (accord); the bright (rays) of him (fed) with (sacrificial) food, spread around:¹ all the regions are alarmed when he blazes.

6. Bright-shining AGNI, beautiful and auspicious is the semblance of thee, who art terrible and widespreading, for (the nights) hide not thy splendour with darkness, nor do the malignant (spirits) inflict any injury on thy person.

7. Of whom, progenitor (of mankind), the benevolence is never checked; whose parents need not urge him to exertion;² so that the well-satisfied, purifying AGNI shines like a friend amongst men, the descendants of MANU.³

8. AGNI, whom the twice five sisters⁴ dwelling amongst men, the descendants of MANU, have engendered, like females, (awaking) him at dawn,⁵ feeding stanza, however, clearly shews that it is Agni who goes round, either the altar or the victim: Sáyana says the latter, parito gachchhati pasum.

¹ Asya vájino na soká may also be rendered aswá íva díptayo dravanti, his rays spread fast like horses.

² Na mátará pitará nú chid ishtau, nor mother and father, i. e. heaven and earth, are quickly powerful in urging him : yasya preshane kshipram eva na prabhavatah, is Sáyana's interpretation.

³ Mánushishu vikshu, may mean only human beings.

4 The fingers employed in producing fire by attrition.

5 Usharbudham atharyo na dantam, striya iva ushasi budhyamánam havishám bhakshakam: there is no verb, unless jíjanan is borrowed from the first half of the stanza: the meaning of danta may be also questionable. on oblations, brilliant, of goodly aspect, and sharp as an axe.

9. Thy horses, AGNI, breathing foam, red-coloured, straight-going, well-paced, bright-shining, vigorous, well-membered, and of graceful form, are summoned to the worship of the gods.

10. Those, thy rays, AGNI, triumphant, widespreading, radiant, adorable, go like hawk-faced horses (to their goal), loud-sounding like the company of the Maruts.

11. Well-kindled AGNI, for thee the prayer has been composed:¹ may (the priest) propitiate (thee) by (his) praise: the (sacrificer) offers worship: bestow upon us manifold (wealth): desiring (riches), men sit down adoring AGNI, the invoker of the gods, the glorifier of mankind.

Sťkta VII. (VII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the first stanza is Jagatí, of the five following Anushtubh, and of the rest Trishtubh.

1. This invoker of the gods and minister of frequent worship, who is to be glorified at sacrifices, has been placed first (of the gods) by the performers of the rite:² the AGNI whom APNAVÁNA and other *Bhrigus*³

¹ Akári Brahma, the prayer or praise has been made; rather unfavourable to the doctrine of the uncreated origin of the Veda.

² According to Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, 111. 15, the Agni here intended is the Áhavaniya which is kindled before the Dakshina.

³ Apnaváno bhrigavah : according to Sáyana, Apnavánah is the name of a Rishi of the family of Bhrigu: Mahidhara lighted in the woods for the sake of all men, marvellous (in his acts), and sovereign (over all).

2. When, AGNI, is the light of thee, bright-shining, to be manifested; for therefore have mortals accepted thee as to be worshipped amongst mankind.

3. Contemplating thee in every dwelling, truthful, intelligent, (brilliant with sparks) like the sky with stars, the perfecter of all sacrifices.

4. Men have brought, for the sake of all people, the swift messenger of the worshipper (to the gods),¹ who (rules) over all mankind, the manifester, the resplendent.²

5. They (the worshippers) have seated him in his due order, the invoker (of the gods), the intelligent, the agreeable, the purifyingly-radiant, the performer of frequent sacrifice, (brilliant) with seven flames.

6. Him, abiding in the maternal (waters) and in the woods, loved, yet unapproached,³ wonderful, hidden in a cave, endowed with knowledge, seeking (oblations) from any quarter.⁴

7. Whom, when they desist from slumber, the devout propitiate in the abode of water at every sacrifice: the mighty AGNI, to whom oblations are to be offered Varga VII.

makes it the plur. apravánáh, and other Rishis, and the Bhrigus: he says it may also mean putravantah, having sons, an epithet of the Bhrigus.

¹ Dútam vivaşwatah: the second is explained manushyasya yajamánasya, of the man, of the worshipper.

² Bhrigavánam-bhriguvad-ácharantam, going like Bhrigu, that is, dípyamánam-ityartha, shining, or being kindled.

³ Vítam-hántam; asritam, dáhabhayádasevitam, bright or beloved, not honoured or served, through fear of being burnt.

⁴ Kúchid arthinam : the first is for hwachit, anywhere, any how; seeking fuel, butter, &c., samidájyádihavih swíhurvantam.

with reverence, who, truthful always, accepts the sacrifice.

8. Thou who art all-knowing understandest the functions of a messenger (of the gods) at the sacrifice: well informed of both heaven and earth, and the intermediate (firmament), and a most intelligent, ancient, and amplifying envoy, thou goest up the ascents of heaven.

9. Dark is the path of thee who art bright; the light is before thee; thy moving radiance is the chief of (all luminous) bodies: when the present (worshippers) take up the germ (in the sticks of attrition) thou art speedily generated, and becomest indeed the messenger (of the sacrifice).

10. The light of the speedily-generated is visible, and when the wind fans the flame, he (AGNI) spreads his blazing tongue amongst the trees, and with his (glowing) teeth consumes the standing (fuel his) food.

11. When quickly, with rapid (radiance), he has carried off his food, the mighty AGNI makes (himself) the fleet messenger (of the worshipper); consuming (the fuel), he allies himself with the force of the wind, and as (a horseman) urges his fast steed, so the rapid going AGNI invigorates and urges (his flames).

Súkta VIII. (VIII.)

The deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Gáyatrí.

1. I propitiate thee with praise, the messenger (of the gods), the omniscient, the bearer of oblations, the immortal, the chief sacrificer.¹

2. The mighty one knows how to bestow the (desired) wealth (upon the worshipper); he knows the ascents of heaven: may he bring the gods hither.

3. He, the divine (AGNI), knows how the gods are to be reverenced: to the sincere (worshipper) in his dwelling he gives the wealth that is desired.

4. He is the invoker (of the gods), comprehending the deity of (their) messenger; and, knowing the ascent of the sky, he travels between earth and heaven.

5. May we be they who propitiate AGNI with gifts of oblations, and who, cherishing him, feed him with fuel.

6. They are renowned for riches and for progeny, who, venerating AGNI, offer him oblations.

7. May riches, envied by many, devolve upon us day by day, and (abundant) food await us.

8. May the wise AGNI entirely obviate by his power the removable (ills) of men the descendants of MANU.¹

SUKTA IX. (IX.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. AGNI, make us happy, for thou art mighty,² (thou) who comest to this devout man to sit down on the sacred grass.

2. May that AGNI, who is difficult to overcome, who is immortal, who is pre-eminent among men the descendants of MANU, become the messenger of all the gods.

¹ Atikshiprena vidhyati, is explained kshepyányevavinásayitum arháni duritáni atişayena násayatu, may he entirely destroy the evils which are capable of being destroyed.

Varga XI.

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 23: Professor Benfey's text reads, Mahán asyaya ádevayum: Professor Müller has mahánasi ya im-á-devayum.

3. He is conveyed into the sacrificial hall as the Hotri to be adored at sacrifices, or as the *Potri*¹ he sits down (on the sacred grass).

4. AGNI may be the officiating priest at the sacrifice,² or the master of the house in the sacrificial chamber, or he sits down as the Brahman.

5. Thou, who art the director (of the ceremonial),³ acceptest the oblations of devoutly-worshipping man the descendants of MANU.

6. Thou art willing (to fulfil) the office of messenger for the mortal whose oblations at the sacrifice thou art pleased to convey.

7. Be pleased by our sacrifice; (he pleased) ANGIRAS, by our offering: hear our invocation.

8. May thy inviolable car, whereby thou defendest⁴ the donors of oblations, be everywhere around us.

Súкта X. (X.)

The deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Padapanhti.

1. We celebrate thee to day, AGNI, who art like a horse (in conveying our burdens) with thy praises, ¹ Two of the sixteen priests are here named: the Hotri is the offerer of the oblation; the function of the Potri doubtful.

² Uta gná agnir adhwara: the meaning of gná is, usually, devapatní, a wife of a deity, agreeably to which, one rendering suggested by Sáyana is agnir yáje devapatnir yajati, Agni worships the wives of the gods at the sacrifice; or, as an alternative, gná, as equivalent to gachchhan, going, may designate the adhwaryu, who moves about at the ceremonial.

³ Upavaktá, the priest who pronounces the formulæ of sacrifice, or he may be the Brahmá, or the Sadasya, directing what is to be done.

4 The verse occurs in the Yajush, 111. 36.

Varga X.

conveying (our wishes to the gods), and (who art) like a benefactor, propitious and affectionate.¹

2. Be now the conveyer, AGNI, of our auspicious, powerful, efficacious, truthful, and great sacrifice.

3. AGNI, who like the sun art light, propitiated by these our hymns, come to our presence with all thy hosts (of radiance).²

4. Glorifying thee, AGNI, to day, with these our praises, may we offer thee (oblations): thy (flames), bright as those of the sun, roar aloud.

5. Thy lovely radiance, AGNI, whether by day or by night, shines upon (all objects) like an ornament (to give them) beauty.

6. Giver of sustenance, (AGNI), thy favour is free from fault, like clarified butter: thy pure and golden lustre shines like an ornament.

7. Truthful AGNI, verily thou removest from the mortal who institutes (thy) worship, whatever sin has been committed (by him) of old.

² This and the preceding occur Yajur-Veda, xv. 45 and 46, and Sáma-Veda, 11. 1128, 1129.

8. May our friendly and fraternal attentions to you deities prove fortunate; for such (attentions shewn) in every sacrifice (form) our security in the sphere (of the gods).¹

ANUVÁKA II. Súkta I. (XI.)

The deity and Rishi as before, the metre is Trishtubh.

1. Powerful AGNI, thy auspicious radiance shines upon the proximity of the sun (by day); thy bright and visible (lustre) is conspicuous by night,¹ as the bland and pleasing food (of sacrifice, the oblation) becomes manifest in thy form.

2. AGNI, who art engendered repeatedly, and glorified by sacrifice, set open heaven to him who offers thee adoration: resplendent (AGNI), bestow upon us that ample and acceptable (wealth), which, radiant (deity), thou, with all the gods, hast given (to other worshippers).

3. The offerings² (to the gods) are engendered, A_{GNI} , of thee; from thee (proceed) praises; from thee effective prayers; from thee come a vigorous frame and wealth to the man who worships with sincerity and offers oblations.

Varga XI.

¹ So Sáyana explains, no nábhih sadane; nábhi, bandhanam, binding or fastening: devánaín stháne, in the place of the gods, and sasminnúdhan, sarvasmín yajne, in every sacrifice.

² That is, oblations are to be offered with fire both morning and evening.

³ Kávyá for kávyáni is explained by Sáyana, acts in connection with fire, such as bringing the deities, conveying oblations and the like, or it may mean the functions of the adhwaryu; otherwise it might have been thought to refer to the havya, or offerings to the Pitris or manes.

4. From thee, who art vigorous, the conveyer of oblations, the vast, the granter of what is desired, is born (a son) of real strength; from thee comes wealth approved of by the gods, the source of happiness; from thee, AGNI, (is obtained) a swift unarrested horse.

5. Immortal AGNI, devout mortals worship with holy rites thee the first deity (of the gods), whose tongue exhilarates (them),¹ the dissipator of sin, the humiliator (of the demons),² the lord of the mansion, the unperplexed.

6. AGNI, son of strength, since thou protectest (thy worshippers), far (remove) from us all iniquity; far (remove from us) sin; far (from us) all evil thoughts; for prosperous is he of whom thou, who art radiant by night, promotest the well-being.

SUKTA II. (XII.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. May he who with uplifted ladle kindles thee, and thrice every day presents to thee the (sacrificial) food, knowing thy glory, JATAVEDAS, to be invigorated by the act, surpass (all others) in riches.

2. He who, labouring diligently, brings thee fuel, honouring, AGNI, thy great glory; he who kindles thee in the evening and at dawn; he, prosperous and destroying his enemies, acquires riches.³

² Damúnasam has various meanings: rahshasám damanakarana manusupetam, being intent on destroying the Rákshasas, having a mind for taming, or a tamed or humble mind, a liberal or a domestic mind.

³ Doshá sivah sahasoh suno yam deva á chit sachase swasti: Sáyana refers sivah to Agni, as sivahara, making happy, but then there is no antecedent to yam, whom.

3. AGNI is the possessor of great strength,¹ of excellent food, of riches, the youngest (of the gods): abounding in sustenance, he gives to the mortal who worships him precious (wealth) according to (his devotion).

4. If, youngest (of the gods), with the inconsiderateness common to men, we have ever committed any offence against thee, make us free from the defects of earth;² efface entirely, AGNI, our offences.

5. Let not us, AGNI, who are thy friends, ever suffer harm from any great or comprehensive offence against either gods or men: bestow forgiveness upon our sons and grandsons, the reward of what has been well done.³

6. Adorable Vasus, in like manner as you have liberated the cow bound by the foot, so set us free entirely from sin; and may our existence, AGNI, be prolonged.

Súkta III. (XIII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before; or the deities may be considered as those specified or alluded to in each stanza.

1. Favourably-minded, AGNI has manifested (his might) in regard to the wealth-bestowing procession of the resplendent dawns:⁴ proceed, ASWINS, to the

² Aditer anágán is rendered by Sáyana, bhúmer anágasah, páparahitán: in what sense the sins of earth, or against the earth, is to be understood, must be a matter of conjecture.

³ Yachchha toháya, tanayáya, sám yoh: sam the scholiast explains by páparúpodravanám sántim, expiation or pacification of violences of the nature of sin, and yoh, sukritotpáditam sukham, happiness produced by what is done well.

⁴ This is apparently a mere paraphrastic announcement that the dawn having appeared the morning fire is to be lighted.

Varga XIII.

dwelling of the pious (worshipper): the divine sun rises with splendour.

2. The divine SAVITRI diffuses his light on high, dispersing the dew, and like a vigorous (bull) ardent for the cow: then VARUNA, and MITRA, and other (divinities), hasten to (fulfil)¹ their offices when they elevate the sun in the sky.

3. Seven great coursers convey that sun, whom the (deities), occupants of enduring mansions, and not heedless (of their offices), have formed for the driving away of darkness, (and who is) the animator of the whole world.

4. Divine (sun), thou proceedest with most powerful (horses), spreading thy web (of rays), and cutting down the black abode (of night): the tremulous rays of the sun throw off the darkness which is spread like a skin over the firmament.

5. This sun, not far removed, and unobstructed, whether (looking) downwards or looking upwards, is harmed by no one: what is the power by which he travels? who has (truly) beheld him who, as the collective pillar of heaven, sustains the sky?

Súkta IV. (XVI.)

The deity or deities, the Rishi, and metre as before.

1. The resplendent AGNI, by whom all is known, has manifested (his might) in regard to the dawns

Varga XIV.

³ Yat súryam divy-árohanti the scholiast explains, yadá raşmayah súryasya árohanam kárayanti, when the rays of light cause the ascent of the sun, otherwise the nominative of the verb might be thought to be Mitra, Varuņa, and the rest, Mitra being the deity presiding over the day, Varuņa over the night. radiant with lustre: far-going NÁSATYAS, come with your car to this our sacrifice.

2. The divine SAVITRI displays his banner on high, diffusing light through all worlds: contemplating (all things), the sun has filled heaven and earth and the firmament with his rays.

3. The great and intelligent dawn, variegated with (many-coloured) rays of purple tint, bringing opulence, has come with (her) lustre: the divine USHAS, arousing (the sleepers), proceeds with her well-harnessed car (to distribute) felicity.

4. May those robust and active horses bring you, (ASWINS), hither at the breaking of the dawn, and may these Soma juices prepared, showerers (of benefits), for your drinking, exhilarate you at this (our sacrifice).

5. This sun, not far removed and unobstructed, whether looking downwards or looking upwards, is harmed by no one: what is the power by which he travels? who has (truly) beheld him who, as the collective pillar of heaven, sustains the sky.¹

Súkta V. (XV.)

The deity of the first six stanzas is AGNI; of the two next SOMAKA; of the two last the ASWINS; the Rishi is Vámadeva, the metre Gáyatrí.

Varga XV.

1. AGNI, the invoker (of the gods), like a horse (that bears a burden), is brought to our sacrifice;² a deity adorable amongst deities.

² Pariníyate has, however, a technical import, implying a formal ceremonial, the bringing of the fire taken from the household fire wherewith to light the sacrificial fire, v a j i san being a horse; that is, whom they load as a horse bringing a load; Agni being brought to become the bearer of the oblation, havir váhanah.

2. AGNI, thrice (a day), comes to our sacrifice like a charioteer, bearing the sacrificial food to the gods.

3. The sage, AGNI, the lord of food, has encompassed the oblation,¹ giving precious things to the donor.

4. Radiant is this AGNI, the subduer of foes, who is kindled on the (altar) of the east as (he was kindled) for SRINJAYA² the son of DEVAVÁTA.

5. May the mortal who is strenuous (in worship) acquire authority over this AGNI, the sharp-rayed, the showerer (of benefits).

6. They diligently worship him daily who is like a horse (to convey oblations), who is liberal and resplendent as the son of heaven, (the sun).

7. When the prince, the son of SAHADEVA, promised (to present) me with two horses, I withdrew not when called before him;³

8. But immediately accepted those two excellent and well-trained horses from the prince, the son of SAHADEVA.

9. Divine ASWINS, may this prince, SOMAKA, the son of SAHADEVA, your (worshipper), enjoy long life.

10. Divine ASWINS do you two make the prince, the son of SAHADEVA, long-lived.

³ Achchá na húta udaram is explained, abhimukhena kumárena húta san tavasvavalabdhwá na nirgataván asmi, being called by the present prince, I did not goforth without receiving the two horses.

Varga XVII.

1. May the truthful MAGHAVAN, the accepter of the spiritless Soma,¹ come to us; may his horses hasten to us: to him we offer this sacrifice, the very potent beverage: may he grant the fulfilment of our desires.

2. Hero, INDRA, set us free to-day to give thee exhilaration at this sacrifice, as (they let loose a horse) at the end of the road: may the worshipper, like UṢANAS, repeat an acceptable prayer to thee, the knower (of all things), the destroyer of the Asuras.

3. Like a sage (knowing) what is hidden, and fulfilling sacred rites, so the showerer (of benefits), quaffing copiously the effused (libation), exults (in the draught), and this generates the seven efficient (rays) from heaven, which, being glorified, have made (manifest) the objects of (human) perception by day.²

4. When the vast luminous heaven manifested by the rays (of light) is displayed, then are (the deities) resplendent according to (their heavenly) abode: the chief of leaders, (INDRA),³ in his approach has scattered the thick glooms so that men may see.

5. INDRA, the accepter of the stale Soma, sustains infinite greatness, and has filled both heaven and earth by his magnitude: therefore has the vastness of him who has surpassed all the regions, exceeded (the world).

² Ajijanat sapta kárún ahná chick-chahrur vayuná griņantah is rather obscure: it is explained by the scholiast as in the text.

³ The scholiast says $S\acute{u}rya$, but this can only be as identical with Indra, to whom the hymn is addressed.

6. Knowing all things profitable for men, SAKRA has, with his willing friends (the MARUTS), sent forth the waters, for they, with (loud) shouts, divided the clouds, and, desiring (to fulfil) their office, set open the pasturage of the cows (of the Angirasas).

7. Thy protecting thunderbolt has slain VRITRA, obstructing the (issue of the waters), the conscious earth (co-operating) with (thee): valiant hero, preserver (of the regions), send down by thy strength the waters of the firmament.

8. Invoked of many, when thou hadst divided the cloud for (the escape of) the waters, Saramá appeared before thee; and thou, the bringer of abundant food, hast shewn us favour, dividing the clouds and glorified by the Angirasas.

9. MAGHAVAN, who art honoured by men, thou hast repaired to the presence of the sage¹ for (the sake of) bestowing (upon him) wealth, and when soliciting (thee) in his need (for aid): defending (him) with thy protection, the guileful, impious Dasyu has been destroyed in the contest for the spoil.

10, With a mind resolved on killing the Dasyu, thou camest (to his dwelling), and KUTSA² was eager for thy friendship: now have you two alighted in his,

Varga XVII.

¹ The text has havim, usually rendered kránta darsí, the seer of the past; but according to the commentator it is here a synonyme of Kutsa, as in the next stanza.

² A Rájarshi, the son, it is here said, of Ruru, also a royal saint: frequent mention of the name has occurred, see Index, vols. I. and II., but it is borne by different persons: Kutsa, the author of several Súhtas, (vol. I. p. 26.), being termed the son of Angiras; whilst (ibid. p. 295.) we have a Kutsa son of Arjuna.

11. Thou goest with KUTSA in the same chariot, determined to defend him; (thou who art) the tormentor (of foes), the lord of horses (of the speed) of the wind: on the same day wherein, yoking (to the car) the straight-going steeds, as if to receive food, the sage (KUTSA) has been enabled to cross over (the sea) of calamity.

12. For KUTSA, thou hast slain the unhappy SUSHNA,² and, in the forepart of the day, attended by thousands, (thou hast slain) KUTAVA³ with the thunderbolt: thou hast swiftly destroyed the Dasyus, and thou hast cut them to pieces in the battle, with the wheel (of the chariot of) the sun.⁴

13. Thou hast subjugated PIPRU and the mighty MRIGAYA⁵ for the sake of RIJISWAN the son of VIDATHIN;⁶ thou hast slain the fifty thousand KRISHNAS;⁷ and, as old age (destroys) life, thou hast demolished the cities (of SAMBARA).

14. While having (thy) person in the proximity of the sun, thy form becomes redolent of ambrosia, and thou art like the cervine elephant,¹ consuming the strength (of the strong), and art like a terrible lion when wielding thy weapons.

15. Relying (upon INDRA) for protection, and desirous of riches, (pious men) repair to him soliciting his presence in the sacrifice, as if in the battle; asking for food, celebrating his praise with hymns, for he is the refuge (of his worshippers), and resembles the grateful and lovely (goddess) of nutrition.²

16. Let us invoke that gracious INDRA who has made so many things good for man; who, bestowing enviable opulence, quickly brings acceptable food to a worshipper like me.

17. Hero, INDRA, when in any conflict of men the sharp thunderbolt falls in the midst (of them), and when, lord, there is a terrible battle, then the defender of our persons is made known.

19. Be thou the protector of the pious acts of VAMADEVA; be thou in battle an unfailing friend: we come to thee, eminent in wisdom; mayst thou be ever benignant to thy praiser.

19. In every battle, MAGHAVAN, may we, along with those men who trust in the and offer rich gifts, like those who are resplendent with riches, triumphing over their foes, glorify thee many nights and years.

20. Therefore we offer to the vigorous INDRA, the showerer (of benefits), holy adoration, that he may never withdraw his friendly (actions) from us, and that he may be our powerful protector, the defender of (our) persons, as the Bhrigus (fabricate) a car (for use).¹

21. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): Lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee:² may we, possessed of chariots, be ever delighted in (thy) praise.

SUKTA VII. (XVII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is also the same, except in the fifteenth verse, in which it is Virát.•

1. Thou, INDRA, art mighty; the vast earth confesses to thee (thy) strength, as doth the heaven: thou hast slain VRITRA by thy vigour, thou hast set free the rivers arrested by AHI.

2. At the birth of thee who art resplendent, trembled the heaven (and) trembled the earth through fear of thy wrath; the mighty clouds were confined; they destroyed (the distress of drought), spreading the waters over the dry places.

3. The subduer of foes, manifesting his energy and hurling his thunderbolt, shattered the mountain by his strength: he slew VRITRA with the thunderbolt, exulting, and the waters whose obstructor was destroyed rushed forth with rapidity.

Varga XXI.

¹ Bhrigavo na ratham is all we have in the text: the scholiast explains the first diptás-takshánah, bright or dexterous carpenters: the object of the comparison is not very obvious, but apparently it intends, that as a wheelwright makes a chariot for a special purpose, so the worshipper performs worship in order to secure Indra's favour.

² Akári Brahma : the phrase has occurred before, see Súkta 6, verse 2.

4. Heaven, thy progenitor, conceived (I have obtained) a worthy son;¹ the maker of INDRA was the accomplisher of a most excellent work: he who begot the adorable (INDRA), armed with the thunderbolt, irremovable from his station, and endowed with greatness.

5. All men, praising the munificence of the divine MAGHAVAN, verily glorify him who alone casts down many, INDRA, the king of men, the adored of many.

6. Truly are all libations his; the inebriating draughts are truly most exhilarating to the mighty INDRA: truly art thou the lord of wealth, of (all sorts of) treasures: thou, INDRA, supportest all people by the gift (of riches).

7. (We praise) the slayer of many focs, the courageous, the discomfiter (of enemies), the great, the unbounded, the showerer (of benefits), the wielder of the bright thunderbolt, him who is the destroyer of VRITRA, the bestower of food, the giver of wealth, MAGHAVAN the possessor of riches.

9. This MAGHAVAN, who destroys assembled hosts, is he who is renowned as chief in battles: he brings the food which he bestows (upon the worshipper): may we be held dear in his friendship.

10. This (INDRA), is renowned, whether conquering or slaying (his foes), or whether in conflict he recovers the cattle: when INDRA truly entertains anger, all that is stationary or moveable is in fear of him.

11. INDRA, the lord of opulence, who has overcome many (enemies), has completely won (their) cattle, (their) gold, (their) horses: chief leader by his ener-

12. Some portion (of his strength) INDRA derives from his mother, some portion from his father: he who, though his progenitor,¹ has begotten (the world), and animates its vigour repeatedly, as the wind is driven by thundering clouds.²

13. Thou art the MAGHAVAN who makes one man destitute, another prosperous, who (scatters from his worshipper) the accumulated dust (of sin), the destroyer (of foes), like the heaven with the thunderbolt, MAGHAVAN conducts his worshipper to wealth.

17. Be our preserver, thou who art looking (benevolently upon) all; a kinsman (to us); a supervisor (of all things), a bestower of felicity on those who are worthy (to offer) libations; a friend, a protector, a defender in the highest degree amongst defenders, a creator: (be thou, who bestowest) the world of heaven upon him who desires it, the giver to us of food.

18. Regard thyself as a protector of those who desire thy friendship; be a friend deserving of commendation: grant, INDRA, food to him who praises (thee): suffering difficulties, we make our supplications to thee, worshipping thee with these holy rites.

19. When INDRA, the possessor of opulence, is glorified, he singly destroys many unyielding foes: the worshipper is dear to him (who relies) on his protection, and neither gods nor men molest him.

20. The many-voiced INDRA, the possessor of opulence, the supporter of men, the irresistible, bestows upon us, when praised by us, assured (rewards): thou, (INDRA), art the king of men: grant to us abundantly that great fame which (is due) to (thy) worshipper.

21. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.¹

path by which all the gods are born; so, when fullgrown, let him be born in the same manner; let him not cause the loss of this his mother.¹

2. VÁMADEVA speaks.] Let me not come forth by this path, for it is difficult (of issue): let me come forth obliquely from the side: many acts unperformed by others are to be accomplished by me: let me contend (in war) with one (enemy), in controversy with one opponent.

3. He, (INDRA), has asserted (that it will) cause the death of my mother: let me not proceed •by the usual way, but proceed quickly, according (to my will: in the dwelling of TWASHTRI INDRA drank the costly Soma from the vessels of the offerers.²

4. ADITI speaks.] What irregular act has he committed whom (I, his mother,) bore for a thousand months and for many years? there is no analogy between him and those who have been or will be born.³

² Here, Sáyaya observes, Vámadeva vindicates his own wilfulness by the example of Indra, who came to Twashtri's house uninvited, and, by force, drank the Soma prepared for other gods.

¹ According to the legend recited by Sáyana, the Rishi, Vámadeva, whilst yet in the would, was reluctant to be born in the usual manner, and resolved to come into the world through his mother's side: aware of his purpose, the mother prayed to Aditi, who thereupon came, with her son Indra, to expostulate with the Rishi: this is the subject of the Sákta: the interesting part of this absurd story is its accordance with the birth of Sákya, according to the Buddhists, who may possibly have borrowed the notion from the Veda.

5. Deeming it disreputable (that he should be brought forth) in secret,¹ his mother endowed (INDRA). with (extraordinary) vigour: therefore, as soon as born he sprung up of his own accord, invested with splendour, and filled both heaven and earth.

6. These (rivers) flow murmuring as if, being filled with water, they were uttering sounds ($f joy): ask them what is this they say;² what is the encompassing cloud that the waters break through?

7. What do the sacred explatory strains declare to me?³ the waters receive the reproach of INDRA: my son has slain VRITRA with the mighty thunderbolt: he has set those rivers free.

8. VÁMADEVA speaks.]^{*} Exulting, the youthful mother brought thee forth: exulting, KUSHAVÁ⁵ swallowed thee: exulting, the waters gave delight to the infant: INDRA, exulting, rose up by his strength.

³ Kimu shwid asmai nivido bhananti; the Nivids are certain verses repeated at some sacrifices to Indra and the Maruts in their honour, and are tantamount to an acquittal of the charge imputed to Indra, and here anticipated by Aditi of brahmanicide, Vritra being a brahman: the crime was transferred to the waters in the shape of foam: these explanations are rather, perhaps, derived from the Pauránik developements of the original legends, imperfectly handed down.

⁴ The rest of the Súhta is by the Rishi in praise of Indra.

⁵ The commentator says a $R\acute{a}hshasi$, whom Indra, although at first swallowed by her, drove out of the lying-in chamber.

9. VYANSA,¹ exulting and striking (hard blows), smote thee, MAGHAVAN, upon the jaw; whereupon, being so smitten, thou provedst the stronger, and didst crush the head of the slave with the thunderbolt.

10. As a heifer bears a calf, his mother, (ADITI), bore INDRA, mature (in years), strong, irresistible, vigorous, energetic, invincible, (destined) to follow his own course, heedful of his person.

11. His mother inquired of the mighty INDRA, have these deities deserted thee, my son? then INDRA said, VISHNU, my friend, (if thou) purpose slaying VRITRA, exert thy greatest prowess.

12. Who has made thy mother a widow? who has sought to slay the sleeping and the waking? what deity has been more gracious than thou, since thou hast slain the father, having seized him by the foot?²

13. In extreme destitution I have cooked the entrails of a dog:³ I have not found a comforter among the gods: I have beheld my wife disrespected: then the falcon,⁴ (INDRA), has brought to me sweet water.

² Yat prákskínáh pitaram pádagrihya: the particulars of this incident are not related by Súyana, who contents himself with saying the allusions are variously explained by Taittíriyakas—Taittiriya Sanhitá, vi. 1. 111. 6.

ADHYAYA VI.

The deity is INDRA; the Rishi VAMADEVA; the metre Trishtubh.

1. INDRA, wielder of the thunderbolt, all the protecting deities who are reverently invoked, and both the heaven and the earth, glorify thee who art verily one alone, mighty, vast, and pleasing of aspect, for the destruction of VRITRA.

2. As elders (send forth their young), so the gods have sent thee (against VRITRA): thence thou becamest, INDRA who art the abode of truth, the sovereign of the world: thou hast slain the slumbering AHI for (the release of) the water, and hast marked out (the channels of) the all delighting rivers.

3. On the day of full moon¹ thou hast slain with the thunderbolt the insatiable, unnerved, ignorant, unapprehending, slumbering AHI, obstructing the gliding-downward-flowing (streams).

4. INDRA, by his strength, has agitated the exhausted firmament, as wind, by its violent (gusts, agitates) the water: exulting in his strength, he has divided the solid (clouds), and has shattered the peaks of the mountains.

5. The MARUTS have hastened to thee like mothers to their young: like chariots they have rushed in along (with thee); thou, INDRA, hast satisfied the flowing streams; thou hast shattered the clouds: thou hast set free the obstructed rivers.

Varga II.

6. Thou hast made the vast, all-cherishing, and exuberant earth, delighted with (abundant) food, and tremulous water, for (the sake of) TURVÍTI and VAY-YA:¹ thou hast made the rivers easy to be crossed.

7. INDRA has filled the youthful rivers, the parents of plenty, the corroders (of their banks), like armies destructive (of their foes): he has inundated the dry lands, and (satisfied) the thirsty travellers: he has milked the barren cows whom the Asuras had become the lords of.²

8. Having slain VRITRA, he has liberated many mornings and years (that had been) swallowed up by darkness, and has set the rivers free: INDRA has released the imprisoned rivers, encompassed (by the cloud), to flow upon the earth.

9. Lord of horses, thou hast brought the son of $AGRU^3$ from his dwelling, where he was being devoured by the ants:⁴ when extricated, although blind, he distinguished the serpent;⁵ and when he came forth the joints that had been sundered in the ant-hill were restrung.⁶

10. The sage, (VÁMADEVA), knowing, royal INDRA,

² Adhok staryo dansupatnik, that is, he has removed the barrenness occasioned by the grief of their separation by rescuing the cattle carried off by the Pani.

³ The commentator. has only a certain female, Agrú náma kúchit.

⁴ Vamríbhir-adánam, upajihvikábhir-adyamánam: Sáyana evidently understands by upájíhviká, the white ant, as he explains, nivesanát, valmíkákhyát sthánát: valmíka is the familiar term for a hillock thrown up by the insect.

⁵ Ahim, explained sarpam: the presence of a snake in an anthill is still a popular notion.

⁶ The phraseology is partly doubtful : ukhachhit samaranta the ancient deeds of thee who art all-wise, has proclaimed the actions, such as thou hast performed them, generative of rain, self-evolved, and beneficial to man.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.¹

Sύκτα Χ. (XX).

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. May the illustrious INDRA, the granter of desires, come to us, whether from afar or nigh, for our protection: he who is the lord of men, armed with the thunderbolt, overcoming his foes in conflict and in combats, (attended) by the most illustrious (MARUTS).

2. May INDRA, looking down upon us, come with his steeds to our presence for our protection and enrichment: may the mighty thunderer, the possessor of wealth, (aiding us) in battle, be present at this our sacrifice.²

3. Thou, INDRA, placing us before thee, shalt receive this sacrifice, our holy offering; and as the huntsman (kills his game), may we, thy worshippers, holder of the thunderbolt, for the acquirement of riches through thee, be victorious in battle.

4. INDRA, the giver of food, be near to us, favourably disposed; and, anxious for our (good), drink of the effused, prepared, exhilarating Soma, and be pleased by the (sacrificial) food (offered) with the noon-day hymn.¹

5. Like a man boasting of his wife, I glorify that INDRA who is invoked of many, who is hymned by recent sages, (who is) like a tree with ripe fruit, like a victorious (warrior), skilful in arms.

6. He who is vast and self-sustained like a mountain, the radiant and formidable INDRA, born of old for the destruction (of the foes of the gods), the wielder of the ancient thunderbolt, charged with splendour, like a jar (filled) with water.

7. Of whom there is no opposer by (reason of) his birth, nor any destroyer of the wealth that accomplishes (pious works): powerful and resplendent (INDRA), the invoked of many, do thou who art the showerer (of benefits) bestow upon us riches.

8. Thou rulest over the riches and the dwellings of men; thou art the rescuer of the herd of cattle; thou art the giver of instruction, the smiter in battles, and the distributor of great heaps of riches.

9. By what wisdom is he who is most wise renowned? by that wherewith the mighty INDRA repeatedly does (great things): he is the especial effacer of the manifold sin of the worshipper, and bestows wealth upon his adorer.

Varga IV.

10. Harm us not, but cherish us, INDRA: bestow upon us that abundant wealth which it is thine to give to the donor (of the oblation): praising thee, we celebrate thee at this sacred rite, which is new and excellent, and (at which the oblation) is proper to be presented.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever delighted in (thy) praise.

Sύκτα XI. (XXI.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. May INDRA come to us for our protection, and being praised (by us), may the mighty hero be exhilarated along with (us)¹ at this rite; he whose energies are many: may he, like the radiant sun,² recruit his own overpowering vigour.

2. Glorify the powerful leaders³ of that renowned and opulent (INDRA), whose victorious and protecting energy rules over men, like a universal sovereign entitled to veneration.

3. May INDRA, accompanied by the MARUTS, come quickly for our protection, from the heaven, from the earth, from the firmament, or from the waters; from

4. We glorify, in solemn rites, this INDRA who rules over substantial, abundant riches; who by his prowess is victor over (hostile) hosts; who by his munificence brings excellent (wealth) to the presence (of his worshippers).

5. Let the invoking priest bring to our dwellings that (INDRA) who, firmly fixing the (world), returns food for (sacrificial food), and (utters) a voice enjoining (men) to worship:¹ he who is to be propitiated by praises, who is adored by many.

6. When the repeaters of (his) commendations, abiding in the dwelling of the worshipper,² approach INDRA³ with praise, may he who is our (great) sustainer in conflicts, whose wrath is difficult to be (appeased), become theministering priest of the master of the house.

³ Adri is the name in the text, a name, it is said, of Indra, from dri to divide, to tear, as foes.

⁴ Bhárvara, is explained as the patronymic of Bharvara, which means jagadbharttå, the protector of the world, or Prajápati.

⁵ The text has only guhá pra, which Sáyana expands into guhárúpa-hridaye prabhavati: it, that is, the strength, balam, of Indra, prevails or presides over the heart, in the nature of secrety or mystery.

8. Inasmuch as he has opened the doors of the cloud, and has supplied the rapid courses of the waters with (additional) torrents, so when the pious have recourse to INDRA for food, he finds (it) in the haunt of the Gaura and Gavaya.²

9. Thy auspicious hands, INDRA, are the doers of good deeds: thy two hands, INDRA, are the extenders of wealth to him who praises thee: what, INDRA, is this delay? why dost thou not exhilarate us? why art thou not delighted to make us gifts?

10. Thus (glorified), INDRA, who is faithful (to his word), the lord of wealth, the slayer of VRITRA, bestows riches on man;³ so thou, the praised of many, give us riches for our pious acts, that I may eat of thy divine food.

³ Varivah púrave kah, manushyáya dhanam haroti: if night be thought to refer to a descendant of Puru, but the first vowel of Puru is short. RIG-VEDA SANHITA.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever delighted in (thy) praise.

Varga VII,

SUKTA I. (XXII.) Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Since the great and mighty INDRA is propitiated by our (oblations), since he desires (them) from us, may he, the possessor of opulence, who comes wielding the thunderbolt by his strength, accept the (sacrificial) food, the hymn, the Soma libration, and the prayers.¹

2. The showerer (of benefits), casting with his hands the quadrangular bolt that causes rain, fierce, the chief of leaders, the achiever of (glorious) acts, is desirous of the prosperity of the investing *Parushní*² (river), whose (bordering) districts he has frequented through regard.³

3. Who divine, most divine, as soon as born (was

² Urnóm parushním is explained áchhádihám paruavatím nadím, the river having joints or bends covering—the comment does not say what.

¹ Alluding to the four-fold forms of offering worship, Brahma, Stoma, Soma, and Uhtha: the first is said to be the cakes steeped in butter and the like offerings or oblations; the second, the praise that is recited alond; the third, the libation of the Soma juice; and the fourth, the praise or prayer that is repeated silently or in a lower tone, not chaunted or sung.

endowed) with abundant viands, and great energies, holding in his arms the willing thunderbolt, and causing by his strength (both) heaven and earth to tremble.

4. All the high places, and the many low places, the heaven and the earth, trembled (through fear) of the mighty (INDRA) at his birth: the strong (INDRA) cherishes the parents of the moving (sun),¹ and the winds, like men, make a noise in their peregrination.

5. Of thee, INDRA, who art mighty, great are the deeds, and to be proclaimed at all sacrifices, inasmuch as, high-minded hero, thou, sustaining (the world), hast by thy strength slain AHI with the resistless thunderbolt.

6. Most powerful INDRA, all these, thy exploits, are verily true: (through fear of thee), the showerer (of benefits), the cows shed (milk) from their udders: then, benevolent-minded (INDRA), the rivers, fearing thee, flow with rapidity.

7. Then, INDRA, lord of horses, the divine sister (rivers) praise (thee) for thy protection when thou didst set them free to flow, after having been impeded .(by VRITRA) through a long confinement.

8. The exhibit arating Soma juice has been expressed: now may the current flow to thee, and may the expiatory power of the illustrious utterer of praise be directed towards us, as the quick rider holds firmly the reins of the steed.² Varga VIII.

² The phraseology is very obscure in some parts: sami sasamánasya sahtih is explained by Sáyana, samanam stavatah stati harma, but what this means, especially in connection with

9. Enduring INDRA, bestow upon us energies, excellent, superior, powerful: bring under subjection to us enemics deserving of death: demolish the weapon of the malevolent man.

10. Hear our praises, INDRA, and bestow upon us many kinds of food: fulfil all our desires, and know thyself, MAGHAVAN, to be to us the donor of cattle.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in (thy) praise.

SUKTA II. (XXIII.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before; or the deity of the third, ninth, and tenth verses may be Rita.

Varga 1X.

1. In what manner may (any one) extol the mighty INDRA? at the sacrifice of what worshipper may he, propitiated, be present, drinking the sacrificial Soma beverage, desirous of the (sacred) food, and pleased (by the oblation)? the mighty INDRA is borne (to the rite) for the purpose of bestowing brilliant wealth.

2. What here has enjoyed his fellowship (in battle)? who has been a sharer in his benevolent thoughts? when does any one appreciate his wonderful bounty? when is he (present) for the promotion of the prosperity of the man who glorifies and worships him?

3. How is it that INDRA hears (the worshipper) who invokes him? and, hearing, how does he know his necessities? what are his gifts of old; why have they termed him the fulfiller (of the desires) of him who offers praise?

what follows, asmadryak susuchánasya yamyú, it is difficult to say.

4. How does he who glorifies INDRA, and is diligent in his worship, although encountering opposition, obtain from him wealth? may the divine INDRA be the appreciator of my praises, when accepting the sacrificial food he is propitiated towards me.

5. When, in what manner, at the dawning of this morning, has the divine INDRA accepted the friendship of a mortal? when, and in what manner, (is) his friendship (manifested) to the friends who have spread out the desirable and suitable (offering) before him?

6. May we in any manner proclaim thy friendship for thy friends? when may (we make known) thy fraternal regard? the efforts of the well-looking INDRA are for the happiness of all: the wonderful form of the moving (INDRA) is, like the sun, ever wished for.

7. Resolving to kill the oppressing, malevolent $(R\acute{a}kshas\acute{i})$,¹ not acknowledging INDRA, he sharpened his sharp weapons for (her) destruction, and the fierce (INDRA), the canceller of debts, has kept afar the unknown dawns in which the debts (are to be paid).

8. Many are the waters of Rita:² the adoration of Rita destroys iniquities; the intelligent and brilliant

² Rita ordinarily means sacrifice, or truth, or water: here it may apply, according to Sáyana, to Indra, or to Aditya, or to the three former personified as divinities: the following stanzas are a succession of changes on the word.

Varga X.

¹ Jighánsan-druham, dhwarasam, anindrám: the last of the three epithets determines the gender of the party, but we have no other clue: the scholiast supplies Ráhshasím: who she may be is nowhere intimated; but from what follows it may be thought to mean death, the debt of nature, the payment of what Indra's favour delays by prolonging life; but this is mere conjecture: the comment is of no avail.

praise of Rita has opened the deat' (ears) of man.

9. Many are the stable, sustaining, delightful forms of the embodied Rita: by Rita are (the pious) expectant of food; by Rita have the kine entered into the sacrifice.¹

10. The (worshipper) subjecting Rita (to his will) verily enjoys Rita: the strength of Rita is (developed) with speed, and is desirous of (possessing) water:² to Rita belong the wide and profound heaven and earth: supreme milch kine, they yield their milk to Rita.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.

SURTA III. (XXIV.) Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XII.

1. What suitable praise may bring the son of strength, INDRA, before us, to give us wealth: the hero, the lord of cattle, is the donor, oh man, of the wealth of his adversaries to him who glorifies him.

2. He, INDRA, is to be invoked for the destruction of VRITRA: he, the deservedly praised, is to be worshipped: the real donor of wealth, he, MAGHAVAN, gives wealth, (acquired) in battle, to the mortal who offers him prayer and libations.

¹ As presents made to the officiating priests; or the phrase may mean also, the rays of light have entered into the water, gáva ritam ávivesuk, rasmaya udaham ávivesuk.

² Ritasya sushmas-turayá-u-gavyuh: is rather enigmatic: the scholiast explains it as in the text, sushmo, balam, turayas túrnam-gavyuh-u-chárthé; jalakámascha bhavati.

3. Men verily call upon him in battle: the (devout) inflicters of austerity upon their persons¹ constitute him their preserver: when both (the worshipper and the priest) approach together the bountiful INDRA, men (succeed) in (obtaining) the gift of sons and grandsons.

4. Powerful INDRA, men variously dispersed, come mutually together to celebrate sacred rites for the sake of obtaining rain: when men who are combatants assemble in battle, there are some of them who rely upon INDRA.

5. Thereupon some verily worship the powerful (INDRA); thereupon one man prepares the buttered cake that he may offer it to (INDRA); thereupon the offerer of the Soma he distinguishes from him who presents no libration; thereupon some one rejoices to worship the showerer (of benefits).

6. INDRA bestows wealth upon him who offers a libation to him, desiring it, though in another sphere; and, with an humble mind, makes him who is devoted to him his friend in combats.

7. INDRA accepting graciously the praises of his devoted (worshipper), who to-day pours out the libation to him, who toasts the buttered cakes, or fries the barley for INDRA, exercises towards him the power that grants his desires.

8. When the destroyer (of enemies) distinguishes a mortal foe; when the lord is engaged in the long

Varga XII.

¹ Ririkwánsas-tanwah, are explained by Sáyana, swahíyáni saríráni tapasá rechayanto yajamánáh, worshippers emaciating their own bodies by penance: if correctly interpreted, therefore, we have the ascetic penances of the Hindus, recognised by the text of the Veda.

9. A man has realized a small price for an article of great value,² and again coming (to the buyer he says) this has not been sold; I require the full price; but he does not recover a small price by a large (equivalent): whether helpless or clever they adhere to their bargain.

10. Who buys this, my INDRA, with ten milch kine? when he shall have slain (your) foes, then let (the purchaser) give him again to me.

2 The text is bhuyasá vasnam acharat haníyas: lit. by much a man acquires a little, wealth or value: kaschid panyena dravyena alpataram múlyam prápnoti: the kaschit must be understood, therefore, of the vendor, which is consistent with what follows in this and the next verse: the meaning of this and the following verse is thus explained, according to Sáyana, by ancient ácháryás, skilled in religious doctrines: one (a vendor) who takes a small price for valuable goods, comes afterwards to the buyer, and says, this has not been sold by me, and, so saying, he rcquires the balance of the price; but he, the vendor, does not recover the full price, nor does he get back the article : according to the bargain between them it may not be otherwise: the sale has taken place, and if the bargain has been kept, then it has only to be considered that such is the object of the price, and that is the conclusion : a bargain has been made, and the (stipulated) price given; therefore, in the first place, an agreement is to be made by me : so reflecting, Vámadeva, having by much praise got Indra into his possession or subjugation, purposes to make a bargain when about to dispose of him, as in verse 10.

11. Glorified (in the past), glorified, INDRA, at present, satisfy thy worshipper with food, as rivers (are filled with water): lord of horses, a new hymn has been made for thee: may we, possessed of chariots, be ever diligent in thy praise.

Sύκτα IV. (XXV.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. What friend of man, or worshipper of the gods, deserving the friendship of INDRA, has to day enjoyed (it)? or what offerer of the libration on the kindled fire praises him (sufficiently) for his great and unbounded protection?

2. Who has reverenced with (suitable) words the (deity) worthy of the libation? who is devoted (to him)? who supports the cattle (given by him)? who desires the society of INDRA? who his friendship? who his fraternity? who (has recourse) to the sage INDRA for protection?

3. Who solicits to-day the protection of the gods? who glorifies the \hat{A} dityas, ADITI, light?¹ of whose effused libration do the ASWINS, INDRA, AGNI, drink at will, propitiated by his praise?

4. May AGNI, the bearer of oblations, grant him felicity, and long behold the rising sun (in the dwelling of him)² who says, let us offer librations to INDRA, leader (of rites), the friend of man, the chief leader amongst leaders.

5. Him neither many nor few can molest: may

¹ Jyotir; but the commentator explains it water; Jyotir udakam.

² That is, may the sacred fire long be kindled in the house of the sacrificer at the hour of sunrise.

Varga XIII.

ADITI grant him infinite happiness: the performer of pious acts is dear (to INDRA): dear to INDRA is he whose mind is intent upon him; dear is he who approaches him with homage; dear to him is the offerer of the libation.

Varga X1V.

6. This hero, INDRA, the prompt discomfiter (of foes), who is to be approached with homage, grants special maturity to the presenter of the libation: he is not the kinsman, nor friend, nor relative, of him who offers no oblation (to him): he is difficult of access, and the punisher of him who repeats not (his) praise.

7. (INDRA), the drinker of the effused Soma, contracts no friendship with the wealthy trader who offers not any libation; he takes away his wealth; destroys him when destitute; but he is a special (friend) to him who presents the libation and oblation.

8. The most exalted, the most humble (invoke) INDRA; the middle (classes) invoke INDRA; those going, those stopping, (invoke) INDRA; those dwelling at home, those going to battle, (invoke) INDRA; men needing food invoke INDRA.

Súkta V. (XXVI.)

The deity of the three first stanzas is said to be either INDRA or PARAMÁTMÁ: in the first case the Rishi is 'VÁMADEVA, in the second INDRA: the deity of the other verses is the Syena or Hawk: VÁMADEVA is the Rishi; the metre is Trishtubh.

I have been MANU and SURYA: I am the wise Rishi, KAKSHÍVAT: I have befriended KUTSA, the son of ÁRJUNI: I am the far-seeing USANAS; so behold me.¹

Varga XV.

¹ This and the two following verses are attributed either to Indra or to Vámadeva: in the latter case it is said the sage uttered them while yet in the womb, knowledge of truth being generated in him, and enabling him to identify himself with universal ex-

2. I gave the earth to the venerable (MANU):¹ I have bestowed rain upon the mortal who presents (oblations); I have let forth the sounding waters: the gods obey my will.

3. Exhibitrated (by the Soma beverage) I have destroyed the ninety and nine cities of SAMBARA;² the hundredth I gave to be occupied by Divodasa when I protected him, Atithigva, at his sacrifice.

4. May this bird, Maruts, be pre-eminent over (other) hawks, since with a wheelless car the swift-winged bore the Soma, accepted by the gods, to MANU.³

5. When the bird, intimidating (its guardians), carried off from hence (the Soma) it was at large: (flying) swift as thought along the vast path (of the firmament), it went rapidly with the sweet Soma plant, and the hawks thence acquired celebrity in this world.

6. The straight-flying hawk, conveying the Soma plant from afar; the bird, attended by the gods, brought, resolute of purpose, the adorable, exhilarating Soma, having taken it from that lofty heaven.

7. Having taken it, the hawk brought the Soma with him to a thousand and ten thousand sacrifices, istence: through the eye of supreme truth I am every thing, paramárthyadrishtyá kritsnam aham asmítyarthah; we have here, therefore, the basis of the pautheistic vedánta.

SÚKTA VI. (XXVII.)

The deity is the Hawk, or Parabrahma under that personification; the Rishi is VÁMADEVA; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Sahvarí.

1. Being still in the germ, I have known all the births of these divinities in their order: a hundred bodies of iron confined me, but as a hawk I came forth with speed.¹

2. That embryo did not beguile me into satisfaction, but by the keen energy (of divine wisdom), I triumphed over it: the impeller of all,² the sustainer of many, abandoned the foes (of knowledge), and, expanding, passed beyond the winds (of worldly troubles).³

3. When the hawk screamed (with exultation) on his descent from heaven, and (the guardians of the Soma) perceived that the Soma was (carried away) by it, then, the archer Krisánu, pursuing with the speed of thought, and stringing his bow, let fly an arrow against it.⁴

¹ That is, according to the scholiast, until the sage comprehended the difference between the body and soul, and learned that soul was unconfined, he was subject to repeated births; but in this stage he acquired divine knowledge, and burst through his bonds with the force and celerity of a hawk from its nest; as the Nitimanjari says, Vámadeta syenarúpam ástháya garbhád yógena nihsritah, Vámadeta, having assumed the form of a hawk, came forth from the womb by the power of Yoga.

² The Paramátma, or Supreme Spirit.

³ The vital airs, or life, the cause of worldly existence, which is pain.

⁴ The Åitareya-Bráhmaņa, as above mentioned, narrates this incident in the same manner.

Varga XVI.

4. The straight-flying hawk carried off the Soma from above the vast heaven, as (the Aswins carried off) Bhujyu from the region of INDRA, and a falling feather from the middle of the bird dropped from him wounded in the conflict.¹

5. Now may MAGHAVAN accept the pure nutritious (sacrificial) food in a white pitcher, mixed with milk and curds, offered by the priests; the upper part of the sweet (beverage) to drink for his exhilaration: may the hero accept (it) to drink for (his) exhilaration.

SUKTA VII. (XXVIII.)

The deities are INDRA and Suma; Rishi and metre as before.

1. Through that friendship, SOMA, which has united thee with thy (friend) INDRA, he has made the waters flow for man; he has slain AIII; he has sent forth the seven rivers, and has opened the shut-up sources (of the streams).

2. With thee, SOMA, for his ally, INDRA has quickly taken off by force the wheel of the chariot of the sun, abiding above with the vast and stationary (firmament): the everywhere-going wheel (of the car) of the great oppressor has been taken away.²

3. INDRA has slain the Dasyus, SOMA, in battle: AGNI has consumed them before the noon:³ he (INDRA)

² Maho druho, prabhútasya drogdhuh, of the very mighty oppressor or tyrant, alluding probably to his heat.

³ Purá madhyandinát: in the forenoon, when the Soma is drunk, and thence Indra and Agni have been invigorated.

Varga XVII.

¹ Antah-parnam, tan-madhye sthitam: the Bråhmåna says, as we have seen, one nail of the left-foot, but the shaft was broken by the collision, the fragments of the nail became the quills of the fretful porcupine, those of the arrow, water-snakes, flying foxes, and worms.

has destroyed the whole of many thousands, as (robbers are the destroyers of those) going upon (their own) business, in a difficult and dangerous (place).¹

4. INDRA, thou hast made these Dasyus devoid of all (good qualities); thou hast made the servile races² abject: may you, (SOMA and INDRA), repel (and) destroy (your) enemies: accept (our) homage for their destruction.

5. Possessors of wealth, destroyers of foes, INDRA and SOMA, it is indeed true that you have distributed great numbers of horses, and of the cattle which had been concealed, and the land which you had recovered by your strength.

SUKTA VIII. (XXIX.)

Varga XVIII.

The deity is INDRA, the Rishi and metre as before.

1. Honoured with accepted (sacrificial) viands, come, INDRA, exulting, with thy steeds, to our many rites for our protection; thou who art the lord, glorified by hymns, whose wealth is truth.

2. May INDRA, the friend of man, the omniscient, come to the sacrifice when invoked by the offerers of libations; he who is possessed of good horses, who is fearless, honoured by the effusers of libations, who rejoices with the heroes (the Maruts).

3. Let (his worshipper) cause his ears to listen so

² Viso dásír-ahrinoraprasastáh: dásíh as the adjective of visah, prájah, people, men, is explained, harmahínáh having no special or religiously instituted rites or functions, which is not incompatible with the literal purport, slave, or servile: aprasastáh is rendered garhitah, reviled, vile: the expression is important as marking the existence of low and servile classes.

¹ The text has only dúrge durone hratuá na yátám, as of those gone on account of business in a difficult place: where protection is difficult, Sáyana supplies, from robbers.

as to invigorate him (by praise), and to give him pleasure in every acceptable place; and being well moistened with the Soma juice, may the vigorous INDRA render the holy places (conducive) to our wealth, and free from danger.¹

4. (That INDRA), who repairs to the suppliant for (his) protection, to the sage in this manner invoking and praising him; he who, armed with the thunderbolt, places, of his own accord, hundreds and thousands of swift-going (horses) in the shafts (of their cars).

5. Opulent INDRA, may we, who are protected by thee, who are intelligent, devout, and offerers of praise, be participant with thee for the sake of distributing brilliant wealth, and abundant food, entitled to (our) commendation.²

SUKTA IX. (XXX.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Gáyatrí, except in the last stanza, in which it is Anushtubh.

1. There is no one, INDRA, superior to thee; no one more excellent (than thou);³ slayer of Vritra there is no one, verily, such as thou art.

2. Verily men are attached to thee as are all the ¹ Sutirthá, sobhanáni tirtháni: the phrase would imply that there were places of pilgrimage at this period.

² The phraseology is rather doubtful, brihaddivasya ráya ákáyyasya dávane purukshoh, which is explained, mahaddipter ásamantát stutyasya bahwannasya dhanasya dáne nimitte bhejanásas-twám bhajamáná bhavema; may we be enjoying thee for the sake of the gift of wealth of much food, every way commendable and very brilliant.

wheels (to the body of the waggon): in truth thou art great and renowned.

3. Verily all the gods, with thee (for) their strength, have warred (with the Asuras); wherefore thou hast destroyed them by day and by night.

4. In which (contests), for the sake of KUTSA and his allies, thou hast stolen, INDRA, the (wheel of the car) of the sun.¹

5. In which (contests), thou singly indeed hast warred with all those opposing the gods: thou, INDRA, hast slain the malignant.

6. In which (contests), INDRA, thou hast, for the sake of a mortal, discomfited the sun, and hast protected ETASA by (thine) exploits.

7. Wherefore, slayer of VRITRA, opulent INDRA, hast thou thereupon become most incensed, and, in consequence, hast slain the son of DANU (VRITRA) in this firmament.

8. Inasmuch, INDRA, as thou hast displayed such manly prowess, thou hast slain the woman, the daughter of the sky,² when meditating mischief.

9. Thou, INDRA, who art mighty, hast enriched the glorious dawn, the daughter of heaven.

10. The terrified USHAS descended from the broken waggon when the (showerer of benefits) had smashed it.

11. Then her shattered waggon reposed (on the bank) of the Vipás' (river), and she departed from afar.

Varga XX.

Varga XXI.

¹ The text has mushaya súryam, thou hast stolen the sun, but this is explained by Sáyana by the more usual legend.

² The dawn, extinguished by the ascendancy of Indra throughout the day.

13. By valour thou hast carried off the wealth of SUSHNA, when thou hadst demolished his cities.

14. Thou hast slain the slave SAMBARA, the son of KULITARA, hurling him from off the huge mountain.

15. Thou hast slain the five hundreds and thousands (of the followers) of the slave VARCHIN, (surrounding) him like the fellies (round the spokes of a wheel).

16. Thou, INDRA, who art Satukratu, hast made PARÁVRIJ, the son of AGRU, participant in sacred hymns.²

17. The lord of acts, the wise INDRA, has borne across (their difficulties), TURVASAS and YADU, when denied inauguration.³

18. Thou hast slain at once those two Aryas,⁴ ARNA and CHITRARATHA, (dwelling) on the opposite (bank) of the Sarayu.

¹ Sindhum vibályam vitasthánám: vigatabályávasthám, whose youth was passed, i.e. who was full of water, sampúrnajalám; and vitishthamánám, stopping or being stopped.

² See above, Súhta XIX. verse 9.

⁴ The scholiast renders áryá-áryábhimanau; *aryatwábhi*maninau, presuming on their dignity as áryas, and being without any faith or devotion to Indra. Varga XXII.

19. Slayer of VRITRA, thou hast restored the (one who was) blind, the (other who was) lame, both abandoned (by their kin):¹ (it is not possible) to exceed the happiness that is given by thee.

Varga XXIII.

20. INDRA has overturned a hundred stone-built cities² for Divodás, the donor of oblations.

21. He put to sleep, by delusion, with his destructive (weapons), thirty thousand of the servile (races), for the sake of DABHÍTI.

22. Slayer of VRITRA, thou art the same (to all thy worshippers), the lord of cattle, who castest down all these (thine enemies).

23. When, indeed, INDRA, thou excitest thy vigorous manhood, there is no one at the present time who may resist it.

24. Destroyer of foes, may the divine ARYAMAN distribute thy precious wealth; (may) PúSHAN (bestow it), (may) BHAGA (bestow it); may the toothless deity bestow the desired wealth.³

सन्यमव जयत

¹ We have here another, and somewhat contradictory statement from that of a former passage, when the blindness and lameness were attributed to one person, Paravrij, Vol. 11. 242, verse 12, and note: here we have not only the dual, jahitá for jahitan, but also dwá for dwan, the two, which agrees better with the still earlier allusion to the same defects in two different individuals; Vol. 1. 290, verse 8, and note.

² Asmanmayinám purám : whether the notion of masonry be confined to the walls, or extended to the dwellings, it indicates familiarity with something more substantial than mud hovels.

³ The text has vámam púshá vámam bhago vámam devah karúlatí: the triple repetition of váma, vananíyam, dhanam, would seem to separate not only Bhaga, but Karúlatí from Púshan, but if the last be rightly rendered by hrittadanta or

Súkta X. (XXXI.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before; but verses three, four, and five are in a variety of Gáyatrí, termed Pádanivrit, having seven instead of eight syllables in each of the three divisions.

1. By what means may he who is ever augmenting, who is wonderful, who is our friend, be present with us, by what most effective rite?¹

2. What genuine and most esteemed of the exhilarating juices of the (sacrificial) beverage may inspirit thee to demolish the substantial treasures (of the foe).

3. Do thou, the protector of us thy friends and praisers, be present with a hundred protections.²

4. (Induced) by the praises of men, return like a revolving wheel to us, dependent (upon thy favour).

5. Thou comest in a downward (direction) to sacred rites, as if to thine own station: I glorify thee together with the sun.

6. When thy praises, and these sacred rites, INDRA, are addressed to thee, they first belong to thee, and next to Súrya.

Varga XXV.

adantaha, the broken-toothed, or toothless, it applies to Púshan: the attribute has not occurred before, though the scholiast quotes the Veda for it, Púshá prapishtabhágo adantaha hítyádi srutishu; according to the Puránas, Púshan had his teeth knocked out by Vírabhadra's followers at Dahsha's sacrifice: Vishnu Pur. 67, note 6.

¹ This seems to be a popular stanza; it occurs twice in the Sáma-Veda, 1. 169, 232; once in the Yajush, 27, 29, and once in the Atharvan, xx. 124, 1.

² The same may be said of this and the preceding stanza; they both occur in the other three Vedas, Sáma-Veda, 11. 33, 34: Yajur-Veda, 27, 40, 41; Atharva-Veda, 122, 2, 3. Varga XXIV.

7. Lord of holy acts, they call thee MAGHAVAN, the munificent, the resplendent.

8. And verily thou givest promptly abundant wealth to him who praises thee and offers thee libations.

9. Adversaries diminish not thy hundred-fold opulence, nor resist the energies of thee opposing (them).

10. May thy hundred, thy thousand, protections, preserve us; may all (thy) desires (be for our defence).

11. Select us, INDRA, on this occasion, for thy friendship, for (our) welfare, for vast and splendid riches.

12. Favour us, INDRA, daily with infinite riches; (protect) us with all protections.

13. With fresh protections, INDRA, like a warrior, open for us those pastures filled with cattle.

14. May our chariot, INDRA, foe-repelling, brilliant, unfailing, proceed (everywhere), possessing us of cattle and of horses.

15. SURYA make our fame exalted among the gods, as (thou hast placed) the sky, the shedder of most copious rain, above (all other regions).

space), thou art verily the granter of (our) desires, and doest what is marvellous for the protection (of those who are engaged) in wondrous works.

3. Thou destroyest by thy might the fierce assailing foe, associated with the humble friends who are along with thee.

4. We, INDRA, are along with thee; we zealously glorify thee: do verily protect us all.

5. Wielder of the thunderbolt, do thou come to us with wondrous, irreproachable, irresistible protections.

6. May we, INDRA, be the friends of one like thee, possessed of cattle, allied (to him) for (the sake of) abundant food.

7. For thou alone, INDRA, art lord over food combined with cattle; therefore do thou grant us ample food.

8. None change thy purpose, INDRA, object of laudation, when, being praised, thou desirest to bestow wealth upon the praisers.

9. The Gotamas glorify thee, INDRA, with praise, that thou mayest grant wealth, and for the sake of abundant food.

10. We proclaim thy prowess, whereby exhilarated (by the Soma), and having gone against them, thou hast demolished the servile cities.

11. The pious celebrate thy manly exploits, INDRA, object of laudation, when the juices (of the Soma) are effused.

12. The Gotamas, offerers of praise, exalt thee, INDRA; bestow upon them food and posterity.

13. Although, INDRA, thou art the common property of (all) worshippers, we invoke thee (such) as thou art (for ourselves). Varga XXVIII. 14. Giver of dwellings, be present with us; drinker of the Soma, be exhibited by the beverage of the juices.

15. May the praise (of us) who are devoted (to thee), INDRA, give thee to us: guide thy horses towards us.

16. Eat (INDRA) our cakes and butter; be pleased by our praises as a libertine (by the caresses) of a woman.

17. We solicit, INDEA for a thousand well trained, swift-going horses, for a hundred jars¹ of Soma-juice.

18. We seek to bring down from thee, thousands and hundreds of cattle; may riches come to us from thee.

19. May we obtain from thee, ten golden ewers, for thou, slayer of VRITRA, art a bountiful giver.

20. A bountiful giver art thou, INDRA: give bountifully to us; (give) not little; bring much; for verily thou desirest to give much.

21. Verily thou art renowned amongst many as a bountiful giver; hero, slayer of VRITRA, make us sharers in wealth.

22. Wise INDRA, I praise thy brown (horses); bestower of kine, (who art) not regardless (of thy worshippers):² with those two steeds terrify not our cattle.

¹ Khárí, a certain measure; by metonymy, a jar or ewer, drona-halasa, holding such a quantity: in modern use it is the name of a grain measure, equal to sixteen dronas, or about three bushels.

23. Like two puppets on an arranged, new, and slender stage, thy two brown (steeds) are brilliant at sacrifices.¹

24. Thy two innocuous brown (steeds) are sufficient at sacrifices for me, whether going (to them) in (a waggon drawn by) oxen, or going without (such) a conveyance.

ANUVÁKA IV.

SURTA I. (XXXIII.)

The deities are the RIBHUS;² the Rishi is VAMADEVA; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. I send my prayer as a messenger to the RIBHUS; I solicit (of them) the milch cow, the yielder of the white milk, for the dilution (of the Soma libation); for they, as swift as the wind, the doers of good works, were borne quickly across the firmament by rapid steeds.³

2. When the RIBHUS, by honouring their parents with renovated (youth), and by other works, had achieved enough, they thereupon proceeded to the society of the gods, and, considerate, they bring nourishment to the devout (worshipper).

3. May they who rendered them decrepid and drowsy parents, when, like two dry posts, again perpetually young, VAJA, VIBHWAN, and RIBHU associated with INDRA, drinkers of the Soma juice, protect our sacrifice.

4. Inasmuch as for a year the RIBHUS preserved the (dead) cow, inasmuch as for a year they invested it with flesh, inasmuch as for a year they continued its beauty, they obtained by their acts immortality.

5. The eldest said, let us make two ladles; the youngest said, let us make three: TWASHTRÍ, RIBHUS, has applauded your proposal.

6. The men, (the RIBHUS), spake the truth, for such (ladles) they made, and thereupon the RIBHUS partook of that libration: TWASHTRÍ, beholding the four ladles, brilliant as day, was content.

7. When the RIBHUS, reposing for twelve days, remained in the hospitality of the unconcealable (sun), they rendered the fields fertile, they led forth the rivers, plants sprung upon the waste, and waters (spread over) the low (places.¹)

8. May those RIBHUS who constructed the firmabiding, wheel-conducting car; who formed the allimpelling multiform milch cow; they who are the bestowers of food, the doers of great deeds, and dexterous of hand, fabricate for us riches.

trious in act and in thought: VÁJA was the artificer of the gods, RIBHUKSHIN of INDRA, VIBHWAN of VARUNA.

10. May those RIBHUS who gratified the horses (of INDRA) by pious praise, who constructed for INDRA his two docile steeds, bestow upon us satiety of riches, and wealth (of cattle), like those who devise prosperity for a friend.

11. The gods verily have given you the beverage at the (third sacrifice of the) day, and its exhilaration, not through regard, but (as the gift of one) wearied out (by penance):¹ RIBIUS, who are so (eminent), grant us, verily, wealth at this third (diurnal) sacrifice.

Sύκτα ΙΙ. (XXXIV.)

The deities, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. RIBHU, VIBHWAN, VÁJA, and INDRA, do you come to this our sacrifice, to distribute precious things, for the divine word has indeed now desired the drinking² (of the Soma) on the (appointed hours of the) days; therefore the exhilarating draughts are collected for you.

2. Resplendent with (sacrificial) food, prescient of your (celestial) birth,³ be exhilarated, RIBHUS along Rite srántasya sakhyáya is the phrase of the text: Sáyana says, na sakhitwáya bhavanti déváh, the gods are not through triendship, srántát tapo yuktát rite, except one wearied by penance, which would seem to apply to the worshipper; but again he says, ete srántá ato daduh, they, wearied out, therefore gave.

² Drishaņá deví: in the Aitareya Bráhmaņa it is said, Prajápati said to Savitri, these are thy fellow-students; do thou drink with them.

with the RITUS: the inebriating draughts are collected for you as well as pious praise: do you confer upon us riches with excellent posterity.

3. This sacrifice, RIBHUS, has been instituted for you, the which you, who are eminently resplendent, have accepted after the manner of men: before you . have the propitiatory (libations) been placed, for VAJAS, you are all entitled to precedence.

4. Now, leaders (of rites), the treasure that ought to be presented is to be given to the mortal performing (the sacred rite), the offerer (of the libation): drink, VAJAS, (drink), RIBHUS; I present it to you at the third solemn (diurnal) ceremony for your exhilaration.

5. VAJAS, RIBHUKSHANS, leaders (of rites), come to us eulogising exceeding wealth: these draughts (of Soma) proceed to you at the decline of day, like newly-delivered cows to their stalls.

6. Sons of strength, come to this sacrifice, invoked with veneration: givers of precious things, associated with INDRA, with whom you are intelligent, participate in being gratified (by the libation), drink of the sweet Soma juice.

7. Sympathizing ¹ in satisfaction with VARUNA, drink, INDRA, the Soma juice; drink it, thou who art entitled to praise, sympathizing with the Maruts: drink, sympathizing with the first drinkers, with the

8. RIBHUS, be exhibited, sympathizing with the \hat{A} dityas, sympathizing with the Parvatas,³ sympathizing with the divine SAVITRI, sympathizing with the wealth-bestowing (deities of the) rivers.

9. RIBHUS, who by your assistance (gratified) the ASWINS, who (renovated your) parents, who (restored) the cow, who fabricated the horses, who made armour (for the gods), who separated earth and heaven, and who, the all-pervading leaders (of rites), accomplished (acts productive of)⁴ good results.

10. RIBHUS, who possess wealth, comprising cattle, food, progeny, dwellings, and abundant sustenance, do you, who are the first drinkers (of the Soma), bestow upon us, when exhilarated, (that wealth, and upon those) who laud your liberality.

¹ Ritupábhih is explained, rituyájadevaih, the deities to whom the Ritu sacrifice is dedicated.

² Gnáspatníbhih: gná is usually rendered the wives of the gods: the compound is here explained strinámpálayitryah, the female protectors of women: it may imply the goddesses, but there is no authority for such an interpretation.

³ Parva tebhih, parvavadbhih, parvanyarchyamánair-devaviseshaih: a sort of deities to be worshipped at the Parvas, certain periods of the month, as the new and full moon, &c.

⁴ Swapatyáni chahruh: according to the scholiast, swapatana sádhanáni harmáni, acts, the means of accomplishing their good offspring or consequences: according to Sáyana also the relative ye refers to the antecedent in the next verse, te agrepát, they the first drinkers, the Soma being first offered at the evening sacrifice to the Ribhus. 11. RIBHUS go not away; let us not leave you (thirsting); (be present) unreproached at this sacrifice; be exhilarated, deities, along with INDRA, with the MARUTS, and with (other) brilliant (divinities), for the distribution of wealth.

Deities, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga V.

1. Come hither, sons of strength, sons of SUDHAN-WAN; RIBHUS, keep not away; may the exhibit arating juices proceed to you at this sacrifice, after¹ the munificent INDRA.

2. May the munificence of the RIBHUS come to me on this occasion, (since) there has been the drinking of the effused Soma, in consequence of one ladle having been made fourfold by their dexterous and excellent work.

3. You have made the ladle fourfold, and have said (to AGNI), assent (to the division): therefore have you gone, VAJAS, the path of the immortals: dexterous-handed RIBHUS (you have joined) the company of the gods.

4. What sort of ladle was that which by skill you have made four? now pour forth the Soma for their exhilaration: drink, RIBHUS, of the sweet Soma libation.

5. By your (marvellous) deeds you have made your parents young; by your deeds you have made the ladle (fit) for the drinking of the gods: by your deeds you have made the two horses, the bearers of INDRA, swifter than (an arrow from) a bow, RIBHUS, who are rich in (sacrificial) food.

6. Distributors of food, RIBHUS, showerers (of benefits), exhilarated (by the Soma draught), fabricate wealth, comprising all posterity for him who pours out for your exultation, the acrid libration at the decline of day.

7. Drink, lord of horses, INDRA, the libation offered at dawn; the noon-day libation is alone for thee; but (in the evening) drink with the munificent RIBHUS, whom, INDRA, thou hast made thy friends by good deeds.

8. Do you, sons of strength, who have become gods by (your good deeds), soaring aloft in the sky like falcons, bestow upon us riches: sons of SUDHANWAN, you have become immortals.

9. Dexterous-handed, since you have instituted, through desire of good works, the third sacrifice, which is the bestower of wealth, therefore, RIBHUS, drink this effused Soma with exhilarated senses.

Súkta IV. (XXXVI.) 👘

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Jagatí, in the last verse Trishtubh.

1. The glorious three-wheeled car (of the ASWINS made, RIBHUS, by you), traverses the firmament without horses, without reins: great was that proclamation of your divine (power), by which, RIBHUS, you cherish heaven and earth.

2. We invoke you respectfully, VAJAS and RIBHUS, to drink of this libration, for you are the wise sages who, by mental meditation, made the well-constructed undeviating car (of the ASWINS).

3. Therefore, VÁJA, RIBHU, VIBHWAN, was your greatness proclaimed amongst the gods, that you made your aged and infirm parents again young (and able) to go (where they would).

4. You have made the single ladle four-fold: by your (marvellous) acts you have clothed the cow with a (new) hide; therefore you have obtained immortality amongst the gods: such acts, VAJAS and RIBHUS, are to be eagerly glorified.

5. From the RIBHUS may wealth, the best and most productive of food, (come to me); that which the leaders (of rites) renowned together with the VAJAS, have engendered; that which has been fabricated by VIBHWAN, and is to be celebrated at sacrifices; that which, deities, you protect, that is to be beheld.

Varga VIII.

6. He is vigorous and skilled in war, he is a Rishi worthy of homage, he is a hero, the discomfiter of foes, invincible in battles, he is possessed of ample wealth, and (is blessed) with excellent posterity, whom VAJA and VIBHWAN, whom the RIBHUS protect.

7. An excellent and agreeable form has been assumed by you: (this is our own) praise: VÁJAS and RIBHUS be gratified (thereby), for you are wise, experienced, and intelligent: such we make you known (to be) by this (our) prayer.

8. Do you who are wise, (bestow) upon us, in requital of our praises, all enjoyments that are good for man, and fabricate for us, RIBHUS, riches and food, resplendent, invigorating, overpowering (foes), and most excellent.

9. Gratified (by our worship), fabricate for us, on this occasion, progeny, and wealth, and reputation, with numerous adherents:¹ grant to us, RIBHUS, abundant sustenance wherewith we may greatly excel others.

Deities and Rishi, as before; the metre of the first four verses is Trishtubh, of the rest Anushtubh.

1. Divine VÁJAS, RIBHUS,² come to our sacrifice by the path travelled by the gods, inasmuch as you, gracious (RIBHUS), have maintained sacrifice amongst the people, (the progeny) of MANU, for (the sake of) securing the prosperous course of days.

2. May these sacrifices be (acceptable) to you in heart and mind: may to-day the sufficient (juices) mixed with butter flow to you: the full libations are prepared for you: may they, when drank, animate you for glorious deeds.

3. As the offering suited to the gods at the third (daily) sacrifice supports you, VÁJAS, RIBHUKSHANS; as the praise (then recited supports you): therefore, like MANU, I offer you the Soma juice, along with the very ² The text has Ribhuhsháh which is properly the nom. sing. of Ribhukshin, a name of Indra: here Sáyana identifies it with Ribhavah, the plur. nom. of Ribhu: in some of the following verses of this hymn the word appears as Ribhukshanah, the nom. or voc.-plural of Ribhuhshin substituting optionally, the short for the long vowel in the antepenultimate, Ribhuhshanah for Ribhuhshánah: sce Sanscrit Gr., 2d edit. p. 460.

4. VAJINS, you are borne by stout horses mounted on a brilliant car, have jaws of iron, and are possessed of treasures:² sons of INDRA, grandsons of strength,³ this last sacrifice⁴ is for your exhilaration.

5. We invoke you, RIBHUKSHANS, for splendid wealth, mutually co-operating, most invigorating in war, affecting the senses, ever munificent, and comprehending horses.⁵

6. May the man whom you, RIBHUS and INDRA, favour, be ever liberal by his acts, and possessed of a horse at the sacrifice.⁶

7. VÁJAS, RIBHUKSHANS, direct us in the way to

¹ Juhre manushvat uparásu vikshu yushme sachá brihaddiveshu somam: the meaning is not very clear: upará is explained, those who are pleased or sport near the worship of the gods, devayajana samípe ramantah; tásu vikshu-prajásu, in or among such people : brihaddiveshu, Sáyana considers an epithet of deveshu understood. ² Vájinah, the possessors either of horses or food, is here used somewhat irregularly for Vájá: ayahsiprá, according to the commentator, means as hard or strong as iron, ayovat, sárabhútasipráh: sunishháh having good nishkas, a certain weight of gold, if not a coin.

³ The text has here the nouns in the singular, son of Indra, son or grandson of strength, and inconsistently follows with vah-vos, you, in the plural.

⁴ Ityagriyam, agre bhavam, would mean the first, the preceding, but Sáyana explains it, tritiyam savanam, which is most consistent with the worship of the Ribhus.

8. VAJAS, RIBHUKSHANS, INDRA, NÁSATYAS command that ample wealth with horses be sent to men for their enrichment.

SÚKTA VI. (XXXVIII.)

The deities of the first verse are Heaven and Earth, of the rest Dadhihrá; the Rishi is VÁMADEVA: the metre Trishtubh.

1. TRASADASYU has bestowed upon many the ancient (gifts) which were obtained by the liberal (prince) through your (favour, Heaven and Earth)¹ you two have given a horse, a son,² a weapon (for the destruction) of the Dasyus, fierce and foe-subduing.

2. And you two have given the swift Dadhikrá,³ the repeller of many (foes), the defender of all men, the straight-going, the graceful-moving, the resplendent, the rapid, the destroyer of enemies like a heroic prince.

3. Whom all men, rejoicing, praise, rushing everywhere, as if down a precipice, springing with his feet like a hero eager for war, drawing a car, and going as swift as the wind.

² So Sáyana explains the kshetrásám and urvarásám of the text, deriving them from kshetra, land, urvará, fertile soil, and san, to give : why these should signify aşwa and putra is not very obvious.

¹ They are not named in the text, but the dual pron. $v\acute{a}m$, of you two, is supposed to imply them.

4. Who, opposing the mingled multitude in battles, rushes eager, passing through the regions, whose vigour is manifest, who, understanding what is to be known, puts to shame the adversary of the (pious) man.¹

5. Whom men call after in battles, as after a thief carrying off a garment, or as (after) a hungry hawk pouncing (upon his prey): they call after him, hastening to obtain food, or a herd of cattle.²

6. And who, issuing forth the first in those encounters, rushes in various directions with rows of chariots; like an elegant (courser), friendly to man, decorated with a garland, raising the dust, and champing his bit.

7. And that swift (horse) enduring in battle, bestowing food, and doing service with his limbs, rushing swiftly upon the quick-moving (host of the enemy), going straight onward, and tossing up the dust, throws it above his brows.

8. And the adversaries of that foe-destroying steed, like (those) of the brilliant thunderbolt, are alarmed; for when he contends, even against thousands on every side, then, rousing (his spirit), he is fearful and irresistible.

² Sravascháchchhá pasumachcha yútham, is explained annam kírltim vá pasumad yútham cha achchá abhilakshya gachchhantam enam anuhrosanti, they call after him, that is, Dadhihrá, going, having in view either food or fame, or a herd consisting of cattle: Sáyana rests his interpretation on that of Yáska, Nir. 1v. 24: perhaps the anuhrosanti should be again supplied as applicable to the pasumad yútham.

Varga XII.

¹ Vidathá nichikyat tiro aratim paryyápa áyoh, is explained jnátavyáni jánan, aramanam, arim vá, tiraskaroti stotur-manushyasya, knowing things cognisable, who disgraces the opponent, or the foe of the man, the praiser.

9. Men praise the overpowering rapidity of that fleet (steed), who is the accomplisher (of the desires) of mankind, and, following him to battle, they have said, Dadhikrá with (his) thousands has gone forth against the foe.

10. Dadhikrá has spread abroad the five classes of beings by his strength, as the sun (diffuses) the waters by his radiance: may he, the giver of hundreds and thousands, associate these praises with agreeable (rewards).

Súkta VII. (XXXIX.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre the same, except in the last verse, in which it is Anushtubh.

1. Verily we praise that swift Dadhikrá and scatter (provender before him) from heaven and earth: may the gloom-dispelling dawns preserve for me (all good things), and bear me beyond all evils.

2. Fulfiller of religious rites, I reiterate the praise of the great Dadhikrá, the liberal, many-honoured showerer (of benefits), whom MITRA and VARUNA gave for the good of many, the transporter (beyond calamity), as brilliant as AGNI.

3. May ADITI,¹ consentient with MITRA and VA-RUNA render him free from sin who has performed the worship of the steed Dadhikrá, when the fire has been kindled at the opening of the dawn.

4. Whilst we glorify the name of the great Dadhi $kr\dot{a}$, the means of sustenance and of strength, the prosperity of those who praise (him),² let us invoke Varga XIII.

¹ Aditi is considered by Sáyana as an appellative, alhandaníya, the indivisible or infrangible, that is, Dadhihrá.

² The text has marutám náma bhadram: Sáyana explains marutám by stotrínám, of the praisers.

(also) for our welfare VARUNA, MITRA, AGNI, and INDRA, the bearer of the thunderbolt.

5. Those who are preparing for battle, those who are proceeding to sacrifice, both invoke (Dadhikrá) as if (he was) INDRA: MITRA and VARUNA have given to us the horse Dadhikrá as an encourager to man.

6. I have celebrated the praise of Dadhikrá, the rapid and victorious steed: may he make our mouths fragrant,¹ may he prolong our lives.

Súkta VIII. (XL.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the first verse is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagatí.

1. May we repeatedly recite (the praise) of Dadhikrávan; may all rising dawns excite me (to the adoration) of the waters, of AGNI, of USHAS, of SÚRYA, of BRIHASPATI, and of JISHNU the son of ANGIRAS.

2. May Dadhikrávan, the active, the cherisher, the giver of cattle, who abides with the devout, the swift-going, be willing to accept (the sacrificial) food at the time of the desirable dawn: may he who is true, moving, rapid, and leaping like a grasshopper, produce (for us) food, strength, heaven.

3. And after him who is quick-going, hastening, eager (to arrive at his goal, men) follow (as other birds pursue) the flight of a swift $(bird)^2$ striving together to keep up by the side of Dadikrávan the transporter (of others) as swift as a hawk.¹

² This is a very elliptical passage: asya dravatas-turanyatahparnam na ver-anu váti pragardhinah, lit. of him running, quick-going, as after the flight of a bird, go they eager: the scholiast supplies the ellipse, and as the verb anugáti is in the singular, he supplies a nominative, sarvah janah, every man.

4. And that horse bound by his neck, his flanks, his mouth, accelerates his paces: Dadhikrá increasing in vigour after the (sacred rite), following the windings of the roads, goes still more rapidly.

5. He is HANSA, (the sun), dwelling in light; VASU, (the wind), dwelling in the firmament; the invoker of the gods (AGNI), dwelling on the altar; the guest (of the worshipper), dwelling in the house (as the culinary fire); the dweller amongst men, (as consciousness), the dweller in the most excellent (orb, the sun), the dweller in truth, the dweller in the sky (the air), born in the waters, in the rays of light, in the verity (of manifestation) in the (eastern) mountain, the truth (itself)).²

¹ Syenasyeva dhrajato ankasam pari Dadhikrávnah sahorjá taritratah, literally, as of a hawk quick-going with respect to the insertion of the foot or to the breast, ankasam-pádádháram urah-pradesam vá of Dadhikrávan, together with strength, or for the sake of strength together, enabling to cross: it is not easy to make any sense of this even with the help of the scholiast, although there is nothing very difficult in the words: Mahídhara, Yajush, 9. 15, explains anhasam pari, a horse's trappings, the cloth, chaunri tail, &c., vastrachámarádikam, over all his body, which fly open as the horse gallops, like the wings of a bird, whilst the horse himself has the speed of the hawk.

² This stanza is known as the Hansavati Rich, and occurs twice in the Yajush, 10. 24, and 12. 14, as well as in the Aitareya Bráhmana, 10. 20; 1. and although the commentators vary a little in their interpretation of the individual terms, they agree as to the purport of the whole, the identification of Aditya, or the sun in the type Dadhikrá with Parabrahma, or the universal deity, and consequently his identity with all the other types of the supreme being: these terms are thus specified, INDRA and VARUNA are the deities; the Rishi is VÁMADEVA; the metre Trishtubh.

Varga XV.

1. INDRA (and VARUNA), VARUNA (and INDRA), what praise of you accompanied by oblations may

1. Hansa, from han to go, he who goes eternally to destroy, who destroys individually, or it is resolvable into aham, I, and sa, he, that is, I am that, the supreme: 2. Vasu, the appointer of the stations of all creatures, or all men, or that which abides (vasati) at all times, sarvadá: 3. Hotá, or sacrificer: and 4. Atithi, or guest, meaning in both cases Aqui, or fire, first as the sacrificial, and secondly as culinary, fire: 5. Nrishad the dweller among men, is explained Chaitanya, consciousness, or Prána, vitality, or, according to Sáyana in the scholia on the Bráhmana, sight, or the eye, according to the text "the sun, becoming the eye (of the world), entered into the two eyes (of man); 6. Varasad is uniformly rendered the dweller in the most excellent station, that is, the solar orb: 7. Ritasad is he who is present in truth, or in water, or in sacrifice : the comment on the Bráhmana interprets truth, the text of the Veda, vedaváhya : 8. Vyomasad, the dweller in the sky, has its literal meaning everywhere; only Sáyana makes it out to be the wind: 9. Abjah, who is born in the midst of the water, as, according to another text, udaka madhye khalvoyam jáyate, Mahídhara says, in the form of a fish, &c.: the Bráhmana intimates that this refers to the apparent rising of the sun from the ocean and setting in the same: 10. Gojah, born amidst, goshu, rays: Mahidhara says, gavi, prithivyám, in the earth, being identical with the elements : 11. Ritajah, born of truth, from being visible by all, not invisible like Indra and the rest, is Sáyana's explanation in this place; in his scholia on the Bráhmana he interprets it, born from the mantras of the Vedas: 11. Adrija, mountain-born, that is, in the eastern mountain, where he rises: Mahidhara says, Born in stone in the form of Agni, as if alluding to flint; or adri, having for one meaning a cloud, he may be said to be generated in the clouds in the form of rain: finally he is Ritam, truth, that is, according to Sáyana, in both his comments, sound truth; or Parabrahma, as by another text, "Satyam jnánam anantam obtain for us felicity,¹ (such as) the immortal invoker of the gods, (AGNI, may bestow): may (the praise) which is addressed by us to you both, INDRA and VARUNA, sanctified by acts and prompted by veneration, touch your hearts.

2. Divine INDRA and VARUNA, the mortal diligent in offering (you) sacrificial food, who has through friendship made you his kinsmen, destroys (his own) sins, and his enemies in battle; and by your great favours he becomes renowned.

3. INDRA and VARUNA (you are) most liberal givers of wealth to men praising yon in various ways, when as friends well plied with (sacrificial) food, you are exhilarated by the Soma juice effused through friendship.

4. Fierce INDRA and VARUNA you hurled the brightshining and most mighty thunderbolt against this (our foe), who is difficult to be resisted by us; (who is) rapacious, malevolent: grant us strength to overcome him.

5. INDRA and VARUNA, be the exciters of this our praise, as the bull is of the milch cows: may that cow (of praise) yield us (reward), like a large cow

Brahma," truth, wisdom, infinitude, Brahma; and as he explains it in this text, abádhyam sarvádhishthánam Brahma tatwam, the indefeasible, all-regulating principle, Brahma: so in his gloss on the Bráhmana, truth, he says, is of two kinds, vyávahárikam, truth in speech and worldly dealings, and páramárthikam, or Parabrahma, the supreme universal spirit: he notices, also, the reading of another Sákhá or Ritam brihat, which is followed in the Yajush, and is explained by Mahídhara, the all-pervading, the infinite sarvagatam aparyantam, that is, Parabrahmarúpa; Aditya in the form of Parabrahma.

 $^{-1}$ Indrá ho vám Varuná: the single names of the two deities being put in the dual form, implies the nomination of both.

that has gone forth to pasture, whose thousand channels (are filled) with milk.

Varga XVI.

6. May INDRA and VARUNA, the overthrowers (of foes), be around us¹ with (their) protections; (that thereby we may have) good sons and grandsons, and fertile lands, and long life,² and virility.

7. Desirous of (possessing) cattle, we have recourse to you, INDRA and VARUNA, for full protection, you who are powerful and kind as (kinsmen); we have recourse to you, adorable heroes, for (your) friendship and affection, (to you who are), like parents, givers of happiness.

8. Liberal givers, those (our) praises soliciting (abundant) food have proceeded to you for (your) protection: longing for you³ as (soldiers long) for battle, and as cattle approach the Soma for (its) advantage,⁴ so my heartfelt hymns (approach) INDRA and VARUNA.

9. These my carnest praises approach INDRA and VARUNA, desirous to obtain wealth, as dependants attend (upon an opulent man)⁵ for the sake of riches, like humble (females)⁶ begging for food.

¹ Paritakmyáyám: it is rendered paritakane, which is not more intelligible: paritakmá occurs also in the sense of night, in which case it may mean, may Indra and Varuna protect us in the night against evil spirits.

² Súro drisíhe is the text, which is interpreted súryasya chiraháladarsanáya, for the sight of the sun for a long time, i.e. chirajíranáya, for long life.

³ Yurayúh is explained, yuvám kámayamánah.

4 Sriye na gáva upa somam asthuh, alluding to the mixture of milk and curds with the Soma libation, dadhyádisrayanáya.

⁵ Joshtára ica vasuo, sevaká dhaniham swáminam: as servants upon a rich master, or as derived from jush, to please, joshtárah may be rendered flatterers, parasites.

⁶ Raghvír-iva sravaso bhikshamánáh; raghvír iva laghvya

10. May we of our own (right) be the masters of permanent riches,¹, comprising horses, chariots, and nourishment: may those two, traversing (the regions), direct their Nigut steeds towards us, associating (them) with riches and with recent protections.

11. Mighty INDRA and VARUNA come to us in battle with (your) powerful protections, and where the bright (weapons) play amidst the (hostile) hosts, may we be triumphant in that conflict (through) your (favour.)

SÚKTA X. (XLII.) !

The Risht is the royal sage TRASADASYU: as the first six verses are in his own praise, he is considered to be the divinity also: of the other four stanzas the deities are INDRA and VARUNA; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. Twofold is my empire,² that of the whole Kshatriya race, and all the immortals are ours:³ the gods associate me with the acts of VARUNA:⁴ I rule over (those) of the proximate form of man.

2. I am the king VARUNA; on me (the gods) bestow those principal energies (that are) destructive of ¹ Tmaná patuyah syáma; that is, according to the scholiast, without any effort or labour, aproyatnena.

² Mama ducitá ráshtram hshatriyasya visuáyoh: here, therefore, we have a positive indication of the military and regal order.

³ Vișwe amritá yathá nah: therefore he is king also over Swarga.

4 Kratum sachante Varunasya deváh, rájámi krishter-upamasya vavreh: except the last word, which the scholiast renders rúpa, form, there is nothing unusual in the terms; but even with the explanations attempted by Sáyana, the purport of the séntence is quite unintelligible, beyond its being probably the identity of Varuna and Trasadayu, as asserted in the next verse. Varga XVII.

the Asuras; (they) associate me with the worship of VARUNA: I rule over (the acts) of the proximate form of man.

3. I am INDRA, I am VARUNA, I am those two in greatness: (I am) the vast, profound, beautiful, heaven and earth: intelligent, I give like TWASHTRI animation to all beings: I uphold earth and heaven.

4. I have distributed the moisture-shedding waters; I have upheld the sky as the abode of the water;¹ by the water I have become the preserver of the water, the son of ADITI, illustrating the threefold elementary space.²

5. Warriors well mounted, ardent for contest, invoke me: selected (combatants invoke) me in battle: I, the affluent INDRA, instigate the conflict, and, endowed with victorious provess, I raise up the dust (in the battle).

Varga XVIII.

6. I have done all these (deeds): no one resists my divine, unsurpassed vigour; and when the Soma juices, when sacred songs, exhilarate me, then the unbounded heaven and earth are both alarmed.

7. All beings recognise thee (VARUNA), and thou, worshipper, addressest these (encomiums) to VARUNA: thou, INDRA, art renowned as slaying VRITRA; thou hast set the obstructed rivers free to flow.

8. The seven Rishis were the protectors of this our (kingdom) when the son of DURGAHA was in bonds:

¹ Sadane ritasya may also imply, for the place or sphere of the sun, the word rita being used here and in the following passages either for udaha or áditya.

² That is, according to Sáyana, for me the creator has made the three worlds, madartham eva kshityádilokatrayam akárshít parameşwarah.

performing worship they obtained for (his queen) from the favour of INDRA and VARUNA, 'TRASADASYU,¹ like INDRA the slayer of foes, dwelling near the gods.

9. The wife of PURUKUTSA propitiated you two, INDRA and VARUNA with oblations and prostrations, and therefore you gave her the king TRASADASYU, the slayer of foes, dwelling near the gods.²

10. May we, glorifying you both, be delighted by riches; may the gods be pleased by oblations, the cows by pasture: and do you, INDRA and VARUNA, daily grant us that same milch cow, (riches), free from any imperfection.³

SUKTA XI. (XLIII.)

The deities are the ASWINS, the Rishis are PURUMÍLHA and AJAMÍLHA, sons of SUHOTRA; the metre is Trishtubh.

AJAMILHA, Sons of SUHOTRA; the metre is Trishtuon.

1. Which of those who are entitled to sacrifice will listen (to our prayers)? which of the gods will hear our praise? which will be propitiated (by it)? upon the heart of whom among the immortals may we impress the devout affectionate adoration, accompanied by sacred oblations?

¹ Purukutsa, son of Durgaha, being a prisoner, it is not said on what occasion, his queen propitiated the seven Rishis to obtain a son who might take his father's place: they advised her to worship Indra and Varuņa, in consequence of which Trasadasyu was born.

² Arddhadevam is explained devánám samípe varttamánam; or we might render it, demi-god, though such an appellation would not apply to Indra, to whom Trasadasyu is compared: on the contrary, Indra is declared to be one half of all the gods, and therefore entitled to the largest share of offerings, yat sarveshám arddham Indrah prati tasmád Indro devatánám bhuyishthabháhtamah.

2. Who will make us happy? which of the gods is the most prompt to come to our sacrifice? which the most willing to grant us felicity? what chariot do they say is quick and drawn by rapid steeds? that which the daughter of SúryA selected.

3. Moving, you proceed rapidly by day, as INDRA, at the end of the night, (manifests his) power: descended from heaven, divine, of graceful motion, (ASWINS), by which of (your) acts are you most distinguished?¹

4. What may be the fit measure (of your merits)? invoked by what praises do you come to us? who (can exist as) the object of your great wrath? DASRAS, dispensers of sweet (water), defend us with your protection.

5. Your chariot travels widely round the heaven until it places you beyond the firmament: dispensers of sweet (water, the priests) are diluting the Soma juice with milk, that the boiled (barley) may be united with the libration offered to you.

6. The flowing $(stream)^2$ has sprinkled your steeds with moisture: the radiant horses (like) birds (in swiftness) pass on, bright with lustre: well known is that quick-moving chariot, whereby you became the lords of SÚRYÁ.

7. May the earnest praise, distributers of food, wherewith I associate you both like-minded at this sacrifice, be (beneficial) to us: do you protect your worshipper: my desire, Násatyas, directed towards you is gratified.

Súkta XII. (XLIV.)

Deities, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. We invoke, ASWINS, to-day, your rapid car, the associator of the solar ray:¹ the banked car which bears Súryá, vast, wealthy, and laden with praises.

2. Aswins, grandsons of heaven, divinities, you enjoy that glory by your actions, that (sacrificial) food is administered to your persons, and powerful horses² draw you in your chariot.

3. What offerer of oblations addresses you to day with hymns for the sake (of obtaining) protection, for the drinking of the Soma, or for the ancient fulfilment of the sacrifice? what offerer of adoration may bring you ASWINS (to this rite).

4. NÁSATYAS, who are manifold, come with your golden chariot to this sacrifice; drink of the sweet Soma beverage, and give precious things to the man who celebrates (your worship).

5. Come to our presence, whether from heaven or earth, with your well-constructed golden chariot: let not other devout worshippers detain you, for a prior attraction awaits you (here). Varga XX.

¹ Sangatim goh, is only explained, goh sangamayitáram, the bringer into union, or associator of Go: what the latter is intended for is not explained, and the translation is purely conjectural, founded upon the connection of the Aswins with light, or the sun.

² Kahuhásah, is explained mahánto aşwáh, or it may be praises, stutayah.

6. DASRAS; mete out for us both¹ great opulence, comprising many descendants, since the leaders of the rite (the Purumílhas), have addressed to you, ASWINS, their praise, and the Ajamílhas have united with it their laudation.

7. May the earnest praise wherewith, distributers of food, I associate you both like-minded at this sacrifice, be (beneficial) to us: do you protect your worshipper: my desire NÁSATYAS, directed towards you is gratified.

SUKTA XIII. (XLV.)

The deities as before; the Rishi is VAMADEVA; the metre of the last verse is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagatí.

Varga XXI.

1. The sun rises: your chariot, (Aswins), traversing (the regions), is associated with the divine (orb) on the summit (of the eastern mountain): in it are the three analogous kinds of food,² and the leather vessel of the sweet Soma juice appears as the fourth.

2. Your food-bearing, Soma-laden, well-horsed chariots, appear at the opening of the dawn, scattering the surrounding darkness like the sun, and spreading bright radiance over the firmament.

3. Drink of the Soma juice with mouths (fit for) imbibing the beverage : harness your beloved chariot for the Soma juice : (come to the dwelling) of the sacrificer : enliven the path with the Soma : bring, ASWINS, the leather vessels filled with the Soma juice.

¹ The two Rishis, the authors of the Súkta.

² Priksháso mithuná trayah: mithuná is properly twins, or a pair, but it may be used, according to Sáyana, for a greater number of analogous or connected objects, as mátá pitá putrastadevamithunam, mother, father, son, constitute a twin or pair: the three sorts of food are said to be asanam, pánam, hhádah: in what the last differs from the first is not specified.

4. Come to sacrifices as flies to honcy, (with those horses) that are swift of speed, gentle, unrefractory, golden-winged, bearers (of burthens), wakers at dawn, dispensers of water, exulting and sipping the Soma juice.

5. The sacred fires, the instruments of holy sacrifice, the conveyers of libations, praise the associated ASWINS at the break of day, when the observant (priest) the conductor of the rite, with washed hands has expressed by the (grinding) stones the sweet-flavoured Soma juice.

6. The near-advancing (rays), dispersing (the darkness) by the (light of day), are overspreading the firmament with lustre like the sun: the sun, harnessing his horses, (proceeds on his way): do you make known all his paths by (following) after (him) with sacrificial food.

7. Celebrating (sacred) rites, I glorify you, Aswins: well-horsed and undecaying is that chariot, whereby you quickly traverse the regions (of space), and come to (our sacrifice) abounding in oblations, promptly passing away, and the yielder of enjoyment.

ANUVAKA V.

[•] Súкта I. (XLVI.)

The deities are INDRA and VÁYU, except in the first verse, which is addressed to VÁYU alone; the Rishi is VÁMADEVA; the metre Gáyatrí.

1. Drink first, VÁYU, the effused libration of the Soma at the rites that secure heaven, for thou verily art the first drinker.

2. VÁYU, who art drawn by the Niguts, and hast INDRA for charioteer, come (for the fulfilment) of our VOL. III. Varga XXII.

numerous wishes, and do thou (and INDRA) drink of the libation.

3. INDRA and VÁYU, may a thousand steeds, eager for food, bring you to drink the Soma.

4. Mount, INDRA and VÁYU, the golden-seated chariot, propitious to sacrifice, soaring to heaven.

5. INDRA and VÁYU, come with your very strong chariot to the sacrifice: come hither.

6. INDRA and VÁYU, this (libation) is poured out: sympathizing with the gods, drink it in the dwelling of the donor.

7. Hither be your course; here, INDRA and VAYU, be the letting of your horses loose, for your drinking of the Soma.

SUKTA II. (XLVII.)

Deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Anushtubh.

Varga XXIII.

1. Purified (by holy acts)¹ I bring to thee, VAYU, the Soma, first (offered to thee at sacrifices)² that seek to gain heaven: deity, who art ever longed for, come with thy Nigut steeds to drink the Soma juice.

2. INDRA and VAYU, you are fit for the drinking of these Soma librations, for the drops flow towards you as waters (run) together into a deep place.

² Ayámi te madhwo agram: this is consistent with the passages in the preceding hymn; also Sáma-Veda, 11. 975: according to Sáyana, madhwoh here is for madhum, the gen. for the acc.; but this is not necessary, as, I bring to you, of the Soma would be no unusual construction: Ayámi is explained prápayámi, and agram, itarebhyah púrvam: Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, 27, 30, has a partly different version: may the cup (sukra-graha) come to thee, ayáni, ágachchhatu, which is the essence of the Soma, agram, sárabhútah madhunah rasasya. 3 INDRA and VAYU who are lords of strength, vigorous, and drawn by the Nigut steeds, come (riding in) the same car: drink the Soma for our protection.

4. Leaders (of rites), conveyers of sacrifices, INDRA and VÁYU give to us for the offerer (of the oblation), those Niguts which are your (steeds), and are desired of many.

SUKTA III. (XLVIII.)

The deity is VAYU; the Rishi and metre are the same as in the last.

1. Drink, VÁYU, the oblations yet untasted, like (a prince) the terrifier of foes:¹ (bestow) upon the worshipper wealth: come with thy brilliant car to drink the Soma juice.

2. VAYU, who art the represser of calumnies;² who art drawn by the Niguts, and hast INDRA for thy charioteer, come with thy brilliant car to drink the Soma juice.

3. The dark nurses of wealth,³ the universal forms (heaven and earth), attend upon thee: come VAyu with thy brilliant car to drink the Soma juice.

4. May the ninety-nine steeds harnessed together, that are as swift as thought, convey thee: come, VÁYU, with thy brilliant car, to drink the Soma juice.

5. Harness, VÁYU, a hundred plump steeds, or even a thousand, and let thy chariot come with rapidity (hither).

SÚKTA IV. (LXIX.)

The deities are INDRA and BRIHASPATI; the Rishi is VAMA-DEVA; the metre Gáyatri.

Varga XXV.

1. (I present) the agreeable oblation to your mouths, INDRA and BEIHASPATI, and the hymn and the exhilarating beverage are offered.

2. This delicious Soma is effused, INDRA and BRI-HASPATI, for you, for (your) drinking and exhilaration.

3. INDRA and BRHIASPATI, come to our dwelling, drinkers of Soma, to drink the Soma juice.

4. Grant to us, INDRA and BRIHASPATI, riches comprising a hundred (cattle), a thousand horses.

5. INDRA and BRIHASPATI, we invoke you with praises, when the libration is effused, to drink of this Soma juice.

6. Drink, INDRA and BRIHASPATI, the Soma, in the dwelling of the donor, and be exhilarated in his abode.

S'єкта V. (L.)

The deity of the first nine verses is BRIHASPATI alone, and of the last two conjointly with INDRA; the Rishi is as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga XXVI.

1. The ancient sages, illustrious, intelligent, have placed before (them) the pleasing-tongued BRIHAS-PATI, who propped up by (his) strength the ends of the earth, and who abides with noise in the three regions.¹

2. BRIHASPATI, protect the fruit-yielding, progressive, uninjured, ample sacrifice of this (thy wor-shipper, at which) they who are the terrifiers (of foes), the delighters of thee who art possessed of great wisdom, glorify (thee) in our behalf.

3. Those (steeds), BRIHASPATI, which had come from that distant (region), the best (of all), have sat down in connexion with the ceremony, and to thee the Soma juices expressed by the stones flow copiously, (accompanied) by the sounds of praise, like deep wells that supply water.

4. BRIHASPATI, when first being born in the highest heaven-of supreme light, seven-mouthed,¹ multiform, (combined) with sound, and seven-rayed, has subdued the darkness.

5. (Aided) by the praised and brilliant troop (of the Angirasas), he destroyed with sound the mischievous BALA: BRIHASPATI, shouting aloud, set free the boon-bestowing, oblation-supplying kine.

6. Thus may we offer worship with sacrifices, with oblations, with praise, to the paternal, universal deity,² the showerer (of benefits); and may we, BRIHASPATI, become possessed of riches, and be blessed with excellent progeny and valiant descendants.

7. That prince overcomes by his strength and prowess all hostile people, who oherishes liberally BRIHASPATI, and glorifies and honours him as the first sharer (of the offering).

(his) subjects willingly pay homage, the prince, to whom the Brahman first, (duly reverenced), repairs.

9. Unopposed he is the master of the riches of hostile people, and of his own subjects: the Raja who bestows riches upon the Brahman seeking his protection, him the gods protect.¹

10. BRIHASPATI, do thou and INDRA, both exulting and showering riches, drink the Soma at this sacrifice: may the all-pervading drops enter you: bestow upon us riches comprising all male descendants.

11. BRIHASPATI, INDRA, elevate us: may the favourable disposition of you both be combined for us: protect our rites: be awake to our laudations, confound the arrogant (foes) of us who are the donors (of oblations).

Súkta VI. (I.I.)

The deity is the DAWN; the Rishi is VAMADEVA; the metre $T_{rishtubh}$.

Varga I.

This widely-spread and sense-bestowing light

¹ This and the two preceding stanzas are cited in the Aitareya Bráhmana, VIII, 5, 24, 26, as authority for the indispensable employment by a prince of a Brahman as Purohit, or priest, to conduct solemn rites on his behalf; "the gods eat not the food of a Raja who has no Purohita; therefore, when about to sacrifice, let him appoint (lit. place before) a Brahman, na havá apurohitasya Rájno devá annam adanti, tasmád Rájá yakshyamána Bráhmanam puro dadhíta: Sáyana, in commenting upon the verses cited, adopts some explanations differing from those here followed, but the variations are not of any great moment; as Ilá, food, instead of Earth, his food increases at all seasons; and sajanyá, allies of his enemies, instead of his own people : wherever Brahmá occurs he renders it Bráhmana. has sprung up in the east from out the darkness: verily the brilliant Dawns, the daughters of heaven, are giving to man (the faculty to act).¹

2. The many-limbed Dawns rise up in the east, like the pillars planted at sacrifices (round the altar); radiant and purifying, they are manifested, opening the gates of the obstructing gloom.

3. The gloom-dispelling, affluent Dawns animate the pious worshippers to offer (sacrificial) treasure: may the churlish (traffickers)² sleep on unawakened, in the unlovely depth of darkness.

4. Divine Dawns, may your chariot, whether old or new, be frequent at this day's (worship), wherewith, affluent Dawns, possessing riches, (you shine) upon the seven-mouthed (troop of the) Angirasas,³ the observers of the nine or ten days rite.⁴

5. Divine Dawns, with horses that frequent sacrifices, you quickly travel round the regions (of space): awake the sleeping being, whether biped or quadruped, to pursue (his functions).

6. Where is that ancient one of those (Dawns), through whom the works of the RIBHUS were accomplished? for as the bright Dawns happily proceed, they are not distinguished, being alike and undecaying.⁵

7. Verily those auspicious Dawns have been of old, rich with desired blessings, truthful (bestowers) of the results of sacrifice; at which the sacrificer, adoring with (silent) praise, glorifying (with hymns); has quickly obtained wealth.

8. They spread around of similar form, (coming) from the east, (coming) from the same region alike renowned: the divine Dawns, arousing the assembly of the sacrifice, are glorified like the (rays) creative of the waters.

9. Those Dawns proceed verily all alike, of similar form, of infinite hues, pure, bright, illumining, concealing by their radiant persons the very great gloom.

10. Divine, resplendent daughters of heaven, bestow upon us wealth, comprehending progeny: awaking you for our benefit, may we be the lords of excellent descendants.

11. Daughters of heaven, resplendent Dawns, I address you (as) the announcer of the sacrifice: may we be (the possessors) of celebrity amongst men, and may heaven and the divine earth perpetuate (it).¹

SUKTA VII. (LII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Gáyatrí.

1. The daughter of heaven has been seen; the kind conductress (of men), the parent (of benefits), shedding radiance upon (the departure of her) sister night.²

2. Like a beautiful mare, the radiant mother of the rays of light,³ the object of sacrifice, (she) is the friend of the ASWINS.⁴

mother of the rays of light: thou, USHAS, rulest over riches.¹

4 With praises we awaken thee, thou who art endowed with truth; thee, the baffler of animosities,² the restorer of consciousness.

5. The auspicious rays are visible like showers of rain;³ the dawn has filled (the world) with ample light.

6. Brilliant USHAS, filling (the world with light), thou dispersest the darkness with radiance: thereafter protect the oblation.

7. Thou overspreadest, USHAS, the heaven with rays, as well as the vast and beloved firmament with pure lustre.

Súkta VIII. (LIII.)

The deity is SAVITRI; the Rishi VAMADEVA; the metre Jagati.

1. We solicit of the divine, powerful, and intelligent SAVITRI that desirable and ample (wealth), along with which he grants a dwelling to the offerer of the oblation of his own accord: may the great deity grant us such every day.⁴

2. The supporter of heaven, the protector of the world, the wise (SAVITRI) puts on his golden armour:⁵

² Yávayad-dweshasam: according to the scholiast, the dawn puts to flight those enemies who had been endeavouring to destroy their adversaries during the night.

³ Gavám sargá na: the first is here explained by udahánám, (see above, verse 2), of waters : udahánám sargáh means, according to Sáyana, varshadháráh.

⁴ Tachchhardir no mahán udayán devo aktubhih; chhardih is explained by griha, a house, or it may mean light: aktubhih is lit. by nights, by metonymy for days.

⁵ Pisangam drápim prati munchate, is explained by Sáyana, hiranmayam havacham áchchhádayati pratyudayam, every morning he puts on a golden cuirass. Varga IV discriminator (of objects), filling (the world with light), SAVITRI has engendered great and laudable felicity.

3. The divine (SAVITRI) fills (with radiance) the celestial and terrestrial regions, and boasts of his own functions: SAVITRI puts forth his arms¹ for (the work of) production, regulating the world, and animating it with light.

4. The divine SAVITRI unrestrained, illumining the regions, protects the righteous acts (of men); he extends his arms for (the direction of) the people of the earth: observant of obligations, he rules over the wide world.

5. SAVITRI, encompassing them by his magnitude, pervades the three (divisions of the) firmament,² the three worlds, the three brilliant spheres,³ the three heavens,⁴ the threefold earth:⁵ may he, by his three functions,⁶ of his own (pleasure) protect us.

6. May that divine SAVITRI, who is the source of great happiness, the engenderer (of good works), the comprehender (of all beings), the regulator of both the moveable and the stationary, grant us happiness in the three worlds, and (be) to us for the destruction of sin.

7. May the divine SAVITRI approach along with the Ritus, prosper our dwelling, and bestow upon us good progeny and food: may he be favourable to us by night and by day: may he heap upon us wealth comprehending offspring.

SÚKTA IX. (LIV.)

The deity and Rishi are the same; the metre is also Jagati, except in the last verse, in which it is Trishtubh.

1. The divine SAVITRI has been manifested: he is at once to be glorified by us: he is to be praised by the priests at the present (rite), and at the close (of the day), in order that he who apportions precious things to the descendants of MANU may bestow upon us, on this occasion, most excellent wealth.

2. First thou engenderest¹ for the adorable gods the best portion, immortality; then, SAVITRI, thou settest open (the day) to the donor (of the oblation), and (grantest) successive existences to men.²

3. If, SAVITRI, through ignorance, through pride in feeble or powerful (dependants), or through human infirmity, we have committed (offence) against thy divine person, or against gods or men, do thou on this occasion hold us to be unoffending.

4. (It is) not (fit) to obstruct (the acts) of the divine SAVITRI, since by them he upholds the whole world, whereby his gracious hand spreads fertility over the extent of the earth, and the magnitude of the heaven: such is his true (power).

² Anúchíná jívitá; jívitányanuhramayuhtáni, that is, in the order of fathers, sons, &c.: the verse occurs Yajur-Veda, 33. 54, and is somewhat differently explained by Mahídhara: dámánam, which Sáyana renders dátáram: he explains rasmisamúham, collection of rays: the latter part of the hemistich he therefore reads, thou spreadest abroad thy rays, and excitest amongst men the consequent offices of vitality, that is, the daily duties following on the return of morning.

5. Thou elevatest those, of whom INDRA is chief, above the vast clouds: for these, (thy worshippers), thou providest dwelling (places) filled with habitations: as when advancing they detained thee, so in like manner at thy command they stayed.¹

6. May INDRA, heaven and earth, Sindhu with the waters, and ADITI with the ADITYAS, bestow happiness upon us, who, offering librations, SAVITRI, pour out the auspicious Soma, day by day, thrice a day.

Súkta X. (LV.)

The deities are the VISWADEVAS; the Rishi as before; the metre of the first seven verses is Trishtubh, of the last three Gáyatri.

1. Which of you, VASUS, is a defender? which is a protector? heaven and earth and ADITI preserve us:² defend us, MITRA and VARUNA, from the strong man: who is it, gods, that offers you wealth at the sacrifice?³

2. The (deities) who bestow ancient places (of enjoyment on their worshippers), and (with minds) unperplexed, are the separators of light (from darkness);

² Dyávábhúmí adite trásíthám nah: adite, undivided, indivisible, may be an epithet here, according to the comment, of heaven and earth.

they, the eternal distributors (of rewards), grant (what is desired), and shine of pleasing aspect, the true (recompensers) of pious $acts.^1$

3. I adore the venerated ADITI, the Sindhu and the divine Swasti² for their friendship: (I praise you) both, Day and Night, that you may protect us unimpeded; night and morning do (what we desire).

4. ARYAMAN and VARUNA instruct us in the path (of worship): AGNI, the lord of food, points out the way to happiness: INDRA and VISHNU, being glorified, bestow upon us desirable prosperity comprehending descendants and strength.

5. I have recourse to the protection of PARVATA, of the MARUTS, and of the divine protector, BHAGA: may the lord (VARUNA) preserve us from human wretchedness, and may MITRA defend us with a friendly regard.

6. Divine Heaven and Earth, I praise you together with AHIBUDHNYA for those (good things that are) desired, as those desirous of acquiring (riches) praise the ocean on traversing it (in which) the sounding rivers disappear.³

² Swastim is explained, sukhanivásám, etan námikám devim, the abode of happiness: well-being is its usual acceptation, but it is said to be here a goddess so named.

¹ There is no peculiar difficulty in the words of this stanza, but its purport is not the less doubtful.

7. May the divine ADITI, with the gods, preserve us: may the ever-attentive protecting (deity, INDRA,) protect us: we are not able to withhold the elevated (sacrificial) food of MITRA, of VARUNA, of AGNI.

8. AGNI is lord over treasure: AGNI (is lord) over great good fortune: may he bestow them upon us.

9. Opulent USHAS, truth-speaking, food-abounding, bestow upon us many good things.

10. May SAVITRI, BHAGA, VARUNA, MITRA, ARYA-MAN, INDRA, come to us with the wealth (that each bestows).

SÚKTA XI. (LVI.)

The deities are Heaven and Earth; the Rishi as before; the metre of the three last stanzas is Gáyatri, of the rest Trísh-tubh.

Varga VIII.

1. Vast and most excellent Heaven and Earth, be present with splendour at this (sacrifice, attracted) by sanctifying hymns; since that the showerer sounds everywhere with (his) heralds, the rapid (winds), passing through the two spacious and mighty (regions).

2. May the divine, adorable, benevolent, fertilizing, truthful, unoppresive Heaven and Earth, the leaders of sacrifice,¹ whose sons are the gods, be present with the adorable gods, (attracted) by sanctifying hymns.

4. May Heaven and Earth, vast, universal, adorable, united in satisfaction, and disposed to give us food, protect us with our spacious dwellings, inhabited by our wives, and may we for our (pious) acts be possessed of chariots and slaves.

5. We offer earnest praise to you both, resplendent (Heaven and Earth); we approach you who are pure, to offer adoration.

6. Mutually sanctifying (each other)¹ of your own substance, you shine by your own power, and ever bear away the offering.

7. Mighty (Heaven and Earth), you fulfil the desires of your friend: distributing food and giving sustenance, you have sat down at the sacrifice.

Súkta XII. (LVII.)

The deities, as will appear from the hymn, are so only in relation to the stanzas referring to them, being, in fact, personifications of circumstances connected with agriculture; and accordingly it is said in the Grihya Sútras that each verse is to be silently repeated, with an oblation to fire, at the commencement of ploughing: the deity then of the first three verses is termed Kshetrapati; of the fourth, Suna; of the fifth and eighth, Sunásíra of the sixth, and seventh Sitán the Rishi is, as before, VÁMADEVA; the metre of the first, fourth, sixth, and seventh verses is Anushtubh, of the rest Trishtubh.

Varga IX.

1. With the master of the field,¹ our friend, we triumph: may he bestow upon us cattle, horses, nourishment, for by such (gifts) he makes us happy.

2. Lord of the field, bestow upon us sweet, abundant (water), as the milch cow (yields her) milk, dropping like honey, bland as butter: may the lords of the water make us happy.

3. May the herbs (of the field) be sweet for us; may the heavens, the waters, the firmament, be kind² to us; may the lord of the tield be gracious to us: let us, undeterred (by foes), have recourse to him.

4. May the oxen (draw) happily,³ the men (labour) happily; the plough furrow happily; may the traces bind happily; wield the goad happily.

5. Suna and Sira⁴ be pleased by this our praise,

¹ Kshetrasya patiná may be understood in its literal acception, or as intending Rudra or Agni.

² This, as well as the epithet of the Kshetra-puti that follows, is the same as that of the herbs, madhumat, literally, having sweetness.

⁴ Sunásírau is here given in the dual as the name of two divinities, of whom Suna, according to Saunaka, is the dyudevah, the deity of the sky, that is, Indra, when Síra will be Váyu, according to Sáyana: Yásha Nirukta, 9, 40, makes Suna, Váyu, and Síra, Áditya: in ordinary acceptation, Sunásíra is a name of Indra. and consequently sprinkle this (earth) with the water which you have created in heaven.

6. Auspicious Sitá, be present, we glorify thee: that thou mayest be propitions to us, that thou mayest yield us abundant fruit.

7. May INDRA take hold of Sitá; may PUSHAN guide her; may she, well stored with water, yield it as milk, year after year.

8. May the ploughshares break up our land happily; may the ploughman go happily with the oxen; may PARJANYA (water the earth) with sweet showers happily: grant, Suna and Sirá, prosperity to us.²

SUKTA XIII. (LVIII.)

A choice of deities is proposed, either AGNI, SÚRYA, Water, the Cow, or Clarified Butter (Ghrita); the Rishi is as before; the metre Trishtubh, of the last verse Jagati.

1. 'The sweet water swells up from the firmament:³ by the (solar) ray (man) obtains immortality: that

Varga X.

¹ Sítá is usually a furrow, and in that sense it occurs as a personification of the deity, or object of four stanzas in the Yajush, 12. 69-72, four furrows being drawn at the ceremony at which these stanzas are to be recited; but in the next stanza Sáyana explains it the wood supporting the furrow, sítádhárakáshthám, which Indra is to take hold of, Indra grihaátu; unless káshthá in the fem. retain its usual acceptation of quarter of the horizon, when Sítá may mean the sky, as in the next line, sá, she, is interpreted by the scholiast, dyau, the sky.

² The two last verses occur also in the Atharvan, 111, 17, 4, 111, 17, 13.

³ Samudrád-úrmir-madhumán udárat: the meaning, according to the scholiast, varies greatly according to the signification given to samudra; as, samodaute asmin yajamánáh, that in which worshippers delight, sacrificial fire; or, samudrád-draranti ápah, that from which waters rush, celestial fire, hightning: úrmi in the first case may imply reward or consequence, in the

which is the secret name of clarified butter is the tongue of the gods, the navel of ambrosia.¹

2. We celebrate the name of Ghrita at this sacrifice, we offer it with adorations: may the four-horned Brahmá listen to its being glorified:² the fair-complexioned deity perfects this rite.³

latter, rain; and in the latter sense of icrmi, samudra may have one of its more ordinary meanings, antarikska, the firmament: the passage, it is said, may be also made to apply to other objects of the hymu; as, for instance, samudra may imply, etymologically, the udder of the cow, whence flows milk, samuddravati, from which comes icrmi, ghí or butter: the whole hymn occurs in the Yajush, 17. 89–99, where Mahidhara limits the objects to two, Ghí and Agni, atra annádhyásena ghritam stúyate pránádhyásena cha agnih: as the representative of food, ghí is here praised; as that of vitality, Agni: accordingly the phrase is praised; as that of vitality, Agni: accordingly the phrase is differently interpreted: samudra is the ocean of ghi, from which it rises as its wave, samudrád ghrita-mayád madhumán rasaván úrmír-udayachchhat, and, having so arisen, it pervades immortality by Agni, as the life of the world with whom it is combined: udgatya cha sá úrmir-ansuná jagatpránabhútenág niná, sam-aihíbhúya amritatwam vyápnoti: it may be doubted if this is more intelligible than Sáyana's, but it is clear that both the commentators intend Agni, with whom ghí, as the material of the oblation, is meant to be identified.

² Brahmá chatuh-sringah: Brahmá is explained by Sáyana as usual, parivridho devah, the augmented, developed, or great deity: his four horns are the four Vedas: Mahídhara separates the attribute as presently to be noticed, and explains Brahmá by Ritwij, priest.

³ Avamíd-yaura etat: the text gives Súyana's explanation;

3. Four are his horns; three are his feet; his heads are two, his hands are seven: the triple-bound showerer (of benefits) roars aloud: the mighty deity has entered amongst men.¹

Mahidhara explains gaura by yajna, and attaches to it the epithets chutuh sringa, the sacrifice with four, priests, obtains the object for which it is solemnized: the stanza, according to Sáyana, applies especially to Agni as the sun: Madhidhara apparently refers it to ghi: the former, however, declares it applicable to all the subjects of the hymn following the etymology of the Nirukta.

¹ Sáyana, in conformity with the opinion of Yáska and others, applies this verse also preferentially to Agni, identified either with yajna or with aditya: the four horns of the former are the four Vedas; of the latter, the four cardinal points of the horizon: the three feet of Yajna are the three daily sacrifices; of Aditya, morning, noon, evening : the two heads of Yajna are two particular ceremonies termed Brahmaudanam and Pravargya; of Aditya, day and night; the seven hands of Yajna are the seven metres; of Aditya the seven rays, or the six seasons and their aggregate, or the year, as the seventh : the term vrishabha phalánám varshitá, the rainer of rewards, applies to either; and so does roravite, he roars, implying the noise made by the repetition of the mantras of the Vedas : the three bonds of Yajna are, mantra, kalpa, and Bráhmana, the prayer, the ceremonial, the rationale; of Aditya, the three regions, earth, mid-air, and heaven; Mahídhara limits vrishabha, hámánam varshitá to Yajna, and explains the attributes accordingly, but with an occasional difference : the four horns are the priests, the Hotri, Udgátri, Adhwaryu, and Brahmá; the three feet are the three Vedas; the two heads the Havirdhána and Pravargya rites; the hands are the seven priests, or seven metres; the three bonds the three daily sacrifices: he somewhat gratuitously also applies the terms to grammatical speech, the four horns being nouns, verbs, prepositions, and particles; the three feet, either the three persons or the three times; the two heads, the agent and the object; the seven hands, the seven cases; and the three bindings,

4. The gods discovered the Ghi concealed by the Panis, placed three-fold in the cow: INDRA generated one (portion), SÚRYA another, the (other gods) fabricated one from the resplendent (AGNI), for the sake of the oblation.¹

5. These hundred-channelled showers fall from the heart-delighting firmament, unobserved by the hostile (cloud): I look upon these showers of Ghi, (and behold) the golden Vetasa in the midst of them.²

Varga XI,

6. They flow uninterruptedly like pleasing rivers, purified by the mind that is seated in the heart: these the three numbers; but this is an uncalled-for display of ingenuity: Yásha applies the verse to Yajna, and is chiefly followed in his explanation of the terms by Mahidhara, Niruhta, 13. 7.

² According to the sense given to samudra, the showers, first indicated by the epithet sata vrajá, implying merely copious, may be either of water or ghi: vetasa is said to be a name of Agni, either as lightning or the sun, or the fire of sacrifice: Mahidhara very superfluously, and incompatibly with his explanation of the objects of the Súhta chooses, to understand, as one meaning, etá arshanti, vácha udgachchhanti, these words originate from the ocean of the water of faith, purified by the metres and other supplementary portions of the Vedas, amidst which words the Rishi secs the golden form of Agni, for Agni is the deity presiding over speech, or holy texts, agnir hi váchám adhishthátri devatá: he gives as an alternative, however, a similar interpretation to that of Sáyana. streams of Ghi descend (upon the fire), like deer flying from the hunter.¹

7. The streams of Ghi fall copious, swift as the wind,² and rapid as the waters of a river down a declivity, breaking through the confining banks, and hurrying on with their waves, like a high-spirited steed.³

8. The streams of Ghi incline to AGNI as devoted wives, auspicious and smiling, to a husband: they feed (the flame) like fuel, and JÁTAVEDAS, propitiated, accepts them.

9. I contemplate these streams of Ghi as they flow from where the Soma is effused, where the sacrifice (is solemnized), as maidens decorating themselves with unguents to go to the bridegroom.

² Vátapramiyak, váyuvat prakrishtavegá: Mahídhara refers the comparison to sindhu, a river agitated by the wind.

³ Kåshthå bhindan úrmibhih pinvamánah : háshthá, according to Sáyana, means limitating circles, maryádábhátán paridhín, limits within which the flowing butter increases with its juices; Mahídhara makes it part of the comparison, with the rapidity of the steed rushing into the boundaries of the battle, káshthá meaning sangráma pradesán : according to Sáyana, ghrita may here also mean water, when sindhu will imply the antarihsha. 10. (Priests)¹ address the pious praise, (the source) of herds of cattle:² bestow upon us auspicious riches: convey this our sacrifice to the gods, (whereat) the streams of Ghi with sweetness descend.

11. The whole world, (AGN1), finds an asylum in thine effulgence,³ whether it be in the ocean, in the heart (of man), in the life (of living beings), in the assemblage of the waters, or in warfare: may we attain that sweet-flavoured wave⁴ which is established in thy (essence).⁵

⁴ Urmih ya ábhritah: the wave which is so deposited, sthápitah, may imply either the butter of the oblation, or water in the shape of rain.

⁵ This Súhta, which is probably ancient, is a good specimen of Vaidik vagueness, and mystification, and of the straits to which commentators are put to extract an intelligible meaning from the text.

MAŅDALA V.

ANUVÁKA I.

Súкта I. (I.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishis are BUDHA and GAVISHTHIRA, of the race of ATRI; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. AGNI is awakened by the fuel (supplied by) the priests at the dawn, approaching like a cow (to pasture): his flames rise up to the sky like stately (trees) throwing aloft their branches.¹

2. The offerer of the oblation is awakened for the worship of the gods: favourably minded, AGNI has risen up with the dawn: the radiant vigour of the kindled (fire) is manifested; the great deity has been liberated from the darkness.

3. When AGNI has seized upon the (confining) girdle of the aggregated (world),² then, bright-shining, he makes all manifest with brilliant rays: thereupon the precious food-desiring (oblation) is added (to the flame), and AGNI, soaring aloft, drinks it as it is (spread out) recumbent³ by the ladles.⁴

¹ Sáma-Veda, I. 73, II. 1096, Yajur-Veda, 15. 24: Mahídhara explains prati dhenum áyatím usháram, as the cow is awakened in the morning by the calf, and men by day-break: he differs also in the explanation of the simile in the second hemistich, yahvá iva pra vayám ujjihánáh, rendering it, as large (birds) springing from the branches of the trees, or as the largest birds from their nests.

² Yad-im ganasya rasanám ajígah, when he has seized the rope of the company, i.e. the darkness encompassing the world, like a cord or rope, obstructing all active exertion, jagato rajjuriva vyápárapratibandhakam tamas.

³ Uttánám is explained vistritám, an epithet of ájyadhárám, stream of ghí, understood.

⁴ This and the preceding occur in the Sáma-Veda, 11. 1097-8.

Varga XII.

4. The minds of the devout turn to AGNI, as the eyes (of men) look towards the sun: when the multi-form¹ (heaven and earth) bring him forth along with the dawn, he is born as a white courser in the beginning of the days.

5. (AGNI), capable of birth, is born in the beginning of the days; radiant, he is deposited in the friendly woods, and then the adorable AGNI, the offerer of the oblation, displaying seven precious (rays), is seated in every house.

6. The adorable AGNI, the offerer of the oblation, has sat down in a fragrant place² on the top of his mother (earth): youthful, wise, many-stationed, the celebrator of sacrifice, the sustainer (of all), kindled (he abides) amongst men.

7. They glorify at present with hymns that AGNI, who is intelligent, the fulfiller (of desires) at sacrifices, the offerer of oblations, who has charged heaven and earth with water, and whom they always worship with clarified butter as the bestower of food.

8. Entitled to worship, he is worshipped in his own (abode); humble-minded, eminent amongst sages, our auspicious guest, the thousand-rayed, the showerer (of benefits), of well-known might,³ thou, AGNI, surpassest all others in strength.

9: (Too) quickly, AGNI, dost thou pass to others from him to whom thou hast been manifest: most beautiful, adorable, radiant, many-shining, the loved of people, the guest of men.

10. To thee, youngest (of the gods), men present oblations, whether nigh or from far: accept the praise of him who most extols thee; for the felicity (which thou conferrest), AGNI, is great, vast, auspicious.

11. Ascend to day, radiant AGNI, thy resplendent, well-conducted chariot, together with the adorable (gods): cognizant of the ways (of worship),¹ bring hither, by the vast firmament, the gods to partake of the oblation.

12. We have uttered aloud this encomiastic praise to the wise, holy, vigorous (AGNI), the showerer (of benefits): GAVISHTHIRA offers with reverence (this) praise to AGNI, like the wide-sojourning (sun), effulgent in the sky.

Súкта II. (II.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi is KUMÁRA, the son of ATRI, or VRISA, the son of JARA, or both; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Sakvari.

1. The young mother cherishes her mutilated boy in secret, and gives him not up to the father: men behold not his mutilated form, but (see him) when placed before (them) in an unresting (position).²

¹ Vidván pathínám: the first is rendered yashťavyadevaparijnánarán, having knowledge of the gods who are to be worshipped; the last, with regard to the ways of worshipping them, devayajanamárgán prati.

² According to what is no doubt the most accurate interpretation of this verse, and of those which follow, they contain only a metaphorically obscure allusion to the lighting of the sacrificial fire: the mother is the two pieces of touchwood, which retain fire, the child, and will not spontaneously give it up to the father, the yajamána, until forced by attrition: till then, also, Varga XIV.

2. Young mother, what boy is this whom thou, (become) a malevolent spirit, fosterest? the mighty (queen) has given him birth; the embryo has thriven people, the priests, do not behold it, but they see it when bursting into ignition : this, however, has not satisfied the commentators, and a curious and strange legend has been devised for the interpretation of the text, or has been, perhaps, applied to it by way of explanation, having been previously current: it is more probably, however, suggested by, than suggestive of, the verses : Sáyana quotes the Sátyáyana Bráhmana as the authority: the story is this: Raja Tryaruna, the son of Trivrislona, of the race of Ikshwakus, had for his Purahit Vrisa, the son of Jara : it was the custom, it is said, when a Raja and his Purohit went out in the same chariot, that the latter should drive, and, on an occasion of this kind, the chariot went over a Brahman boy who was playing in the road, and killed him: a dispute ensued between the Raja and the priest as to which was the murderer, the former accusing the latter because he was driving, the Purohit retorting, that as the chariot was the Raja's, he was the responsible person : they referred the matter to an assembly of the Ikshwakus, who decided against the Purohit: Vrisa restored the boy to life by the prayer thenceforth called after him the Vársa-sáman, but being offended with the Ihshwákus for what he considered their partiality, fire thenceforth ceased to perform its functions in their dwellings, and the cooking of their food and other offices ceased : attributing this to the displeasure of the Rishi, the Ikshućhus respectfully invoked his presence, and, with the same mantra, he prayed that the energy of fire would be restored to them, which accordingly took place: this energy or activity is designated by the unusual term of Haras, Agner haras: so far the legend is intelligible, but what follows is rather obscure: Sáyana proceeds: so singing, the Rishi having seen distinctly the Brahmanicide become the wife of king Trasadasyr, in the garb of a Pisáchí, and that she, having taken the Haras away from the fire-chamber, was concealing it in her regal clothing (hasipau?) he, having propitiated that Haras by the Vársa Sáma, re-united it with Agni, upon which the offices of fire, in cooking and the like, were discharged as through many years: I have seen him born as the mother brought him forth.¹

3. I have seen him from a near place, golden-toothed, bright-coloured, wielding (flames like) weapons, (when) offering to him the ambrosial, all-diffusing (oblation): what can those who acknowlege not INDRA, who repeat not his praise, do unto me.

4. I have seen him passing secretly from place (to place) like a herd (of cattle),² shining brightly of his before: Sáyana adds to his version a quotation from the Tándya which stops with the restoration of the boy to life: the Níti manjarí cites the legend from the Brihad-devatá, the first part of which is the same as that given above, but there is some slight variation in the conclusion: after the decision against the Purohit, this authority continues, the Atharvan having seen (or composed) the Angirasa mantras, restored the boy to life, but being in wrath, he deserted the king, and went to another country: upon his departure, the Haras or function of Agni ceased, and there were no more burnt-offerings: the Raja, being much distressed, went to the Rishi, and pacified and brought him back, and prevailed upon him to become his Purchit once more : still the fire withheld its activity, until the Rishi discovered that the queen was in reality a Pisáchí, with whom the Haras had associated, and was seated on the throne with her, and hidden in her robe : on discovering this, the Rishi repeated the second stanza of this Súkta, "Young mother, &c.," to which Haras, in the form of a boy, replied : the Rishi then recited the ninth stanza, "Agni shines &c.," on which the flame burst forth and consumed the Pisáchí, after which things went on as before: if there be any meaning in this legend, it may possibly intimate some quarrel between the princes and priests, and a consequent temporary discontinuance of worship with fire.

own accord: they apprehended not those (flames of his), but he has (again) been born, and they which had become grey-haired are (once more) young.¹

5. Who have disunited my people from the cattle?² was there not for them an invincible protector? may they who have seized upon that (people) perish, for he who knows (our wishes) approaches to (protect) the cattle.

6. Enemies have secreted amongst mortals the king of living beings, the asylum of men: may the prayers of ATRI set him free; may those who revile be reviled.

7. Thou hast liberated the fettered SUNAHSEPA from a thousand stakes, for he was patient in endurance: so, AGNI, free us from our bonds, having sat down here (at our sacrifice), intelligent offerer of oblations.

8. When angered, (AGNI), depart from me: the protector of the worship of the gods, (INDRA), has spoken to me: the wise INDRA has looked upon thee, and, instructed by him, I have come, AGNI, to thee.

9. AGNI shines with great and varied radiance; he makes all things manifest by his might; he overcomes undivine malignant delusions; he sharpens his horns for the destruction of the Rakshas.

² Ke me maryaham viyavanta gobhih: what enemies have despoiled my kingdom, is the explanation of Sáyana.

³ That is, Agni.

[•] Paliknír-id yuvatayo bhavanti: the flames which had been so often produced may be considered as aged, or as the text, literally, grey-headed; or allusion is intended to the suspension of the functions of fire, as in the legend.

10. May thy roaring (flames), AGNI, be manifest in the sky as sharp weapons wherewith to slay the Rákshasas: in his exhilaration his shining (rays) inflict (destruction), and undivine opposing (hosts) arrest him not.

11. This praise have I, a devout worshipper, composed for thee, (AGNI), who art born with many (faculties), as a steady dexterous (artisan fabricates) a car: if, divine AGNI, thou approve of it, then may we obtain abundant flowing water.

12. 'The many-necked, the showerer (of benefits), ever increasing, collects together the wealth of the enemy without opposition: the immortals have enjoined AGNI that he will bestow happiness on the man who offers sacrifice; that he will bestow happiness on the man who offers oblations.'

SUKTA III. (III.) The deity is AGNI; the Rishi, VASUSRUTA, of the race of AGNI; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. Thou, AGNI, art born VARUNA, thou becomest MITRA when kindled: in thee, son of strength, art all the gods: thou art INDRA, son of strength, to the mortal who presents (oblations).

2. Thou art ARYAMAN in relation to maidens;² thou bearest, enjoyer of sacrificial food, a mysterious name:³ they anoint thee, like a welcome friend, with milk

3. For thy glory the Maruts sweep (the firmament), when thy birth, RUDRA, is beautiful and wonderful:² the middle step of VISHNU has been placed, so thou cherishest the mysterious name of the waters.³

4. Divine (AGNI), the gods, (made) comely by thy glory, and bearing (thee) great (affection), sip the ambrosia: men adore AGNI, the conveyer of the burnt-offering, presenting oblations on behalf of the institutor of the rite, desirous of (its) reward.

5. There is no more venerable offerer of oblations, AGNI, than thou, nor (one) prior to thee; neither, giver of food, is any one subsequent (to be more glorified by hymns): the man of whom thou art the guest destroys hostile men by sacrifice.

6. May we, desirous of wealth, AGNI, and arousing thee by oblations, secure in thy protection, acquire (riches): may we (be victorious) in battle, (successful) in sacrifices every day; and may we, son of strength, obtain with riches male (descendants).

Varga XVII.

7. May AGNI inflict (evil) upon the evil doer who commits offence or wickedness against us: destroy, sagacious AGNI, the calumniator⁴ who injures us in these two ways.⁵

8. Former (worshippers) constituting thee, divine (AGNI), the messenger (of the gods), have worshipped thee with oblations at the dawn of day; when thou proceedest to the place (of the aggregation) of the wealth (of sacrifice),¹ bright-shining, kindled by the mortals who have given thee an abode.²

9. Convey him (to safety) in war, son of strength, who like a wise son offers to thee (reverence) as to a father:³ when, sagacious AGNI, dost thou look upon us; when, director of sacrifice, dost thou direct us (to good ways).

10. Glorifying thee, he offers the copious oblation,⁴ if, bestower of dwellings, thou as a father art pleased to accept it: AGNI, ever augmenting, and desirous (to befriend), by his might, the devout (worshipper, offering) copious oblations, bestows upon him happiness.

11. AGNI, youngest (of the gods), verily thou bearest thine adorer (safe) beyond all calamities:

² Martair vasubhir idhyamánah: the second, according to Sáyaṇa, is an epithet of the first, meaning, vásahaih, placing or fixing in an abode or place of dwelling, i.e. either the altar, or the chamber of sacrifice.

³ So in v. 2 of the next Suhta, may the bearer of the oblation, the undecaying Agni, be a father to us: or the relationship may be reversed; protect him, Agni, who, like a father, cherishes thee as a son, Agni being generated and maintained by the sacrificer; as, by another text, thou art the son of him who maintains thee.

12. These (encomiums) are directed towards thee, but perhaps an offence has thereby been uttered to (thee), the giver of dwellings:' may AGNI, augmenting (by our praise), yield us not up to the maligner or the malevolent.

Súkta IV. (IV.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XVIII.

1. Royal AGNI, I glorify at sacrifices thee who art the lord of vast riches; may we who are in want of food obtain food through thee, and (through thee) may we overcome hosts of (hostile) men.

2. May the undecaying AGN1, the bearer of oblations, be a father to us, all pervading and resplendent (may he be) to us of pleasing aspect: supply us plentifully with food in return for our well-maintained household fire: grant us viands abundantly.

3. You possess (priests) the wise lord of human beings,² the pure, the purifying, AGNI, cherished with oblations of butter, the offerer of the burnt-offering, the all-knowing; he among the gods bestows desirable (riches).

4. Be propitiated Λ_{GNI} , sharing in satisfaction with ILA, vieing with the rays of the sun: be gratified, JÁTAVEDAS, by our fuel, and bring the gods to partake of the oblation.

5. Propitiated, lowly-minded, a guest in the dwelling, come, thou who art wise, to this our sacrifice: having destroyed, AGNI, all our adversaries, bring off the possessions of those who bear us enmity.

6. Demolish, AGNI, with thy weapon, the DASYU, appropriating the sustenance to thine own person;¹ and inasmuch, son of strength, as thou satisfiest the gods, so do thou, AGNI, chief of leaders, protect us in battle.

7. We worship thee, AGNI, with hymns; we (worship thee), purifier, and of auspicious lustre, with oblations: bestow upon us all desired riches; bestow upon us all sorts of wealth.

8. Accept, AGNI, our sacrifice: son of strength, the abider in the three regions, (accept our) oblation: may we be (regarded) amongst the gods as doers of good: cherish us with triply-protected felicity.²

9. Thou conveyest us, JATAVEDAS, across all intolerable evils, as (people are carried) over a river by a boat: AGNI, who art glorified by us with reverence, such as (that shewn) by ATRI, know thyself the protector of our persons.

The deities are the Apris;³ the Rishi is VASUSRUTA, the metre Gáyatri.

1. Offer abundant butter to the resplendent SUSA-MIDDHA,⁴ to AGNI, to JATAVEDAS.

2. NARÁSANSA animates this sacrifice, he who is uninjurable, who verily is wise and sweet-handed.

3. AGNI, who art ILITA, bring hither the wonderful and friendly INDRA, with his easy-going chariots for our protection.

4. (Grass),⁵ soft as wool, be spread; the worshippers praise thee: be to us radiant (grass the source of) liberality.

5. Open divine doors, our passages to preservation; fill full the sacrifice (with its rewards).

6. We glorify the evening and the morning, lovely, food-bestowing, mighty, the mothers of sacrifice.

7. Praised (by us), divine invokers of the gods, come, moving on the path of the wind,¹ to this sacrifice of our patron.²

8. May ILA, SARASWATÍ, MAHÍ, the three goddesses who are the sources of happiness, sit down, benevolent, upon the sacred grass.

9. TWASHTRÍ being propitious, thou who art diffusive in kindness, come of thine own accord, protect us in repeated sacrifices.

10. Wherever thou knowest, VANASPATI, the secret forms of the gods to be,³ thither convey the oblations.

11. The oblation is offered with reverence⁴ to AGNI, to VARUNA; with reverence to INDRA, to the Maruts; with reverence to the gods.

SUKTA VI. (VI.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi as before; the metre is Pankti.

1. I glorify that AGNI who is the giver of dwellings; to whom, as to their home, the milch kine, the light-

2. He is AGNI, who is praised as the giver of dwellings, to whom the milch kine, the light-faced steeds, the well-born, devout worshippers repair: do thou, AGNI, bring food to thine adorers.²

3. AGNI, the all-beholding, gives, verily, to the man (who worships him, a son) possessing abundant food: AGNI, when propitiated, proceeds (to bestow) that wealth which is of its own nature precious: do thou, AGNI, bring food to thine adorers.³

4. We kindle thee, divine AGNI, bright, undecaying, so that thy glorious blaze shines in heaven: do thou bring food to thine adorers.⁴

5. To thee, radiant AGNI, lord of light, giver of pleasure, destroyer (of foes), protector of man, the bearer of oblations, to thee the oblation is offered with the sacred verse: do thou bring food to thine adorers.⁵

7. These thy flames, AGNI, fed with abundant food, increase, as, by their descent, they seek the pastures of the hoofed cattle:¹ bring, AGNI, food to thine adorers.

8. Grant, AGNI, to us who praise thee, new dwellings, and (abundant) food: may we be those who worship thee, having thee for a messenger (to the gods) in every house: bring, AGNI, food to thine adorers.

9. Giver of delight, thou receivest into thy mouth the two ladles (full) of butter;² so mayest thou fulfil (our desires), lord of strength, at our solemn rites: bring, AGNI, food to thine adorers.³

10. Thus have they repaired to AGNI with praises and with sacrifices successively, and have established (the manner of his worship); and he has given us male descendants, and wealth of fleet horses: bring, AGNI, food to thine adorers.

Súkta VII. (VII.)

The deity as before; the Rishi is ISHA, of the race of ATRI; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Pankti.

1. Friends, offer fitting praise and food to AGNI, Varga XXI

² Termed juhu and upabhrit, two ladles used for pouring the oiled butter upon the fire.

³ Bhumá prishtheva, is, literally, like many or much on the back: the scholiast explains bhumá as signifying offspring, or that which is many, bahu bhavatíte bhumá apatyam; and prishtha, he adds, implies the backs of the father, pituh prishthadesán iva; as boys mount upon the fathers' side, so do the flames, putrá yathá pituranham árohanti tad vat. man recognises as the sustainer of all, the flavourer of food, the provider of dwellings for men.

7. He crops the dry ground strewn (with grass and wood),¹ like an animal grazing; he with a golden beard, with shining teeth, vast, and of irresistible strength.

8. Bright as an axe is he to whom the (worshipper), like ATRI, proceeds² (to offer worship): he whom his prolific mother has brought forth, bestowing (a benefactor on the world), when (AGNI) obtains (sacrificial) food.

9. To thee, AGNI, the accepter of the oblation, the upholder (of all), there is pleasure (from our praise): do thou bestow upon these thy worshippers wealth, and food, and a heart (grateful for thy favour).

10. May the sage who is in this manner the offerer of exclusive praise (AGNI, to thee), accept the cattle which are to be given to thee; and thereupon may ATRI overcome the irreligious Dasyus: may ISHA overcome (hostile) men.³

² Suchi sma yasmá atrivat pra swadhitíva ríyate: it is not very obvious whether the comparisons apply to Agni, or the worshipper; they might both be understood by the worshipper, eager to offer oblation as an axe to cut; or both might be applied to Agni; atri, meaning an eater, or devourer, or an animal eating grass: it seems, however, most reasonable to apply atrivat to the yajamána, and smadhiti to Agni.

³ Ishah sásahyán nrín: ishah may be, according to Sáyana, the Rishi of the Súkta; or derived from ish, and being the accus.-plur., it may be an epithet of nrín, encountering or opposing men.

SÚKTA VIII. (VIII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Jagatí.

Varga XXVI.

1. Manifester of strength, AGNI, ancient worshippers have kindled thee of old for their preservation; thee, the delighter of many, the adorable, the all-sustaining, the lowly-minded, the lord of the house, the excellent.

2. Men have established thee, (AGNI), their ancient guest, as the lord of the house; (thee), the blazing-haired, the vast bannered, the multiform, the dispenser of wealth, the bestower of happiness, the kind protector, the destruction of decaying (trees).¹

3. Human beings glorify thee, AGNI, the appreciator of burnt-offerings, the discriminator (of truth), the most liberal giver of precious (things), abiding (awhile), auspicious one, in secret, (at other times) visible to all, loud sounding, offering worship, thriving upon clarified butter.

4. We approach thee, all-sustaining AGNI, adoring thee in many ways with hymns and with prostrations: do thou, ANGIRAS, when kindled, be propitious to us: may the divine (AGNI be pleased) by the (sacrificial) food (offered by the) worshipper, and by the bright flames (of his sacrifice).

5. AGNI, the praised of many, thou who art multiform, givest of old food to every mortal; thou reignest with strength over the various (sacrificial) viands; the splendour of thee when blazing brightly is not rivalled (by any).

¹ Jarad-visham is, literally, that which is poison to the old: the commentator explains it jaratám vrikshánám vyápakam, the pervader or consumer of old trees; or it may mean jírnodakam, that by which water is dried up.

6. AGNI, youngest (of the deities), the gods have made thee, when kindled, their messenger, the bearer of oblations; thee, who art rapid in movement, and of whom butter is the source, they have made, when invoked, the brilliant eye (of the universe), instigated by the understanding.

7. The ancient seekers after happiness have kindled thee, AGNI, when invoked, (and fed thee) with abundant fuel; and thou (thereby) increasing, and supplied with shrubs, art dominant over all terrestrial viands.¹

³ The text has sisite dhmátarí, he sharpens as in a blower; which the scholiast explains, like the fire, which, in the proximity of one blowing with a bellows, blazes up, so Agni sharpens his flames, or of himself adds to their intensity.

Súкта X. (X.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. AGNI, of irresistible prowess, bring to us most powerful treasure; (invest us) with surrounding wealth; mark out the paths to abundance.¹

2. Marvellous AGNI, (gratified) by our acts, (produce) in us greatness of vigour: in thee abides the strength destroying evil spirits: thou who art to be worshipped, like MITRA, art the doer (of great deeds).²

3. Augment, AGNI, our dwelling and prosperity, for the devout men (who have propitiated thee) by their praises have acquired riches.

4. Delightful AGNI, those men who glorify thee with hymns become rich in horses, and are invigorated with (foe-destroying) energies; and their great renown, spread through the firmament, arouses (thee) of thine own accord.³

5. These thy bright and fierce flames, AGNI, spread around like the circumambient lightnings, and are like a rattling chariot rushing (into battle) for booty.

6. Be prompt, AGNI, for our protection, and for the gift of poverty-repelling (riches); and may our pious (descendants be able to) compass all their desires.

³ Divaschid yeshám brihat sukírttir bodhatí tmaná: the application of the two last words is somewhat doubtful: Sáyana disconnects them from the preceding, and supplies the name of the Rishi of the Súhta, Gaya, as the nominative of bodhati; evamvidham tvám Gayastmaná swayam eva bodhayatí, Gaya of his own accord, or of himself, as it were, arouses thee, Agni, so described. Varga II.

¹ Sáma-Vedu, 1. 81: there is a slight difference in the text of the second half of the stanza.

² The text has only hráná for hurvána: the acts alluded to are such as driving away the Ráhshasas or other disturbers of religious rites.

7. AGNI, who art ANGIRAS, glorified in the past, glorified (at present), invoker (of the gods), bring unto us riches (enabling us) to overcome the mighty: give to thy praisers (ability) to praise thee, and be (at hand) for our success in battles.

Súkta XI. (XI.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi is SUTAMBHARA, of the race of ATRI; the metre is Jagati.

1. The vigilant, the powerful AGNI, the protector of man, has been engendered for the present prosperity (of the world): fed with butter, (blazing) with intense (radiance) reaching to the sky, the pure AGNI shines brilliantly for the Bharatas.¹

2. The priests have first kindled,² in three places, AGNI, the banner of sacrifice, the family priest, (riding) in the same car with INDRA and the gods: he, the performer of pious acts, the invoker (of the gods), has sat down on the sacred grass for the (celebration of the) rite.

3. Thou art born unobstructed of two mothers:³ pure, adorable, wise, thou hast sprung up from (the ¹ Sáma-Veda, 11. 257. Yajur-Veda 15. 27: Mahídhara agrees with Sáyana in interpreting Bharatas by Ritwiks, or priests: he differs slightly in some other respects, rendering the stanza, Agni has been engendered by the priests for the present sacrifice: he shines so brilliantly, that with his flames he touches the sky, the patron of the sacrificer, vigilant, dexterous, fed with butter, pure.

4. May AGNI, the fulfiller (of all desires), come to our sacrifice : men cherish AGNI in every dwelling : AGNI, the bearer of oblations, has become the messenger (of the gods) : those adoring AGNI adore him as the accomplisher of the sacrifice.

5. To thee, AGNI, this most sweet speech (is addressed) may this praise be gratification to thy heart: pious hymns fill thee, and augment thee with vigour, as large rivers (replenish) the sea.

6. The Angirasas discovered thee, AGNI, hidden in secret, and taking refuge from wood to wood : thou art generated, being churned with great force; therefore they have called thee, ANGIRAS, the son of strength.²

Súkta XII. (XII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. I offer to the great, the adorable AGNI, the rainer of water, the vigorous, the showerer (of benefits), the present acceptable praise, like well-purified butter (poured) at sacrifices into his mouth.

2. AGNI, who knowest (the purpose of) the sacrifice, assent to this rite : be favourable to the copious showers of water :¹ (endowed) with strength, (I undertake) not (to obstruct) sacred acts, nor adjure the rite with both (truth and untruth),² but (repeat the praise) of the resplendent showerer (of benefits).

¹ Sáma-Veda, 11. 258. Yajur-Veda, 15. 28: Mahídhara agrees with Sáyana: he adds as the explanation of guhá, apsu, in the waters, referring to the familiar legend, see vol. 1. p. 4, note.

3. AGNI, bestower of water, by what (act of) truth mayest thou, who art adorable, be cognizant of our adoration : may the divine AGNI, the guardian of the seasons, recognise me: I (know) him not (yet) as the lord of the riches of which I am the possessor.³

4. Who, AGNI, among thy (followers) are the imprisoners of foes? who among them are the protectors (of men), the splendid distributors of gifts? who

² The text is very elliptical and obscure : náham yátum sahasá na dwayena ritum sapámi arushasya vrishnah: it is, literally, not I to go by strength, not by the two I swear, the sacrifice of the shining showerer: Sáyana supplies yukta, joined or endowed sahasá, with strength, and makes yátum mean to injure, or injury of pious acts, connecting it with sapámi, which he renders by sprisámi or karomi, I touch or do; I do not proceed to injure sacred offices: by the two, he explains satyánritábhyám, by truth and untruth, that is, avaidikam krityam na sapámi, na haromi, I perform not any act not enjoined by the Veda: ritam here he interprets praise, and again attaches to it sapámi, without the negative, I vow or repeat the praise of Agni.

 $\mathbf{258}$

¹ When the author of a Súhta takes a fancy for the word rita, probably, in one of its meanings, the Latin ritus, it is difficult to follow him in respect of its various significations of sacrifice, praise, truth, water : ritasya dhárá, however, necessarily implies the last.

among them defend the asserter of untruth? who are the encouragers of evil deeds $?^1$

5. These thy friends, AGNI, everywhere dispersed, were formerly unhappy (in abandoning thy worship), but are again fortunate (by its renewal): may they who, with (censorious) words, impute fraudulent (practices) to me who pursue a straight path, bring evil upon themselves.

6. May the dwelling of him, AGNI, who celebrates thy worship with reverence, of him who protects the sacrifice (offered) to the resplendent showerer (of benefits), be well stored; and may a virtuous successor of the man who diligently worships thee come in his place.

SUKTA XIII. (XIII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Gáyatrí

1. Adoring thee, AGNI, we invoke thee: adoring thee we kindle thee, adoring thee for protection.

2. Desirous of wealth, we recite to day the effectual praise of the divine AGNI, (whose radiance) reaches the sky.²

3. May AGNI, who amongst men is the invoker of the gods, accept our praises; may he offer sacrifice to the divine beings.

4. Thou, AGNI, art mighty and gracious, the (ministrant) priest, the desired (of all): through thee the worshippers complete the sacrifice.

¹ The two last are persons not worshipping Agni; but the verse may be also thus rendered, who are they that confine their foes? who are they that preserve men from uttering untruth? who are they that vindicate people from calumny? they are, Agni, thy worshippers.

² This and the two next verses occur Sáma-Veda, 11. 755-757.

Varga V.

5. Wise worshippers exalt thee, AGNI, the bountiful giver of food, the deservedly lauded: do thou bestow upon us excellent strength.

6. AGNI, thou encompassest the gods as the circumference (surrounds) the spokes (of a wheel): bestow manifold wealth upon us.

Sύκτα XIV. (XIV.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga VI.

1. Waken the immortal AGNI with praise, that, being kindled, he may bear our oblations to the gods.

2. Mortals worship him an immortal divinity at their sacrifices, most adorable among the human race.

3. Numerous (worshippers), pouring out butter from the (sacrificial) ladle, glorify him, the divine AGNI, that he may convey their oblation (to the gods).

4. AGNI, as soon as born, blazes brightly, destroying the Dasyus, and (dispersing) the darkness by his lustre: he has discovered the cows, the waters, the sun.

5. Worship the adorable AGNI, the sage, whose summit blazes with butter: may he hear and comprehend my invocation.

6. They have augmented AGNI, the beholder of all, with oblations and with praises, along with the gods, the objects of pious meditation, desirous of praise.

ANUVAKA II.

Súкта I. (XV.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi DHARUNA, of the family of ANGIRAS; the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga VII.

1. I offer praise to AGNI, the creator, the far-seeing, the adorable, the renowned, the first (of the gods); he who is propitiated by oblations, the strong, the giver of happiness, the possessor of riches, the receiver of oblations, the bestower of dwellings.

2. They are detaining by sacrifice the true recipient (of offerings)¹ in the most eminent place of the ceremony, who brings together the leaders (of the rite), the unborn with the born, (or gods and men), as seated at the solemnity which is the stay of heaven.

3. They who (present) to the chief (of the gods) the great food (of sacrifice), unattainable (by the Rákshasas), enjoy forms exempt from defect:² may that new-born AGNI scatter assembled (hosts): let them stand from around me, as (deer avoid) an angry lion.

4. When, everywhere predominating, thou cherishest all men like a mother, and (art implored by all) to behold and to support them; and when, being detained, thou maturest every kind of food,³ then, multiform (AGNI), thou comprisest (all beings) in thyself.

5. Divine AGNI, may the (sacrificial) food, the vast yielder (of benefits to men), the sustainer of riches, support the utmost of thy vigour; and do thou, considering (the means of acquiring) great riches, like a thief keeping concealed the article (he has stolen), be propitious to ATRI.¹

³ Vayo vayo jarase yad dadhánah: the scholiast interprets yadá dháryamáno bhavasi tadá sarvam annam jarayasi, when thou art being detained, then thou causest all food to decay, i.e. to digest.

¹ Ritena ritam dharunam dhárayantah: they, the Yajamánas, hold or detain, ritam dharunam, yajnasya dháraham satyam, the true holder of sacrifice, that is, Agni, by the ceremony, parame vyomani, uthrishte stháne, in the best place, that is, the altar.

Súkta II. (XVI.)

The deity as before; the Rishi is PÚRU, of the race of ATRI; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Panhti.

1. Offer abundant (sacrificial) food to the brilliant divine AGNI, whom mortals have placed before them by praises as a friend.²

2. For that AGNI, (endowed) with the lustre of the strength of his arms, is the ministrant priest of mortals, who (presents) the oblation to the gods in succession, and like BHAGA³ distributes desirable wealth.

3. (May we be assiduous) in the praise, (and cherished) in the friendship, of that very radiant possessor of wealth, on whom, loud-sounding and all-ruling, (his) universal (worshippers) have conferred vigour.

4. Now verily, AGNI, (be disposed) for bestowing excellent strength on these (thy worshippers): heaven and earth have invested him with glory like the vast (sun).⁴

¹ This may, perhaps, also imply that wealth bestowed upon the Rishi is deposited in a secure receptacle, like the hidden booty of a thief, padam na táyur guhám dadhánah, but the whole Súhta is obscurely worded.

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 88: the latter reads prasastaye, for praise, instead of prasastibhih, by praises.

³ Bhaga, according to Sáyana, here means Súrya.

⁴ The text has only yahvam na, like the great; the scholiast has mahántam súryam iva, like the great sun.

Varga IX.

5. Glorified by us, AGNI, come quickly, and bring us desirable wealth: we who (are thy worshippers), we (who are thine) adorers, offer thee welcome together with oblations: be thou favourable to us; be (our) success in battles.

SÚKTA III. (XVII.) The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Divine AGNI, a mortal thus with sacrifices (calls upon thee) who art endowed with lustre for protection: PURU adores AGNI for protection when the sacred rite is solemnized.

2. Performer of various functions,¹ who art deservedly renowned, thou praisest by thy words that AGNI, who is possessed of wonderful splendour; who is exempt from pain; who is adorable and supreme in understanding.

3. He who is endowed with vigour, is (glorified) by praise, and by whose radiance, like that of the sky, the rays of light shine brightly: by his lustre, verily, (the sun is luminous).²

4. By the worship of him who is pleasing of aspect the provident (heap) wealth in their cars: AGNI, to whom oblations are due, is then glorified by all people.

5. Quickly, (AGNI, give us) desirable (wealth), such as the devout, combining with (pious) praise, (obtain): son of strength, (be favourable) to (my)

² The text has only asya vásá u archishá, vá asá being put for vá asau; literally, by the light of him, he verily: asau, he, according to the commentator, designates the sun; and the entire phrase is, by the light of him, that is, of Agni, the sun becomes radiant; ádityo archishmán bharati. Varga X.

¹ Vidharman : it applies either to the Rishi or the yajamána.

desires; protect us (from calamity); be alert for our prosperity;¹ come for our success in battles.

SUKTA IV. (XVIII.)

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is DWITA, of the race of ATRI.

Varga X.

1. Let AGNI, the beloved of many, the guest of man, be present at dawn; he who, immortal, desires the oblations of mortals.²

2. Be (willing to make) a grant of thine own strength to DWITA, the bearer of the pure oblation; for he, immortal AGNI, thy diligent praiser, brings to thee continually the Soma juice.

3. I invoke thee bright-shining, through a long life, with praise, (for the benefit) of the affluent, that their chariot, giver of horses, may proceed unimpeded.

4. Amongst whom the ceremonial of many kinds is observed; who perpetuate the sacred hymns by their recital; by them the sacrificial viands are placed upon the strewn grass (at the sacrifice which) leads (the worshipper) to heaven.³

5. Immortal AGNI, bestow upon those opulent men, who, upon (my) praise (of thee), gave to me fifty horses, and brilliant, ample, and abundant food, (supporting numerous) dependents.

³ Swar-nare, a synonyme here of yajne, swargam yajamánam nayati, it leads the yajamána to heaven.

¹ Saydhi swastaye: the commentator says the verb may here be put for the first person, and mean yáche, I ask for, or it may mean, as translated, sakto bhava, be able.

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 85: the reading of the second half of the stanza somewhat differs: our text is visváni yo amartyo havyá martyeshu ranyati: the Sáma has visve yasminn-amartye havyam martása indhati, in or upon all that which is immortal, mortals offer oblations.

Sύκτα V. (XIX.)

The deity as before; the Rishi is named VAVRI; the metre of the two first stanzas is Gáyatrí, of the two next Anushtubh, and of the fifth Virátrúpá.

1. Unprosperous circumstances affect VAVRI: may the accepter (of oblations) become cognizant (of them), as, reclining on the lap of his mother, he beholds all things.

2. They who know (thy power) invoke thee incessantly, and nourish (thy) strength (by oblations): they dwell in an impregnable city.

3. Living men, with collars of gold, earnest in praise, desirous of food, augment by this laudation the vigour of thee abiding in the white firmament.

4. May (AGNI) with his two relatives, (heaven and earth), hear this faultless (praise), acceptable as milk: he who, like the mixed oblation, is filled with food,¹ and, unsubdued, is ever the subduer of his foes.

5. Radiant (AGNI), who art made manifest by the wind, and art sporting amidst the ashes (of the forest), be present with us: and may the fierce fiery flames, destructive of foes, be gentle to this thy worshipper.

Varga XI.

¹ Gharmo na vájajatharah, he in whose belly is food like the gharmah: besides its ordinary sense of warm, hot, and that of day, assigned to it by Yásha, the word has other meanings: Sáyana apparently identifies it with the ceremony called Pravargya, pravargya iva gharmo yathá havyenájyenapayasásihta, like the Pravargya the gharma, sprinkled with the oblation butter and milk: perhaps we should read pravargye, at the Pravargya, for, by a subsequent passage, gharma means a vessel, a pitcher.

Sύκτα VI. (XX.)

The deity as before : certain persons of the race of ATRI, called Prayasvats, are the Rishis; the metre of the last stanza is Panhti, of the rest Anushtubh.

Varga XII.

266

1. That (sacrificial) wealth, AGNI, bounteous giver of food, of which thou approvest, and which deserves to be commended by our praises, do thou convey to the gods.¹

2. May those prosperous men who do not offer oblations to thee become destitute of great strength, and may (the followers) of other (than vaidik) observances incur (thy) enmity and punishment.

3. We, Prayasvats,² have recourse to thee, the invoker (of the gods), the means of strength: we glorify thee first at sacrifices with praise.

4. Possessor of strength, day by day so (provide), that we may enjoy thy protection; doer of good deeds, may we (be deserving) of wealth through sacrifice, and may we be happy with cattle, happy with male descendants.

Súкта VII. (XXI.)

The deity as before; the Rishi is SASA; the metre as before.

Varga XIII.

1. Like MANU, we meditate, AGNI, upon thee; like MANU, we kindle thee: worship the gods on behalf of the (worshipper), devout as MANU.

2. When thou art pleased, AGNI, thou shinest upon the human race: well-born, feeder upon clarified butter, the ladles are constantly uplifted to thee.

3. All the consentient divinities have made thee

4. Man praises thee, divine AGNI, to convey his offerings to the gods: bright AGNI, blaze when kindled: take thy seat in the chamber (of sacrifice), in the chamber of the sincere SASA.

Súkta VIII. (XXII.)

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is VISWASÁMAN.

1. Sing, VISWASÁMAN, like ATRI, (a hymn) to the dispenser of purifying light: (to him) who is to be praised at sacrifices, the invoker of the gods, the most adorable by man.

2. Cherish the divine AGNI, by whom all that exists is known, the priest (of the rite): may the sacrifice most suitable for the gods duly this day proceed to them.

3. Men have recourse to thee, divine AGNI, who art of intelligent mind, for security: we praise thee who art most excellent, seeking thy protection.

4. AGNI, son of strength, recognise the words of this our (laudation): handsome-chinned, lord of the dwelling, the sons of ATRI exalt thee, such (as thou art), by their praises: they embellish thee by their hymns.

SÚKTA IX. (XXIII.)

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is DYUMNA.

1. Bestow, AGNI, upon DYUMNA a son,¹ overcoming foes by his provess; one who may with glory subdue all men in battle.

2. Mighty AGNI, grant us a son able to encounter

Varga XV.

Varga XIV.

¹ The text has rayim, rem, riches, but the scholiast understands it metaphorically, and renders it putram, a son, a meaning consistent with what follows.

hosts; for thou art true and wonderful, and the giver of food with cattle.

3. All men concurring in satisfaction, bearing the clipt sacred grass, solicit thee, as the kind invoker of the gods, to the chambers (of sacrifice) for infinite wealth.

4. May the (sage) on whom all men rely possess foe-subduing strength: radiant AGNI, so shine in our habitations that they may abound in riches: shine, purifying AGNI, dispensing light.

Sύκτα Χ. (XXIV.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishis are termed GAUPÁYANAS and LAU-PÁYANAS, and are four in number, named severally, BANDHU, SUBANDHU, SRUTABANDHU, and VIPRABANDHU, to each of whom a half stanza of the two stanzas of which the Súkta consists is attributed; the metre is Viráj.

Varga XVI.

 $1, 2.^{1}$ AGNI, who art to be adored, be ever nigh to us,

¹ These two verses seem to be favourites: the first pada of the first occurs twice in the Sáma-Veda, 1, 448, 11. 457; the second once, II. 458: the second pada of the second stanza occurs in the same, 11. 459: we have both of them twice in the Yajush, 3. 25, 15. 48: Mahidhara's explanation is much the same as Sáyana's, except in one or two words; as varúthyah in the first line of the first stanza: Sáyana explains it varaníyah, sambhajaniyah, that which is to be chosen, to be enjoyed, to be worshipped : Mahidhara interprets it favourable or auspicious to the family or the house, varútha meaning, he says, either putra samúha, an assemblage of sons, or griha, a house: Sáyana also gives as an alternative, endowed or inclosed with circumferences or defences, paridhibhir-vritah, alluding, perhaps, to the common import of varútha the fender of a carriage: again, vasusravas, in the second line of the first verse, which Sáyana interprets vyáptánnah, he by whom food is dispensed, Mahidhara explains renowned for wealth.

our protector and benefactor: do thou, who art the giver of dwellings and dispenser of food, be present with us: bestow upon us most brilliant wealth.

3, 4. Understand us, AGNI; hear our invocation; defend us from all malevolent (people): most bright and resplendent AGNI, we earnestly solicit thee for the happiness (of ourselves) and our friends.

Sύκτα XI. (XV.)

The deity as before; the Rishis are those of the race of ATRI, named VASÚYUS; the metre is Anushtubh.

1. Celebrate the divine AGNI for his protection: may he who presides over dwellings grant (our desires): may the son of the Rishis,¹ the observers of truth, save us from those who hate us.

2. That AGNI is true² whom the ancients, whom the gods have kindled, as the bright-tongued invoker of the gods, radiant with holy splendours.

3. AGNI, to be propitiated by praises, (gratified) by our choicest and most excellent adoration and hymns, bestow upon us riches.

4. AGNI shines amongst the gods: AGNI is present amongst mortals: AGNI is the bearer of our oblations: glorify AGNI with praises.

5. May AGNI bestow upon the donor (of the oblation) a son, abounding in food, abounding in devotion, excellent, unharmed, conferring honour upon his progenitors. Varga XVII.

¹ Agni is termed the son of the Rishis, as generated by their rubbing the sticks together which produce fire.

² Satya: by true, in this and other passages, is meant, it is said, one who does not fail to bestow upon his worshippers the recompense of their devotions.

Varga XX.

6. May AGNI bestow a son, the protector of the good, who, with his followers, may be victorious in battle: may he bestow a swift-footed steed, conquering, unconquered.¹

7. That (praise) which best conveys (our veneration is due) to AGNI: affluent in splendour, grant us, (AGNI), great (wealth), for from thee vast riches and ample food proceed.²

8. Brilliant, AGNI, are thy rays: mighty art thou termed, like the stone (that bruises the Soma), and thy voice spontaneously spreads through the sky like thunder.

9. Thus we, Vasúyus,3 glorify the vigorous AGNI:

¹ This and the preceding verse are directed to be recited at a sacrifice performed to obtain male offspring, putrakámeshti.

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 86. Yajur-Veda, 26. 12: Mahídhara differs from Sáyana in his interpretation of this verse in several respects : considering the first line, yad váhishtham tad aquaye vrihad archa vibhávaso, to be addressed to the Udgátrí, he renders it, sing to Aqni, that Vrihad-sáma (a hymn of the Sáma-Veda), which is the most effectual means of obtaining our desires; and he refers the vocative, Vibhávaso, to the second line in which a more important variation occurs: it runs, mahishí iva twad rayistwad vája udírate: Sáyana makes mahishí the adjective of rayi, great riches, and observes of iva that it is a pleonasm, iveti púranah: Mahídhara understands it as denoting a comparison, and explains the passage, as the firstmarried bride proceeds from her home to her husband, prathamaparinítá strí grihát patim prati udgachchhati, so riches and food proceed to the worshipper, Aqni, from thee: the necessity of supplying a whole sentence is rather against this rendering, and mahishi as an adjective is of not unfrequent occurence.

³ The Vasúyus are here explained vasuhámáh, they who desire wealth.

may he, the performer of great deeds, enable us to pass over all our enemies as (we cross a river) with a boat.

SUKTA XII. (XXVI.)

The deity and Rishis as before : the metre is Gáyatrí.

1. Divine purifier, AGNI, with thy radiance and pleasing tongue, bring hither and worship the gods.¹

2. Feeder upon butter, bright and variegated radiance, we solicit thee, the beholder of heaven, to (partake of) the (sacrificial) food.

3. We kindle thee at the sacrifice, wise AGNI, whose food is the oblation, who art brilliant and vast.²

4. Come, AGNI, with all the gods, to the donor (of the oblation): we have recourse to thee as their invoker.

5. To the institutor of the rite, pouring out the libation, bring excellent vigour; sit down with the gods upon the sacred grass.

6. Victor over thousands, thou favourest, when kindled, our holy rites, the honoured messenger of the सत्यमंब जयत gods.

7. Reverence AGNI, by whom all that is, is known, the bearer of oblations, the youngest of the gods, the divine, the ministrant priest.

8. May the sacrifice most solemnly offered by the devout duly proceed to day (to the gods): spread the sacred grass for their seat.

9. May the MARUTS, the ASWINS, MITRA, VARUNA, the gods, with all their attendants, sit down upon this grass.

SUKTA XIII. (XXVII.)

The deity as before, but in the sixth stanza INDRA is associated with AGNI; the Rishis are three Rájás, TRYARUŅA the son of TRIVRISHŅA, TRASADASYU the son of PURUKUTSA, and AşWAMEDHA the son of BHARATA;¹ or ATRI alone may be the Rishi:² the metre of the three first stanzas is Trishtubh, of the last three Anushtubh.

Varga XXI,

1. AGNI, who art the protector of the good, most wise, powerful, and opulent; TRYARUNA the son of TRIVRISHNA has become renowned, VAISWÁNARA, in that he has bestowed upon me a pair of cattle with a waggon, and with ten thousands of treasure.

2. AGNI, VAISWÁNARA, who art deservedly praised and exalted (by us), bestow happiness upon TRYARUNA, who gives me hundreds (of Suvarnas),³ twenty cattle, and a pair of burden-bearing horses.

3. As TRYARUNA, pleased by the culogies of me who have many children, presses with earnest (mind,

¹ Of these princes we have yet met only with the second, vol. 1. p. 292: in the Vishnu Purána a Trayyáruna occurs, (p. 371), but he is the son of Tridhanwan, and the seventh in descent from Trasadasya, with whom, therefore, he could not be contemporary; so that either the Veda or the Purána is wrong: the latter enumerates a Trayyaruna among the Vyásas, p. 273: no other authority gives Bharata a son named Aswamedha.

² For in fact the $R\dot{a}j\dot{a}s$ are rather the Devat $\dot{a}s$, they do not commemorate their own donations : it is Atri, or some member of his family, who speaks.

4. When ASWAMEDHA gives to him who solicits of him as a benefactor, saying (bestow wealth) upon me, and comes (to him) with a verse (in thy praise), do thou, AGNI, grant intelligence to (the $R\dot{a}j\dot{a}$) who wishes to offer sacrifice (to thee).

5. Whose hundred robust oxen yield me delight, as the triple-mixed Soma,¹ the offering of ASWAMEDHA (gratifies thee).

6. INDRA and AGNI, bestow upon the munificent ASWAMEDHA infinite wealth with excellent posterity, undecaying as the sun in heaven.

SUKTA XIV. (XXVIII.)

The deity as before; the Rishi is VISWAVÁRÁ, a lady of the family of ATRI: the metre of the first and third stanzas is Trishtubh, of the second *Jagat*í, of the fourth Anushtubh, and of the two last *Gáyatr*í.

1. AGNI, when kindled, spreads lustre through the firmament, and shines widely in the presence of the dawn: VISWAVÁRÁ, facing the east, glorifying the gods with praises, and bearing the ladle with the oblation,² proceeds (to the sacred fire).

¹ Mixed with curds, milk, and parched grain.

² Havishá ghritáchí is explained by the scholist purodásádilakshanena yuktayá ghritachyá sruchá sahitá, with the ladle of ghí connected with the cakes and other articles of the oblation: the whole passage is remarkable, whether this explanation be admitted or not, as it leaves no doubt that a female is described as discharging the offices of a priest worshipping the gods at dawn with hymns and oblations: besides Viswavárá being feminine, the epithets práchí iláná ghritáchí are of the same gender: the term is explained the repeller of all enemies of the nature of

VOL. III.

Varga XXII.

2. When about to be kindled, AGNI, thou rulest over ambrosial (water): thou art present with the offerer of the oblation for his welfare: he to whom thou repairest acquires universal wealth; he places before thee, AGNI, the dues of hospitality.

3. Repress, AGNI, (our foes to ensure our) exceeding prosperity: may thy riches ever be excellent: preserve in concord the relation of man and wife,¹ and overpower the energies of the hostile.

4. I praise the glory, AGNI, of thee when kindled and blazing fiercely: thou art the affluent showerer (of benefits), thou art fitly lighted at sacrifices.

5. AGNI, who art kindled and invoked, worship the gods at the holy rite, for thou art the bearer of the oblation.

6. Offer worship and adoration to AGNI when the sacrifice is solemnized: select the bearer of the oblation to the gods.²

SÚKTA XV. (XXIX.)

The deity is INDRA, but one hemistich may be assigned to USANAS; the Rishi is GAURIVÍTI, of the race of SAKTI; the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga XXIII.

1. In the adoration of the gods by MANU there are sin, sarvam api páparúpam satrum várayitrí: we have no further clue to her history than that she is an Atreyí, of the race of Atri.

¹ Sam jáspatyam suyamam kurushva, make perfect the wellconnected duty of wife and husband, an appropriate prayer for a female, Yajur-Veda, 33. 12.

² According to the Taittiriya, there are three kinds of sacrificial fire: the havyaváhana, which receives the oblation intended for the gods; the havyaváhana, that intended for the Pitris; and the Saharakshas, that intended for the Asuras: the worshipper is therefore directed on this occasion to select the first.

three effulgences, and they, (the MARUTS), uphold three luminaries¹ in heaven: the MARUTS of pure energy worship thee, for thou, INDRA, art their intelligent Rishi.

2. When the MARUTS worship INDRA, exulting and drinking of the effused libration, he grasps the thunderbolt wherewith he destroys AHI, and sets the abundant waters free to flow.

3. Or, mighty MARUTS, and thou also, INDRA, drink of this my copiously-effused libation : then the offered libation obtains cattle for the offerer,² and INDRA, drinking of it, kills AHI.

4. Thereupon he fixed firmly heaven and earth, and, resolutely advancing, filled (VRITRA), like a deer, with terror: stripping off his covering, INDRA slew the DÁNAVA, endeavouring to hide, and panting with affright.

5. Then, for this exploit, all the gods gave thee, MAGHAVAN, in succession, the Soma beverage; whence thou hast retarded, for the sake of ETASA, the advancing horses of the sun.

Varga XXIV.

6. Whereupon MAGHAVAN has destroyed with his thunderbolt at once his (SAMBARA'S) ninety and nine cities:³ the MARUTS glorifying INDRA in a common dwelling with the Trishtubh hymn, he destroyed the bright (city of the Asura).

7. To aid (the undertaking of) his friend, AGNI, the friend (of INDRA), has quickly consumed ¹ three hundred buffaloes; and INDRA, for the destruction of VRITRA, has at once quaffed three vessels of Soma, offered by MANU.

8. When thou hadst eaten the flesh of the three hundred buffaloes, when thou who art MAGHAVAN hadst drunk the three vessels of Soma, when he had slain AHI,² then all the gods summoned INDRA, full of food, as if he had been a servant, to the battle.

9. When, INDRA, thou and UṢANAS, with vigorous and rapid coursers went to the dwelling of KUTSA, then, destroying his foes, you went in one chariot with KUTSA and the gods, and verily thou hast slain ṢUSHŅA.

10. Thou hast formerly detached one wheel (of the car) of SÚRYA: another thou hast given to KUTSA wherewith to acquire wealth: with the thunderbolt thou hast confounded the voiceless Dasyus,³ thou hast destroyed in battle the speech-bereft (focs).

³ Anáso dasyún amrinah : anúsa, Sáyana says, means ásyarahitán, devoid or deprived of words, ásya, face or mouth, being put by metonymy for sabda, the sound that comes from the mouth, articulate speech, alluding possibly to the uncultivated dialects of the barbarous tribes, barbarism and uncultivated speech being identical, in the opinion of the Hindus, as in the familiar term for a barbarian, mlechchha, which is derived from the root mlechchh, to speak rudely : Professor Müller, Universal

11. May the praises of GAURIVÍTI exalt thee: thou hast humbled PIPRU for the son of VIDATHIN: RIJIS-WAN, preparing dressed viands, has, through thy friendship, brought thee (to his presence), and thou hast drunk of his librion.

12. The observers of the nine months celebration, those of the ten months, pouring out librations, worship INDRA with hymns: the leaders (of rites), glorifying him, have set open the cave (concealing the cattle).

13. Although, knowing the heroic acts which, MAG-HAVAN, thou hast performed, how may I adequately offer thee adoration: most mighty INDRA, we ever celebrate at sacred rites the recent exploits which thou hast achieved.

14. Unmatched (by any), thou hast done, INDRA, all these many (deeds) by thine innate energy: wielder of the thunderbolt, whatever thou, the humbler of (foes) hast undertaken, there is no one the arrester of this thy prowess.

15. Most mighty INDRA, be pleased to accept the prayers which we are about to offer, and the present praises which we repeat: firm, doing pious acts, and desirous of wealth, I have fabricated acceptable and pious works like (rich) garments, and like a chariot.¹

¹ Praises and hymns, the scholiast says, are compared to garments, as being fit to be received as a respectful present, upa

Varga XXV.

History of Man, 1. 346, referring to this text, proposes to separate anása into a, non, nása, the nose, noseless, alluding to that feature in the aborigines, as contrasted with the more prominent nose of the árya race: the proposal is ingenious, but it seems more likely that Sáyana is right, as we have the Dasyus presently called also mridhraváchas, hinsitavágindriyán, having defective organs of speech.

SURTA XVI. (XXX.)

The deity as before, or it may be the Rájá RINANCHAYA, who is occasionally praised; the Rishi is BABHRU; the metre Trishtubh.

Varga XXVI.

1. Where is that hero? who has seen INDRA seated in his easy chariot, travelling with his horses, the thunderer, the invoked of many, who, desirous of the libation, is proceeding with riches to the habitation (of his worshipper) for his preservation?

2. I have looked down upon the secret and fearful place of his abiding; I have repaired, desiring him, (to the place of) the self-sustainer; I have inquired (of him) from others: they, the leaders (of rites), the searchers after wisdom, have said to me, let us have recourse to INDRA.

3. When the libation is offered, INDRA, we celebrate thy exploits; those (exploits) which thou hast been pleased (to achieve) for us: let him who is ignorant acquire knowledge (of them); let him who is acquainted (with them) make them known: this MAGHAVAN (is) the lord of hosts.

4. As soon as generated, INDRA, thou hast made thy mind resolved: thou hast gone alone to contend against numerous (foes): thou hast rent asunder the rock by thy strength: thou hast rescued the herd of milk-yielding kine.

5. When thou hast been born most excellent and supreme, bearing a name widely renowned, then the gods have been in dread of INDRA, and he has subjugated all the waters, the brides of the slave (VRITRA).

6. These devoted MARUTS¹ eulogise thee with pious praise, and pour out to thee the sacrificial food: INDRA has overcome by his devices the guileful AHI, harassing the gods and arresting the waters.

7. MAGHAVAN, who art glorified by us, assailing with the thunderbolt the antagonist (of the gods), thou hast slain those who were ever hostile (to thee) from thy birth: desiring to do good to MANU,² thou hast bruised the head of the slave NAMUCHI.

8. Verily thou hast made me, INDRA, thy associate when grinding the head of the slave NAMUCHI like a sounding and rolling cloud:³ and the heaven and earth (have been caused) by the MARUTS (to revolve like a wheel).

9. The slave (NAMUCHI) made women his weapons: what will his female hosts do unto me?⁴ the two his best beloved, (INDRA) confined in the inner apartments, and then went forth to combat against the Dasyu.⁵

² Manave gátum ichchhan : gátum is explained sukham, but the scholiast identifies Manu with the Rishi of the Súkta, namuchiná apahritagodhanáya mahyam, to me whose wealth of cattle has been carried off by Namuchi, an Asura who has been before named.

³ Asmánam chit swaryam varttamánam: Sáyaņa renders the two first megham iva, like a cloud.

4 Indra is supposed to say this.

⁵ These legends are apparently Vaidih, except the decapitation of Namuchi by Indra, which is related in the Gadá section of the Salya Parva of the Mahábhárata, where it is related that Namuchi, through fear of Indra, took refuge in the solar rays: Indra promised that he would not harm him if he came Varga XXVII.

¹ Or Maruts may here signify praisers, worshippers, stotárah.

10. When the cows were separated from their calves, they wandered about hither and thither; but when the well-offered libations had exhilarated him, then INDRA, with his vigorous (Maruts), reunited them (with their calves).

11. When the libations effused by BABHRU had exhibit and him, the showerer (of benefits) shouted aloud in the combats: INDRA, the destroyer of cities, quaffing (the Soma), restored to him his milk-yielding cattle.

12. The Rusamas¹ giving me four thousand cows, AGNI,¹ have done well: we have accepted the wealth, the donation of the leader of leaders RINANCHAYA.

13. The Rusamas, AGNI, have presented to me a beautiful abode, with thousands of cattle: the sharp libations have exhilarated INDRA upon the breaking up of the (gloom-)investing night.

14. The (gloom-)investing night has dispersed with the dawn (upon the appearance of) RINANCHAYA, the Rájá of the Rusamas: BABHRU being summoned, going like a fleet courser, has received the four thousand (cattle).

15. We have accepted, AGNI, the four thousand cattle from the Rusamas: and the glowing, the golden

Súkta XVII. (XXXI.)

The deity is INDRA; the Rishi is AVASYU, of the race of ATRI; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. INDRA, the possessor of opulence, directs downwards the car over which, intended (to receive sacrificial) viands, he presides: he proceeds unimpeded, the first of the gods, driving (his enemies before him), as a herdsman drives the herds of cattle.

2. Hasten to us, lord of horses: be not indifferent to us: distributor of manifold wealth, befriend us; for there is nothing else that is better, INDRA, than thou: thou hast given wives to those who were without women.²

3. When the light (of the sun) overpowers the light (of the dawn) INDRA grants all (sorts of) wealth (to the worshipper): he has liberated the milch-kine from the interior of the obstructing (mountain); he dissipates the enveloping darkness with light.

² Amenán-schij-janivatas-chakartha: mená is here used in the sense of strí, woman in general, and jani, as usual, in that of wife: the commentator explains it apagatastríkánschú jáyávata karoshi, thou makest sundry persons, from whom women are separated, possessed of wives. Varga XXIX.

¹ Gharmaș-chit taptah pravrije ya ásíd ayasmayah : according to the commentator, ayas maya, properly, made of iron, is here, made of gold, hiranyamaya, kalașa, a ewer : gharmaschit he explains mahávíra iva, that is, like the ewer, or vessel so termed, containing a mixture of Soma, melted butter and milk, perhaps put upon the fire, as by a text cited in the note of Sáyana on v. 7. of Súhta XLIII. yad ghra ityatapat tad gharmasya gharmatwam iti șruti; see also Súhta XIX. 1; pravrije for the pravargya ceremony.

3. The RIBHUS¹ have fabricated thy car, INDRA, the invoked of many, adapted to its horses: TWASHTRI (has made) thy radiant thunderbolt: the venerable (Angirasas),² praising INDRA with hymns, have given him vigour for the destruction of AHI.

5. When the Maruts, the showerers (of benefits), glorify thee, INDRA, the showerer (of desires), with praises, and the exulting stones delight (to bruise the Soma), then, without horses, without chariots, they, the purifying (MARUTS), dispatched by INDRA, have overcome the Dasyus.

Varga XXX.

6. I celebrate, MACHAVAN, thine ancient exploits, and those which thou hast newly achieved: wielder of the thunderbolt, subjugating both heaven and earth, thou hast distributed the wonderfully bountiful waters to man.

7. Handsome and sagacious INDRA, this is thy deed, that, slaying AHI, thou hast here displayed thy vigour: thou hast arrested the devices of SUSHNA³ urging the combat: thou hast overcome the Dasyus.

8. Thou, INDRA, (abiding on the further bank), hast rendered the fertilizing waters agreeable to YADU and TURVASU: you two, (INDRA and KUTSA), have assailed the fierce (SUSHNA), and, (having slain him), thou hast conveyed KUTSA (to his dwelling), and

³ Sushņasya chit pari máyáh agribhņáh: Sáyaņa explains máyáh by yuratíh, young damsels, thou hast seized upon, or carried off, the young women of Sushņa.

² Brahmánah: Brahmans is the expression of the text, explained by the scholiast angirasah: the verse occurs, with the hemistichs transposed, Sáma-Veda, I. 439, 440.

USANAS and the gods have therefore honoured you both.

9. May your steeds bring you both, INDRA and KUTSA, riding in one chariot, to the worshipper:¹ you have expelled him (SUSHNA) from the waters, from his proper abode: you have driven the glooms (of ignorance) from the heart of the affluent (adorer).

10. The sage AVASYU has obtained docile horses, endowed (with the speed) of the wind: all thine adorers, INDRA, in this world, thy friends, augment thy vigour by their praises.

11. He, (INDRA), has formerly arrested in battle the rapid chariot of the sun: ETASA has borne away the wheel,² and (with it INDRA) demolishes (his foes): may he, giving us precedence, be propitiated by our rite.

12. INDRA, oh people, has come to see you, wishing to behold his friend the offerer of the libation: let the creaking stones, for whose rotation the priests hasten, supply the altar.

13. Immortal (INDRA), let not the mortals who are wishing, anxiously wishing for thee, fall into sin: be indeed pleased with the sacrificers, and grant vigour to those men amongst whom may we be (especially) thine.

2. Thou, thunderer, (hast set free) the obstructed clouds in their seasons; thou hast invigorated the strength of the cloud: fierce INDRA, destroying the mighty AHI when slumbering (in the waters), thou hast established the reputation of thy prowess.

3. INDRA, by his prowess, has annihilated the weapon of that mighty beast, from whom another more powerful, conceiving himself one and unmatched, was generated.³

4. The wielder of the thunderbolt, the render of the rain-cloud, has destroyed with his bolt the mighty SUSHNA, the wrath-born (son) of the Dánava, the walker in darkness, the protector of the showering cloud,⁴ exhilarating himself with the food of these (living creatures).

5. Thou hast discovered, INDRA, by his acts, the secret vital part of him who thought himself invulnerable, when, powerful INDRA, in the exhilaration of the Soma, thou hast detected him preparing for combat in his dark abode.

⁴ Miho-napátam, meghasya rahshitáram : napát, here meaning pátri, a protector, a preserver, as in the Bráhmana cited by the scholiast, práno vai tanúnapát sa hi tanvah páti: vital air is called the body-preserver, for it preserves the limbs.

6. INDRA, the showerer (of benefits) exhilarated by the effused juices, uplifting (his thunderbolt), has slain him enjoying the dews of the firmament, sleeping (amidst the waters), and thriving in sunless darkness.

7. When INDRA raised his powerful irresisible weapon against the mighty Danava, when he struck him with the blow of the thunderbolt, he made him the lowest of all creatures.

8. The fierce INDRA seized upon him, that vast moving (VRITRA), when slumbering, (after) having drunk the Soma, subduing (his foes), and enveloping (the world), and then slew him with his great weapon in battle, footless, measureless, speechless.¹

9. Who may resist the withering might of that INDRA: he, single and irresistible, carries off the riches (of the enemy): these two divine (beings, heaven and earth), proceed swiftly through fear of the strength of the quick-moving INDRA.

10. The divine, self-sustaining (heaven) comes to him; the moving (earth), like a loving (wife), resigns herself to INDRA: when he shares all his vigour with these (his people), then, in due succession, men offer reverence to the potent INDRA.

11. Verily I hear of thee as chief amongst men, the protector of the good, friendly to the five classes of beings, the begotten, the renowned; may my (progeny), representing (their wishes), and uttering his praises night and day, propitiate the glorified INDRA.

ANUVÁKA III.

Súkta I. (XXXIII.)

The deity is INDRA; the Hishi is SAMVARANA, the son of PRA-JÁPATÍ; the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga I.

1. Feeble as I am, I offer praise to the great and vigorous INDRA, for this purpose, (that he may grant) strength to (our) people: he who, associated with the MARUTS,¹ shews favour to this person when praised for the sake of sustenance.

2. Thou, INDRA, meditating upon us, fastenest the traces of thy horses, (incited), showerer (of benefits), by those praises in which thou takest suitable delight, and do thou therefore overcome (for us) hostile men.

3. Since, mighty INDRA, those who, differing from us, and not united with thee through their lack of devotion, are not thine; therefore, divine holder of the thunderbolt, who art possessed of excellent horses,

¹ Samarya, as an epithet of Indra, is of somewhat doubtful meaning: Sáyana gives three explanations, martyaih, stotribhih, sahitah, together with mortals, that is, with worshippers, yuddhamánair-marudádibhih, with the Maruts and other combatants, or samara-arhah, fit for or suited to war.

ascend the car, whose reins thou guidest, (to come to our sacrifice).¹

4. Inasmuch, INDRA, as many praises are thine, therefore, combating for the sake of (shedding) water on fertile (lands), thou hast effected (the discomfiture of its obstructors); thou, who art the showerer (of benefits), hast, on behalf of the sun, destroyed in his own dwelling the very name of (the asura), DASA, in battle.

5. We, INDRA, are thine, and thine are they who are the leaders (of rites), promoters of (thy) strength, and willing applicants (to thee): all-powerful INDRA,² may adherents worthy of commendation, and faithful, come to us, like BHAGA, in battles.³

6. Glorious, INDRA, is thy strength, exulting,⁴ immortal, and clothing (the world with light): do thou

Varga II.

¹ This verse occurs in the Yajush 10. 22, with some variety of reading, chiefly in the first hemistich, as má ta Indra te vayam Turáshád ayuktáso abrahmatá vídasáma, which Mahídhara interprets, Indra Turáshát, may we who are thine, may we, unattached (to thy car), never perish, like that which is not of the nature of spiritual existence : in the second line we have raşmín swoşwán, reins with good horses, instead of raşmin yamase swaşwas.

² Ahisushma, a rather unusual epithet of Indra: the scholiast explains it, sarvato vyáptabala, of all pervading strength.

³ Satuá Bhago na havyah prabhritheshu cháruh may be explained differently, as prabhritha signifies war or sacrifice: may a faithful follower or ally, satuá-bhrityádih, come, like Bhaga, as an associate, cháru sangantá, to be commended, havya, in sacrifices, or defied, pratibhatairáhvátavya, in battles: as the divine Bhaga comes as our ally, so may followers and others come.

⁴ Nritamána is, literally dancing, nrityan.

give us riches, and brilliant wealth,¹ and I will greatly praise the munificence of the opulent lord.

7. Hero, INDRA, with thy protection defend us, praising and worshipping (thee), and be propitiated (by drinking) of the well-effused and agreeable Somajuice that yields (a defensive) covering in combat.

8. May those ten bright horses, the gift to me of the pious gold-possessing TRASADASYU, the son of PURU-KUTSA, of the race of GIRIKSHITA, convey me (to the sacrifice), and may I proceed quickly with the rites.

9. Or may those bay, well-actioned horses, the donation of VIDATHA, the son of MARUTASWA,² (convey me); or (may) the thousands (of treasure) which he was bestowing upon and giving to me,³ entitled to respect, and the ornaments which he presented (to decorate) the person, (contribute to the ceremony).

10. Or may the bright and active steeds bestowed upon me by DHWANYA, the son of LAKSHMANA⁴ (bear me): the riches, endowed with greatness, that have been presented, have passed (to the dwelling) of the Rishi SAMVARANA, like cows to their stalls.

2. MAGHAVAN, who fills his belly with the Soma, is exhilarated (by drinking) of the sweet-savoured beverage, whereupon he has lifted up his destructive thousand-edged¹ weapon, desiring to slay (the Asura) MRIGA.

3. He who pours out the libation to that INDRA, by day or by night, undoubtedly becomes illustrious: SAKRA disregards the man who is proud of his descendants and vain of his person,² and who, though wealthy, is the friend of the base.

4. SAKRA does not turn away³ from him whose father, whose mother, whose brother he has slain,⁴ but

³ Na ata ishate, he does not fear, or does not go up, or from hence: na bibheti na gachchhati vá is the explanation of the scholiast.

⁴ Avadhít has no other nominative than Sahra, but in the second line we have na hilvishád íshate, he, Indra, does not go from sin, sin being put for sinner, that is, from one who is a parricide or the like, pitrádi badha yuhtát, that is, he does not turn away from him who has committed these crimes : the reason also is given, veti idvasya prayatá, for verily he desires his offerings, prayatáni dánáni: the doctrine, therefore, is here inculcated, that devotional merit compensates for want of moral merit is willing to accept his offerings: the regulator (of acts), the bestower of riches, does not turn away from iniquity.

5. He desires not (association in) enterprises with five or with ten; he associates not with the man who does not present librations; and cherishes not (his dependants): nay, the terrifier (of foes) punishes him or slays him, but he places the devout man in a pasturage stocked with cattle.

6. Thinning (his enemies) in battle, and accelerating the wheels (of his car), he turns away from him who offers no libation, and augments (the prosperity of) the offerer : INDRA, the subduer of all, the formidable, the lord, conducts the $D\acute{a}sa$ at his pleasure.

7. He proceeds to plunder the wealth of the (avaricious), and bestows the riches that are prized by man upon the donor (of the libation): every man is involved in great difficulty who provokes the might of INDRA to wrath.

8. When INDRA, the possessor of opulence, discriminates between two men, both wealthy, and exerting themselves (against each other) for the sake of valuable cattle, he takes one of them as his associate, causing (his adversaries) to tremble, and the agitator (of the clouds), together with the MARUTS, bestows upon him herds of cattle.

9. I, Arya, AGNI,¹ praise SATRI, the son of AGNIthe converse is also implied by the passage quoted by Sáyana from the Vedas, that sanctity does not compensate for want of devotion; Indra being represented as saying, I gave to the wolves the Paulomas in the firmament, and the Yatis, the kálakánjyas, and arunmukhas upon earth; because, Sáyana observes, these Yatis did not worship or praise him.

VESA, the bestower of thousands, a type for comparison: may the collected waters yield him abundance; may wealth, and strength, and glory be upon him.

Súkta III. (XXXV.)

The deity as before; the Rishi is PRABHÚVASU, of the race of ANGIRAS; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Panhti.

1. Perfect for our protection, INDRA, that thine act which is most effective; which is the subduer of men; holy, and difficult to be encountered in battles.

2. Wnatever protections, INDRA, may be thine, whether four, or, hero, three, or those accorded to the five (classes) of men,¹ bestow them freely upon us.

3 We invoke the desirable protection of thee, the most liberal showerer (of benefits); that (protection) which thou, the distributer of rain, the quick destroyer (of foes), grantest, (associated) with the present (MARUTS).

4. Thou art the showerer (of benefits); thou art born to (bestow) riches; thy strength rains (blessings); thy self-invigorated mind is the restrainer (of adversaries); thy manhood, INDRA, is the destroyer of multitudes.

5. INDRA, wielder of the thunderbolt, rider in an all-pervading car, object of many rites, and lord of strength, proceed against the mortal who entertains hostility towards thee.

6. Slayer of VRITRA, men with clipped sacred grass invoke thee, who art fierce and foremost among many, for aid in battle.

7. Defend, INDRA, our chariot,¹ difficult (to be stopped), mingling foremost in combats, followed by attendants, and eagerly striving for repeated spoil.

8. Come, INDRA, to us; defend by thy providence our car: we contemplate in thee who, most mighty one, art divine, all desirable vigour: (to thee), who art divine, we offer praise.

SÚKTA IV. (XXXVI.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. May that INDRA who is the donor of wealth, who knows (how) to distribute riches, come (to our sacrifice) marching boldly like a warrior; and may he, being thirsty, and desirous (of the draught), drink of the effused Scma-juice.

2. Hero, lord of horses, may the Soma ascend to thy destructive jaw,² as if to the summit of a mountain: may we all, royal INDRA, who art invoked of many, give pleasure to thee with our hymns, as to horses with fodder.

3. Wielder of the thunderbolt, the invoked of many, my mind trembles through dread of poverty¹ like a whirling wheel: MAGHAVAN, ever prosperous, may thy worshipper, PURÚVASU, praise thee promptly and abundantly, seated in thy chariot.

4. This thine adorer, INDRA, like the stone (that expresses the Soma-juice), urges praise to thee, participating in the great (reward): thou bestowest, MAGHAVAN, riches with thy left hand, (thou bestowest them, lord of horses, with the right: be not reluctant.

5. May the effective eulogium melt thee, the showerer (of benefits): thou, the showerer, art borne (to the sacrifice) by vigorous steeds: sender of rain, thou of the handsome chin, wielder of the thunderbolt, showerer, whose car showers down (blessings), do thou defend us in battle.²

6. MARUTS, may all men bow in obedience to that youthful SRUTARATHA, the possessor of abundance, who has bestowed (upon us) two bay steeds accompanied by three hundred (cattle).

SUKTA V. (XXXVII.)

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is ATRI.

1. The piously worshipped (AGNI), when invoked, glistening with the oblation, vies with the splendour of the sun: may the dawns rise innoxious to him who says, let us offer oblations to INDRA.

2. He whose fire is kindled, whose sacred grass is strewn, offers worship: he whose stone is uplifted, whose Soma-juice is effused, offers praise: the priest, Varga VIII.

of whom the stones utter the sounds of bruising, descends with the oblation (for previous ablution) to the stream.

3. The bride (of INDRA), devoted to her lord, attends him (to the rite), who thus brings (with him) his accompanying queen: may his car convey to us ample food; may it sound loudly; may it scatter around many thousands (of riches).

4. That prince suffers no evil in whose realm INDRA drinks the sharp Soma-juice mixed with milk: attended by faithful (followers), he moves (in all directions): he destroys his enemy, he protects his subjects: enjoying prosperity, he cherishes the name of (INDRA).

5. He cherishes (his kin); he (reigns) in welfare and prosperity; he is victorious in present and continuous (time): dear is he to the sun, dear to AGNI, who, with prepared libration, offers it to INDRA.

SUKTA VI. (XXXVIII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Anushtubh.

1. INDRA of many exploits, liberal is the distribution of thine abundant riches: therefore, all-beholder, possessor of excellent wealth, bestow upon us opulence.¹

2. Although, most mighty INDRA, thou possessest well-known abundance (of food), yet golden-hued (deity) it is most notoriously reported as difficult (to be procured).

3. Wielder of the thunderbolt, thine are the strong (MARUTS), who are adorable, and whose exploits are renowned: both divinities, (thou and they), rule at pleasure over heaven and earth.

Varga IX.

4. Slayer of VRITRA, bring to us, thy (worshippers), the wealth of any powerful (man) whatsoever, for thou art disposed to enrich us.

5. May we, SATAKRATU, speedily (partake of) thy felicity through these our prayers: may we be well secured, INDRA, (by thee): may we be carefully protected, hero, by thee.

Sύκτα VII. (XXXIX.)

1. Wonderful INDRA, wielder of the thunderbolt, since precious treasure is to be distributed by thee,¹ bestow it, possessor of riches, with both hands, upon us.

2. Whatever food thou considerest desirable, INDRA, bestow it: let us be to thee (in the relation of thy) gift of unlimited sustenance.²

3. Since thy bountiful³ and praiseworthy will is notorious and vast, therefore, thunderer, thou hast ready for bestowing upon us substantial food.

² Tasya ahúpárasya dávane, in the giving of that unlimited food, annasya : Yásha would fill up the ellipse with dánasya, gift: he explains ahúpára by dúrapára, or mahápára, having a distant or great opposite boundary, whence it is also an appellative of the sun and of the ocean : it also means a tortoise, one who does not go into a well, húpa: the verse occurs Sáma-Veda, 11. 523.

³ Ditsu, desiderative of dá, desiring to give, an epithet of manas, mind or will: Benfey's text of the Náma reads dihshu, 11. 524.

Varga X.

Deity and Rishi as before; the metre also is the same, except in the last verse, in which it is Panhti.

¹ Mehanásti twá dátam rádhas, is explained by Sáyaņa manhaníyam dhanam twayá dátavyam, praiseable wealth is to be given to thee: Yásha gives a like interpretation, but notices another interpretation of mehanásti, me iha násti, what is not in this world, or on this occasion, mine, Niruhta, 1v. 4: the verse occurs, Sáma-Veda, 1. 345. 11. 522.

4. With ancient (hymns) the pious approach INDRA, to laud him who is most worthy of the beverage (the offering) of you who are opulent; (him) who is the king of men.

5. To that INDRA is the poetical and articulate prayer to be recited: to him the conveyers of pious praise, the sons of ATRI, raise their hymns: the sons of ATRI illume their hymns.

SÚKTA VIII. (XL.)

INDRA is the divinity of the first four verses, SúRYA of the fifth, ATRI of the last four, but he is also the Rishi of the whole; the metre of the three first stanzas is Ushnih, of the fifth and ninth Anushtubh, of the rest Trishtubh.

1. Come, INDRA, (to our sacrifice); drink, lord of the Soma, of the juice expressed by the stones: showerer (of benefits), utter destroyer of VRITRA, (come) with the showering (MARUTS).

2. The stone is the showerer,¹ the inebriation is the showerer, this effused Soma is the showerer; showerer (of benefits), INDRA, utter destroyer of VRITRA, come with the showering (MARUTS).

3. Effusing the libation, I invoke thee, the showerer (of benefits), for thy marvellous protections: showerer (of benefits), INDRA, utter destroyer of VRITRA, come with the showering (MARUTS).

4. May the accepter of the spiritless libation,² the wielder of the thunderbolt, the showerer (of benefits), the overcomer of quick-(flying foes), the mighty, the monarch, the slayer of VRITRA, the drinker of the Soma, having harnessed his horses, come down (to us): may INDRA be exhilarated at the mid-day sacrifice.

5. When, SÚRYA, the son of the Asura SWARBHÁNU,¹ overspread thee with darkness, the worlds were beheld like one bewildered, knowing not his place.

6. When, INDRA, thou wast dissipating those illusions of SWARBHÁNU which were spread below the sun, then ATRI, by his fourth sacred prayer,² discovered the sun concealed by the darkness impeding his functions.

7. SúRYA speaks]: Let not the violator, ATRI, through hunger, swallow with fearful (darkness) me who am thine: thou art MITRA, whose wealth is truth: do thou and the royal VARUNA both protect me.

8. Then the Brahman, (ATRI), applying the stones together, propitiating the gods with praise, and adoring them with reverence, placed the eye of SURYA in the sky: he dispersed the delusions of SWARBHÁNU.

9. The sun, whom the Asura, SWARBHÁNU, had enveloped with darkness, the sons of ATR1 subsequently recovered: no others were able (to effect his release).

SÚKTA IX. (XLI.)

The deitics are the VISWADEVAS; the Rishi is BHAUMA; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the sixteenth and seventeenth verses, in which it is Atijagati, and in the twentieth, in which it is Viráj, and of one hemistich.

Varga XIII.

1. Who, MITRA and VARUNA, desiring to sacrifice to you, (is able to do so)? do you, whether (abiding) in the region of heaven, or of the vast earth, or of the firmament, protect us, and give to the donor (of the oblation), and to the sacrificer, cattle and food.

2. May those divinities, MITRA, VARUNA, ARVA-MAN, AYU, INDRA, RIBHUKSHIN, the MARUTS-who accept pious praise,¹ be pleased by our adorations, partaking of the gratification afforded to RUDRA, the showerer (of benefits).²

•3. I invoke you, ASWINS, the restrainers (of desire), for the acceleration of your chariot with the swiftness of the wind: (priests) offer praise and oblations to the celestial destroyer of life,³ to the accomplisher of the sacrifice.

4. May the divine accepter of sacrifice, of whom the Kánwas are the priests, TRITA⁴, VÁYU, and AGNI, ² This last clause may be considered as applying especially to the Maruts as the sons of Rudra.

³ Divo asuráya is explained dyotamánáya pránápahartre, that is, to Rudra: and yajyave, yága sádhakáya: or Asura may be rendered pránadátri, the giver of life, when it will imply Súrya or Váyu.

⁴ Or Trita may be an epithet of Váyu, the threefold, pervading the three regions of heaven, mid-air, and earth.

¹ According to the commentator, divinities are of two orders, those who share praises, stotrabhájah, and those who share oblations, kavirbhájah: the first is here alluded to.

concurring in satisfaction with (the ruler of) heaven, or (SÚRYA and) PÚSHAN, and BHAGA, and they who are the protectors of the universe, (come quickly) to the sacrifice, as the fleetest coursers rush to battle.

5. MARUTS, do you bring wealth comprising horses: to acquire and preserve riches the wise man offers you praise: may the ministrant priest, (ATRI), of the son of UȘIJ (KAKSHÍVAT), be made happy by those swiftgoing (horses) which are the swift-going (horses), MARUTS, of you who are rapid in motion.

6. Prevail, (priests), by your prayers, on Váru, the divine, the fulfiller of desires, the adorable, to harness his chariot: may the light-moving accepters of sacrifice, the lovely and excellent wives (of the gods), come hither to our rite.

7. Mighty Day and Night to you, along with the adorable (deities) of heaven, I present (the oblation) with prayers delighting and explicit: knowing, like two sages, all (that is required), do you bring (it) to the worshipper for his sacrifice.

8. I glorify you, leaders (of rites), cherishers (of many), gratifying (with oblations, you) TWASHTRI the lord of foundations, and the goddess of speech, bestower of opulence, and sharer in the satisfaction (of the other divinities); also the lords of the forest, and the herbs, that I may obtain riches.

the establishers (of the world) like heroes;¹ may the adored and adorable (deity), who is accessible (to all),² who is friendly to man, ever grant us increase, being propitiated by our praise.³

10. I glorify with unqualified praise the embryo of the earth-fertilizing rain,⁴ the grandson of the waters, AGNI, who is threefold, who rages (upon me) not, when travelling, with (his) withering rays,⁵ but, brighthaired, consumes the forests.

Varga XV.

11. How can we offer (fit praise) to the mighty posterity of RUDRA, or to the all-knowing BHAGA, for (the sake of obtaining) riches: may the waters, may the plants, protect us, and the heaven, the woods, and the mountains, whose tresses are trees.

12. May the lord of vigour, $(V \land vu)$, hear our prayers; he who traverses the firmament, the circumambient: may the waters hear, bright as cities,⁶ flowing round the towering mountains.

³ Nah sansam abhishtau, our praise in seeking or approaching; the want of a verb renders this somewhat doubtful.

⁴ Vrishno bhúmyasya garbham: bhúmya, Sáyana explains by, either suited to the earth or the firmament, bhúmir-antarihsham: in the latter case the embryo of the firmamental rain will mean Agni as the lightning, according to Sáyana.

² Áptyo yajatah : according to Sáyana, the first means áptaryah sarvaih, to be obtained by all; the second, yajaníya, to be worshipped, that is, Áditya.

13. Mighty MARUTS, of goodly aspect, quickly hear (the praises) that we who repair to you repeat, offering acceptable (oblations): (the MARUTS) coming hither, well disposed, come down to us, (destroying) with their weapons the mortals opposed to them, (overcome) by agitation.

14. I offer adoration to the company of the MARUTS deserving of sacred sacrifice, to obtain the waters, whether born of heaven or earth: may my praises prosper: may the joy-bestowing heavens (flourish): may the rivers cherished (by the MARUTS) be filled with water.

15. My praise has been continually proffered as a protectress,¹ powerful with (the means of) preservation: may the maternal and venerable earth accept our (praises), and, (pleased) with her pious (worshippers) be (to us) straight-handed, and the giver of good.

16. How may we (duly) worship the liberal (MARUTS) with praise, how adore the MARUTS with present praise in a fitting manner, the glorious MARUTS with present praise? may AHIRBUDHNYA contrive not for our harm; may he be the destroyer (of our enemies).

17. The mortal (sacrificer) worships you, gods, at all times for progeny and cattle: verily, gods, the mortal worships you: may NIRRITI,² on this occasion, sustain my body with salutary food, and keep off decay.

ment), he whose path is unimpeded, who is the giver of life, the bestower of happiness, hear.

2. May ADITI accept my affectionate and devoted praise, as a mother (the endearments of) a son: the pleasing, delightful prayer that is approved of by the gods I address to VARUNA and MITRA.

3. Celebrate, (priests), the most prophetic of the prophets;¹ imbue him with the sweet libration, and may the divine SAVITRI bestow upon us ample, beneficial, and delightful riches.

4. With a (willing) mind, INDRA, thou associatest us with cattle, with pious (priests), and, lord of steeds, with prosperity, with (sacrificial) food that is agreeable to the gods, and with the favour of the adorable deities.²

5. May the divine BHAGA, SAVITRI the lord of wealth, ANSA, INDRA (the slayer) of VRITRA, (all) the conquerors of riches, RIBHUKSHIN,³ VÁJA, and also PURANDHI, immortals, hastening (to our sacrifice) preserve us.

6. We celebrate the exploits of MARUTWAT, the unrecoiling, the victorious, the undecaying: neither the ancients, MAGHAVAN, nor their successors, have attained thy prowess, nor has any one recent attained it. Varga XVIII.

¹ Kavitaman havínám: havi, as before observed, is usually explained hránta darsí, a seer or shewer of the past, whence may be inferred the application of his knowledge to the future,

" Till old experience doth attain,

To something of prophetic strain."

 2 Yajur-Veda, 2. 15: there are one or two varieties of reading, but they are not of any importance.

³ Ribhukshin is usually considered to be a name of Indra, but here it implies Ribhu, whilst Purandhi is equivalent to Vibhu, making, with Vája, the triad. 7. Glorify the first donor of precious treasure, BRIHASPATI, the distributer of riches, the bestower of great happiness upon him who recites or chants (his praise), who comes laden with ample wealth to his invoker.

8. Associated, BRHASPATI, with thy protections, (men) are unharmed (by foes), and become opulent and blessed with descendants: may wealth devolve on those who are generous, and givers of horses, of cows, of clothes.

9. Render transitory the riches of those who partake of enjoyment without giving satisfaction (to those who are eminent) by holy hymns: put apart from the sun¹ those who perform not sacred rites, and who, though prospering in their posterity, are the adversaries of prayer.²

10. Send, MARUTS, into darkness, with (cars) devoid of wheels, the man who invites the Rákshasas to the food of the gods; (him also) who reviles me when offering praise to you: whilst sweating, he toils (to realise) vain desires.

Varga XIX.

11. Praise him who has the sure arrow, the strong bow, who presides over all sanitary drugs; worship RUDRA for a comprehensive and sound understanding; adore the powerful divinity with prostrations.

12. May the dextrous-handed, humble-minded artisans (of the gods, the RIBHUS); may the wives of the showerer (INDRA); may the rivers carved out by VIBHU; may SARASWATÍ and the brilliant RÁKÁ, the illustrious granters of desires, be willing to grant us riches.

13. To the great protector, (INDRA), I offer devoutly pious praise, new and originated (at this time): to him, the showerer, who, for his daughter (earth), giving form to the rivers, has provided this water for our (use).

14. May thy pious praise, oh worshipper, assuredly reach the thundering, roaring lord of ILÁ, who, impelling the clouds and distributing the rain, proceeds, illuminating the heaven and earth with lightning.

15. May this hymn reach up to the presence of the might of the MARUTS, the youthful sons of RUDRA: the desire of riches incites me to holiness: glorify those who go to sacrifice on spotted steeds.

16. May this hymn attain (the divinities) of earth and heaven, the trees, the herbs, for (the sake of) wealth: may each individual deity be successfully invoked by me: let not mother earth take us into unfavourable thought.

17. May we ever, gods, enjoy great and uninterrupted felicity.

18. May we ever be participant of the unprecedented, joy-conferring, and well-guided protection of the ASWINS: bring to us, immortal (ASWINS), riches, male progeny, and all good things.

2. (I purpose) to approach with pious praise, and with oblations, for (the sake of) the uninjured heaven and earth: may the paternal (heaven), and the sweetspoken, free-handed, maternal (earth), both enjoying renown, defend us in every battle.

3. Priests, who are preparing (the libation), first offer to VÁYU the delightful and brilliant (Soma); and do thou, divine VÁYU, like the HOTRI, first drink of this sweet juice, (which) we offer for thine exhibitantion.¹

4. The ten expressers of the juice, (the fingers), and the two arms of the priest, which are the dextrous immolators of the Soma, take hold of the stone: the exulting, skilful-fingered (priest) milks the mountainborn juice of the sweet Soma, and that Soma (yields its) pure juice.²

5. The Soma has been effused, (INDRA), for thy gratification, for (giving thee) strength in action, and for thy great exhibitration: therefore, INDRA, when invoked by us, put to thy two beloved, docile, well-trained horses in thy car, and come down.

Varga XXI.

² The text has only sukram ansuh, which is thus explained, sa cha ansuh sukram nirmalam rasam dugdhe, and that Soma has milked the pure juice; or Ansu may be an epithet of Adhwaryu, the extensively present priest, ansur vyapto adhwaryuh.

³ Gná is a synonyme of strí, a woman, a wife: it commonly offered with reverence, who is vast and cognizant of rites, to partake of the exhibitration of the sweet Soma.

7. The vessel¹ which the priests, celebrating (it), supply with butter, as if roasting a marrow-yielding animal with fire, has been placed, desirous of the sacrifice, upon the fire, like a son upon the lap of his father.

8. May this adoring, earnest, and gratifying praise go like a messenger to summon the ASWINS hither: come, ASWINS, givers of happiness, riding in one chariot, come down to the deposited (Soma), as the bolt (is essential) to the axle of the waggon.²

9. I offer adoration to the powerful and rapid PúSHAN, and to (the powerful and rapid) VÁYU, who are both instigators of the desire of wealth and of food, (who are both) distributors of riches.

10. Bring hither JATAVEDAS, who art invoked by us all, the MARUTS, under their several names and forms: come, all ye MARUTS, with all your protecting faculties, to the sacrifice, the praises, and the adoration of the worshipper.

11. May the radiant SARASWATÍ come to the sacrifice from the heavens or the spacious firmament: may the goddess, the showerer of water, propitiated by our invocation, and desirous of our gratifying praises, hear.

12. (Priests) place the mighty BRIHASPATI, the creator, whose back is dark blue,¹ in the chamber (of sacrifice): let us worship him who is seated in the interior of the mansion, everywhere shining, goldenhued, resplendent.

13. May the sustainer of all, (AGNI), the greatly radiant, the delighter, come, with all his protecting (faculties), when invoked; he who is clothed with flames and with plants; who is irresistible; who has horns of three colours;² the showerer (of benefits), the accepter of oblations.

14. The holders of the (sacrificial) ladles, the ministrant priests of the man (who institutes the rite), have repaired to the bright and most excellent place of the maternal (earth):³ offerers of the oblation, they foster the tender infant, (AGNI), with worship, as people rub (the limbs of a child to promote his) existence.⁴

16. May we ever, gods, enjoy great and uninterrupted felicity.²

17. May we ever be participant of the unprecedented, joy-conferring, and well-guiding protection of the ASWINS: bring to us, immortal (ASWINS), riches, male progeny, and all good things.

SÚKTA XII. (XLIV.)

The deities are the same; the Rishi is AVATSÁRA of the race of KASYAPA; the metre of the fourteenth and fifteenth verses is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagati.

1. In like manner as the ancient (sages), those our predecessors, as all sages, and those of the present period, (have obtained their wishes by his praise), so do thou by praise extract (my desires) from him who is the oldest and best (of the gods), who is seated on the sacred grass, who is cognizant of heaven, coming to our presence, vigorous, swift, victorious, for by such praises thou exaltest him.³

2. Do thou, (INDRA), who art radiant in heaven, spread through the regions, for the good (of mankind), those the beautiful (waters) of the unyielding cloud: doer of good deeds, thou art the preserver (of men), not (destined) for their detriment: thou art superior to all delusions; thy name abides in the world of truth.

3. He, (AGN1), is associated with the perpetual oblation that is the true (source of good); the sustainer of all, he is of unrestricted movement, the offerer (of burnt-offerings), the cherisher of strength: gliding especially over the sacred grass, the showerer (of benefits); an infant, a youth, exempt from decay, whose place is among plants.

² See verse 17 of the preceding Súkta.

³ Or anu yásu varddhase may be applied to Indra, thou prosperest, Indra, by such praises : this is Mahídhara's explanation, which differs in some other respects from that of Sáyaṇa, Yajur-Vedq, 7. 12. Varga XXIII.

4. These well-combined rays (of the sun) are descending with intent to proceed on the path (of the sacrifice), amplifiers of the ceremony for this (its institutor): operating with these swift-moving, allregulating rays, he, (ÁDITYA), steals the waters (that flow) in low places.

5. Object of honest eulogium, (AGNI), thou shinest amongst the reciters of thy praises when the Soma is received at its effusion by the wooden (cups), and thou, accepting (the beverage), art animated by the heart-affecting (praises): giver of life, increase in the sacrifice thy protecting flames.¹

Varga XXIV.

6. Such as (the deity) is beheld, such is he said (to be): they abide with concentrated splendour in the waters: (may they bestow) upon us honourable and ample (riches), great energy, numerous male offspring, and undecaying vigour.

7. The sage SúRYA, advancing, accompanied by his bride, (the dawn), proceeds boldly, intent on combat with his enemies: may he on whom riches are dependent, secure our entire felicity, (and grant) a brilliant and everywhere protecting mansion.

8. The (pious man) proceeds to thee, most excellent (of the gods, who art indicated) by the sign of this moving (revolution);¹ who art hymned by the Rishis in whose praises thy name (is glorified): he obtains that blessing by his devotion, on whatsoever (his desire) has been fixed; and he also, who of his own accord offers (worship), acquires abundant (reward).²

9. The chiefest of these (our praises) proceed to the ocean-like sun: that chamber of sacrifice fails not in which (his praises) are prolonged: there the heart's desire of the worshipper is not disappointed where the mind is known to be attached to the pure (sun).

10. He verily (is to be glorified): let us, with the pleasant thoughts of KSHATRA, MANASA, AVADA, YA-JATA, SADHRI, and AVATSÁRA,³ fill up the invigorating food; (the portion) to be shared by the wise.

11. Swift is the excessive and girth-distending inebriation⁴ of VISWAVÁRA, YAJATA, and MÁYIN: (by drinking) of these (juices) they urge one another to drink: they find the copious draught the prompt giver of intoxication.

² Ya u swayam vahate so aram harat, he who, not urged by another, entertains of his own mind the hope of reward, he does much, or enough: atyartham haroti is one explanation; another is, atyartham huryát, let him do much, or enough : neither is very explicit.

³ These, according to the scholiast, are the names of the Rishis.

⁴ Syena ásám aditih kakshyo madah: syena is interpreted síghra, quick, and adití, atísamriddhah: ásám, of these, implies the Soma-juices; mada, intoxication, is the devatá of he verse. Varga XXV.

12. May SADÁPRINA, YAJATA, BÁHUVRIKTA, SUR-TAVIT, TARYA,¹ associated with you, destroy your foes: the Rishi obtains his desires in both (worlds), and shines brightly, whenever he adores with well-mingled (offerings and praises) the host (of heaven).

14. SUTAMBHARA is the ministrant priest of the institutor of the sacrifice,² the causer of the upward ascent of all holy rites: the milch-cow offers juicy (milk); the milk is distributed: announcing this in order, (AVATSÁRA) studies (the holy texts) without repose.

14. Him who is ever vigilant, holy verses desire: to him who is ever vigilant sacred songs proceed: him who is ever vigilant the Soma thus addresses, I am always abiding in thy fellowship.

15. AGNI is ever vigilant, and him holy verses desire: AGNI is ever vigilant, and to him sacred songs proceed: AGNI is ever vigilant, and him the Soma thus addresses, I am ever abiding in thy fellowship.

² Sutambharo yajamánasya satpatih: the last, according to Sáyana, is put for hotri; the first is the name of a Rishi: its etymological purport, the bearer or offerer of the libation, is possibly only a metaphorical personation, and, with the context, though mystically expressed, merely describes the effusion of the Soma.

ANUVAKA IV.

SUKTA I. (XLV.)

The deities are the VISWADEVAS; the Rishi is SADÁPRINA; the metre is Trishtubh.

I. (INDRA) recovered (the hidden cattle), hurling his thunderbolt from heaven at the prayers of the ANGIRASAS: the rays of the approaching dawn are spread around: the divine sun, scattering the clustered gloom, has risen and set open the doors of (the habitations of) men.

2. The sun distributes his radiance as if it was a substance: the parent of the rays of light, (the dawn), knowing his approach, comes from the spacious (firmament): the rivers with running waters flow, breaking down their banks: the heaven is stable like a well-constructed pillar.

3. To me, when offering praise, as to an ancient author of sacred songs,¹ the burthen of the cloud (descends); the cloud parts (with its burthen); the sky performs (its office): the assiduously worshipping ANGIRASAS are exhausted by much (adoration).

4. INDRA and AGNI, I invoke you for my salvation with well-uttered words, agreeable to the gods; for verily, sages excelling in sacrifice, and diligently adoring, worship you with sacred songs, prompt as the MARUTS (in devotion).

5. Come to-day quickly: let us be engaged in pious acts: let us entirely annihilate the hostile: let us keep off all secret enemies: let us hasten to the presence of the institutor of the rite.

6. Come, friends, let us celebrate that solemn rite which was effectual in setting open the (secret) stalls of the (stolen) cattle; by which MANU overcame VIȘIȘIPRA;¹ by which the merchant, going to the wood (for it), obtained the water.²

7. At this sacrifice the stone (set in motion) by the hands (of the priests) makes a noise, whereby the nine-month ministrants celebrated the ten-months worship:³ when SARAMA,⁴ going to the ceremony, discovered the cattle, and ANGIRAS rendered all the rites effective.

8. When all the ANGIRASAS, on the opening of this adorable dawn, came in contact with the (discovered) cattle, then milk and the rest were offered in the august assembly, for SARAMÁ had found the cows by the path of truth.

9. May SÚRYA, lord of seven steeds, arrive, for he has a distant goal (to reach) by a tedious route: fleet as a hawk he pounces upon the offered (sacrificial) food: ever young and far-seeing, he shines, moving amidst rays of light.

³ Or, when the priests of both the nine and ten months rites offered worship: see vol. 1. p. 167, note.

Varga XXVII. 314

² Vanij-vanhur ápa purísham: the scholiast says this alludes to the story of kakshívan: see vol 1, p. 291, verse 11.

10. SÚRYA has ascended above the glistening water,¹ as soon as he has put to his bright-backed steeds: sage (worshippers) have drawn him, like a ship, across the sea: the waters, hearing his commands, have come down.

11. I offer to you, (gods), for the sake of water, an all-bestowing sacrifice, whereby the nine-months ministrants have completed the ten months rite: may we, by this sacrifice, be the protected of the gods: may we, by this sacrifice, cross over the boundaries of sin.

Súkta II. (XLVI.)

The deities of the first six stanzas are the VIŞWADEVAS, of the last two the wives of the gods; the Rishi is PRATIKSHATRA; the metre of the second and eighth stanzas is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagatí.

1. The sage, (PRATIKSHATRA), has, of his own accord, attached himself to the burthen (of sacrifice), like a horse (to a chariot): I support that transcendant and preservative load: I do not desire release from it, nor yet its reiterated imposition: the sage, going first, conducts (men) by the right path.

2. AGNI, INDRA, VARUNA, MITRA, gods, confer (upon us) strength: or, company of the MARUTS, or VISHNU, (bestow it): and may both the NÁSATYAS, RUDRA, the wives of the gods, PúSHAN, BHAGA, SARAS-WATÍ, be pleased (by our adoration).

3. I invoke for protection INDRA and AGNI, MITRA and VARUŅA, ADITI, SWAR,¹ Earth, Heaven, the MARUTS, the clouds, the waters, VISHŅU, PÚSHAN, BRAHMAŅASPATI, and SAVITŖI.

4. Or may VISHNU grant us felicity, or the innoxious wind, or Soma the bestower of riches; or may the RIBHUS, the, ASWINS, TWASHTRI, or VIBHWAN be favourably disposed to our enrichment.

5. Or may the adorable, heaven abiding company of the MARUTS, come to us to take their seats on the sacred grass; or may BRIHASPATI, PÚSHAN, VARUNA, MITRA, ARYAMAN, bestow upon us domestic happiness.

6. Or may the glorious mountains, the beneficent rivers, be to us for our preservation: may BHAGA, the apportioner of wealth, come with abundance and protection: may this wide-pervading ADITI hear my invocation.

7. May the wives of the gods, desiring (our homage), defend us: may they so protect us that (we may obtain) vigorous (offspring) and abundant food: whether terrestrial, or those in charge of the waters (in the firmament), do you, goddesses, earnestly invoked, bestow upon us felicity.

8. Or may the goddesses, the wives of the gods, accept (the offering): INDRÁNÍ, AGNÁYÍ, the radiant ASWINÍ, RODASÍ,² VARUNÁNÍ, may each hear (our prayer): may the goddesses partake (of the oblation):³

SUKTA III. (XLVII.)

The deities are the VISWADEVAS: the Rishi is PRATIRATHA; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. Arousing (men to their labours), the adorable (Dawn) comes from the heaven, a mighty mother, the awakener of her daughter (earth):² pious, ever young, and glorified, (she comes), when invoked, to the chamber of sacrifice with the protecting (gods).

2. The rays (of light) extending round, fulfilling their duty (of bringing on the day), abiding in contact with the orb of the immortal (sun), unlimited and diffusive, spread everywhere through heaven and earth.

² Duhitur bodhayantí, bhúmyá bodham hurváná, making the awaking of the daughter, the comment says, of the earth: in a subsequent passage quoted by Sáyana we have Ushas called divor duhitá bhuvanasya patní, the daughter of heaven, the bride of earth: she is most usually designated the daughter of heaven: see vol 11. p. 10, verse 3. Varga I.

¹ Yá ritur janínám, that which is the time of the wives of the gods, that is, the goddesses presiding over it: yo devajáyánám kálas-tadabhimáná devyah.

3. The showerer (of rain), the shedder of dew, the radiant and quick-going (car) has entered the region of the paternal east: the many-tinted and pervading¹ (luminary) proceeds to both extremities of the firmament, (and so) preserves (the world).

4. The four (chief priests)² sustain him (with oblations and praises), seeking their own welfare: the ten (regions of space) invigorate him, their embryo, to travel (his daily course): his three elementary rays³ swiftly traverse the boundaries of the sky.

5. (Behold),⁴ men, this indescribable form from which the rivers (spring), and where the waters dwell; which (form, the firmament), the two, (day and night), associated and equally allied, as well as other (seasons), born (of it, as of a parent), here and there sustain.⁵

6. To him (worshippers) multiply praises and acts of adoration: for (him as for) a son, the (divine) mothers weave garments (of light): rejoicing in the contact of their impregnation, the wives of the sun, (the solar rays), come to our presence by the path of the sky.

7. May this (hymn), MITRA and VARUNA, be valued (by you): may it, AGNI, be valued (by thee) as the means to us of happiness unmixed: may we (thence) obtain stability and permanence: reverence be to thee, radiant and mighty asylum (of the universe).

Súkta IV. (XLVIII.)

The deities as before; the Rishi is PRATIBHÁNU; the metre Jagatí.

1. When may we offer adoration to the benevolent splendour, strong in its own (strength), self-sustaining with food, deserving of worship: when the delusive (energy of AGNI), investing (the heavens), spreads the waters above the clouds over the unbounded firmament.¹

2. These dawns diffuse the consciousness that is apprehended by pious men, and (overspread) the whole world with uniform, investing (light): the devout man disregards the dawns which have turned back, and (those which) are to come,² and improves (his understanding) by those which have preceded.³

scholiast understands it to mean that the firmament is supported or maintained in its place by the various changes of times and seasons which it may be considered to generate.

¹ This is addressed to Agni as the lightning.

² Apo, apáchír-apará apejatí: the scholiast renders apáchih by pratinivrittamuhkíh, apará by ágáminír-ushasah, and the verb by apachálayatí, he causes to go away, he sends away future dawns with averted faces: the first apa is considered a pleonasm.

³ Pra púrvábhis-tirate: pratirate is explained vardhayati swa maníshám, or swayam vardhate. Varga II.

3. (Animated) by the libations offered by day and by night, (INDRA) sharpens his vast thunderbolt against the beguiler (VRITRA); he whose hundred (rays) attend him in his own abode, sending away, and bringing back (revolving) days.

4. (I behold) the practice of that (AGNI) as of a deputy:¹ I celebrate the host (of rays) of that (resplendent form, (designed) for the enjoyment (of mankind): if he be with (the worshipper), he bestows upon the man who invokes him at a sacrifice such opulence as a mansion abounding with food.

5. Blazing with his (fiery) tongue in the four quarters (of the horizon), he proceeds (to the sacrifice), wearing beautiful (lustre), the disperser of darkness, extirpating foes : we know him not (as endowed) with manhood,² whereby this adorable SAVITRI bestows desirable (wealth).

SUKTA V. (XLIX.)

The deities are the same; the Rishi is PRATIPRABHA; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. For you, (worshippers), I approach to day the divine SAVITRI and BHAGA, the distributors of precious

¹ Tám asya rítim parasor-iva: the text has no verb: the comment supplies pasyámi, and interprets parasu by pratinidhi, a deputy, a substitute: in like manner as a deputy fulfils the will of his master, so the functions of Agni make him the deputy or representative of the yajamána; or parasu may imply an axe, as usual, which accomplishes the object of the woodcutter, as Ayni does that of the sacrificer.

² Na tasya vidma purushatvatá vayam: the scholiast says tasya is for tam, we do not know him, joined with or possessed of yuhtam, manliness, purushatrena, or the property of fulfilling desires, hámánám púrahatvena.

(wealth)¹ amongst men : A_SWINS, (leaders of rites), enjoyers of many (good things), desiring your friendship, I solicit your daily presence.

2. Knowing the approach of the expeller (of the foes of the gods from heaven), worship the divine SAVITRI with holy hymns: praise him with reverence, distinguishing him as distributing precious (treasures) amongst men.

3. PúSHAN, BHAGA, ADITI, bestow (severally) excellent-viands:² the fierce (sun) robes (himself with radiance): the good-looking (deities), INDRA, VISHNU, VARUNA, MITRA, AGNI, give birth to happy days.

4. May the irreproachable SAVITRI (grant) us that desirable (wealth): may the flowing rivers hasten to (convey) it to us; for which purpose I, the ministering priest of the sacrifice, repeat (pious praises): affluent in food, may we be the lords of (manifold) riches.

5. May ample wealth devolve upon those who have presented victims to the $VASUS_{2}^{3}$ and upon those who have repeated praises to MITRA and VARUNA: confer upon them, (gods), felicity, and may we rejoice in the protection of heaven and earth.

¹ This function has been before assigned to Bhaga, Súhta XLVI. verse 6: he was there named Bhago vibhaktá explained dhanánám vibhágakarttá: here he is designated ratnam vibhajantam: the scholiast first applies ratnam to havish, the oblation; but he also says yajamánártham dhanam vibhajantam: see also Mandala IV. 17. 11, where he is called ráyo vibhaktá.

² Adatrayá dayate váryáni: the first is explained adaníyáni, eatables: the verb also, it is said, may be governed by Agni understood, when the phrase will mean, Agni consumes excellent consumable timbers, varaniyáni háshtháni dahate : in that case the other terms, usually proper names, will become epithets, meaning the nourishing, the desirable, the uninjurable Agni.

SÚKTA VI. (L.)

The deities as before; the Rishi is SWASTI; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the fifth stanza, in which it is Pankti.

Varga IV.

1. Let every man solicit the friendship of the divine leader (of heaven, the sun): let every man desire (of him) riches: let him request affluence (wherewith) to nourish (his descendants).¹

2. Divine (leader of heaven), these (worshippers) are thine, and (so are they) who praise these (other gods): these (both) we associate with opulence, we (seek) to unite with (our) desires.²

3. Worship, therefore, the leaders (of our rites), our guests, (the gods), and the wives (of the deities):³ may the (divine) discriminator drive to a distance every adversary, (and all our) enemies.

4. Whence the victim fit to be bound, the subject (of the sacrifice), has been stationed (at the sacrificial post):⁴ he, (SAVITRI), with mind well disposed towards the worshipper, the donor of dwellings and descendants is like a clever wife,¹ the bestower (of wealth).

5. Leader (of heaven), may this thy protecting chariot, laden with riches, (come for our) happiness: praisers of the honoured (SAVITRI), we glorify him for felicity through well-being: praisers of the gods, we glorify (them).

Súrta VII. (LI.)

1. Come, AGNI, with all the protecting deities,² to drink the libation: come with the gods.

2. (Gods who are) devoutly praised and worshipped in truth, come to the sacrifice, and drink the libration with the tongue of AGNI.

3. Sage and adorable AGNI, come with the wise and early-stirring divinities to drink the Soma libration.

4. This Soma-juice, effused into the ladles, is poured out into the vase, acceptable to INDRA and VÁYU.

5. Come, VAYU, propitious to the offerer of the libation, to partake of the sacrificial food, and drink of the effused juice.

6. INDRA and VÁYU, you ought to drink of these v libations: be gratified by them, benevolent (divinities), and partake of the sacrificial food.

7. The Soma-juices mixed with curds are poured out to INDRA and to VAYU: the sacrificial viands proceed to you as rivers flow downwards.

8. Accompanied by all the gods, accompanied by the ASWINS, and by USHAS, come, AGNI, and, like ATRI, delight in the libration.¹

9. Accompanied by MITRA and VARUNA, accompanied by SOMA and VISHNU, come, AGNI, and, like ATRI. delight in the libation.

10. Accompanied by ADITYA and the VASUS, accompanied by INDRA and by VAYU, come, AGNI, and, like ATRI, delight in the libation.

Varga VII.

11. May the ASWINS contribute to our prosperity:² may BHAGA, and the divine ADITI (contribute) to (our) prosperity: may the irresistible VISHNU, the scatterer (of foes), bestow upon us prosperity: may the conscious Heaven and Earth (bestow upon us) prosperity.

12. We glorify VÁYU for prosperity, SOMA for prosperity, he who is the protector of the world: (we praise) BRHIASPATÍ (attended by) all the companies (of the deities), for prosperity, and for our prosperity may the ADITYAS be ours.

13. May all the gods be with us to day for our prosperity: may AGNI, the benefactor of all men, and giver of dwellings, (be with us) for (our) prosperity: may the divine Ribhus protect us for (our) prosperity: may RUDRA preserve us from iniquity for (our) prosperity.

14. MITRA and VARUNA, grant us prosperity: Path (of the firmament), and Goddess of riches,¹ (grant us) prosperity: may INDRA and AGNI (grant us) prosperity: ADITI, bestow prosperity upon us.

15. May we ever follow prosperously our path, like the sun and the moon: may we be associated with a requiring, grateful, and recognisant (kinsman).²

SUKTA VIII. (LII.)

The deities are the MARUTS; the Rishi is SYÁVÁSWA; the metre of the sixth and seventh stanzas is Pankti, of the rest Anushtubh.

1. Offer worship with perseverance, SYÁVÁSWA, to the praise-deserving MARUTS; they who are adorable

Varga VIII.

¹ Pathye, Revati, are considered as two proper names, Pathyá that of a goddess presiding over the Antariksha, and Revatí, of a goddess presiding over riches: it may be doubted if there is any better authority for these divinities than etymology.

² Punardadatá, aghnatá, jánatá, with one who gives again, one who does not kill or harm, usually, one who does not make an evil return to kindness, one who is grateful, although Sáyana here explains it, one who does not inflict injury by long-suspended anger: jánata, by one knowing, he says, is meant one who does not cut an old acquaintance, madíyas-chirakálam gatah ko ayam iti sandeham akurvatú, by one who does not feel any doubt, saying, who is this of mine that has been long since gone away: to these designations; bandhujana, a kinsman, is to be applied, bandhujanena sangamemahi. and delight in the daily offered and inoffensive sacrificial food.

2. They are the firm friends of steady vigour, who, proceeding resolute on their way, willingly protect (our) numerous (descendants).

3. Gliding along, and shedding moisture, they pass through the nights: therefore we now celebrate the might of the MARUTS, manifested in both heaven and earth.

4. We enjoin you, (priests), to offer earnestly praise and sacrifice to the MARUTS, who, through all human ages, protect the mortal worshipper from harm.

5. Offer sacrifice to the adorable MARUTS, who (have come) from heaven, who are worthy of worship, munificent leaders (of rites), and possessors of unequalled strength.

Varga IX.

6. Leaders (of the rains), the mighty MARUTS shine with brilliant ornaments and weapons, and hurl javelins (at their foes, the clouds): the lightnings, like roaring (torrents), daily follow the MARUTS: the radiance of the resplendent (cohort) spontaneously breaks forth.

7. The MARUTS, who are of the earth¹ are augmented, so are those in the vast firmament: they increase in the force of the rivers, and in the aggregate of the spacious heaven.

8. Glorify the truth-invigorated and infinite strength of the MARUTS, for they, the leaders (of the rains), gliding along, are labouring voluntarily for (our) good.

9. Whether they (abide) on the Parushní (river),

8. Ho, MARUTS, leaders (of rites), be propitious to us, you who are infinitely opulent, immortal, shedders of rain, renowned for truth, wise, young, greatly glorified, and worshipped with copious oblations.¹

Súkta II. (LVIII.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. I praise to-day that brilliant company of the adorable MARUTS, lords of swift horses, who pass along in strength, who, self-radiant, preside over the ambrosial rain.

2. Adore, priest, the resplendent and powerful company, whose arms (are decorated) with bracelets, whose function is the agitation (of the trees), who are wise, and by whom wealth is conferred: they who are bestowers of felicity, whose greatness is unbounded: glorify the opulent leaders (of rites).

3. May the universal MARUTS, who urge on the rain, come to you to-day laden with water: MARUTS, who are wise and young, be pleased by this fire which is kindled for you.

4. Adorable MARUTS, you cause (a son) to be born to the man (who worships you), a ruler, an overcomer of foes, and modelled by VIBHWAN:² from you, MARUTS, comes a valiant descendant, strong-fisted, mighty-armed: from you (he acquires) an excellent steed. Varga XXIII.

5. Like the spokes of a wheel, none (of you) are inferior (to the rest), but equal as days (of like duration): the sons of PRISNI are born all alike, none inferior in splendour: rapid in speed, the MARUTS, of their own free favour, send down (the rains).

6. When, MARUTS, you come with stout-axled cars drawn by spotted steeds, then the waters descend, the forests are damaged, and the bright showerer (of the rain), influenced by the solar rays, may emit a downward sound.¹

7. On their approach the earth becomes capable of fertility, and they deposit in her water as their germ, as the husband generates the embryo of the child: they have harnessed their horses fleet as the wind: the sons of RUDRA have emitted their perspiration,² (the rain).

8. Ho, MARUTS, leaders (of rites), be propitious to us, you who are infinitely opulent, immortal, shedders of rain, renowned for truth, wise, young, greatly glorified, and worshipped with copious oblations.³

of the donor of the oblation: offer worship to the shining (heaven): I bring offerings to the earth: they, the MARUTS, scatter the rapid (rain); they traverse the firmament; they combine their own radiance with (that of) the clouds.

2. From their approach the earth trembles with fear, as a crowded boat goes quivering (through the water): visible from afar, they are recognised by their movements: the MARUTS, leaders (of rites), pass between (heaven and earth) to the solemn sacrifice.

3. You bear, for your decoration, an excellent (diadem) like the horn of cattle: as the sun, the eye (of day, dispenses light), so (are you diligent) in the distribution of the rains: graceful are you, and rapid as horses, and, like (pious) mortals, you, leaders (of rites), consider (holy ceremonies) for their glory.

4. Who may exalt the great excellencies of you who are adorable? who may (offer you fitting) praises ? who (glorify your) manly (deeds)? for you make the earth tremble like a ray (of light) when you confer the gift (of rain) for (the diffusion of) fertility.

5. Resplendent as steeds, of one kindred, they engage in combat like valiant heroes: like (prosperous) men, they, the leaders (of rites), have increased (in power), and cover the eye of the sun with showers.

6. None of them are older, none younger (than the others): the destroyers of (foes), none hold a middle (rank), but all excel in glory: honourable by birth, having PRISNI for your mother, do you, MARUTS, favourable to man, come from heaven to our presence.

7. Like birds (that fly) in rows they pass along in their strength above the vast summit (of the sky) to the ends of the firmament: their horses have caused the waters of the cloud to descend, as both 1 (gods and mortals) know.

8. May the heaven and the earth yield (rain) for our sustenance: may the wonderfully bounteous dawns exert themselves (for our good): may these sons of RUDRA, lauded, Rishi, (by thee), send down the celestial rain.

Sύκτα IV. (LX.)

The deities are the Maruts, especially as associated with AGNI; the Rishi is as before; the metre of the seventh and eighth verses is Jagati; of the rest Trishtubh.

1. I adore the protecting AGNI with hymns: may he, propitiated on this occasion, approve of our acts: I offer (worship with praises), intended to obtain food, as if (proceeding) with cars (to the goal), circumambulating (the fire): may I exalt the praise of the MARUTS.

2. Fierce MARUTS, sons of RUDRA, who ride in easy chariots (drawn by) celebrated steeds, (at your coming) the woods bow down with fear, the earth trembles, and the mountains (shake).

3. The mountain, vast and lofty (though it be), is alarmed at your noise, and the summit of the firmament trembles when, lance-armed MARUTS, you are sporting: you rush along together like waters.

6. Auspicious MARUTS, whether you abide in the upper, the middle, or the lower heaven, (come), RUDRAS, to us from thence; and do thou, AGNI, accept the oblation which this day we offer.

7. MARUTS, who are omniscient, since you and AGNI abide above the summits of the upper (region) of the sky, do you who cause (your enemies) to tremble, and are the consumers of (our) foes, do you, being pleased, bestow upon the sacrificer who offers you oblations desirable wealth.

8. AGNI, drink the Soma-juice, rejoicing, along with the MARUTS, resplendent, adorable, associated in troops, purifying all, animating and long-lived: drink, VAIȘWÁNARA, who art identified with the ancient emblem (of flame).

Súkta V. (LXI.)

The deities are various: those of the first four, and the eleventh to the sixteenth verses are the MARUTS; the several persons whose names occur in the other stanzas are considered to be their divinities; the Rishi is SxAxAswA; the metre of the fifth stanza is Anushtubh, of the ninth Satobrihati, of the rest Gáyatri: the occasion of the hymn, according to the scholiast, is a wonderful old story,¹ related by those learned in sacred

9. Young and affable, she has explained to me, SYÁVÁSWA, the road, and two ruddy horses have borne me to the valiant and renowned PURUMÍLHA.

10. Who, the son of VIDADASWA, has given me a hundred (head) of cattle, and, like TARANTA, many precious gifts.

11. Those (MARUTS) who are brought hither by swift horses, drinking the inebriating juice, receive here glorification.

12. They by whose glory heaven and earth are surpassed; who shine splendid in their chariots like the radiant (sun) in the heaven above.

13. That company of MARUTS, ever young, riding in bright chariots, irreproachable, auspicious, motive, unobstructed.

14. Who knows of a certainty their (abode), where the intimidators (of their foes) rejoice? born for (the distribution of) water, exempt from defects.

15. Desirous of praise, you are the guides (to happiness) of the man who propitiates (you) by this pious rite: you are bearers of invocations to the sacrifice.

Varga XXIX.

16. Do you, who are destroyers of the malevolent, abounding in wealth, and entitled to adoration, bestow upon us desirable riches.

17. Bear to DÁRBHYA,¹ oh night,² turning away (from me to him), this my eulogy (of the MARUTS): convey my praises, goddess, as a charioteer (conveys the contents of his vehicle to their destination);

18. And say on my behalf to RATHAVÍTI, when the libation is poured out, my love (for your daughter) does not depart.

19. This opulent RATHAVÍTI dwells upon the (banks of the) Gomati (river),³ and has his home on (the skirts of) the (Himálaya) mountains.

³ Gomatih, according to the comment, means, having water, rivers, being in the plural: as the name of a river it would be

² Upon concluding the praises of the Maruts, and thus having attained the rank of a Rishi, Sráváswa, summons the night, here called Úrmyá, to convey the intelligence to RATHAVÍTI, who gives him his daughter, with many valuable presents, but at the end of the ccremony the Rishi departed for the woods to resume his austerities: it is not said if he took his wife with him, but it is to be so inferred.

SUKTA VI. (LXII.)

The deities are MITRA and VARUNA; the Rishi is SRUTAVID; the metre Trishtubh.

1. I have beheld the permanent orb of the sun,¹ your (dwelling place), concealed by water, where (the hymns of the pious) liberate (his) steeds;² where a thousand rays abide together; the one most excellent of the (embodied) forms of the gods.³

2. Exceeding is that your greatness, MITRA and VARUNA, whereby the ever-moving sun has, through (succeeding) days, milked forth the stationary waters: you augment all the (world-illumining) rays of the self-revolving (sun): the one chariot of you two (perpetually) goes round.⁴

3. Royal MITRA and VARUNA, you uphold, by your energies, earth and heaven: prompt benefactors, cause the plants to grow, give nourishment to the cattle, send down the rain.

4. May your easily-harnessed horses bear you both the Gomati river in Oude, which rises in the skirts of the first range of the Himalaya; or it may be a river of the same appellation more to the north-west, rising in Kulu, a feeder of the Beyah or Vyása.

² Which are said to be attempted to be detained by a class of Asuras termed Mandehas.

³ Devánám sreshtham vapushám is also explained the best of the embodied or light-possessing deities, that is, of Agni and others, devánám vapushmatám tejovatám agnyádínám prasasyam; or it may apply to the sun only, the mandala, the orb, the visible form, as it were, of the sun, mandalam hi súryasya vapustháníyam.

5. Augmenting the well-known and ample form (of man),¹ in like manner as the sacred grass is preserved by prayer, do you, MITRA and VARUNA, who are invigorated by (sacrificial) viands, and abound in food, ascend your car in the midst of the place of sacrifice.²

6. Be open-handed and benignant to the performer of pious acts, whom you protect in the midst of the place of sacrifice; for you two, who are sovereigns, and free from wrath, uphold together a mansion of a thousand columns.³

7. The substance (of their chariot) is of gold; its pillars are of iron, and it shines in the firmament like lightning: may we load the vehicle with the libation in an auspicious place, or in the sacrificial hall, (where the columns) are erected.

સત્યમંચ ઝચત

¹ Srutám amatim anuvardhad-urvím, which the scholiast interprets, visrutám saríradíptim anuvarddhayantau, augmenting the renowned bodily lustre, and separates urvím, tad vad urvím pálayantau, but gives no equivalent for the word, which usually means great: the passage is obscure.

² Garte mitrá ásáthe: garta, it is said here means ratha, a car : Niruhta, 3. 5, and as it recurs in verse 8, árohatho Varuņa, Mitra, gartam.

Varga XXXI. 8. At the break of dawn, at the rising of the sun, ascend, MITRA and VARUNA, your golden-bodied, ironpillared car, and thence behold the earth and its inhabitants.¹

9. Munificent MITRA and VARUNA, protectors of the universe, (it is yours to grant) exceeding and perfect felicity, such as it is impossible to disturb: bless us with that (felicity), and may we ever be (possessed) of the riches we desire, and be confident of victory (over our enemies).

FOURTH ADHYÁYA.

SÚKTA VII. (LXIII.)

The deities are MITRA and VARUNA; the Rishi is ARCHANÁNAS; the metre is Jagatí.

1. Guardians of water, observers of truth, you ascend your car in the highest heaven: to him whom you,

Varga I.

¹ Atas-chaksháthe aditim ditim cha, is explained, aditim, ahhandaníyám bhúmim, the indivisible earth, and ditim, hhandaníyám prajádihám, the divisible people and the rest: the stanza occurs in the Yajush, 10. 15, with a various reading of the first half; but Mahídhara explains aditim by adínam, not base, that is, vihitáanushthátúram, one who follows what is prescribed, that is, performs his religious duties, and ditim by dínam, base, or nástihávrittam, an infidel; the phrase meaning that Mitra and Varuna observe that this man is a sinner, that man righteous, ayam pápí, ayam punyaván. MITRA and VARUNA, protect, the rain sends down the sweet (shower) from the sky.

2. Imperial rulers of this world, you shine, MITRA and VARUNA, at this sacrifice, the beholders of heaven: we ask of you the wealth (that is) rain, and immortality, for your forms traverse earth and heaven.¹

3. Imperial and mighty showerers, lords of heaven and earth, beholders of the universe, you approach, MITRA and VARUNA, with variegated clouds to hear the sound (of your praises), and cause the sky to (send down) rain by the power of the emitter of showers.²

4. Your device, MITRA and VARUNA, is manifested in heaven, when the light (that is) the sun, your wonderful weapon, moves (in the firmament): him you invest in the sky with the cloud (and) with rain; and (thy) sweet drops, PARJANYA, fall (at their desire).

5. The MARUTS harness their easy-going chariot, MITRA and VARUNA, for (the emission of) water, as a hero (harnesses his war-car): their forms traverse the different spheres to distribute the rain: do you, therefore, supreme rulers, shed upon us water from heaven.

6. The cloud, (through your will), MITRA and VARUŅA, utters a wonderful sound, indicative of radiance, and announcing (abundant) food: the MARUTS thoroughly invest the clouds with (their) devices, and, (along with them), you two cause the purple and faultless sky to send down rain.

² Asurasya máyayá is explained udaka nirasituh parjanyasya sámarthyena, by the power of Parjanya, the caster-forth of water, influenced by Mitra and Varuņa as the deities presiding over day and night.

7. Sapient MITRA and VARUNA, by your office you protect pious rites, through the power of the emitter of showers: you illumine the whole world with water: you sustain the sun, the adorable chariot in the sky.

SUKTA VIII. (LXIV.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Pankti.

1. We invoke you, MITRA and VARUNA, with this hymn; each the discomfiter of foes, the conductor to heaven, like (two herdsmen) driving, by (the strength of their) arms, the herds of cattle before them.

2. Do you two, with discriminating hand, bestow upon me, your worshipper, (what I desire); for the desirable felicity (that is given by you) spreads through all lands.

3. That I may now pursue the (right) direction, may I proceed by the path of MITRA,¹ for all (good things) are aggregated in the happiness, (the gift) of that beloved and benignant (deity).

4. May I obtain from you, MITRA and VARUNA, by my praise, such wealth as to excite envy in the dwellings of the rich and the devout.

5. Come, MITRA, (come), VARUNA, with your splendour to our assembly, and augment (the prosperity) of the affluent (worshipper), and of (those who are) your friends in their respective abodes.

6. You, MITRA and VARUNA, bring us strength and abundant (food) for (those praises) which (we offer):

Varga III.

be largely bountiful to us in food, in riches, in prosperity.

7. Deities who are to be worshipped at the sacrifice to the gods, at the (first) shining ray (of light) at dawn, behold my Soma libration poured out: hasten, with rapid steeds,¹ leaders (of rites), propitious to ARCHANÁNAS.

Súkta IX. (LXV.)

The deities are the same; the Rishi is RATAHAVYA; the metre is Anushtubh.

Varga IV.

1. He who knows (how to honour you two), amongst the gods, is the performer of good works • let him communicate (that knowledge) to us, he of whom the graceful VARUNA or MITRA accepts the laudation.

2. They two, verily excelling in radiance, royal (deities), who hear (invocations) from the greatest distance, lords of the virtuous, favourers of the sacrifice, are in movement (for the good of) each individual man.

3. Approaching you, ancient (divinities), I invoke you together for protection: possessed of good steeds, (we praise you) who are provident to give us food.

4. MITRA grants even to the sinful (worshipper) the (means of) repairing to his spacious dwelling: the favour of MITRA, the destroyer of foes, is (granted) to (his) adorer.

5. May we ever be in the comprehensive guardianship of MITRA, and, free from sin, enjoy, (MITRA), thy protection, being at the same time the children of VARUNA.²

¹ Hastibhih padbhih, literally, with hands, with feet, that is, according to the scholiast, with those having four feet, that, is with horses.

² Varunaseshasah: sesha is said to mean apatya, offspring.

6. You come, MITRA and VARUNA, to this man, and guide him (to his desires): deny us not when we are rich (in offerings): (deny us not), who are (the sons) of Rishis: protect us in the presenting of the libation.

Sύκτα Χ. (LXVI.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Anushtubh.

1. Man, endowed with intelligence, (adore) the two deities, the performers of good deeds, the destroyers of foes; offer (oblations) to the adorable accepter of (sacrificial) food, to VARUNA, whose form is water.¹

2. Inasmuch as you two are possessed of irresistible and Asura-subduing strength, therefore has holy sacrifice been established amongst men, as the sun (has been placed) in the sky.

3. We glorify you both, that your chariots may precede ours by a long distance; accepting the pious worship of RATAHAVYA with (his) praises.

4. Now, adorable and wonderful deities, (propitiated) by the former (praises) of (me, your) worshipper, do you, who are of pure vigour, consider with approving minds (the adoration) of these men.

5. Earth, in thee is abundant water for the necessities of the Rishis: the two active (deities) dispense by their movements sufficiently copious (rain).

6. We and the devoit (invoke) you, MITRA and VARUNA, who are far-seeing: may we proceed to your spacious and much frequented kingdom.

Varga IV.

VOL. III.

SUKTA XI. (LXVII.)

The deities and metre as before: the Rishi is YAJATA.

1. Divine sons of ADITI, MITRA, VARUNA, ARYA-MAN, verily you are possessed, at the present time, of perfect, adorable, vast, exceeding strength.

2. When you come, VARUNA and MITRA, to the delightful place of sacrifice, then, supporters of men, destroyers of foes, you bring felicity.

3. MITRA, VARUNA, ARYAMAN, who are possessed of omniscience, are all associated at our rites, as if in (their respective) stations, and protect the worshipper from the malignant.

4. They verily are observers of truth, distributers of water, protectors of holy rites amongst men: guides in the right way, liberal donors, and benefactors even of the sinner (who worships them).¹

5. Which of you, MITRA and VARUNA, has not been celebrated in (our) praise, for therefore do our thoughts tend towards you; the thoughts of the race of ATRI tend towards you.

SÚKTA XII. (LXVIII.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Gáyatrí.

1. Sing loud with lusty praise to MITRA and to VARUNA: (come), mighty deities, to the great sacrifice.

2. The MITRA and VARUNA, who are both sovereign rulers, originators of the rain, eminent deities among the gods.

Varga VI.

¹ Anhaschit, pápino api, even of the sinner: Sáyaṇa adds swastotuh, of your own praiser, but it may be doubted if this qualification is necessary.

3. They two are able (to grant us) of great terrestrial and celestial riches: great is your might among the gods.

4. Rewarding with rain the holy rite, they favour the zealous worshipper:¹ benevolent deities, may you prosper.

5. Senders of rain from heaven, granters of desires, lords of sustenance, suited to the liberal donors (of oblations), they ascend their spacious car.²

Súkta XIII. (LXIX.)

The deities are the same; the Rishi is CHAKRI; the metre Trishtubh.

1. MITRA and VARUNA, you uphold the three realms of light, the three heavens, the three regions (of the earth), augmenting the force of the vigorous (INDRA),³ and protecting the imperishable rite.

2. MITRA and VARUNA, the cows are full of milk through your (command), and the rivers yield through your (will) sweet water: through you the three ² All the verses of this Sikta occur in the Sáma-Veda, 11. 493, 494, 495, and 818, 819.

³ Varidhánau amatim kshatriyasya: amati is usually rendered form, rúpa; kshitriyasya the scholiast explains possessed of strength, kshatram, balam, an attribute, and here an appellative of Indra; or it may mean, he says, the kshatriya, or military caste. Varga VII.

radiant receptacles and showerers of rain stand severally in their three spheres.¹

3. I invoke the divine and bright ADITI at dawn, and at mid-day, when the sun is high: I worship you, MITRA and VARUNA, at all seasons, for the sake of riches, for sons and grandsons, for prosperity and happiness.²

4. I worship you two, divine \mathbf{A} DITYAS, who are upholders of the celestial and terrestrial worlds: the immortal gods impair not, MITRA and VARUNA, your eternal works.

SUKTA XIV. (LXX.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Gáyatrí.

1. May I, MITRA and VARUNA, enjoy your favour, through which there is assuredly protection.

2. Benignant (deities), may we obtain from you, (who are) such (deities), food for our sustenance: may we, RUDRAS, be yours.

3. Protect us with your protections: preserve us with kind preservation: may we, with our descendants, overcome the Dasyus.³

4. Workers of wondrous deeds, let us not depend upon the bounty of any other (than you), either in our persons, or with our sons and grandsons.

SÚKTA XV. (LXXI.)

The deities and metre as before; the Rishi is BAHUVRIKTA.

1. MITRA and VARUNA, scatterers of foes, destroyers of enemies, come to this our accessible sacrifice.

¹ Agni, Váyu, and Áditya, present, severally, upon the earth, in the mid-air, and in heaven.

² The text is sam yoh, which is explained arishtasa manáya, sukhasya misranáya cha, for the alleviation or prevention of calamity, and for the mixture or association of happiness.

³ Sáma-Veda, 11. 335---337.

Varga VIII.

Varga 1X.

356

2. Sagacious MITRA and VARUNA you reign over all: bestow fulness, lords, upon our ancient rites.

3. Come, MITRA and VARUNA, to our effused libation, to drink of the Soma of the offerer.

SÚKTA XVI. (LXXII.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre is Ushnih.

1. We invoke MITRA and VARUNA with hymns, like (our progenitor) ATRI: do you sit down upon the sacred grass to drink the Soma libration.

2. Steady are you in your functions, whom men animate by (their) devotion: come and sit down upon the sacred grass to drink the Soma librion.

3. May MITRA and VARUNA accept with satisfaction our sacrifice: come and sit down upon the sacred grass to drink the Soma libration.

ANUVAKA VI.

SUKTA I. (LXXIII.)

The deities are the ASWINS; the Rishi is PAURA; the metre Anushtubh.

1. Whether, ASWINS, you are at present far off, whether you are nigh, whether you are (straying) in many places, or whether you are in mid-air, do you, who partake of many offerings, come hither.

2. I approach you (to invite you) hither, you who are the encouragers of many; (who are) the achievers of many (great) exploits, most excellent and irresistible: I invoke you, who are most mighty, for protection.

3. You have arrested one luminous wheel of (your) car for illumining the form (of the sun),¹ whilst with the other you traverse the spheres (to regulate) by your power the ages of mankind.²

4. May the praise, universal (deities), wherewith I laud you, be agreeable to you, as offered by this (your worshipper); and do you, who are severally born, and free from blame, bestow upon us food.

5. When Súrrá has ascended your ever easymoving car, then bright-waving, resplendent rays (of light) encompass you.³

6. Leaders (of rites), ATRI recognised (your benevolence) with (a grateful) mind on account of the relief (you afforded him), when, NÁSATYAS, through his praise of you, he found the (fiery) heat innocuous.⁴

7. Your strong, lofty, moving, ever-progressing (car) has been renowned at sacrifices ever since; Aswins, leaders (of rites), ATRI was rescued by your acts.

¹ Irmá anyad vapushe vapus-chahram rathasya yemathuh: the passage is obscure, even with the aid of the scholiast: irmá he renders, rúpam, form, vapushe, ádityasya sobháyai, for the beauty or lustre of the sun; vapus, he considers equivalent to vapushmat, having light or lustre, luminous, as an epithet of chahram: the fixing of one wheel of the car of the Aswins has been alluded to before: see vol. 1. page 78, verse 19.

² Náhushá yugá is the derivative of nahusha, manushya, man; yugá for yugáni, is explained as used by metonymy for the divisions of time in general, as morning, noon, night, or the sacrifices offered at stated periods..

³ Pari vám anushá vayo ghriná varanta átapah may also be rendered, according to Sáyana, the radiant horses, vayah, aswáh, ghriná, bright, scorchers, átapah, of enemies, accompany you.

Varga XII.

358

8. Mixers of the Soma-juice,¹ RUDRAS, (our) nutritious (adoration) bedews you well with the libration, when you traverse (the limits) of the firmament, and the prepared viands (of the sacrifice) support you.

9. Truly have they called you, ASWINS, the bestowers of felicity: such may you be when earnestly invoked to our sacrifice; bountiful bestowers of felicity at our sacrifice.

10. May these praises exalting the ASWINS be productive of happiness, the praises that we fabricate as (a wheelwright) a car: we proclaim aloud fervent adoration.

Súkta II. (LXXIV.)

The deities, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Divine ADITYAS, affluent in praise, descended this day from heaven upon the earth,² hear that (laudation) which, liberal showerers (of benefits), ATRI ever addressess to you.

2. The divine NÁSATYAS, where are they? where are they heard of in heaven? to what worshipper do you come? who may be the associate of your praises?

3. To whom do you proceed? to whom do you repair? to (go to) whose presence do you harness your car? by whose prayers are you gratified? we are anxious for your arrival.

4. PAURAS, send to PAURA³ the rain-shedding

5. You stripped off (his aged form) like a cuirass from the decrepid CHYAVANA, so that, when you had rendered him again a youth, he attracted the desires of women.²

Varga XIV.

6. A glorifier of you both is here: may we be (retained) in your sight for the sake of prosperity: hear to day (my invocation): come hither with your protections, you who are affluent in food.

7. Who among many mortals has this day (best) propitiated you? what wise man (has best propitiated you) who are reverenced by the wise? what (worshipper has best propitiated you) by sacrifice, you who are affluent in food?

8. May your car, ASWINS, the swiftest of the cars (of the gods), come hither well-disposed towards us, the discomfiter of numerous (foes), glorified amongst men.³

May our repeated adoration of you two, who are desirous of the libation, be productive of felicity: descending to our presence, and exceeding in wisdom, travel with rapid (steeds), swift as two falcons.

10. ASWINS, wherever you may be, hear this invocation: the excellent sacrificial offerings, longing for your proximity, reach you.¹

Súkta III. (LXXV.)

The deities as before; the Rishi is AVASYU; the metre is Panhti.

1. The Rishi, your worshipper, ASWINS, graces your beloved chariot, the showerer (of benefits), the vehicle of wealth, with praises: masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation.²

2. Passing by (other worshippers), come, ASWINS, hither, so that I may ever overcome all (adversaries): DASRAS, riding in a golden chariot, distributers of wealth, propellers of rivers, masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation.

3. Come, ASWINS, bring for us precious treasures:

² Mádhxí mama srutam havam: the first is explained, madhuvidyá veditárau: see vol. 1. p. 310, note: the verse occurs twice in the Sáma-Veda, 1. 418, 11. 1093. Varga XV.

RUDRAS, riding in a golden chariot, propitiated (by sacrifice), affluent with food, masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation.¹

4. Showevers of wealth, the praise of your worshipper is addressed to your chariot; (to it), as well as to you, does this distinguished, devoted, embodied $(adorer)^2$ offer sacrificial food: masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation.

5. With mind attentive (to praise), riding in cars, swift-moving, listening to invocations, you hastened with your steeds to the single-purposed CHYAVANA: masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation.

6. Aswins, leaders (of rites), may your horses, harnessed at will, of wondrous beauty, and of rapid course, bring you hither with good gifts to drink (of the proffered beverage): masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation.

7. ASWINS, come hither: NÁSATYAS, be not unpropitious: invincible lords, come from hidden (regions) to our sacrificial hall: master of mystic lore, hear my invocation.

8. Invincible ASWINS, lords of water, favour AVASYU, glorifying you at this sacrifice : masters of mystic lore, hear my invocation.

protection: the drinking of the Soma has not now extended beyond the Aswins.¹

4. This station, ASWINS, is your ancient abode; these are your mansions, this your dwelling: come from the vast firmament, (overspread) by clouds (filled) with water, bringing to us food and strength.

5. May we be united with the ASWINS by their special protection, which is the source of happiness and guide to good: bestow upon us, immortals, wealth and posterity, and all good things.

Súkta V. (LXXVII.)

Deities, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XVIII.

1. Worship the two who come first (of the gods) at dawn: let them drink before the greedy withholders (of the offering); for the ASWINS verily claim the morning sacrifice: the ancient sages praised them (at dawn).²

2. Worship the Aswins at early dawn; offer them here the five-fold distinction is alluded to: uditá súryasya is explained the afternoon, atyanta pravriddhasamayah aparáhna ityartha.

¹Nedáním pítir aswina tatána: it is related that the other gods refused to admit the participation of the Aswins in the Soma libation at these hours, but on the present occasion they are not passed over: idaním api itaradevánám pánam na tanotyaswinau viháya, but now the drinking of the other gods does not extend, having omitted the two Aswins.

² Kavayah purvabhájah: havi is said to mean one learned in the Vedas, on the authority of the Aitareya Bráhmana, ye vá anúchánás-te havayah, those who are anúchánas are havis, and anúchána is explained in the commentary on the same work, shadangasahita vedádhyayinah, students of the Vedas with the six supplements. oblations: the evening is not for the $gods;^1$ it is unacceptable to them; and whether it be any other than ourselves who worships them or propitiates them, the worshipper who is foremost (in his devotion) is the most approved of.

3. Your car, ASWINS, approaches, coated with gold, honey-tinted, water-shedding, laden with ambrosia, as quick as thought, as rapid as the wind, wherewith you pass over all obstacles.

4. He who, in the appointment (of the offerings), presents to the NÁSATYAS the most ample (share) of (the sacrificial) food, who gives (them) the largest portion of the viands, secures, by his acts, the welfare of his son, and ever has the advantage of those who light no sacred fires.

5. May we be united with the ASWINS, by their special protection, which is the source of happiness, the guide to good: bestow upon us, immortals, wealth and all good things.

Súkta VI. (LXXVIII.)

The deities as before; the Rishi is SAPTAVADHRI; the metre of the three first stanzas is Ushnih, of the fourth Trishtubh, of the rest Anushtubh.

1. ASWINS, come hither: NÁSATVAS, be not ill-disposed; alight like two swans² upon the effused libations.

2. Like two deer, ASWINS, like two wild cattle³ on

3. A SWINS, affluent in food, be propitiated at your pleasure by the sacrifice: alight like two swans upon the effused librion.

4. Inasmuch as ATRI, escaping by your aid from the fire of chaff,¹ conciliates you, like a wife soliciting (the affection of a husband), therefore come with (your) propitious cars, with the new-born rapidity of the falcon.

5. Open, VANASPATÍ, like the womb of a parturient female: hear, ASWINS, my invocation: set SAPTA-VADHRI free.²

6. ASWINS, by your devices sunder the wicker-work for (the liberation of the) terrified, imploring Rishi, SAPTAVADHRI.

7. As the wind ruffles the lake on every side, so may thy womb be stimulated, and the conception of the months come forth.

SÚKTA VII. (LXXIX.)

The deity is the DAWN; the Rishi SATYASRAVAS; the metre is Pankti.

1. Radiant USHAS, wake us up to-day for (the acquisition of) ample riches, in like manner as thou hast awakened us (of old): bright-born, and praised sincercly for (the gift of) horses, shew favour to SAT-YASRAVAS, the son of VAYYA.³

2. Daughter of heaven, who hast dawned upon SUNÍTHA, the son of SUCHADRATHA, bright-born, and praised sincerely for (the gift of) horses, dawn upon the powerful son of VAYYA, SATYASRAVAS.

3. Daughter of heaven, who art the bringer of opulence, dawn upon us to-day, as, bright-born, and praised for (the gift of) horses, thou hast dawned upon the powerful SATYAȘRAVAS, the son of VAYYA.⁴

4. The offerers of oblations who eulogise thee, lustrous USHAS, with sacred hymns, become prosperous with affluence, (through thy favour), bestower of wealth, bright-born goddess, (who art) sincerely praised for (the gift of) horses.

5. These, thy assembled (worshippers), who stand before thee to distribute wealth, entertain towards us kindly intentions, offering unlimited riches:¹ brightborn goddess, (who art) sincerely praised for (the gift of) horses.

Varga XXII.

6. Affluent USHAS, bestow upon these (thy) devout adorers food and posterity, so that, being opulent, they may, without stint, bestow riches upon us: brightborn goddess (who art) sincerely praised for (the gift of) horses.

7. Affluent USHAS, bring wealth and abundant food to those who, liberal givers, bestow upon us riches with horses and cattle: bright-born goddess (who art) sincerely praised for (the gift of) horses.

8. Daughter of heaven, bring to us food and cattle, together with the pure rays of the sun, and the radiant flames (of the kindled fires): bright-born goddess, (who art) sincerely praised for (the gift of) horses.

¹ Yach chid hi te ganá ime chhadayanti maghattaye, parichid vashtayo dadhur dadato rádho ahrayam : Sáyana seems rather dubious as to the proper sense of several of these words: maghattaye may mean dhanadánáya or dhanavattwáya, for giving or for possessing wealth : pari chid vashtayo dadhuh is explained, asmán eva hámayamánah parito dhárayanti, desirous of or being kind to us, they support us every way, and dadato rádho ahrayam may mean giving wealth that is not to be wasted or taken away, or of which there is no need to be ashamed: the sum of the meaning, agreeably to the scholiast, is, all they who, offering oblations, worship the dawn, receive the reward for the benefit of us, or of me, that is, of the author of the hymn, ye twám havir-dadatah stuvanti te sarve apy-asmadartham phalam dhárayantí.

9. Daughter of heaven, Dawn! delay not our (sacred) rite; let not the sun scorch thee with his ray, as (a prince punishes) a thief, or (subdues) an enemy: bright-born goddess, (who art) sincerely praised for (the gift of) horses.

10. Thou, USHAS, art able to give (us) whatever, indeed, (has been solicited), and much (that has not been asked for); for, radiant (divinity), who art dawning upon thine adorers, thou art never cruel (to them): bright-born goddess (who art) sincerely praised for (the gift of) horses.

SUKTA VIII. (LXXX.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. The wise priests celebrate with hymns the divine, bright-charioted, expanded Dawn; worshipped with holy worship, purple-tinted, radiant, leading on the sun.

2. The lovely Dawn, arousing man, goes before (the sun) preparing practicable paths, riding in a spacious chariot; vast, expanding everywhere, she diffuses light at the commencement of the days.

3. Harnessing the purple oxen to her car, unwearied she renders riches perpetual: a goddess, praised of many, and cherished by all, she shines, manifesting the paths that lead to good.

4. Lucidly white is she, occupying the two (regions, the upper and middle firmament), and manifesting her person from the east: she traverses the path of the sun as if knowing (his course), and harms not the quarters of the horizon.

5. Exhibiting her person like a well-attired female, she stands before our eyes, (gracefully) inclining like

6. USHAS, the daughter of heaven, tending to the west, puts forth her beauty like a (well-dressed) woman, bestowing precious treasures upon the offerer of adoration: she, ever youthful, brings back the light as (she has done) of old.

SUKTA IX. (LXXXI.)

The deity is SAVITRI; the Rishi SYÁVÁŞWA; the metre Jagatí.

Varga XXIV.

1. The wise apply their minds; they perform sacred rites for the propitiation of the intelligent, great, adorable SAVITRI: he alone, knowing their functions, directs the priests: verily, great is the praise of the divine SA/ITRI.¹

2. The wise SAVITRI comprehends all forms (in himself):² he has engendered what is good for biped and quadruped: the adorable SAVITRI has illumed

이사리 너희님

¹ The verse occurs in the Yajush, 5. 14., and is there somewhat differently explained; viprasya brihato vipaschitah, which Sáyana regards as epithets of Savitri, are connected by Mahídhara, with viprá, and are rendered the priests of the eminent and wise (institutor of the rite): again, in the second hemistich it is not clear whom the commentator understands by eho vayunávid, the only one, knowing knowledge, although he possibly concurs with our scholiast in identifying Savitri with Brahma.

² Visvá rúpáni pratimunchate, he liberates, severally, all forms: that is, according to Sáyana, átmani badhnátí or dhárayati, he binds or holds in himself: Mahídhara, Yajur-Veda, 13. 3., explains it, he makes all forms manifest in their own substance, by removing darkness. the heaven,¹ and shines in sequence to the passage of the Dawn.

3. After the passage of which divine (being) the other deities proceed to (obtain) majesty with power; he who by his greatness has measured out the terrestrial regions, the divine SAVITRI, (is) resplendent.²

4. Either thou traversest, SAVITRI, the three regions, or combinest with the rays of SÚRYA;³ or thou passest between the night on either hand; or thou, divine SAVITRI, art MITRA, through thy (benevolent) functions.

5. Thou alone rulest over (the actions of) living beings: thou art PúSHAN, divine (SAVITRI), by thy movements; thou art sovereign over the whole world: SYÁVÁSWA offers praise, SAVITRI, to thee.

Súkta X. (LXXXII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the first verse is Anushtubh, of the rest Gáyatrí.

1. We solicit of the divine SAVITRI enjoyable (wealth):⁴ may we receive from BHAGA that which is excellent, all-sustaining, destructive of foes.

Varga XXV.

³ According to Sáyana, Savitri is especially the sun before rising; Súrya is the sun in general.

⁴ The text has bhojanam, most usually food, but it is here explained bhogyam, to be enjoyed, that is, dhanam wealth.

¹ Nákam vyakhyat, swargam prakásayati, he makes manifest Swarga as the reward of the Yajamána.

² Yajush, 11. 6. sa etasah savitri: Sáyana explains etasah by etavarnah, subhrah, sobhamána, white-coloured, bright, shining: Mahídhara resolves it into etad, this, this world, and sete, who reposes in, who pervades; or, as etasa ordinarily means a horse, Nighantu, 1. 14., it may be intended to designate the sun under that form.

2. Nothing impairs the sovereignty of this SAVITEI, which is most especially renowned and beloved.

3. That SAVITRI, who is BHAGA,¹ bestows precious treasure on the donor of the offering: we solicit (of him) a valuable portion.

4. Grant us to-day, divine SAVITRI, affluence with progeny, and drive away evil dreams.²

5. Remove from us, divine SAVITRI, all misfortunes : bestow upon us that which is $good.^3$

6. Let us be void of offence towards ADITI, according to the will of the divine SAVITRI:⁴ may we be possessed of all-desired (riches).

7. We glorify to-day with hymns SAVITRI, the protector of the good, the observer of truth, (identical with) all the gods;⁵

9. SAVITRI, who proclaims his glory to all these living beings, and gives them life.

¹ Sa Savitá Bhaga: or the latter may be an attributive, bhajaníya, to be worshipped, or shared, or desired.

² Pará duhshwapnyam suva: Sáyana considers the second equivalent to dáridryam, poverty: the verse occurs in the Sáma-Veda, 1. 141.

³ Bhadram, progeny, cattle, dwelling, as by the text, prajá, vai, bhadram, pasavo bhadram, griham bhadram iti.

⁴ Devasya savituh save: the last is explained by the scholiast anujnáyám satyám, his will or assent existing: Aditi is said to mean here bhúmi, the earth.

⁵ Viswadevam, as by the text, Tamhi sarvátmatwád Indram, Mitram, Varuņam, Agnim áhuh, they have verily called him Indra, &c., from his identity with all.

Varga XXVI.

SÚKTA XI. (LXXXIII.)

The deity is PARJANYA; the Rishi BHAUMA; the metre of the first six verses is Trishtubh, of the ninth Anushtubh, of the rest Jagati.

1. I address the mighty PARJANYA¹ who is present: praise him with these hymns; worship him with reverence, him who is the thunderer, the showerer, the bountiful, who impregnates the plants with rain.

2. He strikes down the trees, he destroys the $R\acute{a}kshasas$, he terrifies the whole world by his mighty weapon: even the innocent man flies from the sender of rain, when PARJANYA, thundering, slays the wicked.

3. As a charioteer, urging his horses with his whip, brings into view the messenger (of war),² so PAR-JANYA, (driving the clouds before him), makes manifest the messengers of the rain: the roaring of the lion-(like cloud) proclaims from afar that PARJANYA overspreads the sky with rainy clouds.

4. The winds blow strong, the lightnings flash, the plants spring up, the firmament dissolves: earth becomes (fit) for all creatures when PARJANYA fertilizes the soil with showers.

5. Do thou, PARJANYA, through whose function the earth is bowed down; through whose function hoofed cattle thrive; through whose function plants assume all kinds of forms, grant us great felicity.

² The text has only $d\acute{u}t\acute{a}n$, which the scholiast interprets bhatán, warriors.

VargaXXVII.

¹ Parjanya is Indra in his character of the sender of rain: Sáyaṇa cites Yásha, Nirukta, 10. 10., for various fanciful etymologies, as par, derived from trip, to satisfy, by reversing the final consonant of the latter, and rejecting its initial, janya may imply either victor, jetá, or generator, janayitá, or impeller, prárjayitá, of fluids, rasánám: the usual Unádi derivation is quite as probable, which refers it to vrish, to rain, p being substituted for v, ri becoming the guna, ar, and sh being changed to j, anya is the affix.

6. Send down for us, MARUTS the rain from heaven: drops of the rainy charger descend:¹ come down PAR-JANYA, sprinkling water by this thundering (cloud); thou who art the sender of rain, our protector.

7. Cry aloud over (the earth); thunder; impregnate the plants; traverse (the sky) with thy waterladen chariot, draw open the tight-fastened, downwardturned water bag, and may the high and low places be made level.

8. Raise on high the mighty sheath (of rain), pour down (its contents); let the rivers flow unimpeded to the east; saturate with water both heaven and earth, and let there be abundant beverage for the kine.

9. When, PARJANYA, sounding loud and thundering, thou destroyest the wicked (clouds),² this whole (world) rejoices, and all that is upon the earth.

10. Thou hast rained: now check well the rain: thou hast made the deserts capable of being crossed: thou hast given birth to plans for (man's) enjoyment: verily thou hast obtained laudation from the people.

Sύκτα XII. (LXXXIV.)

The deity is PRITHIVÍ; the Rishi BHAUMA; the metre Anushtubh.

thou art she who delightest the earth by thy greatness.

2. Wanderer in various ways thy worshippers hymn thee with (sacred) songs; thee who, brighthued, tossest the swollen (cloud) like a neighing horse.

3. Thou who, with solid earth, sustainest by thy strength the forest lords, when the showers of thy cloud fall from the shining sky.

SÚKTA XIII. (LXXXV.)

The deity is VARUNA; the Rishi ATRI; the metre Trishtubh.

1. Offer a solemn, profound, and acceptable prayer to the imperial and renowned VARUNA, who has spread the firmament as a bed for the sun,¹ as the immolator (spreads) the skin of the victim.

2. He has extended the firmament over the tops of the trees, has given strength to horses, milk to cows, determination to the heart: he has placed fire in the waters,² the sun in heaven, the Soma-plant in the mountain.³

3. VARUNA has set free the (water of the) downward opening cloud for the (benefit of the) heaven, the earth, and the firmament; thence is he monarch meaning, and apply also to the antariksham, or firmament, when the subsequent phrases, parvatánám khidram bibharshi, will mean, thou sustainest the fracture, or opening of the clouds, and mahná jinoshi bhúmim, thou delightest the earth with great or abundant rain.

² Either the lightning amidst the rain, or the submarine fire: the Fajush, 4. 31., reads vihshu for apsu, he placed in people, or human beings, digestive fire.

of all the world, watering the soil as the rain bedews the barley.¹

4. VARUNA waters earth, mid-air, and heaven, when he pleases (to send forth) the milk (of the cloud): thereupon the mountains clothe (their summits) with the rain-cloud, and the hero, (MARUTS), exulting in their strength, compel (the clouds) to relax.

5. I proclaim this great device of the renowned VARUNA, the destroyer of the Asuras, who, abiding in the mid-heaven, has meted the firmament by the sun, as if by a measure.

6. No one has counteracted the device of the most sagacious divinity, whereby the lucid water-shedding rivers do not fill the ocean with water.²

7. If, VARUNA, we have ever committed an offence against a benefactor, a friend,³ a companion, a brother, a near neighbour, or VARUNA, a dumb man⁴ remove it from us.

¹ Yavam na vrishtir, vyunatti bhúma: Sáyana is disposed to render vrishti by sehtá, the sprinkler, the man, pumán, who waters the soil, but this does not seem necessary, and it is not so explained in the Nirukta, 10. 4.

² But these wonderful acts, according to Sáyaṇa, are not the acts of Varuṇa, but of Parameşwara, the Supreme Being, from his existing in the forms of Varuṇa and others, harma Parameṣwarasyaiva uchitam na Varuṇasya, tasya Varunádirúpárasthánát.

³ Aryamyam mitryam vá, according to Sáyana, are the same as Aryaman and Mitra, the final ya being pleonastic; the first he explains by dátri, a giver, or by guru, a spiritual preceptor. 4 Varunáranam vá: the Pada separates the word into Varuna and Aranam: the meaning of the latter is somewhat uncertain: Sáyana explains it as aşabdam, not having sound or speech, or as adátáram, not giving, niggardly; but neither is quite satisfactory.

8. If, like gamesters, who cheat at play, (we commit offences) knowingly, or (those) of which we know not, do thou, divine VARUNA, extricate us from them all, as if from loosened (bonds), so that we may be dear, VARUNA, to thee.

SUKTA XIV. (LXXXVI.)

The deities are INDRA and AGNI; the Rishi is ATRI; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Virút-púrvá.

1. INDRA and AGNI, the mortal whom you both protect scatters the substantial treasures (of his enemies), as TRITA (confutes) the words (of his opponents).¹

2. We invoke the two, INDRA and AGNI, who are irresistible in conflicts, who are renowned in battles, who protect the five (classes of) men.²

3. Overpowering is the might of these two: the bright (lightning) is shining in the hands of MAGHA-VAN, as they go together in one chariot for the (recovery of the) cows, and the destruction of VRITRA.

4. We invoke you both, INDRA and AGNI, for (sending) your chariots to the combat, lords of moveable wealth, all-knowing, most deserving of praise.

5. I adore you, irresistible deities, for (the sake of obtaining) horses: you who are increasing day by day

Varga XXXI.

¹ Vánír-iva Tritah: the comment explains this, Trita rishi prativádavákyáni prabhinotti, as the Rishi Trita breaks or refutes controversial arguments; or Trita may mean Agni, who, in the three regions, disregards or dissipates reproaches.

² Pancha charshanih: this precludes all allusion to mythological beings.

like mortals, who are worthy of worship, like two *Adityas.*¹

6. The invigorating oblation has been offered, like the Soma-juice expressed by the sounding stones:² do you bestow food upon the pious; great riches upon those who praise you; bestow food also upon those who praise you.

SÚKTA XV. (LXXXVII.)

The deities are the MARUTS; the Rishi is EVAYÁMARUT, of the race of ATRI; the metre is Atijagati.

1. May the voice-born praises of EVAYÁMARUT reach you, VISHNU, attended by the MARUTS:³ (may they reach) the strong, the adorable, the brilliantlyadorned, the vigorous, praise-loving, cloud-scattering, quick-moving company of the MARUTS.

2. EVAYÁMARUT glorifies those who are manifested with the great (INDRA), who appear spontaneously and speedily with the knowledge (that the sacrifice is prepared): your strength in action, MARUTS, is not to be resisted, (though qualified) by (your) infinite liberality: you are immoveable as mountains.

3. EVAYÁMARUT glorifies with praise those who, (coming) brilliant and happy from the vast heaven, hear (his invocation); in whose dwelling there is no one able to disturb them,¹ and who, like self-radiant fires, are the impellers of the rivers.²

4. That wide-spreading troop (of MARUTS) has issued from a spacious common dwelling-place, (where) EVAYÁMARUT (awaits them) when their car has been spontaneously harnessed with its rapid horses; and, emulous, vigorous, and conferring happiness, they sally forth.

5. Let not the sound (of your approach, MARUTS), which is mighty, the announcer of rain, the shedder of light, diffusive, loud, alarm EVAYAMARUT: that sound wherewith, overcoming (your foes), you who are self-irradiating, lasting-rayed, ornamented with golden ornaments, self-weaponed, bestowing food, accomplish your functions.

6. Possessors of vast strength, may your unbounded greatness, your brilliant vigour, protect EVAYÁMARUT; for you are regulators for overseeing (what is fit for) the limits of the sacrifice: preserve us from those who revile us, you, who are like blazing fires.

7. May those RUDRAS, the objects of worship, like resplendent fires, protect EVAYÁMARUT: they, whose ethereal dwelling, extended and wide, has been made illustrious (by them), and of whom, exempt from blame, the mighty energies (are manifested) in their courses.

8. MARUTS, devoid of enmity, come to our proffered praise, hear the invocation of your adorer, EVAYÁ- Varga XXXIII.

¹ Na yeshám irí sadhasthe íshte is explained by Sáyana, Marutám swahíye niváse tishtatám preritá na íshte na ísate chalayitum, there is no impeller who has power to cause the movement of the Maruts when abiding in their own abode.

² That is, the lightning, as associated with rain, may be considered as giving impulse to the rivers.

MARUT: do you, who are associated in the worship of VISHNU,¹ drive away, as warriors (scatter their enemies), our secret foes.

9. Adorable MARUTS come to our sacrifice, so that it may be prosperous: hear, undeterred by $R\acute{a}kshasas$, the invocation of EVAYÁMARUT: abiding like lofty mountains in mid-heaven, do you, who are profoundly wise, be ever intolerant of the reviler.²

MANDALA VI.

ANUVÁKA I.

Súкта I. (I.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi is BHARADWÁJA, son of BRI-HASPATI, who is the Rishi of nearly the entire Mandala; the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga XXXIV.

1. Thou, AGNI, art the first of the gods; a deity

¹ Indra, it is said, is here again meant.

² This Súkta is more than ordinarily obscure, abounding in unusual words, and unconnected and ungrammatical constructions: thus the name of the Rishi, Evayámarut, remains unaltered in its case termination, whatever may be its syntactical connection with the rest of the sentence: this possibly has led Professor Benfey to regard it as an epithet of the Maruts in the vocative singular, and to translate it sturmvoll Marut, but this would not get quit of the grammatical incompatibility, as the Maruts are always designated in the plural, except when spoken of as a gana, a troop or company; moreover, there is no authority for giving to Evayá the sense of stormy: Sáyana is sufficiently to whom their minds are devoted;¹ pleasing of aspect, thou art the invoker of the deities at this rite: showerer (of benefits), bestow upon us unsurpassable strength, wherewith to sustain all (hostile) provess.

2. Offerer of the oblation, frequent celebrator of sacrifice, now sit down on the foot-mark of ILÁ, accepting the (sacrificial) food, and being glorified: devout men, expectant of great riches, have recourse to thee as to the first (of the gods).

3. Those who are assiduous in (worshipping) thee for riches follow thee, going with many VASUS by the path (of the firmament); thee, the radiant AGNI, of goodly aspect, mighty, fed with burnt-offerings, and blazing every day.

4. Men desirous of food obtain abundance unopposed when repairing to the station of the divinity with oblations; and when delighting, AGNI, in thy auspicious presence, they repeat those thy names which are to be uttered at sacrifices.²

explicit, and he only follows the Anakramani, Súktam Evayámarudákhyasya átreyasya muner-ársham, the Sákta has for its Rishi the muni of the race of Atri, who is named Evayámarut.

² Námáni chid dadhire yajniyáni, that is, such appellations as Játavedas, Vaisvánara, and the like; or námáni, it is said, may mean hymns, the materials or means of adoration, stotráni namanasádhanáni. 5. Men exalt thee upon earth: they exalt thee for both kinds of affluence, (cattle and treasure, which thou bestowest upon) men:¹ thou who extricatest (us from evil) art to be known as our preserver, as the unfailing father and mother of mankind.

6. AGNI, who is adorable, affectionate, the offerer of oblations amongst men, the giver of delight, the celebrator of worship, has sat down (upon the altar): let us approach thee, kindled in our dwellings, on bended knees, with praise.

7. Intelligent, hoping for happiness, and devout, we glorify thee, adorable AGNI: do thou, shining with exceeding lustre, lead men to heaven.

8. (We glorify) the lord of men,² of ever-existing men; the wise, the destroyer (of foes), the showerer (of benefits) on mankind, the moving, the bestower of food, the purifier, the resplendent, AGNI, who is worshipped for (the sake of) riches.

9. The man, AGNI, who worships thee, who praises thee, who offers oblations to thee with kindled fuel, who presents burnt-offerings to thee with prostrations, he verily, protected by thee, obtains all desired wealth.

10. To thee, mighty AGNI, we offer exceeding adoration with prostrations, with fuel, with oblations: (we glorify thee) on the altar, son of strength, with hymns and with prayers: may we be successful in our efforts (to gain) thy auspicious favour.

¹ Janánám may also mean, for the gift of men, that is, of male posterity.

² Vispatim visám sasvatínám: the cpithet is explained nityánám ritu: gyajamánalakshanánám, constant, characterizing priests and their employers, implying, perhaps, their regular and perpetual observance of religious institutes.

11. Do thou, AGNI, who hast spread heaven and earth with light, who art the preserver (of man), and (who art) to be glorified with praises, shine brightly upon us with abundant food, and with substantial riches.

12. Possessor of wealth, bestow upon us at all times opulence conjoined with dependants, and (grant) abundance of cattle to our sons and grandsons: may there be to us abundant food, satisfying our wishes, and free from blame; and may there be auspicious and reputable (means of subsistence).

13. Royal AGNI, may I obtain from thee thy many and various treasures whereby to be enriched; for, AGNI, who art the desired of multitudes, infinite are the riches (aggregated) in thee, fit, monarch, for thy worshipper.

FIFTH ADHYÁYA.

Súкта II. (II.)

The deity is AGN1; the Rishi is BHARADWÁJA; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Sakvarí.

1. Thou alightest, AGNI, like MITRA, upon the oblation offered with the dry fuel: therefore, beholder of all, possessor of riches, thou cherishest us with food and nourishment.

2. Men verily worship thee with sacrifice and with praises: the inoffensive sun, the sender of rain, the beholder of the universe, proceeds to thee.¹

Varga I.

¹ The sun, it is said, at the evening enters into fire, whence it is that the latter is visible throughout the night: the term

3. The offerers of praise, sympathizing in satisfaction, kindle thee the banner of the sacrifice, when man, the descendant of MANU, desiring happiness, invokes thee to the rite.

4. May the mortal prosper who propitiates thee, (his) benefactor, by holy rites: through the protection of thee who art resplendent, he overcomes those who hate him, as if they were mortal sins.¹

5. The mortal who feeds thy consecrated burntoffering with fuel enjoys, AGNI, a dwelling peopled with descendants, and a life of a hundred years.

6. The pure smoke of thee the resplendent spreads through the firmament, matures (in clouds), and thou, the purifier, shinest with radiance like the sun, when propitiated by praise.²

7. Thou art now to be praised amongst the people, for sun, in the text, is $v \dot{a} j in$, he who goes swiftly, and it is an appellative also of fire and wind, as by another text, *agnir*váyuh súryas te vai vájinah, fire, wind, the sun, they verily are vájins.

¹ Sáma-Veda, I. 365, but the reading of the first line is a little different.

² Dyutá twam kripá rochase, thou shinest with light by praise; kripá is of rather doubtful import: it occurs subsequently in the unmistakeable sense of $di\rho ty \dot{a}$, with lustre, as if the word was properly in the nominative krip; Sáyana here explains it by stutyá, by praise, metaphorically, or literally, by that which is able to compel the presence of a deity, abhimukhikarana samarthyá: it occurs in a passage quoted in the Nirukta, 6. 8., where it has apparently the sense of praise; but there is no explanation beyond its derivation from krip, to be able or capable: Mahídhara, Yajush, 17. 10., explains krípá, sámarthyena, díptyá vá, by ability, power, or by lustre.

Varga II.

for thou art our well beloved guest, venerated like an elder in a city,¹ and to be cherished like a son.

8. Thou art manifested in the timber, AGNI, by the act of attrition: thou art the bearer (of the oblation), as a horse (is of his rider): thou art like the circumambient wind: thou art food and dwelling;² thou art like a (new-born) babe, and variable (in movement) as a horse.

9. Thou consumest, AGNI, the unfallen (trees) as an animal (feeds) upon pasture, when, undecaying deity, the flames of thee who art resplendent shear the forests.

10. Thou enterest as the ministrant priest into the habitations of men who wish to perform sacrifice: render them prosperous, benefactor of mankind: be propitiated, ANGIRAS, by the oblation.

11. Divine AGNI, reverenced as a friend, who art abiding in heaven and earth, communicate our praise to the gods: conduct the offerer of adoration to domestic felicity; and may we overcome our adversaries, our iniquities, our difficulties: may we overcome those³ (sins

² Swadhá gayah are rendered annam griham cha: there is no verb, but the scholiast supplies bhavasi, thou art.

³ The text has tá tarema, may we cross over those, which Sáyana interprets janmántarahritáni pápáni.

VOL. III.

¹ Ranvah puríva júryah, súnur na trayayáyyah: the first part is interpreted nagaryám vriddho hitopadeshtá. rájá iva ramaníyah, to be had recourse to as to an old Raja giving good council in a city: the second half, putra iva pálaníyah, to be cherished like a son; or trayayáyya may be explained, endowed with three merits, learning, penance, devotion; or one having had three births, the natural, investiture with the sacred string, and initiation or preparation for sacred rites, díkshá.

of a prior existence); may we overcome them by thy protection.

Súkta III. (III.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh.

Varga III.

1. The offerer of sacrifice, born for religious rites, who lives devoted, AGNI, to thee, obtains abundant light, and is a man whom thou, sympathizing in satisfaction with MITRA and VARUNA, protectest by thy shield¹ from iniquity.

2. He who has presented (oblations) to AGNI, the possessor of desired (wealth), sacrifices with (all) sacrifices, and is sanctified by (all) holy acts: him, the want of excellent (posterity) does not afflict, nor does sin or pride affect such a mortal.

3. When the fearful flames of thee, whose appearance is (as) faultless as (that of) the sun, spread on every side as (if they were) the lowing heifers of the night,² then this AGNI, the asylum of all, generated in the woods, is everywhere beautiful.

4. Sharp is his path, and his vast body shines like a horse champing fodder with his mouth, darting forth his tongue like a hatchet, and burning timber to ashes, like a goldsmith who fuses (metal).³

³ Dravir na drávayati dáru dhakshat, is, literally, as a

¹ Tyajasá, which is explained, tyájanasádhanena áyudhena, by a weapon which is the instrument of causing abandonment or escape.

² Heshaswatah surudho na ayam ahtoh kutrachid ranvah, is not very intelligible: according to Sáyana, surudhah means obstructors, or removers of sorrow, i. e. cows, sokasya rodhayitrír gáh; ahtu, night, he considers put for night-walkers, Rúhshasas rákshasádehsvabhútú dadáti, she, night, gives them their properties, is understood; ranvah is an epithet of ayam, this, Agni, ramaníya, agreeable, beautiful.

5. He casts (afar his flames) as an archer (his arrows), and sharpens when about to dart his radiance, as (a warrior whets) the edge of his iron (weapons),¹ he who, variously moving, passes through the night, like the light-falling foot of a bird perched upon a tree.

6. Like the adorable sun, he clothes himself with brilliant (rays): diffusing friendly light, he crackles with (his flame): (he it is) who is luminous by night, and who lights men (to their work) by day; who is immortal and radiant; who lights men by day,

7. Of whom a sound is heard when scattering his rays like (that) of the sun: the brilliant showerer (of benefits) elamours among the (burning) plants: he who, moving not with a shifting, variable motion, but, humbling (our foes), fills the well-wedded earth and heaven with wealth.²

8. He who (goes) with sacred (rays), as if with self-harnessed, well-governed (steeds), who shines like lightning with his own seorching (flames), who immelter causes to melt, he burns the timber; or, as Sáyana explains it, yathá swarnahárah swarnádiham drávayati tathágnir vanam bhasmasát harotí, as a goldsmith fuses gold and the rest, so Agni reduces the wood to ashes: perhaps something more than simple fusion of metals is implied: the alchemical calcining or permutation of them would be more analogous to the burning of timber, or its reduction to ashes.

¹ Ayaso na dhárám : ayas has here the force of the Latin ferrum.

² Á rodasi vasuná supatní, sobhanapatike dyává prithivyau dhanena púrayati is the amplification of the comment, he fills with wealth heaven and earth, both having a brilliant husband or lord : who that is, is not specified, unless it be Agni or Indra. Varga IV.

pairs the vigour of the MARUTS, he glows radiant and rapid as the-wide-shining sun.¹

Súkta IV. (IV.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga V.

1. Son of strength, invoker (of the gods), in like manner as at the worship of the gods by MANU thou didst offer worship with sacrifices, so now, AGNI, with willing mind, worship for us the assenting deities, regarding them as thy equals.

2. May that AGNI, who, like the illuminator of the day, is resplendent and cognisable (by all), grant us commendable food; he who is the life of all, immortal, who knows all that exists, who is our guest, waking amongst men at dawn.

3. Whose great deeds his worshippers now celebrate, who is clothed with light, radiant as the sun, exempt from decay, the purifier, he illumes (all things), and destroys the ancient cities of the dispersed (evil beings).²

4. Son of strength, thou art to be praised: AGNI, sitting upon the (sacrificial) viands, has given (to his worshippers), from their birth, habitation and food: giver of strength, bestow strength upon us: triumph like a prince, so that thou mayest abide in our unassailed (dwelling).

5. He who whets his (gloom)-dispersing (radiance), who eats the (offered) oblation, a sovereign like VAYU, overcomes the nights: may we prevail (over him) who is not a donor of the oblations that are due, (ΛGNI) , to thee, and do thou, (swift) as a horse, be the destroyer of the foes assailing (us).

6. Thou overspreadest, AGNI, heaven and carth with radiance, like the sun with his lustrous rays: the wonderful AGNI disperses the glooms like the adored (sun) moving on his path, imbued with light.

7. We celebrate thee, who art most adorable, with sacred praises:¹ hear, AGNI, our laudation: the leaders (of rites) earnestly honour thee with offerings, thee who art divine like INDRA, and like VÁYU in strength.

8. Quickly conduct us, AGNI, by unmolested paths, to riches and prosperity: (convey us) beyond sin: those delights which thou givest to thine adorers (extend) to him who (now) glorifies thee, and may we, living for a hundred winters, and blessed with excellent posterity, be happy.

SUKTA V. (V.)

The Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. I invoke thee, AGNI, the son of strength, the youthful, the irreproachable, the very young; thee who art wise, the sought of many, the merciful, who bestowest treasures acceptable to all.

1 Arhasokaih, prasasyair diptiharanaih stotraih, with excellent illustrating praises, or it may be an epithet of Agni with yuhta understood, endowed with, or possessed of, excellent radiance; prasasyair diptibhir yuhtam agnim: Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, 33. 13., explains it arhavat suchante, which shine like the sun; and hence arhasokaih means, he says, mantraih, with prayers. Varga VII.

Varga VI.

2. Bright-blazing AGNI, invoker of the gods, to thee the adorable deities¹ have appropriated, by night and day, the riches (of the oblation): they have deposited in the purifier (AGNI) all good things, as they have placed all beings upon earth.

3. Thou abidest from of old in these people, and by thy deeds hast been (to them) the conveyer of good things; thence, sage JÁTAVEDAS, thou bestowest continually wealth upon the sacrificer.

4. Do thou, protector of (thy) friends, who art most resplendent, blazing with radiance, consume with thine own imperishable flames him who injures us abiding in secret, or when near to us designs us harm.

5. He who propitiates thee, son of strength, with sacrifice, with fuel, with prayers, with praises, shines immortal amongst men, eminent in wisdom and possessed of splendid opulence and (abundant) food.

6. Accomplish quickly, AGNI, that for which thou art solicited: endowed with strength, oppose by strength our adversaries: be pleased, thou who art anointed with radiance, by the loud voeiferation of thy worshipper, by whom thou art adored with hymns.

7. May we obtain through thy protection, AGNI, that which we desire: giver of riches, may we obtain of thee riches and descendants: desiring food, may we obtain food: may we obtain, imperishable AGNI, imperishable fame (through thee).²

² Yajur-Veda, 18. 74.

Súkta VI. (VI.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. He who is desirous of food has recourse with a new sacrifice, approachable son of strength, (AGNI), to thee, the consumer of forests, the dark-pathed, the bright-shining, the ministrant (to the gods) of (sacrificial) food, the divine;

2. (Thee who art) white-hued, vociferous, abiding in the firmament, (associated) with the imperishable, resounding (winds), the youngest (of the gods), AGNI, who, purifying and most vast, proceeds, feeding upon numerous and substantial (forests).

3. Pure AGNI, thy bright flames, fanned by the wind, spread wide in every direction, consuming abundant (fuel); divine, fresh-rising, they play upon the woods, enveloping them in lustre.

4. Resplendent AGNI, thy bright rays, horses let loose (from the rein), shear the earth;¹ thy (band of flame), mounting above the high-lands of the many-tinted (earth),² blazes fiercely.

5. The flame of the showerer, (AGNI), repeatedly descends like the hurled thunderbolt of the rescuer of the cattle: like the prowess of a hero is the destroying (energy) of AGNI: irresistible and fearful, he consumes the forests.

6. Thou overspreadest the accessible places of the earth with light by the energy of thy powerful, exciting (influence): do thou disperse all perils, and, baffling (our) adversaries by thy mighty (powers), destroy (our) foes.

7. Wonderful AGNI, of wonderful strength, bestower of delight, grant to us, and to him who praises thee with gratifying (praises), wonderful, most wonderful riches, conferring fame, supplying food, comprehending male descendants, delectable and infinite.¹

SÚKTA VII. (VII.)

AGNI as VAISWÁNARA is the deity; the Rishi is as before; the metre of the two last stanzas is Jagati, of the rest Trishtubh.

Varga IX,

1. The gods have generated VAISWÁNARA,² AGNI, as the brow of heaven, the unceasing pervader of earth, born for (the celebration of) sacrifice, wise, imperial, the guest of men, in whose mouth (is) the vessel (that conveys the oblation to the gods).³

2. (The worshippers) glorify together, (AGNI), the bond of sacrifices,⁴ the abode of riches, the great

² Devá may also be applied to the priests who generate Agni by attrition: Vaiswánara is variously explained, but it most usually implies, what or who belongs to, or is beneficial to, all (viswa) men (narah).

³ Sáma-Veda, 1. 67, 11. 490; Yajur-Veda, 7. 24.: Mahídhara's explanation is to the same effect as Sáyana's, only more full.

⁴ Nábhim yajnánám: nábhi is here explained nahanam, bandhakam, the connecting link or binding of different religious rites. receptacle of burnt-offerings: the gods generate VAIS-WÁNARA, the conveyer of oblations, the emblem of sacrifice.¹

3. The offerer of (sacrificial) food becomes wise, AGNI, from thee: from thee heroes become the vanquishers of foes: therefore do thou, royal VAISWÁNARA, bestow upon us enviable riches.

4. All the worshippers together praise thee, immortal AGNI, when born like an infant: when thou shinest, VAISWÁNARA, between the parental (heaven and earth), they obtain immortality through thy (sacred) rites.

5. AGNI, VAISWÁNARA, these thy mighty deeds no one can resist: when born on the lap of thy parents,² thou hast stationed the banner of the days on the paths of the firmament.

6. The summits of the firmament are measured by the light of VAISWÁNARA, the manifester of ambrosial (rain): all the regions are overspread (by the vapour) on his brow,³ and the seven gliding (streams) spring from thence like branches.

7. VAISWÁNARA, the performer of sacred acts, is he who made the regions; foreseeing (he has made) the luminaries of heaven, and has spread throughout all worlds; the irresistible guardian (of all), the protector of ambrosial (rain).

² That is, according to the scholiast, in the antarihsha, or firmament.

³ This idea has occurred before: the smoke that rises from sacrificial fires becomes clouds in the atmosphere, whence rain falls and rivers are filled.

Súkta VIII. (VIII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the last verse is Trishtubh, of the rest Jagatí.

Varga X.

1. I commemorate promptly at the holy ceremony the might of the all-pervading JATAVEDAS, the showerer, the radiant: new, pure, and graceful praise issues (from me), like the Soma-juice (from the filter), to AGNI VAISWANARA.

2. That AGNI who, as soon as born in the highest heaven, the protector of sacred rites, protects the pious acts (of men), he has made the manifold firmament: VAISWÁNARA, the performer of good deeds, has attained heaven by his greatness.

3. The friend (of all), the wonderful (AGNI), has upheld heaven and earth: he has hidden darkness within light: he has spread out the two sustaining (worlds, heaven and earth), like two skins: VAISWÁ-NARA comprehends all (creative) energy.

4. The mighty MARUTS have seized upon him on the lap of the waters (in the firmament), and men have acknowledged him as their adorable sovereign: MATA-RIŞWAN, the messenger of the gods, has brought AGNI VAIŞWANARA (hither) from the distant (sphere of the) sun.

5. To those, AGNI, who repeat new (praises) to thee, the object of their worship from age to age, grant riches and famous (posterity): strike down, undecaying sovereign, the sinner with thy blaze like the thunderbolt, as if he were a tree.

6. Grant, AGNI, to us who are affluent in (offerings), wealth that cannot be taken away, that is exempt from decay, and that comprehends excellent male descendants: may we obtain, AGNI VAISWÁNARA, hundreds and thousands of viands through thy protection.

7. Adored AGNI, present in the three worlds, protect thy worshippers with thine irresistible protections, preserve the strength of us who offer (oblations): glorified (by us), AGNI VAISWÁNARA, transport us (beyond evil).

SÚKTA IX. (IX.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. The dark day and the light day revolve alternate, affecting (the world) by their recognisable (properties). AGNI VAISWÁNARA, manifested like a prince, dispels darkness by his lustre.

2. I understand not the threads (of the warp), nor the threads of the woof, nor that (cloth) which those who are assiduous in united exertion weave: of what (man) may the son declare the words that are to be spoken in the next world, (instructed) by a father abiding below.¹

Varga XI.

¹ The first half of the stanza reads núham tantum na vijánámy-otum, na yam vayanti samare atamánáh, and implies, according to those who know tradition, sampradáyavidah, says Sáyana, a figurative allusion to the mysteries of sacrifice : the threads of the warp, tantu, are the metres of the Vedas, those of the woof, otu, the liturgic prayers and ceremonial, the combination of which two is the cloth, or sacrifice: the átmavidah, or, Vedántis, understand it as alluding to the mysteries of creation, the threads of the warp being the subtile elements, those of the woof the gross, and their combination the universe: either interpretation is sufficiently intelligible, but the former harmonizes best with the character of the Veda: it is less easy to give intelligibility to the second half, kasya swit putra iha vaktwáni, paro vadáti avarena pitrá, and the scholiast does not materially help us: of whom (may) the son (say) in this world the words that are to be said, (which) the subsequent (may say) by the

3. He verily knows the threads of the warp and of the woof, he speaks in due season what is to be said, who comprehends all this (universe); who is the protector of ambrosial water, sojourning both above and below, and contemplating (the world) under a different (manifestation).¹

4. This VAISWÁNARA is the first offerer of burnt-offerings: behold him: this is the light immortal amongst mortals: he has been born in a bodily shape, immoveable, all-pervading, immortal, ever increasing.

5. A steady light, swifter than thought, stationed among moving beings to shew (the way) to happiness:²

father being after or below, is, with a little assistance, the literal translation: Sáyana explains putra by manushya, a man, vaktwáni by vaktavyáni, para by parastát, or amushmin loke varttamáno yah súryah, the sun who is abiding in the other or future world, he being instructed, anusishtah san, by the father abiding below, or in this world, pitrá avastát asmin lohe varttamánena, that is, by Agni Vaiswánara, vaiswánarágnina, as it is elsewhere said, vaiswánarasya putro asau parastád-divi ya sthitah, he is the son of Vaiswánara, who is stationed above, or in heaven: all that may be intended is, that no human being can explain the mysteries of sacrifice, although the sun may be able to do so, having been instructed in them by Agni, his parent or source, the sun being no more than the Agni of heaven: as regards the mysteries of creation, Sáyana explains the passage, no man, however taught by a father born after creation, can rightly know any thing previous to his birth, either in this world or the next.

¹ Or as the sun, whilst upon earth Agni or Vaiswánara is manifest as fire.

² According to the Vedánti view of the text, the light is Brahma, seated spontaneously in the heart as the means of true knowledge, to which all the senses, together with the mind and consciousness, refer, as to the one cause of creation, or Paramátmá, supreme spirit.

all the gods being of one mind, and of like wisdom, proceed respectfully to the presence of the one (chief) agent, (VAISWÁNARA).

6. Mine ears are turned (to hear him), mine eyes (to behold him); this light that is placed in the heart (seeks to know him); my mind, the receptacle of distant (objects), hastens (towards him): what shall I declare (him)? how shall I comprehend him?

7. All the gods, alarmed, venerate thee, AGNI, abiding in darkness: may VAISWÁNARA preserve us with his protection: may the immortal AGNI preserve us with his protection.

Súкта X. (X.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi as before; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Viráj.

1. Place before you at the progressive, uninterrupted sacrifice, the divine, adorable, perfect AGNI, with prayers; for he, the resplendent JATAVEDAS, makes us prosperous in sacred rites.

2. Brilliant, many-rayed AGNI, invoker of the gods, kindled with many fires, (hear) this (praise) of men; which delightful praise, pure as the clarified butter (that has been filtered), his worshippers offer unto him as MAMATÁ (formerly offered it).

3. He thrives in abundance amongst men, who, pious, presents to AGNI (oblations) with prayers: the wonderfully radiant AGNI places him with marvellous protection in the enjoyment of pasturage full of herds of cattle.

4. The dark-pathed, as soon as generated, filled with his afar-seen light the two spacious (worlds):

Varga XII.

he, the purifier, is now beheld dispersing with his radiance the thick glooms of night.

5. Bestow quickly, AGNI, upon us who are affluent (in oblations), wondrous wealth, with abundant viands, and protections, such as enrich other men with wealth, with food, and with male descendants.

6. AGNI, desirous (of the offering), accept this sacrifice, this food which the presenter (of the oblation), sitting down (before thee), offers unto thee: accept the blameless (praises) of the BHARADWÁJA (race), and favour them that they may obtain many sorts of food.

7. Scatter (our) enemies; augment our abundance; and may we, blessed with virtuous male descendants, enjoy happiness for a hundred winters.

Súkta XI. (XI.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XIII.

1. AGNI, invoker of the gods, do thou who art adorable, being instigated by us, worship at our present rite the foe-repelling (troop) of the MARUTS, and bring to our sacrifice MITRA and VARUNA, the NÁSA-TYAS, and Heaven and Earth.

2. Thou art amidst mortals at the celebration (of sacrifice), the invoker of the gods, (thou who art) most deserving of praise, a divinity doing us no harm: the bearer (of the oblation) offers (the gods), AGNI, thine own body with purifying flame as if with their mouth.

3. Praise, solicitous of wealth, is ever addressed, AGNI, to thee, inasmuch as thy manifestation (enables) the worshipper to sacrifice to the gods, when the pious sage, the most earnest adorer amongst the ANGIRASAS, the reciter (of the hymn), repeats at the ceremony the gratifying measure.

4. The brilliant AGNI, mature in wisdom, has shone resplendently: offer worship to the wide-spread heaven and earth, thou whom, well-fed, the five races of men, bearing oblations, propitiate, with (sacrificial) food, as if thou wast a mortal guest.

5. When the holy grass has been cut, (to be presented) to AGNI, with the oblation; when the welltrimmed ladle, filled with butter, has been lifted up; then thy receptacle, (the altar), has been prepared on the surface of the earth, and the sacred rite is had recourse to, as light (concentrates) in the sun.

6. AGNI, many-rayed, invoker of the gods, blazing with brilliant fires, bestow upon us riches; and may we, Son of strength, clothing thee with oblations, overcome iniquity (like) a foe.

Súkta XII. (XII.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before

1. AGNI, the invoker of the gods, the lord of sacrifice, abides in the dwelling of the institutor of the rite,¹ to offer sacrifice to heaven and earth: he, the Son of strength, the observer of truth, has overspread (the world) from afar, like the sun, with light.

2. Adorable and resplendent AGNI, to whom, mature in wisdom, the worshipper offers oblations at every sacred rite, do thou, who art present in the three (worlds), move with the speed of the traverser Varga XIV.

¹ Todasya, from tud, to torment or distress, he who is distressed by ascetic devotion, tapasá pídyate, that is, the yajamána.

(of the sky, the sun), to convey the valuable oblations of men (to the gods).

3. He, whose pure and spreading flame blazes in the forest, shines with increasing intensity, like the sun¹ on his (celestial) path: rushing like the innoxious (wind)² amongst the plants, immortal, unimpeded, he lights up (all things) by his own (lustre).

4. AGNI, who knows all that exists, is propitiated in our dwelling by our praises, like those gratifying (commendations which proceed) from one soliciting (a favour):³ feeder upon trees, consumer of forests, impetuous in act as the bull, the (progenitor of calves), he is glorified by the celebration of sacrifices.

5. They glorify his flames in this world: when, easily thinning the woods, they spread over the earth: he, who glides along unarrested, and rapid in movement as a fast flying thief, shines over the desert.

6. Quick-moving AGNI, kindled with all (thy) fires, (guard) us from reproach: thou bestowest riches, thou scatterest adversaries: may we, blessed with excellent male descendants, enjoy happiness for a hundred winters.

¹ Todo adhvan na: here toda is said to signify the sun as the sarvasya preraka, the urger, impeller, or animator of all.

² Adrogho na may also mean, according to Sáyana, as of one not liable to be oppressed or harmed, adrogdhavya, or it may imply the vital air, the non-injurer, the sustainer of all, prána rúpena sarveshám adrogdhá, that is, the wind, váyuh.

³ Etarí na: etari is explained gantari, a goer; yáchamane purushe vidyamánáni stotráni yathá atyantam suhhakaráni like praises which being present in a man soliciting, going, or applying to another, are the yielders of very great pleasure.

SÚKTA XIII. (XIII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Auspicious AGNI, all good things proceed from thee, like branches (from the trunk) of a tree, renowned riches, vigour for the destruction of foes, the rain of heaven: thou art to be glorified, the sender of the waters.

2. Do thou, who art adorable,¹ bestow upon us precious wealth: beautiful with radiance, thou passest (around) like the circumambient (wind): thou, divine AGNI, art like MITRA, the giver of abundant water and ample wealth.

3. That man, the protector of the virtuous, destroys, AGNI, his enemy by his strength, and baffles, intelligent, the might of (the Asura) PANI, whom thou, the wise, the parent of sacrifice, consentient with the grandson of the waters,² encouragest (in the hope) of riches.

4. The mortal who by praise, by prayers, by sacrifices, attracts, Son of strength, thy heightened (radiance) to the altar, enjoys all-sufficiency and corn, and abounds in wealth.

5. Grant, Son of strength, to men (who praise thee), those abundant viands and excellent descendants, (that may contribute) to their prosperity: grant also that copious sustenance from cattle, which by thy Varga XV.

¹ Twam Bhago na might be rendered, thou like Bhaga; but the scholiast makes the first an adjective, bhajaniya, to be worshipped or propitiated, and considers na as nas, us.

² Sajoshá naptrápám, the grandson of the waters is said here to mean the lightning, vidyutágniná sangatas-twam, thou associated with the lightning-fire.

strength thou takest away from a churlish and malignant adversary.

6. AGNI, Son of strength, do thou who art mighty be our councillor: give us sons and grandsons, together with food: may I, by all my praises, obtain the fulfilment of my desires: may we, blessed with excellent male descendants, enjoy happiness for a hundred winters.

SÚKTA XIV. (XIV.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Anushtubh, except in the last verse, in which it is Sakvarí.

Varga XVI.

1. May the mortal who propitiates AGNI by devotion and worship, together with praises, quickly become distinguished as first (amongst men), and acquire ample food for the support (of his children).

2. AGNI verily is most wise; he is the chief performer of religious rites, a holy sage: the progeny of men glorify AGNI as the invoker of the gods at sacrifices.

3. The manifold treasures of the enemy (detached from them) are emulous, AGNI, for the preservation (of thy worshippers): men who worship thee, triumphing over the spoiler, seek to shame him who celebrates no sacred rite by (their) observances.

4. AGNI bestows (upon his worshippers) a male descendant, (the performer of good) works, the subduer of foes, the protector of the virtuous, at whose appearance his enemies tremble through fear of his prowess.

5. The mighty and divine AGNI, endowed with knowledge, protects the mortal from reproach whose rich (offerings) are unobstructed (by evil spirits), and unshared by other (offerers) at sacrifices.

402

6. Divine AGNI, revered as a friend, who, abiding in heaven and earth, communicates our praise to the gods, conduct the offerer of adoration to domestic felicity, and may we overcome our adversaries, our iniquities, our difficulties: may we overcome them by thy protection.¹

SUKTA XV. (XV.)

The deity is AGNI; the Rishi either VíTAHAVYA, of the family of ANGIRAS, or BHARADWÁJA, as before; the metre varies; that of the first, second, fourth, fifth, seventh, eighth, and ninth stanzas is Jagati; of the third and fifteenth, Sakvari; of the sixth, Atisakvari; of the seventeenth, Anushtubh; of the tenth and following four, and of the sixteenth and nineteenth, Trishtubh.

1. Propitiate by praises this guest who wakes at dawn, the cherisher of all people, who on every occasion descends, pure of origin, from heaven, and, present as the embryo (in the wood of attrition), consumes immediately the offered (oblation).

Varga XVII.

2. Wonderful AGNI, whom, adorable and upward flaming, the BHRIGUS regard as a friend, deposited in the wood of (attrition), be pleased with VíTAHAVYA,² since thou art glorified by (his) praise every day.

3. Do thou, who art unresisted, become the benefactor of him who is skilled (in sacred rites), his defender against a near or distant enemy: Son of strength, who art ever renowned, grant wealth and a dwelling to Vítahavya, the offerer of the oblation.³

¹ This is the same passage as occurs in Sikta 111. v. 11, see p. 385.

² If applied to Bharadwája this will be an appellative, he by whom oblations are offered.

³ Vítahavyáya bharadwájáya, either of these may be taken as the name or the epithet; to Vítahavya, the bearer, bharat, of

4. Propitiate with pious praises the radiant AGNI, your guest, the guide to heaven, the invoker of the gods (at the sacrifice) of MANU, the celebrator of holy rites, the speaker of brilliant words like a learned sage, the bearer of oblations (to the gods), the lord, the divine.

5. (Propitiate him) who shines upon the earth with purifying and enlightening lustre, as the dawns with light; him, who like (a warrior) discomfiting (his foes) quickly blazed forth in the contest in defence of ETASA;¹ him, who is satiated (with food), exempt from deeay.

Varga XVIII.

6. Worship repeatedly the adorable AGNI with fuel; (him) who is ever your dear friend, your guest: approach the immortal AGNI with praises, for he, a god among gods, accepts our homage.

7. I glorify with praise the kindled AGNI, pure, purifying, permanent, (placed) before (us) at the sacrifice: let us celebrate with pleasant (hymns) the wise AGNI, the invoker of the gods, the adored of many, the benevolent, the far-seeing, him who knows all that exists.

8. Thee, AGNI, have gods and men in every age retained as their messenger, immortal bearer of oblations, beneficent, adorable: they have placed him with reverence (upon the altar), vigilant, pervading, the protector of mankind.

9. Showing grace, AGNI, to both (gods and men), the oblation, vája, or to Bharadwája, by whom is offered, víta, the oblation, harya.

¹ See vol. I. p. 165, verse 15: Mahidhara, Yajush, 17. 10., explains etaşa by its other meaning, a horse, but his interpretation of the passage is not very distinct.

and at each sacred rite the messenger of the gods, thou traversest earth and heaven: inasmuch as we offer thee worship and praise, therefore do thou, who art the guardian of the three (regions), be auspicious to us.¹

10. We of little wisdom adore the most wise AGNI, the well-formed, the well-looking, the graceful-moving: may AGNI, who knows all things that are to be known, offer the sacrifice: may he announce the oblation to the immortals.

11. Thou cherishest, thou protectest, AGNI, that man who offers worship, hero, to thee, the far-seeing: thou rewardest with strength and with riches him (who undertakes) the institution, (who effects) the accomplishment, of the saerifice.²

12. Protect us, AGNI, from the malignant, preserve us, mighty one, from wickedness: may the offering come to thee free from defects; may desirable riches, by thousands, (reach us).

13. AGNI is the invoker of the gods, the lord of the house, the ruler, who knows all that is, knows all existing beings; he is the most assiduous worshipper amongst gods or men: let him who is observant of truth offer worship.

14. AGNI, minister of the sacrifice, bright with purifying lustre, approve of that (worship) which is Varga XIX.

¹ This and the two preceding stanzas occur in the Sáma-Veda, 11. 917–919.

² Yajnasya vá nisitim vá uditím vá: the first is explained by Sáyana, sanshára, perfection, accomplishment; the second, udgamanam, going up or over, perhaps, finishing: the relation of either to yajna is questionable, as they are both separated from it by the disjunctive, vá, or.

this day celebrated by the institutor of the rite: thou verily art the sacrificer, therefore address the worship (to the gods); and since by thy greatness thou art all-pervading, therefore, youngest (of the gods), accept the oblations which are to-day (presented) to thee.

15. Look, AGNI, upon the (sacrificial) viands duly deposited (upon the altar): Heaven and Earth detain thee to sacrifice (to the gods): opulent AGNI, protect us in battle, whereby we may pass safe over all evils: may we pass over those of a prior existence; may we pass over them by thy protection.¹

Varga XX.

16. Bright-rayed AGNI, sit down first with all the gods, upon the altar lined with wool, a nest (of perfumes) and suffused with ghi,² and rightly convey (to the deities) the sacrifice of the institutor of the rite, of the presenter of the oblation.³

17. The priests churn thee, AGNI, as was done by ATHARVAN, and bring him from the glooms of night, wandering deviously, but not bewildered.⁴

² Urnávantam, kutáyinam ghritavantam: the stanza is quoted in the Aitareya Bráhmana, with a partial explanation, which is amplified by Sáyana: the altar is built up like the nest of a bird, huláya, with circles, paridhayah, of the wood of the khayar or devadáru, in which, avisambandah romaviseshah, sheep's wool; and fragrant resins, the materials of incense (guggulu dhápasádhanam), are placed, ete uttaravedyám sthápitáh sambháráh, these appurtenances are placed in the northern altar.

⁴ Anhúyantam amúram: the first refers, according to the

18. Be born, AGNI, at the sacrifice, for the welfare of the offerer (of the oblation) to the gods: bring hither the immortal deities, the augmenters of the (sacred) rite: present our sacrifice to the gods.

19. Lord of the house, AGNI, we, amongst men, promote thine increase by fuel: may our domestic fires be supplied with all that is essential:¹ enliven us with brilliant radiance.

ANUVÁKA II.

SUKTA I. (XVI.)

The deity is AGNI, the Rishi BHARADWAJA; the metre is Gáyatrí, modified in the first, sixth, seventh, and eighth verses as Varddhamáná Gáyatrí, and, with the exception of the twenty-seventh, forty-seventh, and forty-eighth verses, in which it is Anushtubh, and of the forty-sixth, in which it is Trishtubh: the Súkta is of unusual length in this part of the Veda.

1. Thou, AGNI, hast been appointed by the gods, the ministrant for men, the descendants of MANU, at all sacrifices.²

Varga XXI.

scholiast, to the legend of Agni's attempting at first to run away from the gods, devebhyah paláyamánam.

¹ Asthúri for asthúríni gárhapatyáni santuisthúri is properly a one-horse car or waggon which brings either the Soma-plant or fuel: with the negative prefix asthúri it implies a non-one-horse cart, that is, a cart with a full team, and, metonymically, its contents, or a full supply of what is wanted for a perfect sacrifice, such as obtains children, cattle, riches, asthuríni, putra pasudhanádibhih sampúrnáni.

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 2., 11. 824.

2. Therefore do thou at our sacrifice offer oblations to the great deities with exhilarating flames: bring hither the gods: offer them worship.¹

3. AGNI, doer of great deeds, creator, thou knowest (how to travel over) with speed (great) roads and (little) paths² at sacrifices.

4. BHARATA,³ with the presenters of the oblation, has joyfully praised thee in thy (twofold capacity),⁴ and has worshipped thee, the adorable, with sacrifices.

5. As thou hast conferred these many blessings upon DIVODÁSA when presenting libations, (so now grant them) to the (actual) offerer, BHARADWÁJA.

6. Hearing the adoration of the sage, do thou, who art the immortal messenger, bring hither the celestial people.

7. Pious mortals invoke thee, divine AGNI, at sacrifices, to convey their (sacrificial) food to the gods.

8. I glorify thy splendour, and the acts of thee the liberal giver: all who, (through thy favour) enjoy their desires, glorify thee.

9. Thou hast been appointed by MANU, the invoker

Varga XXII.

² Adhvanah pathascha are explained severally mahamárgán, great roads, kshudra márgán-scha, little roads or paths; that is, according to Sáyana, put the sacrificer into the right way when he is going wrong in the ceremonial or sacrifice.

³ Sáyaņa considers Bharata here to be the Rájá, the son of Dushyanta.

^{*} In the character of bestowing what is wished for, and removing what is undesired, is twofold; ishta práptyanishtaparihárarúpenágnir dwidhá.

of the gods, the most wise bearer of oblations (to them) by thy mouth: worship, AGNI, the people of heaven.

10. Come, AGNI, to the (sacrificial) food: being lauded, (come) to convey the oblation (to the gods): sit down as the ministrant priest upon the sacred grass.¹

11. We augment thee, ANGIRAS, with fuel and with butter: blaze fiercely, youngest (of the gods).²

12. Divine AGNI, bestow upon us (wealth), excellent, great, and (comprehending) worthy male descendants.³

13. The sage, ATHARVAN, extracted thee from upon the lotus-leaf, the head, the support of the universe.⁴

² Sáma-Veda, 11. 11., Yajur-Veda, 3. 3.

³ Sáma-Vedu, II. 12.: suvira or suviryya always implies having male descendants, bonos viros habens, or bonorum virorum possessio.

4 Twám pushkarád adhi atharvo niramanthata, múrddhno riswasya vághatah: the verse occurs in the Sáma-Veda, 1.9, and the Yajush, 11. 32 .: according to Sáyana, pushkarádadhi means pushharaparne, or the lotus-leaf, as by the text pushkara-parne Prajápatir bhúmim aprathayat, upon the lotus-leaf Prajápati made manifest the earth, which probably suggested one of the accounts of the creation in Manu 1.: hence, as it supported the earth it may be termed the head, múrddhan, or the bearer, vághata for váhaha, of all things: Mahídhara cites a text to shew that atharvan means prána, vital air or life, and pushhara, water, and explains the passage, the vital air extracted fire or animal heat from the water, prána udakasakásád-agnim niseshena mathitaván : to vághata he assigns the usual import of ritvij, ministrant priest, and explains the last sentence, all the priests churned thee out of the head or top of the wood of attrition : he gives also another explanation, which agrees with that of Sáyana.

Varga XXIII.

14. The Rishi, DADHYANCH, the son of ATHARVAN, kindled the slayer of VRITRA, the destroyer of the cities of the Asuras.

15. (The Rishi) PATHYA, the showerer, kindled thee, the destroyer of the Dasyu, the winner of spoil in battle.

16. Come, AGNI, that I may address to thee other praises in this manner:¹ augment with these librations.

17. Wheresoever, and upon whatsoever thy mind is directed, thou bestowest uncommon vigour, and there thou makest thine abode.

18. Let not thy full (blaze) be distressing[•] to the eye,² giver of dwellings to thy humble votaries, and, therefore accept our worship.

19. AGNI, the bearer (of oblations), the destroyer of the enemies of DIVODÁSA, the cognisant of many, the protector of the good, has been brought hither (by our praises).

Varga XXV.

Varga XXIV.

20. Surpassing all earthly things, may he bestow upon us riches, destroying his enemies by his greatness, unresisted, unassailed.

21. Thou hast overspread, AGNI, this vast (firmament) with radiant concentrated lustre, recent like that of old.

¹ Itthetará girah: ittha, anena prakárena, thus, in this manner: itará, other, may mean also, according to Sáyana, offered by others, or by the Asuras, asuraih kritá: in his commentary on the Aitareya Bráhmana, where the verse is cited, 3. 49., he understands it differently, or, other than those offered to the gods, or adverse to the gods, propitiatory of the Asuras, asurebhyah hitáh devaváhyádítará devavirodhinya ityarthah.

² The text has nahi púrttam akshipadbhuvat: akshi-pat, akshno pátakam vináşakam, the offender or destroyer of the eye: the verse occurs Sáma-Veda, 1. 7., 11. 57., and Yajur22. Sing praise and offer sacrifice, my friends, to the foe-discomfiting, the creator, AGNI.

23. May that AGNI indeed sit down (at our sacrifice), who in every age of man has been the invoker of the gods, the doer of wise deeds, the messenger of the gods, the bearer of oblations.

24. Giver of dwellings, worship on this occasion the two regal divinities, MITRA and VARUNA, whose acts are holy, the \underline{A} DITYAS, the company of the MARUTS, and heaven and earth.

25. Son of strength, AGNI, the glorious radiance of thee who art immortal, bestows food upon (thy) mortal worshipper.

26. May the donor (of the oblation), propitiating thee by his acts to day, be exalted, and (rendered) very opulent: may (such) mortal be diligent in (thy) praise.

27. Those, AGNI, who are protected by thee, wishing for the whole (term of) life (obtain it), overcoming hostile assailants, destroying hostile assailants.

28. May AGNI, with his sharp flame, demolish the devourer (of the oblation): may AGNI grant us riches.

29. JÁTAVEDAS, all-beholder, bring us wealth with good posterity: doer of good deeds, destroy the $R\acute{a}k$ -shasas.

30. Preserve us, JÁTAVEDAS, from sin: enunciator of prayer,¹ protect us from the malevolent.

Veda, 26. 13., the preceding verse also occurs in the former 11. 56.

¹ Brahmaņaskave is explained mantrasya şabdayitar, oh sounder or articulator of prayer; for Agni, it is said, generates articulate sound, and the Smriti is cited as authority; manah Varga XXVI.

Varga XXVIII. 412

31. The malevolent mortal who threatens us with murderous weapon, from him defend us, and also from sin.

32. Scatter, divine AGNI, by thy flame, that evildoer, the man who seeks to kill us.

33. Subduer of foes, grant to BHARADWÁJA infinite happiness and desirable wealth.

34. May AGNI, propitiated by praise, desirous of (sacrificial) affluence, kindled, bright, and fed with burnt-offerings, destroy all adversaries,¹

35. Radiant in the embryo of the maternal (earth), on the imperishable (altar); the cherisher of the paternal (heaven),² sitting on the seat of sacrifice.

36. Bring to us, JATAVEDAS, all-beholder, food with progeny; such (food) as is brilliant in heaven.³

37. Strength-begotten AGNI, we, offering (sacrificial) food, address praises to thee who art of pleasing aspect.⁴

38. We have recourse, AGNI, to the shelter of thee, káyágnim áhanti, sa prerayati mánutam, marutas-tu urasi charan, mandram janayati swaram, mind excites the fire of the body, that excites the collective vital airs, and they, passing into the breast, engender agreeable, articulate sound.

² Garbhe mátuh, pitushpitá: here, as before, the mother of Agni is the earth, the father is heaven: Agni is said to be the father or fosterer of his parent heaven, by transmitting to it the flame and smoke of burnt-offerings: also Sáma-Veda, 11. 747.

the lustrous, the golden-feathered, as to the shade (of a tree).¹

39. Thou, AGNI, who art like a fierce archer, or like a sharp-horned bull, hast destroyed the cities (of the Asuras).²

40. (Worship) that AGNI whom (the priests) bear in their hands like a new-born babe; the devourer (of the oblation), the (conveyer of the) holy sacrifices of men.

41. Conduct the divine (AGNI), the bestower of infinite wealth, to (receive charge of) the food of the gods: let him sit down on his appropriate seat.

42. (Welcome him) as soon as born, like a beloved guest, and place the lord of the mansion upon the sacred (altar) whence wisdom is derived.³

43. Harness, divine AGNI, thy well-trained horses, who bear thee quickly to the sacrifice.⁴

1 Sáma-Veda, 11. 1056.

² The scholiast here identifies Agni with Rudra as the destroyer of the cities of Tripura : the identification is authorised by the Vaidik text, Rudro vá esho yad Agnih, also Sáman, 11. 1057.

³ This and the preceding verse are to be recited, it is said, when the fire that has been produced by attrition is applied to kindle the áhavaníya, or fire of burnt-offerings: they are both quoted in the Aitareya Bráhmana, 1. 16., and with Sáyana's gloss to this effect, but some of the terms are differently explained and applied; thus, Ayni is to be considered as the guest, not of the sacrificer, but of the áhavaníya fire, and játavedasi is also applied to the latter, as knowing the birth of the churned fire, to whom it is a giver of delight, syona, sukhakara, by giving him a welcome reception.

44. Come, AGNI, to our presence; bring hither the gods to partake of the (sacrificial) viands, to drink the Soma-juice.

45 Blaze up, AGNI, bearer of oblations: shine, undecaying AGNI, radiant with undecaying lustre.

Varga XXX.

46. Whatever mortal, offering oblations, worships a deity with (sacrificial) food, let him at the ceremony also worship AGNI, the invoker of heaven and earth, the sacrificer with truth; let him adore (AGNI) with uplifted hands.

47. We offer to thee, AGNI, the oblation sanctified by the heart, and (identified) with the sacred verse: may the vigorous bulls and the cows be (as such an oblation) to thee.¹

48. The gods kindle AGNI as the chief (of them); as the especial destroyer of VRITRA; by whom the treasures (of the Asuras) are carried off; by whom the $R\acute{a}kshasas$ are destroyed.

¹ Te te bhavantu uhshana rishabháso vasá uta, may these vigorous bulls or the cows be for thee: the scholiast intimates their being offered to Agni as victims, rishabhavasárúpena parinatam san twadbhakshanáya (havir) bhavatu, let the oblation, matured in the form of bulls or cows, be for thy food.

SÚRTA II. (XVII.) The deity is INDRA; the Rishi BHARADWÁJA; the metre is Trishtubh

1. Fierce INDRA, glorified by us, drink that Soma, (animated) by which thou hast discovered the vast herd of cattle (stolen by the Paņis), and, overcomer of enemies, wielder of the thunderbolt, thou hast slain, by thy strength all opposing foes.

2. Drink it, INDRA, thou who enjoyest the flavourless Soma; thou who art the preserver, the handsomechinned, the showerer (of benefits) on those who praise thee; who art the breaker of mountains, the wielder of the thunderbolt, the curber of steeds, do thou bestow upon us various food.

3. Drink it as of old, and may it exhilarate thee: hear our prayer, and be exalted by our praises; make the sun visible, nourish us with food, destroy our enemies, rescue the cattle.

4. Abounding in food, INDRA, let these exhilarating draughts copiously bedew thee, the resplendent: let the incbriating juices delight thee who art mighty, deficient in no (excellence), powerful, manifold, the overcomer of foes.

5. By which (juices) being exhilarated thou hast appointed the sun and the dawn (to their offices), driving away the solid (glooms): thou hast penetrated, INDRA, the mountain, unmoved from its own seat, concealing the cattle. Varga 1.

Varga II.

6. By thy wisdom, by thy deeds, through thy power, thou hast developed the mature (milk) in the immature (udders), thou hast opened the strong doors for the cattle (to come forth): associated with the Angirasas, thou hast liberated the cows from their fold.

7. Thou hast filled the wide earth, INDRA, with (the fame of) thy deeds: thou, the mighty one, hast propped up the vast heaven: thou hast sustained the heaven and earth, whose children are the gods, (and who are) the old and mighty parents of sacrifice.¹

8. All the gods then placed thee, INDRA, as their mighty chief in front for battle: when the impious (Asuras) assailed the deities: the MARUTS supported INDRA in the conflict.²

9. The heaven bowed down in the two-fold dread of thy thunderbolt, and thy individual wrath, when INDRA, the giver of food, struck to the sleep (of death) the assailing AHI.

10. Fierce INDRA, TWASHTEI constructed for thee, the mighty one, the thousand-edged, the hundredangled thunderbolt, wherewith thou hast crushed the ambitious, audacious, loud-shouting AHI.

12. Thou hast set free the greatly obstructed and arrested water of the rivers, the afflux of the waters: thou hast directed them, INDRA, upon their downward paths: thou hast sent them rapidly down to the ocean.

13. May our new prayer bring to our protection thee, INDRA, who art the maker of all these (things that exist): who art mighty, fierce, undecaying, the giver of strength, having excellent descendants, the MARUTS, well-armed, the bearer of the thunderbolt.

14. Do thou, resplendent INDRA, uphold us who are devout, for (the obtaining of) food, of sustenance, of nourishment, of wealth:² bestow upon BHARADWÁJA pious posterity, with numerous attendants: be with us, INDRA, every future day.

15. May we, by this (praise), obtain food granted by the deity: may we, blessed with excellent male descendants, be happy for a hundred winters.

foes), unharmed by them: exalt with these praises the irresistible, fierce, victorious INDRA, the showerer (of benefits) upon mankind.

2. He is ever the combatant, the donor, the engaged in battle, the sympathizer (with the sacrificer), the benefactor of many, the loud-sounding, the partaker of the stale libration, the stirrer up of dust (in strife), the chief protector of men the descendants of MANU, the endowed with strength.

3. Thou art he who has quickly humbled the Dasyus: thou art the chief one who has given posterity to the Arya: but, INDRA, is not verily thy power such? if it be not, then in due season confess.¹

4. Yet, most mighty one, I believe that power is verily always in thee, who art manifest at many rites, and art the enemy of (our) enemies: (the power) that is fierce in the fierce one, most mighty in the mighty one, most unassailable in the subduer (of foes).

5. May that our ancient friendship with thee ever endure; as when, along with the Angirasas, celebrating thy praises, thou, beautiful INDRA, caster down of the immoveable (rocks), didst verily slay Bala, hurling (his darts against thee), and force open his cities, and all his gates.

Varga V.

6. Fierce INDRA, maker of rulers, thou art he who is to be invoked with praises in a great conflict: thou art he (who is to be invoked) for sons and grandsons, he, the wielder of the thunderbolt, who is to be especially glorified in battles.

418

¹ Not beholding Indra, the scholiast says, the Rishi begins to question his attributes and power: in the succeeding verse he expresses his belief in their existence.

7. With immortal, foe-humiliating might, he has promoted the (multiplied) birth of mankind: he, the chief of leaders, dwells in the same dwelling with fame, with strength, with riches, with heroism.

8. He who is never perplexed, who is no engenderer of that which is in vain, whose name is renowned, who promptly (exerts himself) for the overturning of the cities (of the Asuras), and for the destruction (of his foes): thou, (INDRA), hast indeed slain CHUMURI, DHUNI, PIPRU, SAMBARA, and SUSHNA.¹

9. (Endowed) with upward-rising, foe-thinning, and glorified (vigour), ascend thy car for the destruction of VRITRA: take the thunderbolt in thy right hand, and baffle, giver of wealth, the devices (of the Asuras).

10. In like manner as AGNI consumes the dry forest, so, INDRA, thy weapon (destroys thine enemies): as (formidable as thy) fearful shaft, consume the Rák-shasas: thou who hast crushed them with thy resistless and mighty (weapon), hast shouted aloud (in the combat) and demolished all evil things.

11. Opulent INDRA, Son of strength, the invoked of many, whose union (with energy) the impious is unable to disjoin, come down to us with thousands of riches by very powerful conveyances.²

12. The vastness of the affluent, ancient (INDRA), the demolisher (of foes), exceeds that of the heaven and the earth: there is no antagonist, no counterpart, no recipient of him abounding in wisdom, victorious (in war).

Varga VI.

¹ All these have been mentioned before, see vols. 1. and 11.

² Pathibhis-tuvi vájebhih: Sáyana renders the first by váhaih, vehicles, or sometimes horses, so considered: the epithet he translates bahubalaih, very strong or powerful.

13. That exploit is celebrated in the present day (which thou hast) achieved for KUTSA, for $\dot{A}YU$, for ATITHIGVAN: to him thou hast given many thousands (of riches), and thou hast quickly elevated TURVA- $Y\dot{A}NA^1$ over the earth by thy power.

14. Divine INDRA, all the gods have glorified thee, the wisest of the wise, for the destruction of AHI: when propitiated, thou hast given wealth to the distressed worshipper, and to his posterity.²

15. The heaven and earth, and the immortal gods, acknowledge thy might: doer of many deeds, do that which is yet undone by thee, give birth to a new hymn at (thy) sacrifices.

SÚKTA IV. (XIX.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga VII.

1. May the great INDRA, who is as a monarch, the fulfiller (of the desires) of men, come hither: may he who is mighty over the two (realms of space), uninjurable by (hostile) efforts, increase (in capacity) for heroism in our presence: may he who is great (in body), eminent (in qualities), be honoured by the performers (of pious acts).³

2. Our praise encourages INDRA to munificence,

¹ The same as Divodás, to whom Indra gave the spoils of Sambara.

² Yatra varivo bádhitáya dive janáya tanve grinánah karah is explained yasmin kále píditaya stotre janáya, tat-tanayáya cha dhanam stúyamáno adadáh, as translated in the text; but Sáyana admits another rendering, which he makes, when being praised, thou hast given ease to the celestial people through the relief, tanve, sobháyai, caused by the demolition of Ahi.

³ Yajur-Veda, 7. 39.: Mahidhara's explanation is to the same purport, although he renders some of the epithets rather differently.

the vast, quick-moving, undecaying, ever-youthful INDRA, mighty with unsurpassable strength, who rapidly grows to greatness.

3. Extend towards us thy long, active, and bountiful hands, (to bring us) food: be about us, lowlyminded INDRA, in battle, as a herdsman (tends) the herds of cattle.

4. Desiring sustenance, we invoke thee, the renowned INDRA, on this occasion, the destroyer (of enemies), together with his powerful allies (the MARUTS): as his ancient adorers have been, (may we be), exempt from blame, irreproachable, unharmed.

5. In him who is observant of pious rites, who is a giver of wealth, who is exalted by the Soma beverage, the (lord) of desirable riches, the distributer of food, (in him) the treasures fit (for his worshippers) congregate like rivers flowing into the ocean.

6. Bestow upon us, hero INDRA, most vigorous vigour: subduer (of enemies, bestow upon us) most energetic and fierce energy: grant, lord of steeds, all the bright and invigorating (treasures) fit for men, to make us happy.

7. Impart to us, INDRA, that thine invigorating exultation which overcomes enemies, and is irresistible, whereby, protected by thee, triumphant we may glorify thee for the sake of (obtaining) sons and grandsons.

8. Bestow upon us, INDRA, vigorous strength, the realizer of wealth, great and propitious, wherewith, through thy protection, we may destroy our enemies in battles, whether they be kinsmen or strangers.

9. May thine invigorating strength come from the west, from the north, from the south, from the east; may it come to us from every quarter : grant us riches combined with felicity.

Varga VIII.

10. We enjoy, INDRA, through thy guiding protection, desirable affluence along with descendants and reputation: grant us, sovereign, who rulest over (earthly and heavenly) riches, vast, desirable, and infinite treasure.

11. We invoke on this occasion for his present protection, that INDRA who is attended by the MARUTS; who is the showerer (of benefits); augmenting (in prowess); the unreviled of foes, radiant, ruling, allsubduing, fierce, the giver of strength.

12. Wielder of the thunderbolt, humble that man who looks upon himself as the greatest amongst those men of whom I am: we invoke thee now to (descend) upon the earth at the time of battle, and for (the sake of obtaining) sons and grandsons.

13. Invoked of many, may we, through these thy friendly (praises), ever be superior to successive foes, destroying, oh hero, both (classes of) enemies, (kindred or unallied); and may we, protected by thee, be happy with abundant riches.

Súкта V. (XX.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before; in the seventh stanza the latter is Viráj.

1. INDRA, Son of strength, grant us (a son),¹ the possessor of thousands, the owner of cultivated lands,

Varga IX.

¹ The text has no substantive, but the epithets evidently allude to some one individual, or, as Sáyana understands them, to a son, putram, who is metaphorically the riches of a family, and its defence against enemies, putrarúpam dhanam, rayir yo savasá satrún ákrámet.

the subduer of foes, the riches that may overcome men in battles by strength, as the radiant (sun) overspreads the earth by his rays.

2. To thee, INDRA, as to the sun, all strength has verily been given by the gods;¹ so that, drinker of the stale Soma, associated with VISHNU, thou mightest slay the hostile AHI^2 obstructing the waters.

3. When INDRA, the destroyer, the most mighty, the strongest of the strong, the giver of food, the possessor of vast splendour, received (the thunderbolt), the shatterer of all the cities (of the Asuras), he became the lord of the sweet Soma beverage.

4. The PANIS, INDRA, fled, with hundreds (of Asuras), from the sage, thy worshipper³ (and ally) in battle: neither did he, (INDRA), suffer the deceptions of the powerful SUSHNA to prevail over his weapons, nor did he (leave him) any of his sustenance.

5. When SUSHNA passed away upon the falling of the thunderbolt, then the universal strength of the great oppressor was annihilated; and INDRA enlarged their common car for (the use of) his charioteer KUTSA, for (the sake of) the worship of the sun.⁴

⁴ Súryasya sátau, bhajane nimittabhute is the explanation

¹ Devebhih, Sáyana renders by stotríbhih, observing, stotraih stúyamáná devatá balavatí, a deity becomes strong, being praised with praises.

² Ahim vritram may be also rendered the destroyer, hantáram, Vritra.

³ Dasonaye havaye: the scholiast asserts that the dative is put for the ablative, and that the terms are equivalent to bahu havishhát medhávinah, from the wise man offering many oblations, that is, twatsahayahutsát, from hutsa, thy ally: in verse 8. of this Súkta, Dasoni occurs, as elsewhere, as the name of an Asura.

Varga X.

6. And the hawk bore to INDRA the exhilarating Soma, when, bruising the head of the oppressor NAMA-CHI, and protecting the slumbering NAMI, the son of SAYA, he provided, for the well-being (of the sage), riches and food.

7. Thou hast scattered by force, wielder of the thunderbolt, the strong cities of the deadly-deluding PIPRU:¹ thou hast given, bountiful INDRA, uninjurable wealth to RIJISWAT, the donor of sacrificial gifts.

8. INDRA, the granter of wished-for felicity, compelled the many-fraudulent ETASA and DASONI, TÚ-TUJI, TUGRA, and IBHA, always to come submissively to (the Raja) DYOTANA, as a son (comes before a mother.

9. Bearing in his hand the foe-destroying thunderbolt, INDRA, unresisted, demolishing these his adversaries; he mounts his two-horse (car), as a warrior (ascends) his chariot; harnessed at a word, his steeds convey the mighty INDRA.

10. (Favoured) by thy protection, INDRA, we solicit new (wealth): by this adoration men² glorify thee at sacrifices, for that thou hast shattered with thy bolt the seven cities of SARAT,³ killing the opponents (of sacred rites), and giving (their spoils) to PURUKUTSA.

of Sáyaṇa, and samánuratham vistírnam akarot is his interpretation of the uru sha saratham kar of the text: Kutsa is the reputed author of the hymns to Súrya and Ushas: see vol. 1. pp. 296, 304.

² Púravah is the term of the text rendered manushyah in the comment.

³ Sarat is said to be the name of an Asura.

11. Desirous of opulence, thou, INDRA, hast been an ancient benefactor of USANAS, the son of KAVI: having slain NAVAVÁSTWA, thou hast given back his own grandson, who was (fit) to be restored to the grandfather.

12. Thou, INDRA, who makest (thine enemies) tremble, hast caused the waters, detained by DHUNI, to flow like rushing rivers: so, hero, when, having crossed the ocean, thou hast reached the shore, thou hast brought over in safety TURVASA and YADU.¹

13. All this, INDRA, has been thy work in war: thou hast put to sleep, (in death), the slumbering DHUNI and CHUMURI; and thereupon DABHÍTI, pouring the libation, preparing the oblation, and supplying the fuel, has glorified thee with Soma offerings.

Súkta VI. (XXI.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before; except in stanzas nine and eleven, where the VISWADEVAS take the place of INDRA.

1. These earnest adorations of the much-desiring worshipper glorify thee, hero, INDRA, who art adorable: mounted on thy car, undecaying, ever new, and to whom the wealth (of sacrifice), the most excellent opulence, proceeds.

2. I glorify that INDRA who is propitiated by praises, exalted by sacrifices, who knows all things; the magnitude of whom, the possessor of various wisdom, exceeds in vastness (that of) heaven and earth.

Varga XI.

¹ Samudram atipraparshi, samudram atikramya pratírno bhavasi, when thou art crossed, having traversed the ocean, thou hast brought across Turvasa and Yadu, both standing on the further shore, samudrapáre tishtantau apárayah.

3. He who made the indistinct, wide-spreading darkness distinct with the sun: whenever, possessor of strength, mortals are seeking to adore the dwelling of thee who art immortal, they harm not (any living being).¹

4. What is he, the INDRA who has done these deeds? what region does he frequent? among what people (does he abide)? what worship, INDRA, gives satisfaction to thy mind? what praise is able to gratify thee? which of thy invokers (is most acceptable to thee)?

5. Doer of many deeds, these elders, born in former times, engaged in sacred rites, have been, as they are now, thy friends; so have those of mediæval and those of recent (date): therefore, invoked of many, take notice of thy (present) humble (adorer).

Varga XII.

6. Humble (worshippers), adoring him, commemorate, INDRA, thy excellent, ancient, and glorious (deeds): so, hero, who art attracted by prayer,² we praise thee who art mighty, for those great actions with which we are acquainted.

7. The strength of the Rákshasas is concentrated against thee: bear up well against that mighty manifested (effort): scatter them, valiant (INDRA), with thy old associate, thy friend, the thunderbolt.

8. Supporter of (thy) worshippers, hero, INDRA, listen (to the praises) of thy present adorer, for thou hast always attended to invocations at sacrifices in ancient times, as the kinsman of our forefathers.³

¹ The text has only na minantí, na hinsantí: the scholiast supplies the object, kim api pránijátam.

² Brahmaváhah is explained mantrairvahaníyah, to be borne or conveyed by prayers.

³ Pitrínám ápih, bandhuh: according to Sáyaņa the Angirasas are intended.

9. Propitiate to-day, for our protection and preservation, VARUNA, MITRA, INDRA, and the MARUTS, PÚSHAN, VISHNU, AGNI of many rites, SAVITRI, the herbs, the mountains.

10. INDRA, of great power, and to be devoutly worshipped, these thine adorers glorify thee with hymns: do thou, who art invoked, hear the invocation of (him) invoking thee, for there is no other divinity than thou, immortal (INDRA), such as thou art.

11. Come quickly, Son of strength, thou who knowest (all things), upon my prayer; together with all the adorable (divinities): they who, with the tongue of AGNI, are partakers of the sacrifice, who rendered MANU (victorious) over his adversaries.¹

12. Constructor of paths, who art cognizant (of all things), be our preceder, whether in easy or difficult (ways): bring to us food, INDRA, with those thy (steeds), who are unwearied, large, and bearers of great burthens.

SUKTA VII. (XXII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. I glorify with these praises, INDRA, who alone is varge to be invoked by man: who comes (to his worshippers) the showerer (of benefits), the vigorous, the observer of truth, the subduer of foes, the possessor of manifold knowledge, the mighty.

2. To him the seven sages, our ancient progenitors, performing the nine days rite, were offerers of (sacrificial) food, celebrating with hymns the very strong Varga XIII.

¹ Ye Manum chakrur uparam dasáya satrúnam, or dasyúnám uparibhavam, who made Manu the Rajarshi, manum rájarshim, over, or the overcomer of enemies, or of the Dasyus.

(INDRA), the humiliator of foes, the traverser of the heavens, the dweller in the clouds, whose commands are not to be disobeyed.

3. We solicit that INDRA for wealth, comprehending numerous descendants, followers, and much cattle, and which is undisturbed, imperishable, and the source of felicity: such riches, lord of steeds, bestow upon us to make us happy.

4. If, INDRA, thy worshippers have formerly obtained felicity, confer that also upon us: irresistible INDRA, subduer of foes, invoked of many, abounding in wealth, what is the portion, what the offering (due) to thee who art the slayer of the Asuras?

5. He whose ceremonial and eulogistic hymn is commemorating INDRA, the holder of the thunderbolt, seated in his car, the accepter of many, the doer of many great deeds, the bestower of strength, proceeds promptly to acquire happiness, and encounters (with confidence) the malevolent.

Varga XIV.

6. Self-invigorated INDRA, thou hast crushed by thy knotted (thunderbolt), quick as thought, that VRITRA, growing in strength by this cunning:¹ very radiant and mighty (INDRA), thou hast demolished by (thine) irresistible (shaft) the unyielding, compact, and strong (cities of the Asuras).

7. (I have undertaken) to spread around with a new hymn, as it was done of old, (the glory of) thee, the ancient and most mighty (INDRA): may that INDRA, who is illimitable, and is a sure conveyance, bear us over all difficulties.

¹ Ayá máyayá vávridhánam, by this guile or deception, but what that was is not specified.

8. Make hot the regions of earth, of heaven, of mid air, for the oppressive race (of the Rákshasus): showerer (of benefits), consume them everywhere with thy radiance, make the heaven and the firmament (too) hot for the impious.¹

9. Bright-flaming INDRA, thou art the king of the people of heaven, and of the moving races of earth: grasp in thy right hand the thunderbolt, wherewith, INDRA, who art beyond all praise, thou bafflest all the devices (of the Asuras).

10. Bring to us, INDRA, concentrated, vast, and unassailable prosperity beyond the reach of enemies, and by which, wielder of the thunderbolt, thou hast rendered human enemies, whether Dásas or Áryas, easy to be overcome.

11. Invoked of many, creator, object of sacrifice, come to us with thy all-admired steeds, whom neither Asura nor deity arrests: come with them quickly to our presence.

SÚKTA VIII. (XXIII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. When the Soma-juice, INDRA, is being effused, the sacred hymn chaunted, the prayer recited, be thou prepared (to harness thy horses), or, MAGHAVAN, with thy horses ready harnessed, come (hither), bearing the thunderbolt in thy hand.

2. Or as, although engaged in heaven in the heroanimating conflict with foes, thou protectest the ofVarga XV.

ferer of the libation, and humblest, undaunted INDRA, the Dasyus, the disturbers of the pious and terrified worshipper, (so do thou come when the Soma is effused).¹

3. May INDRA be the drinker of the effused Soma, he who is the fierce conductor of the worshipper to security: may he be the donor of the world to the presenter of the libration, the giver of wealth to the man who adores him.

4. May INDRA, with his steeds, come to as many (daily) rites (as may be celebrated), bearing the thunderbolt, drinking the Soma, bestowing cattle, granting manly and multiplied posterity, hearing the invocation of his adorer, and being the accepter of (our) praises.

5. To that INDRA, who of old has rendered us good offices, we address (the praise) that he is pleased by: we celebrate him when the Soma is effused, repeating the prayer that the (sacrificial) food (offered) to INDRA may be for his augmentation.

Varga XVI.

6. Since, INDRA, thou hast made the (sacred) prayers (the means of) thy augmentation, we address such to thee, along with our praises: may we, drinker of the effused libration, offer gratifying and acceptable eulogies with (our) sacrifices.

7. Accept, INDRA, who art condescending, our cakes and butter: drink the Soma mixed with curds: sit down upon this sacred grass (strewn by) the worshipper: grant ample possessions to him who depends upon thee.

¹ There is no verb in the text, but the commentator considers that ' come' is brought on from the preceding stanza, and adds, when the Soma is poured forth.

8. Rejoice, fierce INDRA, according to thy pleasure: let these libations reach thee: invoked of many, may these our invocations ascend to thee: may this praise influence thee for our protection.

9. Friends, when the libations are effused, do you satisfy that liberal INDRA with the Soma-juices: let there be plenty for him, that (he may provide) for our nourishment: INDRA never neglects the care of him who presents copious libations.

10. Thus has INDRA, the lord of the opulent, been glorified by the BHARADWÁJAS, upon the libation being effused, that he may be the director of his eulogist (to virtue), that INDRA may be the giver of all desirable riches.

ANUVÁKA III.

Sύκτα Ι. (XXIV.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. At the rites at which the Soma (is offered) the exhilaration (produced) in INDRA is a shower (of benefits to the offerer); so is the chaunted hymn with the (recited) prayer: therefore the drinker of the Soma, the partaker of the stale Soma, MAGHAVAN, is to be propitiated by men with praises: dweller in heaven, he is the lord of sacred songs, unwearied in the protection (of his votaries).

2. The surpasser (of foes), a hero, the friend of man, the discriminator, the hearer of the invocation, the great protector of his adorers, the giver of dwellings, the ruler of men, the cherisher of his worshippers, the Varga XVII.

bestower of food, grants us, when glorified at the sacrifice, (abundant) sustenance.

3. Mighty hero, by thy magnitude, (the extent) of heaven and earth is exceeded, as the axle by the (circumference of the) wheels: invoked of many, thy numerous benefits, INDRA, spread out like the branches of a tree.

4. Accomplisher of many acts, the energies of thee who art (ever) active (congregate from all directions), like the converging tracks of cattle:¹ they are the bonds (of foes), themselves unfettered, munificent INDRA, like the tethers of (many) calves.²

5. INDRA achieves one act to-day, another to-morrow, evil and good repeatedly: may he, and MITRA, VARUŅA, PÚSHAN, ARYA, be on this occasion promoters of the desired result.

Varga XVIII.

6. By praises and by sacrifices, INDRA, (men) bring down (what they desire) from thee, as the waters (descend) from the top of the mountain: desirous of food, they approach thee, who art accessible by praise, with these their eulogies, as (eagerly as) coursers rush to battle.³

7. May the person of that vast INDRA, celebrated by praises and prayers, ever increase; INDRA, whom neither years nor months make old, nor days enfeeble.

8. Glorified by us, he bows not down to the robust, nor to the resolute, nor to the persevering (worshipper) who is instigated by the (irreligious) Dasyus: the lofty mountains are easy of access to INDRA; to him there is a bottom in the (lowest) deep.

9. Powerful INDRA, drinker of the Soma-juice, (actuated) by a profound and comprehensive (purpose), grant us food and strength: be ever diligent, benevolent INDRA, for our protection by day and by night.

10. Accompany, INDRA, the leader in battle for his protection; defend him against a near (or distant) foe; protect him from an enemy, whether in (his) house or in a forest, and may we, blessed with excellent male descendants, be happy for a hundred winters.

Súkta II. (XXV.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Powerful INDRA, with these (thy protections), whether the protection be little, great, or middling, defend us for the destruction of our foes: supply us, fierce INDRA, who art mighty, with those viands (that are needed).

2. (Induced) by these (praises),¹ protecting our assailing host, baffle, INDRA, the wrath of the enemy: (induced) by them, overthrow, on the part of the Arya, all the servile races everywhere abiding.²

Varga XIX.

¹ The text has only ábhih, by these, which Sáyana explains asmadíyábhih stutibhih, by our praises; or it might have been thought to refer to the preceding stanza, ábhir-útibhih with these protections.

² Viswá abhiyujo vishúchír áryáya viso ava tárír-dásih: VOL. III. 2 G

3. Annihilate, INDRA, the strength of those who, whether kinsmen or unrelated, present themselves before us, exerting themselves as adversaries : enfeeble their prowess, put them to flight.

4. The hero, (favoured by thee), assuredly slays the (hostile) hero by his bodily prowess, when, both excelling in personal strength, they strive together in conflict, or when, clamorous, they dispute for (the sake of) sons, of grandsons, of cattle, of water, of land.

5. But thee (no one) resists, neither the hero, nor the fleet runner, nor the resolute, nor the combatant confiding (in his valour); neither of these, INDRA, is a match for thee: thou art superior to all these persons. 6. Of both these (disputants), that one acquires wealth whose priests invoke (INDRA) at the sacrifice, whether they contend emulous for (the overthrow of) a powerful enemy, or for a dwelling peopled with dependants.

7. Therefore, INDRA, when thy people tremble (with fear), protect them; be to them a defender: may those who are our chief leaders be enjoyers (of thy favour), as well as those (thy) worshippers who have placed us foremost (to perform the sacrifice).

8. All (power) has been successively conceded verily to thee, INDRA, who art mighty, for the destruction of the foe: suitable vigour, suitable strength in battle (has been given) to thee, adorable INDRA, by the gods.

9. So (glorified by us), INDRA, animate us (to overcome) our enemies in battle: overthrow our impious, malevolent (foes), and may we, BHARADWÁJAS, praising thee, assuredly possess habitations, with (abundant) food.

Varga XX.

Súkta III. (XXVI.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Hear us, INDRA, when, offering libations, we call upon thee for obtaining abundant food: grant us decided protection when on a future day men are assembling for battle.

2. The son of VAJINÍ, (BHARADWAJA), offering (sacrificial) viands, invokes thee for (the sake of) acquiring obtainable and abundant food: (he invokes) thee, INDRA, the preserver of the good, the defender (from the wicked), when enemies (assail him): he depends upon thee when, lifting up his fist, he is fighting for (his) cattle.

3. Thou hast animated the sage with (the hope of) obtaining food; thou hast cut to pieces SUSHNA for KUTSA, the donor of the oblation: thou hast struck off the head (of SAMBARA), imagining himself invulnerable,¹ intending to give pleasure to ATITHIGVAN.

4. Thou hast brought to VRISHABHA a great warchariot; thou hast protected him warring for ten days: thou hast slain TUGRA along with VETASU:² thou hast exalted TUJI glorifying thee. Varga XXI.

¹ The text has only amarmanah, which the commentator explains marmahinam átmánam manyamánasya, of him thinking himself devoid of any fatally vulnerable part: he applies it also to Sambara.

² Vetasave sachá: Vetasu is in other places the name of an Asura, and it may be so here, the fifth case being used for the

5. INDRA, who art the subduer (of foes), thou hast achieved a glorious (deed), inasmuch as thou hast scattered, hero, the hundreds and thousands (of the host of SAMBARA), hast slain the slave SAMBARA (when issuing) from the mountain,¹ and hast protected, DI-VODÁSA with marvellous protections.

Varga XXII.

6. Delighted by libations offered with faith, thou hast consigned CHUMURI to the sleep (of death) on behalf of DABHÍTI, and, bestowing (the maiden) RAJI upon PITHÍNAS,² thou hast, by thy contrivance,³ destroyed sixty thousand (warriors) at once.

7. May I, with my fellow-worshippers, obtain that thy most excellent felicity and vigour, which, most mighty INDRA, associate of heroes, the pious celebrate (as bestowed) by thee, who art the humiliator (of foes), the protector of the three (worlds).

8. May we, adorable INDRA, thy friends, at this thy worship, offered for (the acquirement of) wealth, be held most dear to thee: may KSHATRASRÍ, the son of PRATARDANA, (my patron), be most illustrious through the destruction of foes, and the attainment of riches.

³ Sachyá, which the scholiast renders prajnayá; but it may also import karmaná, by act or exploit: as to the number of slain, although probably Asuras are intended, yet the specification intimates familiarity with numerous armies and sanguinary conflicts.

Súkta IV. (XXVII.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before, but in the last stanza, gift or generosity is considered to be the divinity.

1. What has INDRA done in the exhilaration of this (Soma)? what has he done on quaffing this (libation)? what has he done in friendship for this (Soma)? what have former, what have recent adorers obtained from thee in the chamber of this (libation)?¹

2. Verily, in the exhibit action of this (Soma) INDRA has done a good deed; on quaffing the libration (he has done) a good deed; (he has done) a good deed in friendship for this Soma: former as well as recent adorers have obtained good of thee in the chamber (of the libration).

3. We acknowledge no one, MAGHAVAN, of greatness equal to thine, nor one of like affluence, nor one of equally glorifiable riches, nor has (such as) thy power been ever seen (in any other).

4. Such as thy power (is) it has been comprehended (by us) as that wherewith thou hast slain the race of VARASIKHA,² when the boldest (of them) was demolished by the noise of thy thunderbolt hurled with (all thy) force.

5. Favouring ABHYAVARTIN, the son of CHAYAMÁNA,³ INDRA destroyed the race of VARASIKHA, killing the descendants of VRICHÍVAT, (who were stationed) on Varga XXIII.

¹ According to Sáyana the Rishi here expresses his impatience at the delay of the reward of his praises: in the next verse he sings his recantation.

² The name of an Asura, but the context would rather imply the name of a tribe or people.

³ The names of Rajas.

the Hariyúpíyá,¹ on the eastern part, whilst the western (troop) was scattered through fear.

Varga XXIV.

6. INDRA, the invoked of many, thirty hundred mailed warriors (were collected)² together on the $Yavyávati,^3$ to acquire glory, but the Vrichívats advancing hostilely, and breaking the sacrificial vessels, went to (their own) annihilation.

7. He whose bright prancing horses, delighted with choice fodder, proceed between (heaven and earth), gave up TURVAȘA to SŖINJAYA,⁴ subjecting the Vrichivats to the descendant of DEVAVATA, (ABHYA-VARTIN).

8. The opulent supreme sovereign ABHYÁVARTIN, the son of CHAYAMÁNA, presents, AGNI, to me two damsels riding in cars, and twenty cows:⁵ this do-

² Trinsach-chhatam varminah: Sáyana makes the number one hundred and thirty, trinsadadhikaşatam, of kavachabhritas, wearers of breastplates or armour.

3 The same as the Hariyúpíyá, according to Sáyana.

⁴ There are several princes of this name in the Puránas: one of them, the son of Haryaswa, was one of the five Panchála princes: the name is also that of a people probably in the same direction, the north-west of India, or towards the Panjab: Vishnu Purana, pp. 193, 454: what is meant by the phrase he gave up, parádát, Turvasa to Srinjaya may be conjectured but is not explained.

¹ Vrichivat is the first-born of the sons of Varasikha, whence the rest are named: Hariyúpíyá is the name either of a river or a city according to the comment.

nation of the descendant of PRITHU cannot be destroyed.¹

Súkta V. (XXVIII.)

The Rishi is as before, BHARADWÁJA; the metre of the three first stanzas is Jagati, of the next four Trishtubh, of the last Anushtubh; the deities of the whole are the Cows, except in the second verse and part of the last, which may be applied to INDRA.

1. May the cows come and bring good fortune; let Varga them lie down in (our) stalls and be pleased with us: may the many-coloured kine here be prolific, and yield milk for INDRA on many dawns.

2. INDRA grants the desires of the man who offers to him sacrifice and praise; he ever bestows upon him wealth, and deprives him not of that which is his own: again and again increasing his riches, he places the devout man in an inaccessible fortress.²

3. Let not the Cows he lost:³ let no thief carry them away: let no hostile weapon fall upon them:

² Abhinna khilye: the first is explained satrubhirabhetavye, not to be breached by enemics; and the second is considered the same as khila, commonly, waste land, but here said to mean apratihatasthánam, an unassailed or unassailable place, one which is unapproachable by others, anyair gantumasakye sthale.

³ Na tá nașanti: in this we have the third person plural of the present tense indicative mood, but Sáyana assigns it the force of the imperative, na nașyantu: in the following, na dabháti tasharah, na vyathir ádadharshati, we have the Vaidik imperative, Let.

Varga XXV.

¹ Dúnáseyam dakshiná párthavánám: násayitum asakyá is the translation of the first: the last implies Abhyávarttín, as descended from Prithu, the plural being used honorifically: the name of this member of the race of Prithu does not occur apparently in the Puránas.

may the master of the cattle be long possessed of those with which he sacrifices, and which he presents to the gods.

4. Let not the dust-spurning (war)-horse reach them; nor let them fall in the way of sacrificial consecration:¹ let the cattle of the man who offers sacrifice wander about at large and without fear.

5. May the Cows be (for our) affluence: may INDRA grant me cattle: may the Cows yield the food of the first libation: these Cows, oh men, are the INDRA,² the INDRA whom I desire with heart and mind.

6. Do you, Cows, give us nourishment: render the emaciated, the unlovely body the reverse: do you, whose lowing is auspicious, make my dwelling prosperous: great is the abundance that is attributed to you in religious assemblies.³

² A rather strong personation, and which the scholiast weakens by understanding it to mean that the cows may be considered as Indra, as they nourish him by their milk and butter presented in sacrifices: so, perhaps, the first phrase, gávo bhagah, which he renders mahyam dhanam bhavantu, may they be to me affluence, may mean the cows are Bhaga, the impersonations of the deity of good fortune and riches.

³ Brihad vo vaya uchyate sabhásu: great of you the food is said in assemblies: Sáyana understands it rather differently, great is the food given to you in assemblies, it is given by all, sarvair díyate ityartha.

¹ Na sanshritatram abhyupayanti: Sáyana interprets visasanádisansháram nábhyupagachchhantu, let them not go nigh to the consecration of immolation and the rest, as if he understood the Veda to authorise the sacrifice of cattle as victims: but the use of metonymy is so common, that perhaps by cows, in this place, we are to understand their produce, milk and butter, which are constantly offered.

7. May you, Cows, have many calves grazing upon good pasture, and drinking pure water at accessible ponds: may no thief be your master; no beast of prey (assail you), and may the (fatal) weapon of $RUDRA^{1}$ avoid you.

8. Let the nourishment of the Cows be solicited, let the vigour of the bull (be requested), INDRA, for thy invigoration.²

ADHYÁYA VII.

SÚKTA VI. (XXIX.)

The deity is INDRA; the Rishi BHARADWAJA; the metre is Trishtubh

1. Your priests, (oh worshippers), propitiate INDRA Varga I. for his friendship, offering great (praise), and desirous of his favour;³ for the wielder of the thunderbolt is the giver of vast (wealth): worship him, therefore, who is mighty and benevolent, (to obtain) his protection.

2. In whose hand⁴ (riches) good for man are ac-

⁴ Yasmin haste may also be interpreted, according to a note

¹ Rudra is here said to be the Supreme Being, identical with time, kálátmakasya parameswarasya.

² That is, the milk and butter which are required for Indra's nutriment are dependent upon the cows bearing calves.

³ Maho yantah sumataye chakánáh, may also, according to Sáyana, be rendered mahat karmma anutishthantah, performing great worship, and stutim sabdayantah, sounding or uttering praise.

cumulated, the chariot-mounted in a golden car; in whose arms the rays of light (are collected); whose vigorous horses, yoked (to his car, convey him) on the road (of the firmament).

3. They offer adoration at thy feet to acquire prosperity, for thou art the overthrower of enemies by (thy) strength, the wielder of the thunderbolt, the bestower of donations: leader (of rites), thou art like the rolling sun, wearing in the sight (of all) a graceful and ever moving form.¹

4. That libation is most perfectly mixed when, upon its being effused, the cakes are baked and the barley is fried, and the priests, glorifying INDRA, offering the (sacrificial) food, and reciting holy prayers, are approaching most nigh to the gods.

5. No limit of thy strength has been assigned; heaven and earth are intimidated by its greatness: the pious worshipper, hastening (to sacrifice), and earnestly performing worship, gratifies thee with the offering,² as (the cowkeeper satisfies) the herds with water.

6. Thus may the mighty INDRA be successfully invoked; he, the azure-chinned,³ the giver of wealth, cited from Yásha, Nirúkta, 1.7, in whom, the slayer of foes, yasmin hantari.

² Uti for ityi, is here explained tarpakena havishá, with the satisfying oblation.

³ Harişipra, haritovarnah sipro yasya: he whose chin or nose is of a green colour, alluding possibly to the tint of the sky, considered as a feature of Indra. whether by coming or not coming¹ (to the sacrifice); and may he who is of unequalled strength destroy, as soon as manifested, many opposing (evil spirits) and (hostile) Dasyus.

Súkta VII. (XXX.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before

1. Again has INDRA increased (in strength) for (the display of) heroism: he, the chief (of all), the undecayable, bestows riches (on his votaries): INDRA surpasses heaven and earth: a mere portion of him is equal to both earth and heaven.

2. I now glorify his vast and Asura-destroying (vigour): those exploits that he has determined (to achieve) no one can resist: (by him) the sun was made daily visible;² and he, the doer of great deeds, spread out the spacious regions (of the universe).

3. At present, verily as of old, that act, (the liberation) of the rivers, is effective; whereby thou hast directed them on their course: the mountains have settled (at thy command) like (men) seated at their meals: doer of great deeds, by thee have the worlds been rendered stationary.

4. Verily it is the truth, INDRA, that there is no other such as thou, no god nor mortal is (thy) superior: thou hast slain AHI obstructing the waters, thou hast set them free (to flow) to the ocean.

Varga II.

¹ Útí anútí are explained ágamanena, anágamanena, by coming or not coming: swayam ágato anágato api stotribhyo dhanam prayachchhati, whether he have come himself or not, he gives wealth to the praisers.

² That is, by Indra's breaking asunder the clouds.

5. Thou hast set the obstructed waters free to flow in all directions: thou hast fractured the solid (barrier) of the cloud: thou art lord over the people of the world, making manifest together the sun, the sky, and the dawn.

Súkta VIII. (XXXI.)

The deity is INDRA; the Rishi, SUHOTRA; the metre is *Trish*tubh, except in the fourth verse in which it is Sakwari.

Varga III.

1. Thou, lord of riches, art the chief (sovereign) over riches: thou holdest men in thy two hands, and men glorify thee with various praises for (the sake of obtaining) sons, and valiant grandsons, and rain.

3. Through fear of thee, INDRA, all the regions of the firmament cause the unfallen (rain) to descend: the heavens, the earth, the mountains, the forests, all the solid (universe) is alarmed at thy approach.

3. Thou, INDRA, with KUTSA, hast warred against the inexhaustible SUSHNA: thou hast overthrown KUYAVA in battle: in conflict thou hast carried off the wheel (of the chariot) of the sun:¹ thou hast driven away the malignant (spirits).

4. Thou hast destroyed the hundred impregnable cities of the Dasyu,² SAMBARA, when, sagacious INDRA, thou, who art brought by the libation, thou hast bestowed in thy liberality riches upon DIVODÁSA presenting to thee libations, and upon BHARADWÁJA hymning thy praise.

² Sambara is more usually styled an Asura, and hence it would appear that Dasyu and Asura are synonymous, so that the latter is equally applied to the unbelieving or anti-Hindu mortal inhabitant of India.

5. Leader of true heroes, possessor of infinite wealth, mount thy formidable car for the arduous conflict: come to me, pursuer of a forward path, for my protection: do thou, who art renowned, proclaim (our renown) amongst men.

SÚKTA IX. (XXXII.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. I have fabricated with my mouth unprecedented, comprehensive, and gratifying praises to that mighty. heroic, powerful, rapid, adorable, and ancient wielder of the thunderbolt.¹

2. He has obtained the parent (worlds, heaven and earth), with the sun, for the sake of the sages, (the ANGIRASAS, and, glorified (by them), he has shattered the mountain: repeatedly wished for by his adorers intently meditating (upon him), he has cast off the fetters of the kine.

3. He, the achiever of many deeds, together with his worshippers ever offering oblations upon bended knees, has overcome (the Asuras) for (the rescue of) the cows: friendly with his friends (the ANGIRASAS), far-seeing with the far-seeing, the destroyer of cities has demolished the strong cities (of the Asuras).

4. Showerer (of benefits), propitiated by praise, come to him who glorifies thee, to make him happy amongst men with abundant food, with exceeding strength, and with young (mares) with numerous colts.²

Varga IV.

¹ This verse occurs Sama-Veda 1. 322, but the reading of the last portion somewhat varies in the printed edition : instead of vachánsi ásá sthaviráya tahsham, we have vachánsi asmai sthaviráya tahshuh, they have fabricated praises to that ancient, &c.

² Nívyábhih puruvírábhih are translated by Sáyaņa, navata-

5. Endowed with natural force, possessed of (swift) horses, INDRA, the overcomer of adversaries, (sets free) the waters at the southern (declination):¹ thus liberated the waters expand daily to the insatiable goal whence there is no returning.

Súkta X. (XXXIII.)

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is SUNAHOTRA.

1. Showerer (of benefits), INDRA, grant us a son who shall be most vigorous, a delighter (of thee by praise), a pious sacrificer, a liberal giver, who, mounted on a good steed, shall overthrow numerous good steeds, and conquer opposing enemies in combats.

2. Men of various speech² invoke thee, INDRA, for their defence in war: thou, with the sages, (the ANGI-RASAS), hast slain the PANIS: protected by thee, the liberal (worshipper) obtains food.

3. Thou, hero, INDRA, destroyed both (classes of) enemies, (both) $D\dot{a}sa$ and $\dot{A}rya$, adversaries: chief leader of leaders, thou cuttest thy foes in pieces in battles with well-plied weapons, as (woodcutters fell) the forests.

² Viváchah the commentator renders vividhastutirúpá vácho yeshám, they of whom the speech has the form of many kinds of praise, which meaning he assigned to the same word in the first verse of Súkta XXXI.: he is probably right, although the more simple explanation would be, of various speech.

Varga V.

rábhih bahúnám vírayitríbhir-vadavábhih, with very new or young mares bearing male progeny of many.

¹ The text has only apo dakshinatah, the waters from or at the south: there is no verb: Sáyana considers the dakshináyana to be intended the sun's course south from the northern limit of the tropics, which, in India, is in fact the commencement of the rainy season.

4. Do thou, INDRA, who art all-pervading, be a friend, and a protector with irreproachable protections for our prosperity; when warring in number-thinning conflicts,¹ we invoke thee for the acquirement of wealth.²

5. Do thou, INDRA, now and at (all) other times be verily ours: be the bestower of happiness according to our condition: and in this manner, worshipping at dawn,³ and glorifying thee, may we abide in the brilliant and unbounded felicity of thee who art mighty.

SUKTA XI. (XXXIV.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Many praises, INDRA, are concentrated in thee: v from thee abundant commendations diversely proceed:⁴ to thee, formerly and at present, the praises of the sages, their prayers and hymns, vie (in glorifying) INDRA.

Varga VI.

¹ Yudhyanto nemadhitá pritsu: nema is synonymous with arddha, a half, or here, some, katipayáh purushá dhiyanta eshu, in those battles, pritsu, in which some men are engaged or killed; the first case plural, nemadhitá, or, properly, nemadhitaya, being used for the seventh case plural.

² Swarshátá is explained sushtu araniyam dhanam tasya sambhajanártham, very precious wealth for the sake of enjoying it, that is, by the spoils of the enemy.

⁴ Vi cha twad yanti manísháh, twattah stotrínam matayo vividham nirgachchhanti: from thee the praises, or approbations of the praisers variously go forth, is the explanation of Sáyana. 2. May that INDRA ever be propitiated by us who is the invoked of many, mighty and chief, especially honoured by sacrifices, and to whom, as to a conveyance, we are attached for (the attainment of) great strength.

3. All praises contributing to his exaltation proceed to INDRA, whom no acts, no words can harm, since hundreds and thousands of adorers glorify him who is entitled to praise, and so afford him gratification.

4. The mixed Soma-juice has been prepared for INDRA, (to be offered) on the day (of sacrifice), with reverence-like adoration,¹ when praises, together with offerings, yield him increase, as when water (revives) a man in desert a waste.

5. To this INDRA has this earnest eulogy been addressed by the devout, in order that the all-pervading INDRA may be our defender and exalter in the great conflict with (our) foes.

SÚKTA XII. (XXXV.)

The deity and metre as before; the Rishi is NARA.

Varga VII.

1. When may our prayers (be with thee) in thy chariot? when wilt thou grant to thine adorer the (means of) maintaining thousands? when wilt thou recompense my adoration with riches? when wilt thou render sacred rites productive of food?

2. When, INDRA, wilt thou bring together leaders with leaders, heroes with heroes, and give us victory in battles? when wilt thou conquer from the enemy the threefold-food-supplying cattle?¹ (when wilt thou grant) us, INDRA, diffusive wealth?

3. When, most vigorous INDRA, wilt thou grant thy worshipper that food which is all-sufficing? when wilt thou combine (in thyself) worship and praises? when wilt thou render oblations productive of cattle?

4. Grant, INDRA, to thine adorer (abundant) food, productive of cattle, pleasant with horses, and renowned for vigour: multiply nourishment, and (cherish) the kine easily milked, and render them so that they may be resplendent.

5. Direct him who is actually our adversary into a different (course):² mighty INDRA, who art a hero, the destroyer (of enemies), therefore art thou glorified: never may I desist from the praise of the giver of pure (gifts):³ satisfy, sage INDRA, the ANGI-RASAS with food.

¹ Tridhátu gáh: cows having three elements of nutriment, as milk, curds, and butter.

² That is, consign him to death, a course different from that of living beings.

³ Má niraram suhradughasya dhenoh is, literally, may I not cease from the cow the yielder of pure milk; but dhenoh is interpreted by the scholiast in this place váchas, stotrát, from praise; or he admits as an alternative, may I never depart from the milch cow given, Indra, by thee.

VOL. III.

SÚKTA XIII. (XXXVI.)

The deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga VIII.

1. Truly are thy exhilarations beneficial to all men: truly are the riches which exist on earth (beneficial to all men): truly art thou the distributor of food; wherefore thou maintainest vigour amongst the gods.

2. The worshipper praises especially the strength of that INDRA; verily they rely upon him for heroic deeds: they offer sacrifices to him as the seizer of an uninterrupted series of foes,¹ their assailant, their subduer, and also for the destruction of VRITRA.

3. The associated MARUTS, heroic energies, virile strength, and the Niyut steeds, attend upon INDRA, and praises powerful in sacred song centre in him as rivers flow into the ocean.

4. Glorified by us, INDRA, let flow the stream of much-delighting, home-conferring affluence, for thou art the unequalled lord of men, the sole sovereign of all the world.

5. Hear, INDRA, (the praises) that may be heard (by thee), thou, who art gratified by our adoration, and, like the sun,² (prevailest) over the ample riches of the enemy: endowed with strength, being glorified in every age, rendered comprehensible by (sacrificial) food, be to us no other³ (than such as thou hast been).

¹ Syúmagribhe, syútán avichchhedena varttamánán satrún grihnate, to him who seizes enemies being lines or threads without interruption.

² Dyaur-na bhúmábhi rayo aryah; arer dhanáni bahutaráni súrya iva abhibhavasi: the prefix abhi, as is frequent in the Veda, being put for the compound verb abhibhú.

³ Aso yathá nah is, literally, not he as to us: Sáyana, to make this intelligible, says, yena prakárena asmákam asádhárano asi

SÓKTA XIV. (XXXVII.)

Deity and metre as before; the Rishi is BHARADWAJA.

1. Fierce INDRA, let thy harnessed steeds bring down thy all-desired chariot: thy devoted adorer verily invokes thee: may we to-day, partaking of thine exhilaration, increase to-day (in prosperity).

2. The green Soma-juices flow at our sacrifice, and, purified, proceed direct into the pitcher: may the ancient, illustrious INDRA, the sovereign of the exhilarating Soma librion, drink of this our offering.¹

3. May the everywhere-going, straight-proceeding, chariot bearing steeds, bring the mighty INDRA in his strong-wheeled car to our rite: let not the ambrosial Soma waste in the wind.

4. The very strong INDRA, the performer of many great deeds instigates the donation of this (institutor of the ceremony) amongst the opulent, whereby, wielder of the thunderbolt, thou removest sin, and, firm of purpose, bestowest riches upon the worshippers.

5. INDRA is the donor of substantial food: may the very illustrious INDRA increase (in glory) through our praises: may INDRA, the destroyer (of enemies), be the especial slayer of VRITRA: may he, the animator, the quick-mover, grant us those (riches which we desire).

SÚKTA XV. (XXXVIII.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. May the most marvellous INDRA drink from this Varga X.

sa tathá sah syáh, in what manner thou art especially or exclusively ours, so mayest thou be that, our property or friend.

¹ The Soma-juice, it is said, if allowed to remain some time in the vessel containing it, may be dried up by the air: Indra is therefore urged to drink it before it evaporates.

(our cup): may he acknowledge our earnest and brilliant invocation: may the munificent (INDRA) accept the offering and the praiseworthy adoration at the sacrifice of the devout worshipper.

2. Reciting (his praise, the worshipper) calls aloud, that by the sound he may reach the ears of INDRA, although abiding afar off: may this invocation of the deity, inducing him (to come), bring INDRA to my presence.

3. I glorify thee with hymns and with pious worship, the ancient undecaying INDRA, for in him are oblations and praises concentrated, and great adoration is enhanced (when addressed to him);

4. INDRA, whom the sacrifice, whom the libation exalts, whom the oblation, the praises, the prayers, the adoration exalt, whom the course of day and night exalts, whom months, and years, and days exalt.

5. So, wise INDRA; may we to-day propitiate thee who art manifested, to overcome (our foes), thee who art greatly augmenting, mighty and free, for (the sake of) wealth, fame, and protection, and for the destruction of (our) enemies.

SUKTA XVI. (XXXIX.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Drink, INDRA, of that our sweet, exhilarating, inspiring, celestial, fruit-yielding Soma, commended by the wise, and entitled to praise and preparation:¹

Varga XI.

¹ Several of the epithets in the text are unusual, and, agreeably to European notions, very inapplicable to a beverage: they are, severally, mandra, exhilarating; havi, explained vihránta, heroic; divya, divine; vahni rendered vodha, bearing fruit; vipramanman, of which sages are the praisers, stotárah; vachana laudable, stutya; sachana to be served or honoured, serya.

bestow upon him who glorifies thee, divine (INDRA), food, the chiefest of which is cattle.¹

2. Determined (to recover) the cattle hidden in the mountain, associated with the celebrators of pure rites, (the ANGIRASAS), and animated by (their) veracious (praise), this (INDRA) fractured the infrangible rock of BALA, and overwhelmed the PANIS with reproaches.

3. This Soma,² INDRA, (quaffed by thee), has lighted up the unlustrous nights, and days and nights, and years: (the gods) of old have established it as the ensign of days, and it has made the dawns generated in light.

4. This radiant (INDRA) has illumed the nonradiant (worlds): he has pervaded many dawns with true lustre: the benefactor of men moves in (a chariot) drawn by horses, harnessed by praise, laden with riches.

5. Sovereign of old, do thou, when glorified, bestow upon him who praises thee, and to whom affluence is due, abundant food: grant to the worshipper water, plants, innoxious woods, cattle, horses, and men.

Isho yuvaswa grinate go agráh is explained annam sanyojaya, combine or supply food to the praiser: yásám ishám gávo ayre, of which viands, cows are in the first place: is this to be understood literally? and were cows, in the time of the Vedas, a principal article of food? of course a Brahman would interpret it metonymically, cows being put for their produce, milk and butter: Sáyana is silent, but there does not seem to be any thing in the Veda that militates against the literal interpretation.

² The text has ayam Induh, which, as a synonyme of Soma, implies both the moon and the Soma-juice: it is the former that is here held in view at the expense of consistency: according to Sáyana, Soma is here chandrátmá nabhasi varttamánah, the same as the moon present in the sky, and as, chandragaty-Súkta XVII. (XL.) Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XII.

1. Drink, INDRA, (the Soma) that is effused for thy exhilaration: stop thy friendly steeds: let them loose: sitting in our society, respond to our hymns:¹ give food to him who lauds and worships thee.

2. Drink, INDRA, of this (libation), of which thou, mighty one, hast drunk as soon as born, for excitement to (great) deeds; that Soma-juice which the kine, the priests, the waters, the stones, combine to prepare for thy drinking.

3. The fire is kindled; the Soma, INDRA, is effused: let thy vigorous horses bring thee hither: I invoke thee, INDRA, with a mind wholly devoted to thee: come for our great prosperity;

4. Thou hast ever gone (to similar rites): come now with a great mind disposed to drink the Soma: hear these our praises: may the worshipper present to thee (sacrificial) food for (the nourishment of) thy person.

5. Whether, INDRA, thou abide in the distant heaven, in any other place, or in thine own abode, or adhínatwát tithivibhágáh, the divisions of lunar days are dependent upon the motions of the moon, it may be said to be the cause of days, weeks, months, and years, the first term, aktún, is said by the scholiast to imply fortnights, months, and years, or the longer periods of time: the phrase in the parenthesis is not in the text, but is supplied by the scholiast, twayá píyamanah, to be drunk by thee, but it is justified by the pronoun ayam, this, which could not apply, as something present to the moon.

¹ Uta pra gáya gaņe á nishadya: pragáya is explained asmábhih kritam stotram upaşlokaya, return verses to the praise made by us. wheresoever (thou mayst be), from thence do thou, who art propitiated by praise, putting to thy steeds, protect, together with the MARUTS, well pleased, our sacrifice, for our preservation.

Súkta XVIII. (XLI.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Unirascible (INDRA), come to the sacrifice: the effused juices are purified for thee: they flow, thunderer, (into the pitchers), as cows go to their stalls: come, INDRA, the first of those who are to be worshipped.

2. Drink, INDRA, with that well-formed and expanded tongue wherewith thou ever quaffest the juice of the sweet (Soma): before thee stands the ministrant priest: let thy bolt, INDRA, designed (to recover) the cattle, be hurled (against thy foes).

3. This dropping, omniform Soma, the showerer (of benefits), has been duly prepared for INDRA, the showerer (of rain): lord of steeds, ruler over all, mighty (INDRA), drink this over which thou hast of old presided, which is thy food.

4. The effused Soma, INDRA, is more excellent than that which is not effused: it is better (qualified) to give pleasure to thee, who art capable of judging: overcomer (of enemies), approach this sacrifice, and thereby perfect all thy powers.

5. We invoke thee, INDRA, come down: may the Soma be sufficient for (the satisfaction of) thy person: exult SATAKRATU with the librations, defend us in combats, and against the people.¹

SURTA XIX. (XLII.)

Deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the first three stanzas is Anushtubh, of the last Brihati.

Varga XIV.

1. Offer, (priests), the libation to him who is desirous to drink; who knows all things; whose movements are all-sufficient; who goes readily (to sacrifices); the leader (of holy rites), following no one.¹

2. Proceed to the presence of that deep quaffer of the Soma, with the Soma-juices; to the vigorous INDRA with vessels (filled) with the effused librations.²

3. When, with the effused and flowing Soma-juices, you come into his presence, the sagacious (INDRA) knows your wish, and the suppresser (of enemies) assuredly grants it, whatever it may be.³

4. Offer, priest, to him, and him (only) this libation of (sacrificial) food, and may he ever defend us against the malignity of every superable adversary.

SUKTA XX. (XLIII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre is Ushnih.

Varga XV.

1. This Soma, in the exhilaration of which it is known⁴ that thou hast subdued SAMBARA for (the sake of) DIVODÁSA, is poured out, INDRA, for thee: drink.⁵

¹ Sáma-Veda, 1. 352, and 11. 790.

² This and the two following verses also occur in the Sáma, 11. 791-793.

³ Tam tam id eshate: the repetition of the relative with reference to the antecedent kámam may perhaps be so rendered.

⁴ Yasya tyachchambaram made: tyat is explained by Sáyana as equivalent to tat prasiddham yathá bhavati tathá, such as that which is notorious.

⁵ Sama-Veda, 1. 392.

sarvásu prajásu, not only in wars, but in or against all people: this looks as if the religious party had opponents amongst the people in general.

2. This Soma, the exhilarating draught of which, when fresh effused (at dawn), or at noon, or at the last (or evening worship), thou cherishest, is poured out, INDRA, for thee: drink.

3. This Soma, in the exhibit action of which thou hast liberated the cattle, firm (fastened) within the rock, is poured out, INDRA, for thee: drink.

4. This Soma, exhilarated (by drinking) of which (sacrificial) food thou possesses the might of MAGHA-VAN,¹ is poured out, INDRA, for thee: drink.

SÚKTA I. (XLIV.)

The deity is INDRA; the Rishi is SAMYU, the son of B IHAS-PATI; the metre of the first six stanzas is Anushtubh, of the next three Viráj, of the rest Trishtubh.

1. Opulent INDRA, the Soma that abounds with riches, and is most resplendent with glories, is poured out: it is thy exhilaration INDRA, lord of the offering.²

2. The Soma, possessor of felicity, which gives thee delight, and which is the bestower of riches on thy votaries, is poured out: it is thy exhilaration, INDRA, lord of the offering.

3. The Soma, whereby thou art augmented in strength, and, together with thy defenders, (the MARUTS), art victorious (over thy foes), is poured out: it is thy exhilaration, INDRA, lord of the offering.

4. (Worshippers), for you I glorify that INDRA who disappoints not (his adorers); the lord of strength, the all-subduing, the leader (of rites), the most beautiful, the beholder of the universe.

5. The divine heaven and earth adore that vigour of his, which our hymns augment, the appropriator of the riches of the foe.

6. (Worshippers), the efficacy of your eulogy is to be manifested to that INDRA, whose protections, like (those) of a sensible man,¹ are displayed as abiding along with him.

7. INDRA appreciates him who is skilled (in holy rites): a recent friend, quaffing (the libation), he heaps excellent (wealth) upon the devout: partaking of (the sacrificial) food, (and brought) by his robust agitators² (of the earth, his steeds), he, through his benevolence, is a protector to his friends.

8. The Soma, creator (of all), on the path of sacrifice, has been drunk: the worshippers have presented it to gratify the mind (of INDRA): may he, the humiliator (of his foes), possessing a vast body, propitiated by our praises, become manifest to our view.

² Sthaulábhir dhautaríbhih is explained sthúlábhih kampanaháriníbhih, with the stout causers of trembling: the scholiast supplies vadavábhih yuktah, joined with such mares; ar the epithets, although feminine, the scholiast says may be applied to the Maruts.

¹ Vipo na, medhávina iva; that is, the protective measures or expedients of a sensible or wise man are capable for all affairs, sarva káryakuşaláh.

9. Bestow upon us most brilliant vigour: oppose the numerous enemies of thy worshippers: grant us, for our pious acts, abundant food: secure us in the enjoyment of wealth.

10. INDRA, possessor of affluence, we have recourse to thee, the bountiful: lord of steeds, be not unfavourable to us: no other kinsman is beheld (by us) amongst men: why else have they called thee the bestower of wealth?

11. Give us not up, showerer (of benefits), to the obstructor (of our rites): relying upon the friendship of thee, the lord of riches, may we be unharmed: many are the hindrances (opposed) to thee amongst men: slay those who make no librations, root out those who present no offerings.

12. As INDRA, when thundering, raises the clouds, so he (heaps upon his worshippers) riches of horses and cattle: thou, INDRA, art the ancient upholder of the sacrificer: let not the opulent wrong thee, not presenting (oblations).

13. Ministrant priests offer libations to the mighty INDRA, for he is their king, he who has been exalted by the ancient and recent hymns of adoring sages.

14. In the exhibitration of this Soma, the wise INDRA, irresistible, has destroyed numerous opposing enemies: offer the sweet-flavoured beverage to that hero, the handsome-chinned, to drink.

15. May INDRA be the drinker of this effused Somajuice, and, exhilarated by it, become the destroyer of VRIERA by the thunderbolt: may he come, although from afar, to our sacrifice, (he who is) the giver of dwellings, the upholder of the celebrator (of religious rites).

16. May this ambrosia, the appropriate beverage of INDRA, of which he is fond, be quaffed (by him), so that it may inspire the divinity with favourable feelings (towards us), and that he may remove from us our adversaries, and (all) iniquity.

17. Exhilarated by it, valiant MAGHAVAN, slay our unfriendly adversaries, whether kinsmen or unrelated (to us): put to flight, INDRA, hostile armies menacing us (with their weapons), and slay them.

13. Affluent INDRA, facilitate to us (the acquirement of) vast riches in these our battles: (enable us) to gain the victory: make us prosperous with rain, and with sons and grandsons.

19. Let thy vigorous steeds, harnessed of their own will, drawing thy wish-bestowing chariot, guided by shower-yielding reins, quick-moving, hastening towards us, youthful, thunder-bearing, well-yoked, bring thee to the bountiful, exhilarating (libation).

20. Showerer (of benefits), thy vigorous watershedding steeds, like the waves (of the sea), exulting, are harnessed to thy car; for they, (the priests), offer to thee, the showerer (of benefits), ever youthful, the libation of the Soma-juices expressed by the stones.

Varga XX.

21. Thou, INDRA, art the showerer of heaven, the bedewer of earth, the feeder of the rivers, the supplier of the aggregated (waters): for thee, showerer (of desires), who art the most excellent shedder of rain, the sweet Soma, the honey-flavoured juice, is ready to be quaffed.¹

¹ In this and the two preceding stanzas we have the usual abuse of the derivatives of Vrisha, to sprinkle, to rain; Indra's horses are vrishaná; they draw a vrisha ratha, and are guided

22. This divine Soma, with INDRA for its ally, crushed, as soon as generated, PANI by force: this Soma baffled the devices and the weapons of the malignant secreter of (the stolen) wealth, (the cattle).

23. This Soma made the dawns happily wedded to the sun: this Soma placed the light within the solar orb: this (Soma) has found the threefold ambrosia hidden in heaven in the three bright regions.¹

24. This (Soma) has fixed heaven and earth:² this has harnessed the seven-rayed chariot (of the sun): this Soma has developed of its own will the mature deeply-organized secretion in the kine.³

SÓKTA II. (XLV.)

INDRA is the deity of thirty stanzas, BRIHASPATI of three; the Rishi is SAMYU; the metre of the twenty-ninth verse is Atinichrid, of the thirty-third Anushtubh, of the rest Gáyatrí.

1. May that youthful INDRA, who, by good guidance, brought TURVASA and YADU from afar, (be) our friend.

by vrisha rasmayah: again, the steeds are vrishana, explained, nityaturunau, always young, and Indra is vrishan, vrish, and vrishabha, the showerer of rain or of benefits: in most of the instances a grosser sense is probably implied.

¹ Ayam tridhátu divi rochaneshu, triteshu vindat amritam nigúlham: according to the scholiast, this may merely mean that the Soma becomes as it were ambrosia when received or concealed in the vessels at the three diurnal ceremonies, which ambrosia is properly deposited with the gods abiding in the third bright sphere, or in heaven.

² These functions are ascribed to the Soma as being the source of the energies of Indra, who is the real agent, both in this and the preceding verse, this Indra has made the dawns, &c.

³ Daşayantram utsam is literally a well with ten machines : here utsa is explained by Sáyana, ntsaranasílam, having the 2. INDRA gives sustenance, even to the undevout: he is the conqueror of wealth accumulated (by enemies), through (going against) them with a slowpaced steed.

3. Vast are his designs, manifold are his praises, his protections are never withdrawn.

4. Offer worship and praises, friends, to him who is to be attracted by prayers; for he verily is our great intelligence.

5. Slayer of VRITRA, thou art the protector of one (adorer), or of two, and of such as we are.

6. Thou removest (far from us) those who hate us: thou prosperest those who repeat thy praise: bestower of excellent male descendants,¹ thou art glorified by men.

7. I invoke with hymns INDRA, our friend, who is property of flowing forth, payas, milk: the epithet dasayantram is of a less precise purport, and is somewhat mystified: in one sense it implies aggregated bodily existence, or organs and functions of the body, which are the result of the nutriment furnished to the child by the matured milk, agreeably to a khila, or supplementary verse quoted by the scholiast: chakshuscha srotram-cha, manascha, vák-cha, pránápánau, deha, idam saríram, dwau pratyancháv-anulomau visargáv-etam tam manye dasayantram utsam, I consider the eye, the ear, the mind, the speech, the two vital airs, the form, the body, the two creations inverted and direct, as the tenfold utsa, or state of being: another explanation makes the phrase imply the Soma's being offered with nine texts to Indra and other deities at the morning sacrifice: Aitareya Bráhmana, Panchaha 3, Adhyáya 1.

¹ Suvíra is here explained sobhanair víraih putrapautrádibhir dátavyair-upetah, endowed with or possessed of sons, grandsons, and the like to be given.

Varga XXII.

BRAHMÁ,¹ who is attracted by prayer and entitled to adoration, to milk him as a cow.

8. In the hands of whom, the heroic subduer of hostile armies, (the sages), have declared are all the treasures in both (heaven and earth).

9. Wielder of the thunderbolt, lord of Sachi, demolish the strong (cities) of men : (baffle), unbending (INDRA), their devices.

10. Veracious INDRA, drinker of the Soma, provider of sustenance, we, desirous of food, invoke such as thou art.²

11. (We invoke) thee, such as thou art, thee who hast been invocable of old, and who art now to be invoked for the wealth held (by the foe): hear our invocation.

12. (Favoured) by thee, INDRA, (who art propitiated) by our hymns, (we overcome) with our steeds the steeds (of the enemy), and we conquer abundant food, and the wealth held (by the foe).³

13. Heroic and adorable INDRA, verily thou art mighty in battle, and victor of the wealth held (by the enemy).

14. Destroyer of enemies with that thy velocity, which is of exceeding swiftness, impel our chariots (against the foe).

15. Victorious INDRA, who art the chief of charioteers, conquer the wealth that is held (by the enemy) with our assailing car.

Varga XXIII.

² Tam twá ahúmahi, we invoke the (who art) that, or such as has been described in the preceding verses.

³ The stanza is literally, with praises, by horses, horses, food, excellent Indra by thee, we conquer deposited wealth.

Varga XXIV.

16. Praise that INDRA who alone has been born the supervisor (of all), the lord of men, the giver of rain.

17. INDRA, who hast ever been the friend of those who praise thee, and the insurer of their happiness by thy protection, grant us felicity.

18. Wielder of the thunderbolt, take the bolt in thy hands for the destruction of the $R\acute{a}kshasas$, and utterly overthrow those who defy thee.

19. I invoke the ancient INDRA, the giver of riches, (our) friend, the encourager of his adorers, who is to be propitiated by prayer.

20. He alone rules over all terrestrial riches, he who is entitled to especial praise, he who is irresistible.

21. Lord of cattle, (coming) with thy mares, satisfy our desires completely with (abundant) food, with horses, and with kine.

22. Sing praises, when your libration is poured out, to him who is the invoked of many, the subduer (of foes), giving him gratification, like (fresh pasture) to cattle.¹

23. The giver of dwellings verily withholds not the gift of food conjoined with cattle, when he hears our praises.

24. Then the destroyer of the Dasyus, proceeds to the cattle-crowded folds of Kuvitsa, and by his acts opens them for us.²

25. INDRA, performer of many exploits, these our praises repeatedly recur to thee as parent (cows) to their young.

Varga XXV.

² Ibid. 11. 1017-18: huvitsa is termed merely a certain person who does much (huvit) harm, (syati).

26. Thy friendship, INDRA, is not easily lost: thou, hero, art (the giver of) cattle to him who desires cattle, (of) horses to him who desires horses.

27. Delight thy person with the (beverage of the) libation (offered) for the sake of great treasure: subject not thy worshipper to his reviler.

28. These our praises tend, as the libations are repeatedly poured out, eagerly to thee who art gratified by praise, as the milch kine (hasten) to their calves.

29. May the praises of many worshippers offered at the sacrifice,¹ (accompanied) by (sacrificial) viands, invigorate thee, destroyer of multitudes.

30. May our most elevating praise² be near, INDRA, to thee, and urge us to (the acquirement of) great riches.

31. BRIBU presided over the high places of the PANIS,³ like the elevated bank of the Ganges.⁴

32. Of whom, prompt as the wind, the liberal donation of thousands (of cattle) has been quickly given to (me) soliciting a gift. Varga XXVI.

33. Whom, therefore, we all, who are the profferers and bestowers of praise ever commend, as the pious BRIBU, the donor of thousands (of cattle), the receiver of thousands (of laudations).¹

Súkta III. (XLVI.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the odd verses is Brihati, of the even, Satobrihati.

VargaXXVII.

1. We worshippers invoke thee for the acquirement of food; thee, INDRA, the protector of the good, (do) men (invoke for aid) against enemies, and in places where horses (encounter).²

2. Wonderful wielder of the thunderbolt, INDRA,

² Káshthásu arvatah, in the quarters or regions of the horse, where horses are engaged, or, according to Sáyana, the field of battle: Mahidhara, Yajur-Veda, 27. 37., separates the two words, and explains them, as men invoke thee for victory.

¹ This and the two preceding stanzas form a Tricha in praise of the liberality of a person named Bribu to Bharadwája, the Rishi of the hymn: Sáyana calls him the Takshá, the carpenter or artificer of the Panis: the legend is preserved by Manu, 10. 107., Bharadwájah kshudhárttas-tu saputro nirjane vane, bahvír-gáh pratijagráha Bribos-takshno maháyasah, the illustrious Bharadwája, with his son, distressed by hunger in a lonely forest, accepted many cows from the carpenter Bribu: the Niti Manjari tells the same story, and attributes the Tricha to Sáyu, the son of Bharadwája: the moral of the illustration in Manu and the Níti Manjarí is, that Brahmans, in times of distress, may accept assistance from persons of low castes: the object of the Súkta, although it might be so understood, is rather that persons of inferior condition become eminent by liberality; in which sense Sáyana interprets it játito híno api dátritwát sarvatra sreshtho bhavati, a person inferior by caste becomes everywhere distinguished by generosity.

the lord of clouds,¹ mighty in resolution, being glorified by us, grant us cattle, and horses fit for chariots, as (thou grantest) abundant food to him who is victorious (in battle).²

3. We invoke that INDRA who is the destroyer of mighty foes, the supervisor (of all things): do thou, the many-organed, the protector of the good, the distributor of wealth, be unto us (the insurer of) success in combats.³

4. Such, INDRA, as thou art represented in holy texts,⁴ assail (our) adversaries with fierceness like (that of) a bull in close conflict: regard thyself as our defender in war, (that we may long enjoy) posterity, water, and the (sight of the) sun.⁵

5. INDRA, bring to us most excellent, most invigorating and nutritious food, wherewith, wonderful wielder of the thunderbolt, the handsome-chinned, thou sustainest both heaven and earth.

¹Adrivas is, more properly, wielder of the thunderbolt, but we have just had that epithet in vajrahasta.

² Satrá vájam na jigyushe: the scholiast has satrá, prabhútam, abundant: Mahídhara, Yajush, 27. 38., makes it an epithet of vájam sa-tránam, together with protection: it pleases him also to understand jigyushe, valorous, not as applicable to a man, purusháya, but to a horse or elephant, aswáya hastine vá, which is quite gratuitous: see also Sáma-Veda, 11. 160.

Varga XXVIII. 6. We invoke for protection thee, royal INDRA, who art mighty amongst the gods, the subduer of men; granter of dwellings, repel all evil spirits,¹ and render our enemies easy of discomfiture.

7. Whatever strength and opulence (exist) amongst human beings, whatever be the sustenance of the five classes of men, bring INDRA to us, as well (as) all great manly energies.²

8. Whatever vigour, MAGHAVAN, (existed) in T_{RIKSHU} , in DRUHYU, in PÚRU, bestow fully upon us in conflicts with foes, so that we may destroy our enemies in war.

9. Give, INDRA, to the affluent, and to me also, a sheltering and prosperous dwelling, combining three elements,³ and defending in three ways; and keep from them the blazing (weapon of our foes).

10. Affluent INDRA, propitiated by praise, be nigh to us, as the defender of our persons (against those) who assail (us as) enemies, with a mind bent upon carrying off (our) cattle, or who assault us with arrogance.

protector in battle, in descendants, &c., that is, in securing to us these good things and long life.

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 262.

³ Tridhátu saranam trivarútham, according to Sáyana, of three kinds, tripraháram tribhúmiham, as if the houses were constructed of more than one material, or wood, brick, and stone: in his scholia on the Sáman, 1. 266, he explains it variously, as containing three kinds of beings, gods, men, and spirits; or three precious things, gold, silver, diamonds; or three states of being, desire, action, avarice: trivarútham is similarly explained in both his scholia as sheltering or protecting from three conditions of the atmosphere, cold, heat, rain. 11. INDRA, be (favourable) at present to our success: protect our leader in battle when the feathered, sharppointed, shining shafts fall from the sky.

12. When heroes rest their persons (until abandoning) the pleasant abodes of their progenitors:¹ grant us, for ourselves and our posterity, an unsuspected defence,² and scatter our enemies.

13. (At the time) when, in the effort (made) in an arduous conflict, thou urgest our horses over an uneven road, like falcons darting upon their food through the difficult path (of the firmament).

14. Rushing rapidly like rivers in their downward course, and although neighing loudly through terror, they yet, tight-girthed, return repeatedly (to the conflict) for cattle, like birds darting on their prey.

Súkta IV. (XLVII.)

The deities of this hymn are very various: that of the first five stanzas is the Soma-juice; of the first quarter of the twentieth the gods; of the second, the earth; of the third, BRIHASPATI;

¹ Priyá sarma pitrínám is explained priyáni sthánáni janahánám sambandhíni, the beloved places in relation with progenitors, but the want of a verb makes the sense doubtful: the scholiast extends to it the government of vitanvate, tanvo vitanvate, they spread out or rest their persons; or they spread out, he says, before the enemy the sites won by their forefathers until they abandon them, parityajanti yávat: perhaps it should be, until they, the enemy, desist from the attack.

² Chhardirachittam the commentator renders havacham satrubhir ajnátam, armour unknown by the enemies; the connexion of the sense runs through the two following verses: the unknown armour is solicited when a charge of horse takes place: it may possibly allude to the superiority of the arms of the Áryas, the mail worn by them being unknown to the Dasyus, or barbarians, like the steel helmets or cuirasses of the Spaniards to the Mexicans and Peruvians.

and of the fourth, INDRA; the deity of the twenty-second and three following verses is PRASTOKA, the son of the Raja SRINJAYA, whose liberality they celebrate; of the twentysixth and two succeeding verses, forming a Tricha, the Ratha or chariot is the deity; of the next three, another Tricha, the Dundubhi or drum; INDRA is the deity of the rest; the Rishi is GARGA, the son of BRIHASPATI; the metre of the nineteenth stanza is Brihati, of the twenty-third Anushtubh, of the twenty-fourth Gáyatri, of the twenty-fifth Dwipadi, of the twenty-seventh Jagati, of the rest Trishtubh.

Varga XXX.

1. Savoury indeed is this (Soma); sweet is it, sharp, and full of flavour: no one is able to encounter INDRA in battles after he has been quaffing this (beverage).

2. This savoury Soma, drunk on this occasion, has been most exhibitrating: by drinking of it INDRA has been elevated to the slaying of VRITRA, and it has destroyed the numerous hosts of SAMBARA and the ninety-nine cities.¹

3. This beverage inspires my speech; this developes the desired intelligence: this sagacious (Soma) has created the six vast conditions,² from which no creature is distinct.

5. This makes known the wonderfully beautiful and inspiring (solar radiance) at the appearance of the dawns, whose dwelling is the firmament: this mighty (Soma) has sustained the heaven with a powerful support, the sender of rain, the leader of the winds.

6. Hero, INDRA, who art the slayer of foes in contests for (the acquirement of) treasures, drink boldly from the pitcher: drink copiously at the noon-day rite: receptacle of riches, bestow riches upon us.

7. Like one who goes before us, INDRA, (on the road), look out,¹ bring before us infinite wealth; be our conductor beyond the bounds (of want), convey us safely over (peril); be our careful guide, our guide to desirable (affluence).

8. Do thou, INDRA, who art wise, conduct us to the spacious world (of heaven), to a blessed state of happiness, light, and safety: may we recline in the grace-ful, protecting, and mighty arms of thee the ancient one.

9. Place us, possessor of riches, in thy ample chariot, (behind) thy powerful horses: bring to us from among all viands the most excellent food: let not, MAGHAVAN, any opulent man surpass us in wealth.

precede and follow, as (a man) throws out his feet (alternately in walking).¹

16. The hero INDRA is renowned; humiliating every formidable (foe), and repeatedly changing the place of one (worshipper) with that of another; INDRA, the enemy of the arrogant, the sovereign of both (heaven and earth), calls again and again (to encourage) the men who are his worshippers.

17. INDRA rejects the friendship of those who are foremost (in pious acts), and, despoiling them, associates with (their) inferiors: or (again) shaking off those who neglect his worship, INDRA abides many years with those who serve him.

18. INDRA, the prototype, has assumed various forms, and such is his form as that which (he adopts) for his manifestation:² INDRA, multiform by his illusions, proceeds (to his many worshippers), for the horses yoked to his car are a thousand.³

19. Yoking his horses to his car, TWASHTRI⁴ shines in many places here in the three worlds: who (else), sojourning daily amongst his present worshippers, is their protector against adversaries?

³ His chariots and horses are multiplied according to the forms in which he manifests himself: agreeably to the Vaidántík interpretation of the stanza, Indra is here identified with Parameswara, the supreme first cause, identical with creation.

⁴ Sáyana regards this name as, in this place, an appellative of Indra.

Varga XXXIII.

¹ That is, Indra, at his pleasure, makes the first of his worshippers the last, and the last the first.

² Indra presents himself as Agni, Vishnu, or Rudra, or any other deity who is the actual object of worship, and is really the deity to be adored: he is identifiable with each.

20. We have wandered, gods, into a desert where there is no track of cattle:¹ the vast extant earth has become the protectress of murderers: direct us, BRIHASPATI, in our search for cattle: shew the path, INDRA, to thy votary being thus astray.²

21. INDRA, becoming manifest from his abode (in the firmament), dissipates, day by day, the resembling glooms, (so that he may distinguish) the other portion, (or the day); and the showerer has slain the two wealth-seeking slaves, VARCHIN and SAMBARA, in (the country of) Udavraja.³

22. PRASTOKA has given to thy worshipper INDRA, ten purses of gold,⁴ and ten horses, and we have accepted this treasure from DIVODÁSA, the spoil won by ATITHIGWAN⁵ from SAMBARA.

23. I have received ten horses, ten purses, clothes, and ample food, and ten lumps of gold from DIVODÁSA.

24. ASWATTHA has given to PAYU ten chariots⁶ with their horses, and a hundred cows to the priests.

² Garga, the author of the Súhta, having, it is said, lost his way in a desert, repeated this stanza to Brihaspati and Indra, who thereupon enabled him to regain his road.

³ So Sáyana explains Udavraja, desa viseshah, a sort of country, one into which the waters flow, udaháni vrajanty-asmin.

⁴ Dasa kosayíh, suvarnapúrnán dasakosán, the ten bags or chests full of gold.

⁵ Prastoka, Divodása, and Atithigwan, are different names of the same person, a Rája, the son of Srinjaya.

⁶ Atharvabhyah is the term in the text which Sáyana explains, to the Rishis of the Atharvagotra: Páyu is the brother of Garga; Aswattha is the same as Prastoha.

474

Varga XXXIV. 25. The son of SRINJAYA has reverenced the BHA-RADWÁJAS who have accepted such great wealth for the good of all men.

26. (Chariot made of the) forest lord, be strong of fabric; be our friend; be our protector, and be manned by warriors:¹ thou art girt with cow-hides:² keep us steady; and may he who rides in thee be victorious over conquered (foes).

27. Worship with oblations the chariot constructed of the substance of heaven and earth, the extracted essence of the forest lords; the velocity of the waters; the encompassed with the cow-hide; the thunderbolt (of INDRA).

28. Do thou, divine chariot, who art the thunderbolt of INDRA, the precursor of the MARUTS, the embryo of MITRA, the navel of VARUNA,³ propitiated by this our sacrifice, accept the oblation.

¹ Suviro bhava, Sáyana explains súrabhattaih putrádibhir vá yuktah, joined with warriors, or with sons and the rest: the latter could scarcely be predicated of a car, except as the source, figuratively speaking, of prosperity, and so far of descendants.

² Gobhih sannadhosi: literally, thou art bound together by cows: but both Sáyana and Mahídhara, Yajur-Veda, 29. 52., explain this govikáraih, by what are formed from cattle: so, in the next verse, gobhir-ávritam is interpreted charmabhih parita áveshtitam, encompassed round with hides, as if the exterior of the war-chariot especially were so strengthened: Mahídhara gives us an alternative, encompassed with rays of light, or with splendours, gobhih, tejobhih.

³ Marutám aníkam, Mitrasya garbho, Varuṇasya nábhih: aníkam the scholiast interprets agrabhútam, being before, outstripping in speed; Mahídhara explains it mukhyam, principal or leader; the garbha of Mitra, Sáyaṇa endeavours to make Varga XXXV. 29. War-drum, fill with your sound both heaven and earth; and let all things, fixed or moveable, be aware of it: do thou, who art associated with INDRA and the gods, drive away our foes to the remotest distance.

30. Sound loud against the (hostile) host: animate our prowess: thunder aloud, terrifying the evilminded: repel, drum, those whose delight it is to harm us: thou art the fist of INDRA; inspire us with fierceness.

31. Recover these our cattle, INDRA; bring them back: the drum sounds repeatedly as a signal: our leaders, mounted on their steeds, assemble: may our warriors, riding in their cars, INDRA, be victorious.¹

sense of, by saying, the car is to be considered as contained by Mitra, the ruler of the day, as moving by day, whilst by the nábhi of Varuņa it is intimated to be a fixed point or centre for the deity ruling over the night, when the car of Indra or Súrya stands still: Mahídhara derives garbha from gri, to praise, and considers mitrasya garbha equivalent to súryena stúyamána, to be praised by the sun: nábhi he derives from nabh, to injure, and translates it, the weapon of Varuṇa: both scholiasts labour superfluously to attach meaning to what was never intended to have any.

¹ This and the two preceding verses occur in the Yajush, 29. 55-57.

ADHYÁYA VIII.

SÚKTA V. (XLVIII.)

This hymn presents an unusual variety of deities and metres; the deity of the first ten stanzas is AGNI; the metre of the first, third, fifth, and ninth is Brihati; of the second, fourth, and tenth, Satobrihati; of the seventh, Mahábrihati; and of the eighth and tenth, Mahásatobrihati: the deities of the next five verses are the MARUTS; the metre of the eleventh is Kakubh; of the twelfth, Satobrihati; of the thirteenth, Puru-ushnih; of the fourteenth, Brihati; and of the fifteenth, Atijagati; PúSHAN is the deity of the next four stanzas, and their metres are respectively Kakubh, Satobrihati, Puru-ushnih and Brihati: PRISNI is the divinity of the twentieth and twenty-first verses, as well as of the twentysecond, which, however, may be dedicated to Heaven and Earth: the metres of these last three stanzas are, severally, Brihati, Yavamadhyá-Mahábrihati, and Anushtubh.

1. At every sacrifice (honour) the mighty AGNI with your reiterated praise, whilst we glorify him, the immortal, who knows all things, our dear friend¹—

2. The son of strength, for he verily is propitious to us; to whom let us offer oblations as to the conveyer of them (to the gods): may he be our defender in battles: may he be our benefactor and the grandsire of our offspring.

4. AGNI, who art the showerer (of benefits), mighty, and exempt from decay, thou shinest with (great) splendour; thou art resplendent, brilliant (AGNI), with unfading lustre: shine forth with glorious rays.

4. Thou sacrificest to the mighty gods: sacrifice (for us) continually, for (sacrifice is perfected) by thy wisdom and thy acts: bring them down, AGNI, for our salvation: present (to them) the sacrificial food, partake of it thyself.

5. (Thou art he) whom the waters, the mountains, the woods,¹ nourish as the embryo of sacrifice; who, churned with strength by the performers (of the rite), art generated in the highest place of the earth.

6. He who fills both heaven and earth with light, who mounts with smoke into the sky, this radiant showerer (of benefits) is beheld in the dark nights dispersing the gloom; this radiant showerer (of benefits) presides over the dark nights.

7. Divine, resplendent AGNI, youngest (of the gods), when kindled by BHARADWÁJA, shines with many flames, with pure lustre, (conferring) riches upon us; shine, resplendent purifier.

8. Thou, AGNI, art the lord of the dwelling,² and of all men the descendants of MANU: protect me, youngest (of the gods), when kindling thee, with a hundred defences against iniquity: (grant me) a hundred winters, (as well as to those) who bestow gifts upon thy worshippers.

9. Wonderful (AGNI), giver of dwellings, encourage us by (thy) protection, and (the gift of) riches, for thou art the conveyer, AGNI, of this wealth: quickly bestow permanence upon our progeny.¹

10. Thou protectest with uninjurable, irremoveable defences (our) sons and grandsons: remove far from us celestial wrath and human malevolence.²

11. Approach, friends, the milk-yielding cow with a new song, and let her loose unharmed.³

12. She who yields immortal food to the powerful, self-irradiating band of the MARUTS, who (is anxious) for the gratification of the self-moving MARUTS, who traverses the sky with (the passing waters), shedding delight.4

13. Milk for BHARADWAJA the two-fold (blessing). the cow that gives milk to the universe, food that is sufficient for all.

14. I praise you, the (company of MARUTS), for the distribution of wealth; (the company that), like INDRA, is the achiever of great deeds; sagacious like VARUNA; adorable as ARYAMAN, and munificent as VISHNU.

संदर्भन जयत

³ The milch cow, dhenu, is here introduced because this is the first of a series of stanzas of which the Maruts are the deities, either with reference to the milk which is their appropriate offering at sacrifices, or to Prisni, the mythological mother of the Maruts, in the form of a cow.

⁴ The text has only sumnair-evayávarí: the first is explained by the scholiast, being with the means of happiness, sukhahetubhútaih, the substantive being implied in the compound attributive of dhenu, or evayávarí, from eva, who or what goes, as a horse, or the water of mid-air, the rain, and yávarí, she who goes with, saha yáti yá, that is, who proceeds with rains, giving pleasure to others, anyeshám sukhártham vrishtijalaih saha gachchhantí.

Varga III.

² Sáma-Veda, 11. 974.

15. I now (glorify) the brilliant vigour of the company of the MARUTS, loud-sounding, irresistible, cherishing, whereby hundreds and thousands (of treasures) are bestowed collectively upon men; may that (company) make hidden wealth manifest; may it render the wealth easily accessible to us.

16. Hasten, PÚSHAN, to me: (repel), bright deity, (all) deadly assailing foes: close at thy side I repeat thy praise.¹

17. Uproot not, PÚSHAN, the forest lord, with its progeny of crows:² utterly destroy those who are my revilers: let not the adversary ensnare me, as (fowlers) set snares for birds.³

18. May thy friendship be unbroken, like (the surface) of a skin without a flaw, containing curds.⁴

19. Supreme art thou above mortals: equal in glory art thou to the gods: therefore, PÚSHAN, regard us (favourably) in battles: defend us at present as (thou hast defended) those of old.

20. MARUTS, agitators, especially to be adored, may your kind and true speech be our conductress; that pleasant (speech which is the guide) to desirable (wealth) for both gods and sacrificing mortals.

³ Evá chana gríva ádadhate veh, even as sometimes they place snares for a bird: grívá is said to have here the unusual signification of dámam, jálarúpam, a snare of the nature of a net.

⁴ Such a skin of curds, Sáyana says, is always carried in Púshan's chariot.

Varga IV.

² Káhambíram vanaspatim: the first is said by the scholiast to imply metaphorically the author of the Súhta, with his children and dependents.

21. Whose functions spread quickly round the heavens, like (the light of) the divine sun, since the MARUTS possess brilliant, foe-humiliating, and adorable foe-destroying strength, most excellent foe-destroying strength.

22. Once, indeed, was the heaven generated; once was the earth born;¹ once was the milk of PRISNI drawn: other than that was not similarly generated.²

SÚKTA VI. (XLIX.)

The deities are the VISWADEVAS; RIJISWAN, the son of BHA-RADWÁJA is the Rishi; the metre is Trishtubh, except in the last verse, in which is Sakwari.

1. I commend with new hymns the man observant of his duty,³ and the beneficent MITRA and VARUNA: may they, the mighty ones, VARUNA, MITRA, AGNI, come to our rite, and listen (to our praises).

2. (I incite the worshipper) to offer worship to AGNI, who is to be adored at the sacrifices of every man; whose acts are free from arrogance; the lord of two youthful (brides, heaven and earth); the child of heaven, the son of strength, the brilliant symbol of sacrifice.

² Tadanyo nánujáyate is similarly explained; tatah param anyah padárthastatsadriso notpadyate, after that another object or thing like that (object or thing) is not produced.

³ Stushe janam suvratam the scholiast interprets daivyam janam, the divine people, decasangham, the company of the gods, which is not incompatible with the purport of the hymn.

Varga V.

¹ This is rather at variance with the doctrine of the succession of worldly existences, but the scholiast so understands it : sakrid ha dyaur ajayata, utpadyate, and once born it is permanent, sakrid-utpannaiva sthitá bhavatí, or, being destroyed, no other similar heaven is born, na punas-tasyám nashtáyám anyá tatsadrisí dyaur jáyate.

3. May the two daughters of the radiant $(sun)^1$ of various form, of whom one glitters with stars, the other (is bright) with the sun, mutually opposed, proceeding diversely, purifying (all things), and entitled to our laudation, be pleased by the praise they hear (from us).

4. May our earnest praise proceed to the presence of VÁYU, the possessor of vast riches, the desired of all, the filler of his chariot (with wealth for his worshippers): most adorable (VÁYU), who art riding in a radiant car, and driving your Nigut (steeds), do thou, who art far-seeing, shew favour to the sage,² (thine adorer).

5. May that splendid car of the Aswins, which is harnessed at a thought, clothe my form (with radiance): that (car) with which, NASATYAS, leaders (of rites), you go to the dwelling (of the worshipper) to fulfil his desires for his posterity and himself.

Varga VI.

6. PARJANYA and VÁTA, showerers of rain, send from the firmament available waters: sage MARUTS, hearers of truth, establishers of the world, multiply the moveable³ (wealth of him) by whose praises (you are propitiated).

7. May the purifying, amiable,⁴ graceful SARA-

8. May (the worshipper), influenced by the hope (of reward), approach with praise the adorable (Pú-SHAN), protector of all paths:¹ may he bestow upon us cows with golden horns: may PúSHAN bring to perfection our every rite.²

9. May the illustrious AGNI, the invoker of the gods, worship (with this oblation), TWASHTRI, the first divider (of forms), the renowned, the giver of food, the well-handed, the vast, the adored of house-holders,³ the readily invoked.

10. Exalt RUDRA, the parent of the world, with these hymns by day; (exalt) RUDRA (with them) by night; animated by the far-seeing, we invoke him, mighty, of pleasing aspect, undecaying, endowed with felicity, (the source of) prosperity.

11. Ever youthful, wise, and adorable MARUTS, come to the praise of your adorer: thus augmenting, leaders (of rites), and spreading (through the firma-

12. Offer adoration to the valiant, powerful, swiftmoving (company of the MARUTS), as the herdsman (drives his) herd to their stall: may that (company) appropriate to its own body the praises of the pious worshipper, as the firmament (is studded) with stars.

13. May we be happy in a home, in riches, in person, in children, bestowed upon us by thee, VISHNU, who with three (steps) made the terrestrial regions for MANU when harrassed (by the Asuras).

14. May AHIRBUDHNYA³ (propitiated) by (our) hymns, and PARVATA⁴ and SAVITRI give us food with water: may the bountiful (gods supply us), in addition, with vegetable (grains);⁵ and may the all-wise

² Achitram chid hi jinvatha: chitram is said to mean a place thick with shrubs and trees: with the negative prefix it implies the contrary, a place with little timber: the Maruts are solicited to satisfy such a place, with rain understood.

³ Budhna is explained antariksha, firmament, and budhnya is, what or who is there born: ahi is interpreted he who goes, that is, in the sky, but the etymology is not satisfactory.

⁴ The commentator is rather at a loss to explain Parvata: it may mean, he says, the filler, púrayitri, or the wielder of the thunderbolt, parvavad-vajram, tadván; or enemy of the mountain, gireh satru: in either sense it is obviously Indra.

⁵ Tad oshadhibhir-abhi; oshadhayas tilamáshádayah, the vegetables are sesamum, pulse, and the like.

¹ Nahshanto angiraswat the scholiast renders angirasah, gamanasilarasmayah, rays endowed with motions: te yathá sighram nabhastalam vyapnuvanti tad vat, as they spread quickly through the sky, so (do the winds): or if angiras retain its more usual signification of Rishi or Rishis, so named, then the property of rapid movement is assigned to them, yad vá *Rishayas*tad vach-chhighragáminah.

BHAGA be propitious (to us) for (the acquirement of) riches.

15. Grant us, (universal gods), riches, comprehending chariots, numerous dependants, many male offspring, (wealth) the giver of efficiency to the solemn rite, and a dwelling free from decay, wherewith we may overcome malevolent men and unrighteous (spirits), and afford support to those people who are devoted to the gods.

ANUVÁKA V.

Súkta I. (L.)

The deities are various; the Rishi is RIJISWAN; the metre is Trishtubh.

1. I invoke with adorations, for the sake of felicity, the divine ADITI and VARUNA, MITRA and AGNI, AR-YAMAN, the overthrower of foes, worthy of devotion, SAVITRI and BHAGA, and (all) protecting divinities.

2. Radiant SúRYA, render the luminous deities, who have DAKSHA for their progenitor,¹ void of offence towards us; they who are twice born,² desirous of sacrifice, observant of truth, possessors of wealth, deserving of worship, whose tongue is AGNI.

3. Or bestow, Heaven and Earth, vast strength:

² Dwijanmánah, they who have two births, means, agreeably to Sáyana, they who are manifest or present in two spheres, heaven and earth.

Varga VIII.

¹ Dahshapitrín, dahshapitámaho yeshám, they of whom Dahsha is the grandfather: the grandchildren of Dahsha, however, were sundry sentiments and passions: see Vishnu Purána, 55., and pitri, therefore, must here be understood, according to Sáyana, only in the general sense of priority or seniority.

give us, Earth and Heaven, a spacious habitation for our comfort: so arrange, that infinite wealth may be ours; remove, beneficent deities, iniquity from our abode.

4. May the sons of RUDRA, givers of dwellings, the unsubdued, invoked on this occasion, stoop down to us, inasmuch as we call upon the divine MARUTS that they may be our helpers in difficulty, great or small.

5. With whom the divine Heaven and Earth are associated; whom PúSHAN, the rewarder (of his worshippers) with prosperity, honours: when, MARUTS, having heard our invocation, you come hither, then on your several paths all beings tremble.

Varga IX.

6. Praise, worshipper, with a new hymn, that hero, INDRA, who is deserving of praise: may he, so glorified, hear our invocation: may he, so lauded, bestow upon us abundant food.

7. Waters, friendly to mankind, grant uninterrupted (life)-preserving (food) for (the perpetuation of our) sons and grandsons; grant us security and the removal (of all evil),¹ for you are more than maternal physicians; you are the parents of the stationary and moveable universe.

8. May the adorable, golden-handed SAVITEI, the preserver, come to us; he, the munificent, who, like the opening of the dawn, displays desirable (riches) to the offerer of the oblation.

9. And do thou, son of strength, bring back to day the deities to this our sacrifice: may I be ever in

10. Wise NÁSATYAS come quickly to my invocation (united) with holy acts: (extricate us) from thick darkness, as thou didst extricate ATRI: protect us, leaders (of rites), from danger in battle.

11. Be unto us, gods, the donors of splendid, invigorating riches, comprising male descendants, and celebrated by many: celestial ADITYAS, terrestrial VASUS, offspring of PRISNI, children of the waters,¹ granting our desires, make us happy,

12. May RUDRA and SARASWATÍ, alike well pleased, and VISHNU and VÁYU, make us happy, sending rain; and RIBHUKSHIN, and VÁJA, and the divine VIDHÁTRI: and may PARJANYA and VÁTA grant us abundant food.

13. And may the divine SAVITRI and BHAGA, and the grandson of the waters, (AGNI), the prodigal of gifts, preserve us; and may TWASHTRI with the gods, and Earth with the seas, (preserve us).

14. May AHIRBUDHNYA, AJA-EKAPÁD, and Earth and Ocean, hear us; may the universal gods, who are exalted by sacrifice, they who are invoked and praised (by us), to whom mystical prayers are addressed, and who have been glorified by (ancient) sages, preserve us.²

15. Thus do my sons, of the race of BHARADWÁJA, worship the gods with sacred rites and holy hymns; and so, adorable (deities), may you, who are worshipped and glorified, the givers of dwellings, the invincible, universal gods, ever be adored, (together with your) wives.

Súkta II. (LI.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre of the thirteenth and two following verses is Ushnih, of the sixteenth Anushtulh, and of the rest Trishtubh.

1. The expansive, illuminating, unobstructive, pure, and beautiful radiance of the sun, grateful to MITRA and VARUNA, having risen, shines like the ornament of the sky.

2. He who knows the three cognisable (worlds); the sage (who knows) the mysterious birth of the divinities (abiding in them);¹ he who is beholding the good and evil acts of mortals, he, the sun, the lord, makes manifest their intentions.

3. I praise you, protectors of the solemn sacrifice, the well-born ADITI, MITRA and VARUNA, and ARYA-MAN and BHAGA: I celebrate the gods whose acts are unimpeded, the bestowers of wealth, the dispensers of purity;

4. The scatterers of the malevolent, the defenders of the virtuous, the irresistible, the mighty lords, the donors of good dwellings, ever young, very powerful, omnipresent, leaders of heaven, the sons of ADITI: I have recourse to ADITI, who is gratified by mine adoration.

5. Father Heaven, innocent mother Earth, brother

AGNI, and you, VASUS, grant us happiness: all you sons of ADITI, and thou ADITI, alike well-pleased, bestow upon us ample felicity.

6. Subject us not, adorable (deities), to the robber or his wife;¹ nor to any one designing us harm; for you are the regulators of our persons, of our strength, of our speech.

7. Let us not suffer for the sin committed by another: let us not do that which, VASUS, you prohibit: you rule, universal gods, over the universe: (so provide that) mine enemy may inflict injury on his own person.

8. Reverence be to the potent (company of universal gods): I offer (them) reverence: reverence sustains both earth and heaven:² reverence be to the gods: reverence is sovereign over them: I explate by reverence whatever sin may have been committed.

9. Adorable (deities), I venerate with reverential salutations all you who are mighty, the regulators of your sacrifice,³ of pure vigour, dwellers in the chamber of worship, unsubdued, far-seeing, leaders (of rites).

10. May they, exceeding in splendour, so guide us, that all iniquities may disappear; they, the very powerful VARUNA, MITRA, AGNI, practisers of truth, and faithful to those who are prominent in (their) praise.

11. May they, INDRA, EARTH, PÚSHAN, BHAGA, ADITI, and the five orders of beings, give increase to our habitations: may they be to us granters of happiness, bestowers of food, guides to good, our gracious defenders and preservers.

12. May the presenter of the oblation, BHARA-DWÁJA quickly obtain, gods, a celestial abode, as he solicits your good-will: the institutor of the ceremony, together with pious associates, desirous of riches, glorifies the assembly of the gods.

13. Drive away, AGNI, to a distance the wicked, felonious, malignant enemy: grant us felicity, protector of the virtuous.¹

14. These our grinding stones are anxious, Soma, for thy friendship: destroy the voracious PANi, for verily he is a wolf.²

15. You are munificent and illustrious, gods, with INDRA for your chief: be with us, protectors, on the road, and grant us happiness.

16. We have travelled along the road prosperously traversed and free from evil, and by which (a man) avoids adversaries and acquires wealth.

SÚKTA III. (LII.)

The deities and Rishi as before; the metre of the first six, the thirteenth, and three last verses, is Trishtubh, of the second six Gáyatrí, and of the fourteenth Jagatí.

2. MARUTS, may the energies of that man be enfeebled: may heaven consume that impious adversary² who thinks himself superior to us, and who pretends to depreciate the worship that we offer.

3. Why have they called thee, Soma, the protector of pious prayer? why (have they called thee) our defender against calumny? why dost thou behold us subjected to reproach? cast thy destroying weapon upon the adversary of the Brahman.

4. May the opening dawns preserve me: may the swelling rivers preserve me: may the firm-set mountains preserve me: may the progenitors (present) at the invocation of the gods preserve me.

5. May we at all seasons be possessed of sound minds: may we ever behold the rising sun: such may the affluent lord of riches, (AGNI), render us, ever most ready to come (at our invocation), charged with our oblation to the gods.

a trader, a greedy trafficker, who gives no offerings to the gods, no presents to the priests: hence he is come to be identified with an asura, or enemy of the gods: vrika may be also rendered a robber, an extortioner, from the root vrik, to seize or take away, ádáne.

¹ According to Sáyana, Rijiswan here pronounces an imprecation upon Atiyája, a rival priest.

² Brahmadwisham, and again, in the next verse, brahmadwishe: the first is explained by Sáyana simply tam satrum, that enemy, with reference to the word brahma, which has gone before, religious act or praise, the enemy or obstructer of prayer or praise: in the second place he interprets it bráhmana dweshtri, the hater or enemy of the Brahman.

Varga XV.

6. May INDRA be most prompt to come nigh for our protection, and SARASWATÍ dwelling with (tributary) rivers: may PARJANYA, with the plants, be a giver of happiness; and may AGNI, worthily praised and earnestly invoked, (be to us) like a father.

7. Come, universal gods, hear this my invocation: sit down upon this sacred grass.

8. Come, gods, to him who honours you with the butter-dripping oblation.

9. May the sons of the immortal 1 hear our praises, and be to us the givers of felicity.

10. Universal gods, augmenters of sacrifice listening to praises (uttered) at due seasons, accept your appropriate milk-offering.²

11. INDRA, with the company of the MARUTS, MITRA, with TWASHT'I and ARYAMAN, accept our praise and these our oblations.

12. AGNI, invoker of the gods, cognizant (which of) the divine assembly (is to be honoured), offer this our sacrifice according to the proper order.

13. Universal gods, hear this my invocation, whether you be in the firmament or in the heaven: you who (receive oblations) by the tongue of AGNI, or are to be (otherwise) worshipped: seated on this sacred grass, be exhibited (by the Soma).

14. May the adorable, universal deities, and both

Varga XVI.

¹ Amritasya sunavah the scholiast calls the sons of Prajápati, the Viswadevas: so Sáma-Veda, 11. 945, Yajur-Veda, 33. 77.

² Yujyam payas, a mixture of milk and curds termed ámikshá, as the text, tapte payasi dudhyánayati sá vaíswadevyámikshá, when the milk is boiled he brings the curds, that is, the ámikshá, proper for the Viswadevas.

heaven and earth, and the grandson of the waters, hear my praise: let me not utter words to be disregarded, but let us, (brought) most nigh unto you, rejoice in the happiness (you bestow).

15. May those mighty deities, having power to destroy,¹ whether they have been manifested upon earth or in heaven, or in the abode of the waters, bestow upon us and our posterity² abundant sustenance both by night and day.

16. AGNI and PARJANYA, prosper my pious acts: (accept), you who are reverently invoked, our praise at this sacrifice: one of you generates food, the other posterity:³ grant us, therefore, food productive of descendants.

17. When the sacred grass is strewn; when the fire is kindled, and when I worship (you) with a hymn, and with profound veneration, then, adorable universal gods, rejoice in the oblation (offered) to-day at this our sacrifice.

SÚKTA IV. (LIII.)

The deity is Púshan; the Rishi BHARADWÁJA; the metre of the eighth verse is Anushtubh, of the rest Gáyatrí.

1. PÚSHAN, lord of paths,⁴ we attach thee to us like

Varga XVII.

¹ Ahimáyáh is explained áhantri-prajņáh, having the wisdom or knowledge that kills.

² Asmabhyam ishaye; the latter, ishi, is derived from ish, to wish, and is explained putrádi, sons and the rest, asmabhyam tasmai cha, to us and to it, that is, posterity, as the object of desire.

³ Ilám anyo janayat garbham anyah: Parjanya, by sending rain, causes the growth of corn, and Agni, as the main agent in digestion, produces the vigour necessary for procreation.

a chariot, for (the sake of) bringing food, and of (accomplishing our) solemnity.

2. Conduct to us a gracious householder, friendly to men, liberal in (bestowing) wealth,¹ the giver of pious donations.

3. Resplendent Púshan, instigate the niggard to liberality, soften the heart of the miser.

4. Fierce Púshan, select (fit) roads for the passage of provisions: drive away all obstructors, (thieves, or the like), so that our holy rites may be accomplished.

5. Pierce with a goad² the hearts of the avaricious, wise Púshan, and so render them complacent towards us.

6. Pierce with a goad, Púshan, the heart of the avaricious; generate generosity in his heart, and so render him complacent towards us.

7. Abrade, wise Púshan, the hearts of the avaricious; relax (their hardness), and so render them complacent towards us.

8. Resplendent PÚSHAN, with that food-propelling goad which thou bearest, abrade the heart of every miser, and render it relaxed.

9. Resplendent Púshan, we ask of thee the service of that thy weapon, which is the guide of cows, the director of cattle.

10. Make our pious worship productive of cows, of horses, of food, of dependants, for our enjoyment.

Varga XVIII.

¹ Vasuvíram, literally, a hero of riches, that is, according to the scholiast, one who is especially the instigator of poverty to acquire wealth, dhanam abhipráptum víram dáridrasya viseshenerayitáram.

² Paritrindhi árayá: árá is described as a stick with a slender point of iron; pratoda, a goad; the common vernacular derivative, árah, is a saw.

Súkta V. (LIV.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

1. Bring us, PÚSHAN, into communication with a visual wise man who may rightly direct us, who may even say, this is so.¹

2. May we, by the favour of PúSHAN, come in communication with (the man) who may direct us to the houses (where our goods are secreted), and may say, verily these are they.

3. The discus of Púshan does not destroy; its sheath is not discarded, its edge harms not us.

4. PÚSHAN inflicts not the least injury on the man who propitiates him by oblations: he is the first who acquires wealth.

5. May Púshan come to (guard) our cattle, may Púshan protect our horses; may Púshan give us food.

6. Come, PÚSHAN, to (guard) the cattle of the institutor of the rite presenting libations, and also of us repeating (thy) praises.

7. Let not, PúSHAN, our cattle perish; let them not be injured; let them not be hurt by falling into a well; come, therefore, along with them unharmed.

8. We solicit riches of Púshan, who hears (our eulogies); who is the averter (of poverty); the preserver of that which is not lost, the ruler (over all).

Varga XX.

Varga XIX.

¹ Ya evedam iti bravat: Sáyaṇa's explanation of this is curious, and is justified by what follows: by Vidushá, a wise man, he understands a cunning man, a conjurer : the last phrase he therefore interprets to mean, one who says, this, your property, has been lost, and the passage that precedes he explains as directing the way to the recovery of the lost or stolen goods: this is a new attribute of Púshan as the patron of fortune-tellers and recoverers of stolen property.

9. May we never suffer detriment when engaged, Púshan, in thy worship: we are at this time thine adorers.¹

10. May Púshan put forth his right hand (to restrain our cattle) from going astray: may he bring again to us that which has been lost.

SÚKTA VI. (LV.)

Deity, Rishi, and metre as before.

Varga XXI.

1. Come illustrious grandson of PRAJÁPATI² to (me thy) worshipper:³ let us two be associated: become the conveyer of our sacrifice.

2. We solicit riches of our friend, (Púshan), the chief of charioteers, the wearer of a braid (of hair),⁴ the lord of infinite wealth.

3. Illustrious Púshan, thou art a torrent of riches: thou, who hast a goat for thy steed, art a heap of wealth; the friend of every worshipper.

4. We glorify Púshan, the rider of the goat, the giver of food, him who is called the gallant of his sister.⁵

² Vimucho napát: the first is rendered by Prajápati as he who, at the period of creation, lets loose, vimunchati, visrijati, all creatures from himself, swasahását sarváh prajáh.

³ Ehi vám: vá, according to Sáyana, here means praiser, from the root vá, to go, to have odour, vám gantáram stotáram mám, Ehi, ágachchha.

4 Kaparddinam, kapardaschúdá tadvantam; but it is more usually an epithet of Siva, importing a braid of hair, not the chúdá, or lock left on the crown of the head at tonsure.

⁵ Swasur yo júra uchyate, the sister of Púshan is the dawn, with whom he, as the sun, may be said to associate amorously.

5. I glorify PÚSHAN, the husband of his mother:¹ may the gallant of his sister hear us; may the brother of $INDRA^2$ be our friend.

6. May the harnessed goats, drawing the deity in his car, bring hither PúSHAN, the benefactor of man.

Súkta VII. (LVI.)

Deity and Rishi as before; the metre is the same, except in the last verse, in which it is Anushtubh.

1. No (other) deity is indicated by him who declares the offering of mixed meal and butter³ to be intended for PÚSHAN.

2. He, the chief of charioteers, the protector of the virtuous, INDRA, destroys his foes, with his friend Púshan for his ally.

3. He, the impeller, the chief of charioteers, (Pú-SHAN), ever urges on that golden wheel (of his car) for the radiant sun.⁴

4. Since, intelligent PúSHAN, of goodly aspect, the praised of many, we celebrate thee to-day, therefore grant us the desired wealth.

5. Gratify this our assembly, desirous of cattle, by their acquisition: thou, Púsiian, art renowned afar.

6. We deserve of thee well-being, remote from ² As one of the $\hat{A}dityas$, or sons of $\hat{A}diti$, he may be called the brother of Indra, who is also one of the number.

³ Karambhát iti: karambha is said to be a mixture of parched barley-meal and butter.

⁴ Parushe gavi: the first is explained parvavatí, bháswati vá, the period-having, or the shining: the second is rendered Aditya, he who moves or revolves, gachchhatíti gaur-údityah evil, approximate to wealth, both for the sake of general sacrifice to-day, for the sake of general sacrifice to-morrow.¹

Súkta VIII. (LVII.)

The deities are INDRA and Púshan; the Rishi and metre as before.

Varga XXIII.

1. We invoke you, INDRA and PúSHAN, for your friendship, for our well-being, and for the obtaining of food.²

2. One (of you) approaches to drink the Soma poured out into ladles, the other desires the buttered meal.³

3. Goats are the bearers of the one, two well-fed horses of the other, and with them he destroys his foes.

4. When the showerer INDRA sends down the falling and mighty waters, there is Púshan along with him.⁴

5. We depend upon the good-will of PÚSHAN, and of INDRA, as (we cling) to the branches of a tree.

6. We draw to us, for our great welfare, Púshan and INDRA, as a charioteer (pulls tight) his reins.

SUKTA IX. (LVIII.)

The deity and Rishi as before; the metre of the second verse is Jagati, of the rest Trishtubh.

Varga XXIV.

1. One of thy forms, (Púshan), is luminous, one is

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 202.

³ Karambham: see the preceding Súkta, note 1.

⁴ Sáma-Veda, 1. 148.

venerable; so that the day is variously complexioned: for thou art like the sun:¹ verily, bestower of food, thou protectest all intelligences: may thine auspicious liberality be manifested on this occasion.²

2. The rider of the goat, the protector of animals, in whose dwelling food is abundant, the propitiated by sacred rites, who has been placed over the whole (world),³ the divine PÚSHAN, brandishing his loosened goad, proceeds (in the sky), contemplating all beings.⁴

3. With those thy golden vessels, which navigate within the ocean-firmament, thou dischargest the office of messenger of the sun:⁵ desirous of the sacrificial food, thou art propitiated by (that which is) will-ingly offered.

4. PÚSHAN is the kind kinsman of heaven and earth, the lord of food, the possessor of opulence, of goodly form; whom the gods gave to SÚRYA, vigorous, well-moving, propitiated by (that which is) willingly offered.⁶

¹ Púshan is here identified with both day and night, or is considered as their regulator.

² Sáma-Veda, 1. 75., also Niruhta, 12. 17., Sáyaņa follows Yáska.

³ Placed so by Prajápati, according to the scholiast, in his capacity of nourishing all things, poshahatwena.

⁴ As identical with the sun.

⁵ Yási dútyam súryasya: Sáyana relates a legend which says, that on one occasion, when Súrya, with the gods, had set out to fight the Asuras, he sent Púshan to his abode to console his wife, who was greatly afflicted by his going to the wars; for which office Púshan is here commended.

⁶ Kámena hritah is the whole text; the scholiast fills it up with paswádivishayena stotribhir vasíkritah asi, thou art subjected or propitiated by worshippers by means of the Pasu and other offerings,

Súkta X. (LIX.)

INDRA and AGNI are the deities; the Rishi is BHARADWÁJA; the first six stanzas are in the Brihati metre, the four last in the Anushtubh.

Varga XXV.

1. When the libation is effused I celebrate, INDRA and AGNI, your heroic exploits: the Pitris,¹ the enemies of the gods, have been slain by you, and you survive.

2. Your greatness, INDRA and AGNI, is after this fashion, and is most deserving of praise: the same is your progenitor: twin brethren are you, having a mother everywhere present.²

3. You approach together, when the libration is effused, like two fleet coursers to their forage: we invoke to day INDRA and AGNI, deities armed with the thunderbolt, to this ceremony for our preservation.

4. Divine INDRA and AGNI, augmenters of sacrifice, by whom the acclamation (of praise) is received, you partake not of the (Soma) of him who, when the libation is effused, praises you (improperly),³ uttering unacceptable eulogies.⁴

5. What mortal, divine INDRA and AGNI, is a judge

¹ By Pitris, in this place, the scholiast says Asuras are intended, as derived from the root pi to injure, piyatir-hinsá- harmme.

² Ihehamátarau, of whom the mother is here and there: Aditi is their mother, in common with all the gods, and she is here identified with the wide extended earth, vistírná bhúmih, according to Sáyana.

³ Yo vám stavat is explained by the commentator, he who may praise you badly, kutsitam stúyát.

⁴ Joshavákam vadatah: the first is explained, prítihetutwena karttavyam swayam aprítikaram vákam, speech to be uttered of that (your act), when one of you, harnessing his diversely-going horses, proceeds in the common car.¹

6. This footless (dawn), INDRA and AGNI, comes before the footed sleepers, animating the head² (of living beings with consciousness), causing them to utter loud sounds with their tongues, and passing onwards she traverses thirty steps.³

7. INDRA and AGNI, men verily stretch their bows with the design of gaining affection, but of itself producing disaffection or dislike; so in the Nirukta, 5. 22., as quoted by Sáyana, ya Indrágní suteshu vám someshu stauti teshu na tasya asníthah, of him who praises you two, Agni and Indra, when the Soma-juices are effused you do not eat (the offering): the printed Nirukta has, you eat, omitting the negative: of joshaváham, it is first said, avijnátanámadheyam joshayitaryam bhavati, that being of unknown name is to be propitiated; and again, yo ayam joshaváham vadatí vijanjapah na tasya asníthah, this person who utters, joshaváham, repeating incessantly, or silently, propitiatory prayer of various object, of that man, you two do not eat the offering.

¹ Vishúcho aswán ynynjána íyate ekah samáne vathe: the one is Indra, who, as identical with the sun, goes over the world in a car which is common to him and Agni, as being also identified with the sun: the same identity being kept in view, Indra yokes the multiform horses, months, weeks, days, to a monoform car, or the year.

² Hitwi siras, literally, exciting the head, which is the whole of the text, is explained práninám siro prerayitri, urging or animating the head of living beings: or it may apply to the dawn, as being headless, siras tyaktwá swayam asirashá sati, she having abandoned the head, being of herself headless, though what they may mean is doubtful: so Sáma-Veda, 1. 281, and Yajush, 33. 93.: Mahidhara, after proposing the same interpretation as Sáyana, suggests another, in which he refers the epithets to vách, speech, apád, footless, meaning prose, gadyátmihá, and so on, but this is obviously fanciful.

³ The thirty muhúrttas, the divisions of the day and night.

Varga XXVI.

with their arms, but do not you desert us contending for cattle in the great combat.

8. INDRA and AGNI, murderous, aggressive enemies harass us: drive away mine adversaries: separate them from (sight of) the sun.

9. INDRA and AGNI, yours are both celestial and terrestrial treasures: bestow upon us, on this occasion, life-sustaining riches.

10. INDRA and AGNI, who are to be attracted by hymns; you, who hear our invocation (accompanied) by praises, and by all adorations, come hither to drink of this Soma-libation.

Súkta XI. (LX.)

The deities and Rishi as before: the metre of the three first stanzas is Trishtubh, of the next nine Gáyatrí, of the thirteenth Trishtubh, of the fourteenth Brihatí, and of the last Anushtubh.

 VargaXXVII.
 1. He overcomes his enemy, and acquires food, who worships the victorious INDRA and AGNI, the lords of infinite opulence, most powerful in strength, desirous of (sacrificial) food.

> 2. INDRA and AGNI, verily you have combated for (the recovery of) the cows, the waters, the sun, the dawns that had been carried away (by the Asuras): thou reunitest, INDRA, (with the world), the quarters of the horizon, the sun, the wonderful waters, the dawns, the cattle, and so dost thou, AGNI, who hast the Nigut steeds.

> 3. Slayers of VRITRA, INDRA and AGNI, come down with foe-subduing energies, (to be invigorated) by (our) offerings: be manifest to us, INDRA and AGNI, with unblameable and most excellent riches.

4. I invoke those two, the whole of whose deeds of old have been celebrated: INDRA and AGNI harm us not.¹

5. We invoke the fierce INDRA and AGNI, the slayers of enemics: may they give us success in similar warfare.²

6. Counteract all oppressions (committed) by the pious: counteract all oppressions (committed) by the impious:³ protectors of the virtuous, destroy all those who hate us.

7. INDRA and AGNI, these hymns glorify you both: drink, bestowers of happiness, the libation.

8. INDRA and AGNI, leaders (of rites), whose Nigut steeds are desired by many, come with them to the donor (of the libration).

9. Come with them, leaders (of rites), to the effused libation, to drink, INDRA and AGNI, of the Soma.⁴

10. Glorify that AGN1 who envelopes all the forests with flame, who blackens them with (his) tongue.

11. The mortal who presents the gratifying (oblation) to INDRA in the kindled (fire), to him (INDRA grants) acceptable waters for his sustenance.

12. May those two grant us strengthening food, and swift horses to convey (our offerings).⁵

² Sáma-Veda, 11. 204., Yajur-Veda, 33. 61.

³ Hato vritrany-áryá hato dásáni, vritráni and dásáni, being neuter, can scarcely signify áryas and dásas themselves; therefore the scholiast interprets them áryaih and dásaih kritáni, things done by them severally, that is, upudravajátáni, things generated by violence or oppression and the like: also Sáma-Veda, 11. 205.

4 This and the two preceding occur Sáma-Veda, 11. 341-343. 5 Sáma-Veda, 11. 499-501. Varga XXVIII.

Varga XXIX,

13. I invoke you both, INDRA and AGNI, to be present at the sacrifice; and both together to be exhilarated by the (sacrificial) food; for you are both donors of food and riches, and therefore I invoke you both for the obtaining of sustenance.

14. Come to us with herds of cattle, with troops of horses, with ample treasures, divine friends, INDRA and AGNI: givers of happiness, we invoke you as such for your friendship.

15. Hear, INDRA and AGNI, the invocation of the institutor of the rite as he offers the libration: partake of the offering: come, quaff the sweet Soma beverage.

SÚKTA XII. (LXI.)

The deity is SARASWATÍ; the Rishi as before; the metre of the three first stanzas and of the thirteenth is Jagatí, of the fourteenth Trishtubh, and of the rest Gáyatrí.

Varga XXX.

1. She gave to the donor of the oblations, VADH-RYASWA, a son, DIVODÁSA¹ endowed with speed, and acquitting the debt (due to gods and progenitors); she who destroyed the churlish niggard, (thinking) only of himself:² such are thy great bounties, SARA-SWATÍ.

2. With impetuous and mighty waves³ she breaks down the precipices of the mountains, like a digger

² Paņi as usual.

³ In the first stanza Saraswati has been addressed as a goddess: here she is praised as a river: the confusion pervades the entire Sihta.

¹ The Vishnu Purana makes the father of Divodása, Bahwasna, but this is a various or erroneous reading: it is another representation of the name Bandhyáswa: a MSS. of the Váyu Purana is cited in the note for the reading of our text, Badhryaswa. Vishnu Purána, p. 454, note 51.

for the lotus fibres:¹ we adore for our protection, with praises and with sacred rites, SARASWATÍ the underminer of both her banks.

3. Destroy, SARASWATÍ, the revilers of the gods, the offspring of the universal deluder, VRISAYA:² giver of sustenance, thou hast acquired for men the lands (seized by the Asuras), and hast showered water upon them.³

² Vrisaya is a name of Twashtri, whose son was Vritra: in Sáyana's introduction to the Black, or Taittiríya Yajush, a curious legend is related, intended to illustrate the importance of correctly accentuating the words of the Veda: Indra, it is said, had killed a son of Twashtri, named Viswarúpa, in consequence of which there was enmity between them, and, upon the occasion of a Soma-sacrifice, celebrated by Twashtri, he omitted to include Indra in his invitations to the gods: Indra, however, came an uninvited guest, and by force took a part of the Soma-libation; with the remainder Twashtri performed a sacrifice for the birth of an individual who should avenge his quarrel and destroy his adversary, directing the priest to pray, now let a man be born and prosper, the killer of Indra: in uttering the Mantra, however, the officiating priest made a mistake in the accentuation of the term Indraghátaha, slaver of Indra, in which sense, as a Tat-purusha compound, the acute accent should have been placed upon the last syllable; instead of which the reciter of the Mantra placed the accent on the first syllable, whereby the compound became a Bahuvríhi epithet, signifying one of whom Indra is the slayer: consequently, when, by virtue of the rite, Vritra was produced, he was foredoomed by the wrong accentuation to be put to death by Indra, instead of becoming his destroyer: Taittiríya Yajush, p. 43.

³ Kshitibhyo avaníravindo visham ebhyo asravah may also

4. May the divine SARASWATÍ, the acceptress of (sacrificial) food, the protectress of her worshippers, sustain us with (abundant) viands.

5. Divine SARASWATÍ, protect him engaged in conflict for the sake of wealth, who glorifies thee like INDRA.

6. Divine SARASWATÍ, abounding in food, protect us in combat, and, like PÚSHAN, give us gifts.

7. May the fierce SARASWATÍ, riding in a golden chariot, the destructress of enemies, be pleased by our earnest laudation.

8. May she whose might, infinite, undeviating, splendid, progressive, water shedding, proceeds loud-sounding.

9. Overcome all our adversaries, and bring to us her other water-laden sisters,¹ as the ever-rolling sun (leads on) the days.

10. May SARASWATÍ, who has seven sisters,² who is dearest amongst those dear to us, and is fully propitiated, be ever adorable.

11. May SARASWATÍ, filling (with radiance) the vast expanse of earth and heaven, defend us from the reviler.

12. Abiding in the three worlds, comprising seven elements,³ cherishing the five races (of beings), she is ever to be invoked in battle.

 2 Suptaswasá: either the seven metres of the Vedas, or the seven rivers.

³ Saptadhátu, as before, either the metres or the rivers.

Varga XXXII.

Varga XXXI. 13. She who is distinguished amongst them¹ as eminent in greatness and in her glories; she who is the most impetuous of all other streams; she who has been created vast in capacity as a chariot,² she, SARA-SWATÍ, is to be glorified by the discreet (worshipper).

14. Guide us, SARASWATÍ, to precious wealth; reduce us not to insignificance;³ overwhelm us not with (excess of) water; be pleased by our friendly (services) and access to our habitations, and let us not repair to places unacceptable to thee.

² Ratha iva brihatí vibhwane hritá : made great in vastness, like a chariot created by Prajápati, so created, vibhwane, vibhutwáya, for greatness or vastness.

³ Má apa spharíh: sphara, it is said, means increase, greatness, prosperity; with the prefix, it implies the reverse, apravriddhán má kárshíh, do not make us unimportant or abject.
